in danger of demolition for commercial purposes, Major Fleischmann stepped forward and purchased this valuable property with his own funds so that it might be held intact as a monument of the old Spanish days in Santa Barbara. Fortunate, indeed, is Santa Barbara City in having such a generous and public-spirited citizen. The resolutions follow:

"Resolved, Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116 Native Sons of the Golden West, in meeting assembled, does by unanimous vote, express to Major Max C. Fleischmann its appreciation to him for the gift on his part to the City of Santa Barbara of the historic adobe on East Carrillo street, around which in July, 1847, assembled Lieut. Theodore Talbot, U.S.A., bearing the first American Flag officially in the Pueblo of Santa Barbara before acquisition of said Pueblo of Santa Barbara by the United States of America, by Lieut. Col. John C. Fremont on December 27, 1847, when he raised the American Flag in Santa Barbara and declared it United States territory. . . . Said adobe had an earlier historic value on account of being the residence of Sr. Reymundo Carrillo, who served said pueblo as commandante prior to American occupation. . . . This fraternal organization also expresses its appreciation for the manifold other volunteer and magnanimous, generous gifts of Major Max C. Fleischmann to the City of Santa Barbara. . . . We, as native-born Californians, on behalf of the City of Santa Barbara, convey to you the words of thanks that the citizenry of this city feel for the magnanimous acts on your part for the betterment of economic and beneficial conditions made possible through your generosity."

Responding to the presentation, made by a committee from the Parlor composed of President A. C. Dinsmore, Secretary Harry C. Sweetser, George L. Black, John L. Stewart and Weston E. Learned, Major Fleischmann said: "I have never given anything to Santa Barbara in the hopes of being thanked for it, but I am sure that it is just such gestures as you have made today that make life a little more worth while. I am not a native-born Californian, but I love the state as well as any of its natives, because I have been happier here than anywhere else. The preservation of its early landmarks seems to me a fitting thing, and I have been only too happy to have had a part in it."

Past Grand President Judge Charles A. Thompson, accompanied by John A. Corotto (San Jose No. 22), paid a visit to the Parlor March 19 and delivered an inspiring address along fraternal lines. At a recent session a watch charm was presented Junior Past President Weston E. Learned as a token of appreciation for his devotion to the principles of the Order.

The tree planting program of Santa Barbara Parlor, which was initiated by Past President George A. Black, is beginning to show results along the highway between Santa Barbara and Carpinteria. The trees planted about a year ago are growing nicely and in a few years this highway will be a source of pride to all traveling along the coast route. The by-laws of the Parlor have been amended to provide for weekly meetings in future.

BEAR FLAG PRESENTED GIRL SCOUTS.

Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126 Native Daughters of the Golden West, in carrying out its program for preservation of Californian history, March 19 presented to Dolores Troop 14, Girl Scouts of America, a beautiful Californian State (Bear) Flag. At the same time the Dolores Parent-Teacher Association presented a troop flag. Both are handsomely mounted upon standards and will be used by the troop during assemblies and for parade purposes.

Past President Irene Quinn presented the Bear Flag, and spoke of the interest the Parlor has in child-welfare groupings and in furthering child-care programs. Miss Carmelita Janssens, stant scout leader, accepted the flag. Presentation of the troop flag was made by President Martin J. Haider of the Dolores Parent-Teacher Association.

Twenty-eight members of the troop were in attendance. Rev. Alexander Oyarzo and Miss La Scudelari of the Eastside Social Center offered brief addresses during the program, and refreshments were served at its conclusion. Presentation by Reina del Mar Parlor is another step toward the Order's objective of preserving state history. Similar presentations have made numerous other civic and child-care organizations.

Members of the Parlor are taking a keen interest in the plans for the forthcoming California Conference of Social Work, which meets in a Barbara May 13 to 17. Supervising Deputy Anna E. McCaughey is chairman of the family and child-welfare section of the state group.

CALIFORNIA SECOND AMONG STATES IN 1929 PETROLEUM PRODUCTION.

The United States continued during 1929 as the world's greatest producer of petroleum, according to an announcement of the Federal Commerce Department's bureau of mines, providing more than two-thirds of the total. Texas led all the states of the nation in production for the second successive year, with California and Oklahoma following, in order.

World production in 1929 is estimated at 1,488,604,000 barrels. The total production in the United States was 1,006,000,000 barrels, surpassing the 1928 output by 104,526,000 barrels. Texas' production totaled 298,441,000 barrels, California's 292,037,000, and Oklahoma's 253,704,000.

Stocks of crude petroleum (exclusive of producers' stocks) east of California increased from 368,353,000 barrels on hand January 1, 1929, to 381,391,000 December 31, 1929, an increase of about 13,000,000 barrels. This increase was less than that of 1928, but in California the situation was quite different, with about 36,000,000 barrels added to crude and fuel stocks, compared with 2,000,000 barrels accumulated in 1928.

"Where there are just laws, administered without fear or favor, by incorruptible and impartial judges, there is not much cause to fear popular outbreaks or revolution."—Lord Hewart.

ORDER NATIVE SONS GOLDEN WEST ENGAGED IN WORTH-WHILE UNDERTAKINGS

THE FIFTY-THIRD ANNUAL SESSION of the Grand Parlor of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, which convenes at Merced Monday, May 19, 1930, will be another step forward in the path of accomplishments. In that pretty and thriving city, nestled in the heart of the rich San Joaquin Valley, will gather Grand Officers, Past Grand Officers, Grand Parlor Committeemen and Delegates representing Subordinate Parlors of the Order from every part of California, and representing every class of industry from banking to farming, with professional men and mechanics intermingled. There will be brought together a diversity of thought, bound to be helpful to our Order. The outstanding thought in the minds of those assembled at these annual sessions is to do something for the upbuilding of the State and the Fraternity.

"With this idea in mind, I believe it is my duty to give a resume of my experiences during the time I have filled the office of Grand President, and from which some delegate may be guided in proposing legislation that will, in his estimation, be beneficial.

ADMISSION DAY.

"Shortly after assuming the office of Grand President, I was called upon to appoint a committee on the observance of Admission Day. Until that time I was not aware of the fact that this outstanding State Holiday, a holiday made such by an act of the State Legislature, was not being generally observed. The committee appointed worked hard to give the day as much publicity as was possible to obtain, but the result, as far as I can ascertain, was not commensurate with the effort put forth. From the reports received, I find that the committees in San Francisco, Oakland and Santa Cruz—the latter city being where the 1929 Admission Day celebration was held—were the only committees that worked for, and accomplished to some extent, the observance of this, our California Holiday.

"This day should be a holiday all over the State of California, and not simply in any particular section of this great State. The San Francisco committee reported to me that the reason some merchants in that city will not observe the day is the fact that it is not generally observed in other cities. They have promised, in the event of the day being generally observed in other large cities of the State, that San Francisco will observe it one hundred percent.

"In the name of that great body of Pioneers that carved this State out of a wilderness; in memory of those who came from other shores, but still observed that day when news of the admission of California to Statehood was first brought here, by suspending business and giving way to a general rejoicing of that event; in the name of the Pioneer Mothers and Fathers of California, let us, the Sons of California, work for the observance of Admission Day, September 9, as a general holiday.

IMMIGRATION VS. UNEMPLOYMENT.

"During my term as Grand President, I have attended several meetings of the California Joint Immigration Committee, composed of representatives of the American Legion, American Federation of Labor, Native Sons of the Golden West; Attorney General U. S. Wehb, Honorable James D. Phelan, former United States Senator, and V. S. McClatchy, the latter two being members of our Order. At these meetings, Secretary McClatchy read reports and statistical data concerning the influx of Mexican peons and Filipinos, and the result it is having in this State as well as in other states, causing much unemployment among the citizens of the country.

"Reports show that from 50,000 to 75,000 Mexican-Indian peons, ineligible to American citizenship, are coming into this country each year, many entering surreptitiously, others with the approval of the United States Department of Immigration, but all flocking here to take the places of American labor.

"The Filipino question is equally as serious.

Francisco, which, if adopted, will exclude Filipinos from this country. As Californians get the bulk of this type of immigration, I trust that action will be taken by Congress to shut our doors against it.

HISTORY.

"The history work of our Order is the very essence of our being—one of the chief reasons for our existence. We are organized to perpetuate the traditions and the spirit of our heroic Pioneer Fathers and Mothers, and by instilling into the hearts and minds of our children, and of the generations of Californians yet to come, the ideals of those brave men and women who laid the foundation of this great State, we hope to keep alive that spirit which has played so large a part in making California the great commonwealth she is today.

"We know that an intimate knowledge of the history of the past is essential to a full and complete appreciation of citizenship. Patriotism is based upon tradition. A people without historic background can have but a lukewarm and shallow sentiment toward their country and their government. From the material standpoint, also, we benefit greatly by knowledge of history, because from the lessons of the past we learn how to guide our course in the future.

"So, the Native Sons of the Golden West have contributed generously of their funds to the history fellowships maintained at the University of California. Through other channels, and in other ways, we have given our moral support to the splendid cause of making known the history and the glory of our State. There is today much evidence of an awakening popular interest in the wonderfully romantic story of this State. Through our Native Son Fellowships, a large number of books on the subject have been written, from original materials gathered and accumulated. Those books are a worthy contribution toward a broader view of the Spanish Statesmen and Pioneers, and toward a better and more detailed understanding of that Spanish background upon which is now reared one of the proudest states in the United States, California.

HOMELESS CHILDREN WORK.

"It has often been said that an organization which does not foster humanitarian or charitable work will not live. We have, for nearly twenty years, been engaged in a work that is commonly known as the 'placing of homeless children in childless homes,' and during that period we have placed for adoption about thirty-six hundred children. The Native Daughters of the Golden West help to finance and carry on this endeavor.

"We engaged in the work when, after some investigation and study, we found that the rearing of children, particularly orphans, in institutions was not to the best advantage of those children. The institutions did not provide for seeing their wards through the most critical years of their lives, and the lack of personal contacts, as well as the absence of parental influences, showed all too plainly in the after lives of many thus cared for. Consequently, our work was started, and founded on the broadest plan, whereby children, regardless of race, nationality or creed, and of whether or not they were children of members, were taken in hand and finally placed in homes where they might have the fond and loving care of foster-parents not blessed with children of their own. The surrounding influences and the home training thus received tend to build up good citizenship, but

CHARLES L. DODGE OF MARTINEZ,
GRAND PRESIDENT OF THE ORDER OF NATIVE SONS OF THE GOLDEN WEST.

While those Orientals are not entering this country in as large numbers as the Mexican peons, there are at least ten thousand coming in each year to compete with Americans, and inasmuch as they will take any kind of labor and will work long hours for low wages, they are as great a menace to American labor as are the Mexican peons.

"Statistics show that but three percent of the Filipinos who come to this country are women, which causes the males to seek the companionship of White women, and that has resulted in riots in various parts of this State.

"There is now a bill before Congress, introduced by Congressman Richard J. Welch of San

PUBLISHER'S NOTICE.

The Grand Parlor N.S.G.W. not concluding its deliberations until May 23, and it being advisable to have the proceedings appear in the next (June) issue of The Grizzly Bear, the June number will be delayed in making its appearance. Forms for the regular departments of the June number will, however, close at the usual time, so news contributors and advertisers should be guided accordingly.

it is impossible to estimate all that it means to our State and Nation, to say nothing of the effect on the children thus adopted.

DEDICATION PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

"For many years we have been engaged in the work of laying cornerstones or dedicating public buildings throughout the State of California. We have found this an activity that has brought much favorable publicity. Many such buildings were dedicated during the past year, and the Grand Officers engaged in the work deserve the commendation of the Grand Parlor, for nearly all the ceremonies are conducted on Sundays.

"The outstanding event of this nature during the last year was the dedication of the Santa Barbara County Court House at Santa Barbara. The building cost approximately two million dollars, and is one of the most beautiful, from an architectural standpoint, in the State, or even in the Nation. The dedication took place during the Spanish Fiesta, and thousands of people were present to witness the ceremonies. In the month of May this year we will dedicate two high schools, one at Livermore on Sunday, May 4, and one at Placerville on Sunday, May 11.

"The largest high school dedicated during the year was the Herbert Hoover at Glendale. That school plant cost approximately one and one-half million dollars. At all of these dedications the Grand Officers and other selected speakers have an opportunity to address the assemblages on the activities we are engaged in, and to broadcast our accomplishments for both State and Nation.

LANDMARKS.

"Hand in hand with our history research, this Order has for many years been interested in marking historic spots in the State, thus preserving to posterity something of the romance and history of these landmarks. Year after year this work goes on, little known to the general public, but bearing continual evidence of the love and devotion of the members of our Order for their Native State. We have taken a leading part in the restoration of the old Franciscan Missions, landmarks of early civilization around which much of the earliest history of our State is entwined.

"We have marked many of the historic trails over which the Pioneers of the gold days entered the State, and the outstanding events of every important period connected with the State's history have been properly commemorated by monument or tablet. These include the scenes of battles fought for possession of the State between the Spaniard and the American; the places where many of our Pioneer Mothers and Fathers suffered and died; the places where adventurous youth of those days traveled over unbeaten paths to lead his followers to this great land of ours.

"Some of the most important spots marked during the past year were: Ione-Jackson road, half-way between the towns of Ione and Jackson in Amador County, in memory of the brave, intrepid, self-sacrificing and loyal Wells Fargo messengers and the stage drivers of California. At Santa Barbara, a tablet was placed marking the site of the raising of the first American Flag at Santa Barbara, by General John C. Fremont. At Grass Valley, Nevada County, a monument was erected to mark the site of the discovery of the first gold quartz in this State.

"This important work must continue until all places of historic value are properly marked and connected up with the romantic history of our great State.

THE OUTLOOK.

"The outlook for the future of our State and Order was never brighter than at the present time.

"The eyes and thoughts of the Nation are turned toward California, even as they were in the days of the Gold Rush, and it behooves us, as native-born Californians, to keep our house in order, so that we may properly receive the ever-increasing number of visitors and home-seekers coming by the thousands to this Golden State.

"They are well aware of the manifold opportunities in this Land of Sunshine, Fruits and Flowers, and we, the descendants of the Pioneers, should endeavor to instill in their minds a greater desire to know more about the heroic deeds of the Pioneer Men and Women who made possible this, our beloved State, California.

PIONEERS OF THE WEST.

"Would God that we, their children, were as they,

Great souled, brave hearted and of dauntless will!

Ready to dare, responsive to the still Compelling voice that called them night and day

TASK OF THE ARCHEOLOGIST

(M. W. STERLING.)
(Chief, Bureau American Ethnology, Smithsonian Institution.)

THE HISTORIC PERIOD IN AMERICA IS only a little more than four centuries in length. The several thousand years preceding the landing of Columbus, during which America was inhabited by a people who left no written records, must have been a period of many great events and important movements of peoples.

During this long period of time many important discoveries and inventions were made. Cities and entire culture areas rose and fell. But, because the art of writing, except for the imperfect records of Middle America, was not invented, we shall never know the names and deeds of the leaders and the great minds of these prehistoric Americans.

Their agriculturists developed many of the major food plants of the world. It is to the American Indian that we owe maize, beans, squash, peanuts, cocoa, tomatoes, peppers and many other well-known plants. It was the Indian who discovered the use of rubber, cocaine and quinine.

In Middle America, native mathematicians and astronomers accomplished one of the great intellectual achievements of all time in developing an intricate astronomical calendar based on the movements of the sun, the moon and the planet Venus. Architects in this same area erected elaborate stone cities and artists embellished them with beautiful stone carvings. Almost every region in America had its characteristic and outstanding accomplishment.

Although the Indian had no scribes to leave us information, such as we find in Babylonia and ancient Egypt, nevertheless, in passing, he left an unintentional record of his doings. The work of the archeologist is to read this record.

Where the archeologist discovers a site which shows evidence of having been occupied for a long time, it is his task to discover if possible how long a time has passed since the site was abandoned, who were the first people to live in it, who if anyone succeeded them, and what advances or decline in culture are to be observed. The evidence in one location overlaps with evidence at another; and in this manner, by piece, the archeologist, by fitting together blocks, is carrying the story of prehistory ther and farther into the past. . . .

Dr. Roberts of the bureau of American ethnology for the past three years has conducted excavations in the Southwest which have given entirely new information and a completely picture of the very earliest cultures of Pueblo peoples and of the basket-makers, people who preceded the Pueblos. . . .

More and more our leading scientific institutions are co-operating in this fascinating work. Slowly but surely the picture of the past is being reconstructed. Old fallacies are daily falling the wayside, and as a result of the labors of archeologists the prehistoric American is losing his shadowy form and is taking on the semblance of a real flesh-and-blood man who struggled and achieved, and whose final submergence came about as a result of circumstances powerful for him to control.—United States Daily.

CHARACTER

(JEANETTE NORLAND.)

The passing years contribute each their part To that which we denominate as Life. To some, they bring rewards of joy and friend- That fill still fuller yet their brimming cup. To others, comes an added weight of care Too great it seems for mortals here to bear. Wealth and Want, e'er 'biding side by side. 'Til Wealth is sobered by the sight of Need, And Need is heartened by the sight of Wealth. But 'tween these two, there lives another class, Which neither rich nor poor, is kin to both. From one it takes, and to the other gives. They do the world's great work and make the Life

A something more than living, more than Wealth. Or Wealth with gilded eyes, has power to see. To all of these, Life has its different sides, And yet, it takes them all to make a world. If all were rich, then soon would men decay. If all were poor, no progress could be made. But working all together, sifting out The gold from dross, the golden wheat from chaff,

From out the Crucible there comes at last The residue of efforts, good and ill; The final proof and test of Life itself— The thing by which all mortals stand or fall. Our—CHARACTER, Life's aim—and final goal.

SOUTHWESTERN KERN GEOLOGY SET FORTH IN GOVERNMENT REPORT.

A report on the geology of a portion of Kern County, south of Bakersfield, entitled "Geology and Oil Resources along the Southern Border of San Joaquin Valley, California," has been issued by the Federal Interior Department. Although several areas in the region described in the report are stated by H. W. Hoots, the author, to have possibilities for commercial production of oil, Wheeler Ridge is at present the only producing area.

The area described includes a part of the south end of San Joaquin Valley and the adjacent foothill belt of the San Emigdio and Tehachapi Mountains and the Sierra Nevada. This foothill belt displays portions of the rugged granitic cores of the mountains and also sedimentary rocks which measure some 29,000 feet in thickness.

The San Emigdio and the Tehachapi Mountains form a geologic as well as a geographic link between the Coast Range on the west and the Sierra Nevada on the east, for in the mountains there is a gradual eastward transition from the complex structural features of the Coast Range to the comparatively simple structural features of the west flank of the Sierra Nevada.

The report, Geological Survey Bulletin 812, may be obtained for 50 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

"The more a man is educated, the more is necessary, for the welfare of the state, to instruct him how to make a proper use of his talents. Education is like a double-edged sword. It may be turned to dangerous usages if it is not properly handled."—Wn Ting Fang.

MERCED, STATE'S GARDEN SPOT RICH IN HISTORY AND BOUNTIFUL ACREAGE

WHEN GABRIEL MORAGA LOOKED down upon the San Joaquin Valley from the Pacheco Pass summit more than a century ago, it is improbable that any thought came to his mind of what the passing years would bring to that vast area which lay before his eyes, and which at that time was inhabited only by the wild life peculiar to the plain lands.

Could Moraga again appear at the summit of Pacheco and look upon this valley with its vast herds of cattle and sheep, its fields of green and its busy, bustling cities and towns, what would his feelings be? To him it would be a dream, and his gaze would be that of the skeptic; it would be something unbelievable, and no doubt he would retreat to his abode in fear and trembling.

And yet, the desert of Moraga has, in the century, become the garden of our time, profuse in its gifts to man. As the pure water of the "River of Mercy" then quenched the thirst of man and beast, so these same pure waters today bring refreshment, happiness and prosperity to the present generation, the successors to Gabriel Moraga, the Pioneer.

When the early Pioneers of Mariposa County, weary from the search for the elusive gold, looked out over the vast and treeless valley lying below their mountain homes, little did they dream that in but two generations that valley would be the garden spot of the West, and that the trails of the antelope would, in that short time, become teeming highways of commerce and trade.

Yosemite Parlor N.S.G.W.

gives inspiration to the visitors to these historic places and makes man realize his debt to the men and women who lighted his way.

Merced is also the point of departure for the many interesting motor tours into the old Mother County of Mariposa, the homeland of the original settlers of this section, with its beauty of scenery and history—with its stories of former life and bustle, to be visioned in the relics and remains of the tumbling-down and vine-covered slate and adobe walls; with its picturesque and adorable old buildings and other relics of the past; with the stories to be heard from the lips of the few remaining Pioneers who sit in the sunlight of the day and the sunset of the future dreaming of the happy days of youth.

How interesting is the trip over the "Fremont Trail" through this county of tradition, with a visit on the way to the ghost towns of Hornitos, Quartzburg, Bear Valley, Mount Ophir and others of lesser importance in the early days, but now of increasing importance to the later generations because of their intimate connection with the early-day life of our Pioneer ancestors, who lived and labored and died in the shadows of these crumbling and decaying outposts of the Western country, and to whom, for their ambitions and their industry, we are indebted for this California of ours.

Why look farther for a day's outing than to where Nature has been lavish in her gifts to the topography. The bottom land along the rivers and smaller streams is of an alluvial character, formed from the washings of freshets; from this to the foothills the soil is generally of adobe or a loam more or less sandy in its nature; while the foothill land is as a rule of adobe or clay. There is but little alkali land in the county, comparatively, and in sections where it does appear is only in spots which disappear as cultivation advances.

WATER COURSES.

The main water course of Merced County is the great "Father of Waters" of the valley, the San Joaquin River, which enters the territory of the county from the southeast, and thenceforward follows the general trend of the valley to the northwest in its course toward the Bay of San Francisco. The Merced River, which plays so important a part in the problem of irrigation for the county, reinforces the San Joaquin with the waters of Yosemite, while Chowchilla River, Mariposa Creek, Bear Creek and others are the lesser streams on the eastern side of the county.

The streams of the west side are not perennial and, in places, not so well defined as those of the east side, and depend upon the winter rains for their supply. They are the Los Banos, San Luis, Cottonwood and Sycamore Creeks.

The Merced River has a very tortuous course and the level of its bottom lands is much below that of the surrounding plains. About eight miles from the canyons of the river the distance from bluff to bluff is about three miles, while in the

CHARMING YOSEMITE.

MERCED CITY STREET SCENE.

Such, however, has been the transformation. And where once only wild-animal life subsisted on the luxuriant grasses and freely roamed the open plain, today civilization has created wealth and builded an empire, and a contented people, the descendants of those sturdy early Pioneers, now live and prosper on the former reservation of the native dumb brutes.

Merced County, with its rich soils, its abundance of water and its geographical location in relation to Yosemite, is one of the most promising communities in California today. Agriculture, industry and business are thriving. Intensive and diversified development of the resources of this area are bringing to the attention of the investor the opportunities lying here awaiting his capital and his energy, and the faith and industry of its people are fast transforming the undeveloped, but rich, acres into productive and prosperous areas, where more than sixty of the commercial crops of the world are produced abundantly and profitably. In addition to these things, which appeal to the material in man, Merced has at her back door a scenic and historic mountain section.

The early history of California is replete with stories of hardship, heroism and romance, and that section of the state where the Forty-niner fought Nature for possession of the elusive gold, has an indescribable something which arouses the romance in man and carries the mind and the heart back generations, to live again in the spiritual being of his early Pioneer ancestors, and creates within him a desire to dwell for a time, even though only in memory, with the spirit of these departed builders of an empire. This feeling man, where the old remains of the quartz-mill and other mining activities may be seen on every hand, and which, in those hectic days of the fifties, gave of their golden wealth!

And finally, with incomparable Yosemite but a stone's throw away from this land of glorious tradition, with her massive monuments of stone raised to the "glory of the Creator," with the green of the spring foliage or the "sere" coloring of the autumn and winter, with the giant trees and the crystal waters, and all of the many seductive gestures of Nature calling and luring us on. With fine highways making this wonderland easily accessible to even the most timid autoist, and with all of the accommodations for the visitor who desires the comforts of good hotels or camps, Yosemite is, indeed, a desirable place to visit.

MERCED COUNTY

Merced County occupies a position in the heart of the San Joaquin Valley and of California, stretching from northeast to southwest completely across the valley from the foothills of the Sierras to the summit of the Coast Range. Its greatest length is sixty-three miles, and its greatest width forty-five miles, while the entire area is about 2,000 square miles.

THE SOIL.

While the surface of the county, or at least the portion which is of prospective use in agriculture, embracing nearly its entire area, is mostly of a level or gently rolling character, there are several different kinds of soil, generally varying with next eight miles of the river's course the width of the bottom lands narrows down to about one mile, and the contraction continues as the river approaches its outlet into the San Joaquin. These bottom lands are exceedingly rich, and many prosperous farmers pursue their calling thereon.

Much of the land directly contiguous to the San Joaquin River is low tule land, very rich but subject to overflow. These lands are not altogether waste, however, as they afford good pasturage for stock.

ORIGIN OF THE NAME "MERCED."

The name Merced, as applied to the river and afterwards to the county, has a rather romantic origin. It is said to have been conferred by Lieutenant Moraga of the Mexican army and his soldiers, about 1835. He was stationed at the Presidio of San Francisco, and in the summer of that year was pursuing, with a company of men, some marauding Indians into the valley. They crossed the San Joaquin River near the mouth of the Tuolumne, and proceeded thence in a southeasterly direction to the Merced River, and were without water during the entire journey of forty miles. In their famished condition the stream, with its cooling waters, seemed to them a veritable river of mercy, the meaning in English of the name which they applied, "El Rio de las Mercedes."

On pursuing their journey to the southeast they encountered a stream along whose banks were myriads of butterflies, and they gave it, accordingly, the name "El Arroyo de las Mariposas"—the creek of the butterflies—or, as it is now called, Mariposa Creek.

ORGANIZATION OF THE COUNTY.

The County of Merced was formed under an act of the State Legislature of 1855, being set off from Mariposa. The bill, which was approved by Governor Bigler, April 19, 1855, provided for a board of commissioners.

The commissioners arranged for an election for the organization of the new county, appointing officers, designating voting precincts, etc. They met, organized and performed their first duties in this connection at the Neal Ranch, and made all arrangements for the first election, to be held on the second Monday of May, 1855.

The election also decided the question of the county seat, and the choice fell upon the ranch of Turner & Osborne, now known as the Givens ranch, on Mariposa Creek.

Merced County has many points of interest to which the visitor might be directed, it being a matter as to what the individual himself would be most directly interested in—the agricultural, the industrial or the scenic.

AGRICULTURAL.

Should the visitor be interested in agriculture and wish to view those things in the county which stand out prominently, he can find the largest peach and apricot orchard in the world located five miles from the City of Merced, on the all-year Merced-Yosemite highway. It contains 3,600 acres, planted to these two varieties of fruits in bearing.

This property also has the finest and most adequately equipped accommodations for its employees of any in the state, and is considered a model of its kind. It is a very interesting and beautiful place in the springtime, where one may motor several miles through this full-blossoming orchard with its rows of flower-covered trees stretching for a distance too far for the eye to reach.

VITICULTURE.

In addition to this orchard described above, the largest Thompson Seedless vineyard in the world is located about six miles from Livingston, Merced County, and is easily reached over a paved highway.

Over 1,200 acres are planted to this variety of grapes on this one farm and it is a very interesting place to visit, especially if you should have an Eastern visitor along who is unacquainted with the extent of California vineyards. This vineyard presents a very busy scene at most any time of the year, and can well interest those who enjoy the beauties of Nature as expressed by growing things in the rich soils of this area.

DAIRYING.

Merced County being second in butterfat production in California, has many fine dairies with herds of sleek and contented cows, giving the pastoral effect to the sections where located.

In connection with this agricultural development, are the milk products plants, seven in all, in the county, and anyone who has never visited one of these will find pleasure and profit in a visit to and an inspection of one of the modern plants in Merced's dairy sections. These dairies and plants are scattered over the county in all sections, but particularly on the west side and along the Merced River in the eastern area.

RICE CULTURE.

This commodity—thousands of acres—is to be seen growing near Merced City and is a very beautiful sight during the late summer, with its green expanse bordered by the dry, hot fields of harvested-over farms.

It is interesting also from the standpoint of the relationship it has with the countries of the Orient, and when one sees the methods of rice culture in this country, he immediately pictures in his mind the toiling, sweating, hordes of Orientals, swarming over the millions of acres of rice in their native lands, dependent for their very existence upon the bounty of Nature in bringing to maturity the crops of this nourishing grain. And when he realizes that our area of a few thousand acres is but an oasis in the desert of the more than ten millions in Japan alone, his interest is aroused and he appreciates California more than ever before.

DIVERSITY OF PRODUCTS.

With a production of more than sixty crops of commercial value—including all of the prominent and well-known California orchard crops, with livestock a major agricultural activity, and with cotton as a profitable crop, gradually superceding wheat and barley on the thousands of acres formerly sown to these grains—

Merced County is outstanding in its diversity of products, and to enumerate them would be a job of some consequence. Suffice to say, however, that its agricultural development has become a very important point of interest in this part of California.

SCENIC AND OTHERWISE.

Exchequer Dam and Lake form one of Merced County's chief points of interest, from a scenic as well as an industrial point of view, and may be reached easily and over a very good highway, paved in parts, but, regardless of this, a trip of no discomfort, but of intense interest.

A matter of three hours' elapsed time from and to Merced, with plenty of time to climb to the crest of the dam and view the lake and scenery above, time to watch the huge dynamoes grinding out the electric current which is transmitted to industry in the valley below, and time to revel in the beauty and tradition of the country traversed on the trip to and from this wonderful and gigantic work of man.

The old county seat, Snelling,—with its old Court House and its many other quaint attractions, evidences of the early-day work of the Pioneers who made the early history of all of California, and the memories which come to us as we pass hallowed spots—is an interest which makes the heart beats bring that smother of sympathy and unspoken sentiment into being. Where can one find a more interesting and entrancing day's journey than through these old historic spots of former beauty and glory?

Lying at the edge of the range lands, in the rolling hills seven miles from Merced City, is Yosemite Lake, the original storage reservoir for the irrigation system of the present Merced Irrigation District, but now the mecca for the people miles around who, during the hot summer days, may enjoy boating and bathing in its cool water and picnicking along its tree-bordered beach. And with a golf course nearby to inveigle the unwary into a game of that tempting sport.

The streams of Merced County are alluring to the fisherman, because they abound with game fish—black and striped bass, catfish, salmon and other fish which are a joy to the converts of old "Ike" Walton. In the marsh lands, the ducks and geese find conditions so enticing they come by thousands to feed off the grains and grasses which grow so plentifully in this section. Merced County has many gun clubs, with preserves where the members and their guests may enjoy a day's sport, and with the knowledge that a full game bag will be the reward.

MERCED CITY

Merced, the Grand Parlor City, is a modern and wide awake community, noted for its wide and well-paved streets, its beautiful homes and surrounding gardens, indicative of a prosperous and thriving people.

Established in 1872, when the Central Pacific constructed its main line into the San Joaquin Valley, it has always been the center of a rich and productive agricultural section, growing with the development of the lands adjacent and, because of its location in relation to Yosemite, center of a productive tourist industry which, since the completion of the all-year Merced-Yosemite highway, has become a leading activity with one-half million people passing through this gateway annually.

With improved highways leading from all directions bringing trade and commerce, the businessmen have been consistently prosperous, and today Merced is considered one of California's cities of promise.

With the production of the raw materials, manufacturing has entered into this picture, and today several very important industrial plants are located within its borders and their products are exported to all parts of the Western Coast.

With the development of business and industry necessarily comes the need for education, recreation and social opportunities. These are prominent features of this city, and Merced points with pride to her beautiful and well-equipped schools, her churches which accommodate the man and woman of every faith, and her numerous clubs and fraternal organizations which provide social entertainment for every condition of society.

TYPICAL MERCED HOME.

With city parks which lend a charm and beauty to the city and attract the admiration of the visitor, a golf course of nine holes which is considered by golf enthusiasts to be of superior class and is available to the "golf crank" to test his ability and many other recreational features where an idle hour may be spent in pleasure and contentment, Merced appeals to the man seeking a home where he may pass his days in a prosperous and contented retrospection.

CALIFORNIA'S NATIONAL FORESTS TEEM WITH WILD LIFE POPULATION

Believe it or not, there are nearly 500,000 game, fur-bearing and predatory animals in the eighteen national forests of California, according to a recent census taken by the forest rangers of the United States Forest Service. This wild life population, which adds so much pleasure to forest travel and sport for hunters, is divided into 267,600 game animals, 145,700 fur-bearing animals and 79,400 predatory animals. Of the big game animals the blacktail and mule deer which total 254,500, are the most numerous.

Thirty state game refuges have been established within sixteen of these national forests to protect the deer and other animals on their breeding grounds; they are closed at all times to hunting. The total area covered by these refuges is 1,986,000 acres.

The 11,650 miles of trout streams and the hundreds of lakes within these national forests are kept well stocked by millions of trout fry raised in state hatcheries and planted by the State Division of Fish and Game in co-operation with federal, state and county agencies, and sportsmen.

Sportsmen who plan to fish and hunt this year in the national forests of California are advised by the Federal Forest Service to secure their licenses before going into the mountains, as state fishing and hunting licenses will no longer be issued by the forest rangers, except in a few out-of-the-way parts of the forests.

WONDERFUL WORK FINDING SUITABLE HOMES FOR CHILDREN

Mary E. Brusie

"MY! DON'T YOU GET A THRILL out of putting these little cuddly things into some woman's empty arms?" "Oh, it must be wonderful work to place children for adoption.

If ever I have to earn my living I'm going to take up this sort of thing." "I certainly wouldn't call it work—finding homes and putting babies into them—it must be play. I'd like it." These are a few of the outbursts of many little women almost any time of the day in the office of the Native Sons and Native Daughters Central Committee on Homeless Children, 959 Phelan Building, San Francisco.

But there will be others, sandwiched in, who say: "It must be a terrifying responsibility, with a great many trying and heart-breaking angles, this separating child from parent. There must be need of real understanding and judgment in order to determine the wisdom or the necessity of taking children from their parents, deliberation in the selection of the new parents, and appreciation of the sacredness of the task." The woman with these views who comes seeking a child to call her own, invariably sticks closely to the child-placing agency, knowing that its methods are not haphazard and that the child will be protected and her legal rights made secure.

To the thoughtful person and to those who have made a study of child-placing, the manifested indifference on the part of those who give their children away and the lack of precaution and understanding on the part of those who take children into their homes, is inconceivable of belief. There is one essential, however, upon which the natural parents, the adopting parents and the home-finding agencies all agree, and that is, affection is a necessity for all children. The mother wants her baby to be loved, the foster parents know that they have an abundance of love to give, and the organization expects love—plus.

If one were to question the parents or the foster parents regarding the legal transfer of a of the party of the second part as well as of the party of the first part. A mother, in many instances, has been known to give her child to a man and woman whom she has seen once in her life and that time when she lay in her bed in a maternity ward, too tired and distressed to care what happened to her or to the child who be-family and her friends—gave her baby to one of these chance acquaintances. The man and his wife offered to take the baby and the mother took their home, with the understanding that she would consent to their adopting the baby before going away. After ten days with them in their home the mother realized that they were not the parents to whom she could entrust the rearing of her baby girl, but they refused to give the baby up. The man arrived home almost every night intoxicated, and when he and his wife wearied of throwing vile epithets at each other they began throwing dishes.

The mother confided her plight to a good woman whom she met and was advised to go to the Native Sons and Native Daughters Central Committee on Homeless Children. When the mother visited the office and gave the worker the name and address of the man and woman who wanted to adopt her child, their application was found in the "rejected" file with a detailed report of the worker's investigation which tallied exactly with what the little mother had found out by her own experience. The man and his wife were prevailed on to give up the child, as they realized that they had no legal claim. The child was boarded temporarily by the Central Committee and the mother, after returning and consult-longed to her. The parents and the applicants perhaps have been introduced by a matron with an itching palm, who saw her way by bringing the two together to get a larger amount of money for the mother's hospital care and board than the parents were able to pay. Some times the parents and applicants learn of each other through an over-zealous, careless correspondent who writes sob stuff for the newspaper, and makes his appeal for the childless woman about whom he knew not the slightest thing, except that her heart is yearning for a child.

Again, the mother may have found a home for her baby through a woman, whose bed all but touched her own in the hospital, who had a friend who wanted a baby. Many times to the natural parents the would-be parents present a most prepossessing appearance,—fine looks, good clothes, affluence,—but as to their home life, their morals, their views on spiritual and religious training, ing her parents, decided that no satisfactory plan for keeping the baby was possible and relinquished the child, who was then placed by the Central Committee in a thoroughly good home for adoption.

This careless and almost criminal way of dealing with children cannot always be attributed to ignorance of the right way. A small army of men and women are going about from hospital to hospital, physician to physician, trying to get possession of a child without going through what they call the "red tape." "Red tape" is their definition of a society's effort to obtain as complete a family history of the child as possible, to get knowledge of the child's physical condition and legal status, and to ask the right through a file application to determine the fitness of a home before the child goes into it.

Before July 1927 it was quite possible for the physicians of our land, in their eagerness to "protect" the mother who wanted her child cared for or to please their patients who wanted a child, to hand out a baby without the scratch of a pen. "Here, if you want a baby, take this one, a fine boy seven days old. Adoption? Oh, call it foundling. Let anyone prove that I ever knew the mother, or where she is, or anything about the child's history!" Two of the physician's patients were satisfied, to be sure, but no consideration was given the child's future years, when he seeks his birth record in order to prove his family name and his right, perhaps, to an estate.

A woman came into our office last week. She was thirty-seven years of age. She had been city lot—just dirt—or the selection of a home, or the purchase of a pedigreed pup, they would agree that the greatest attention must be given to the most minute details. In taking a dog, they would require proof of the dog's pedigree. If buying a house, they would consider its age, foundation, size, exposure, arrangement of rooms, the neighborhood and the value. If they decided to buy the home they would require a search of the title and would read and comprehend the contract between the party of the first part and the party of the second part, and a deed would be recorded to prove their ownership.

But when it comes to the transfer of the ownership of a child, securing a legal right to call him their own to cherish and educate and protect, there is an astonishing indifference on the part their reputation among their fellowmen, they know nothing, and the would-be foster parents seem content to judge the baby's background and health through a glance into the "Windows of a mother's soul," as the human eyes are poetically called.

A young mother, without work, without money, in a panic through her anxiety to return home lest the knowledge of her bitter experience reach those whom she must go on living among—her

THE BUSINESS and economic expansion of modern California is traveling with such rapidity that it is difficult to keep thoroughly conversant with all of the developments.

And so, while we visualize a Future for California which is tremendous in power, influence and achievement, it is impossible to accurately predict its range and scope.

We are building upon a Pioneer's foundation of ruggedness and courage. We have passed through the phase of State progress which was marked by the firm establishments of desirable homes. We are entering upon the stage of world greatness.

Our population's growth has been amazing to those beyond our borders. Capital seeking investment has been attracted by the requirements of such a rapidly increasing populace.

So we have entered upon the industrial era. Our domestic and foreign commerce established new high records each year. To our harbors are attracted the foremost ocean liners of the world. The bulk of maintenance of the Panama Canal is derived from tolls upon our cargoes.

Aviation recognizes our supremacy as the logical center for future development. Our highway systems are without a peer in the world. Our surface transportation lines—steam, electric and gasoline—are laid out and designed to cope adequately with the near future demands of a marvelous growth and expansion.

We have prepared our children by giving to them the advantages of the finest educational system, from kindergarten to college. Our universities attract students from the furthest corners of the world.

We are set for a glorious Future which we scan in mind's eye but are unable to measure. And we prosper in this generation because we work without strife for the great advancement of one of the world's greatest commonwealths—California, the Land of Gold.

given to foster parents by a physician when she was a wee baby. Later, she learned in some unaccountable way that the foster parents were not her own, and then they told her that she had been legally adopted. After their sudden death no order of her adoption was found among the papers. They had given her every advantage, proved their affection for her in every possible way, and she knew that they considered her their heir, but to prove it is her problem. In possession only of the date of her birth and the place, and the name of her natural mother she was going from Bureau of Vital Statistics to county records trying to prove her adoption.

Probably there had been no adoption, or not recorded like their property. Perhaps the doctor said to them, "Oh, the legal end's all right, take her along." Perhaps he had told them that the mother was dead, had never recorded her birth certificate, or may not have given the foster parents the correct name. never would have been put in the home had an investigation been made prior to the placing of the child. But it is difficult to label the intangible things that determine a good or a bad environment, and to prove to the court that the home is not a proper one for the child, so indifference approval is often given by the state. While the present law is far from ideal, a large number of children have been removed from direfully unfit homes after the state workers' investigations.

Through the fine spirit and co-operation of the various attorneys of the state this saving the child from an awful environment has been made possible. On learning the true home condition of their petitioners from a worker, the attorney succeeded in withdrawing the petition for adoption. It has taken courage to disappoint their clients, and it has meant the loss of a fee, but they have had children of their own, perhaps, and are solicitous of the future of the child less fortunate than their own.

In one instance—one of the many which the workers have found—there were a beautiful bright, little three-year-old girl and a year-old boy who had been given by their mothers to a woman when they were two weeks old. The woman loved the children, as the children love their dolls or beautiful flowers, and she deprive herself of clothes that she might provide the little girl with tawdry finery. In a mental test, the foster mother would not have rated much higher than a child. She was subject to queer fits, would throw herself on the floor and become hysterical. Her husband had two little girls when they were married, and these two children were sent irregularly to school and improperly fed, while the

Before July 1927, when a new law was framed by the State Department of Social Welfare and other social agencies, it was possible for parents to appear before a notary public or an attorney and sign their names to a relinquishment, which sometimes named the individuals to whom the child was to be given and sometimes was signed in blank, to be filled in later by the adopting parents who did not want to be known in the transaction. The child was legally adopted immediately, with no assurance from any individual qualified to state that the petitioners for the adoption of the child were physically, morally, or in the matter of age or money, fit to care properly for a child.

A BUSINESS, REARING CHILDREN, BUT FUN, JUST THE SAME.

In January 1928 a new law went into effect specifying two ways of legally disposing of a child for adoption, one the independent adoption when the parents go into court and give consent for the named petitioners to adopt their child, the other through a relinquishment signed before the secretary of a child-placing agency and two witnesses. The independent adoption is investigated by the State Department of Social Welfare and a report submitted to the court. The investigation made by the child-placing agencies is accepted by the State Department of Social Welfare.

In the independent adoptions, when the petitioners go to the state department or agency, the mischief has already been done, as the child in many instances has been in the home for several years. It may not be a home that would at all meet the standard of an agency, and a child foster mother lavished her affection on the other girl and boy.

She had applied to a hospital for a third child and thus it came to the attention of the Central Committee on Homeless Children that she already had two children not her own. She had petitioned to adopt the children. The natural parents were looked up, and while they deplored the condition and wanted to rectify their mistake they were still unable to take the children themselves but made it possible for the Native Sons and Native Daughters Central Committee on Homeless Children to place them. Both of the children went into outstanding homes. The bereft foster mother soon recovered, and no doubt will obtain possession of other children at some future date, as she seems obsessed with the idea of taking other people's children.

Another instance was that of a mentally defective girl who placed her baby with a man and woman with an I Q of 65 and 56. They petitioned the court for adoption, their mental condition was discovered, and the child was removed from their home and placed in a boarding home where he will be cared for by the county until he reaches the age when his mentality may be determined.

A delightful little four-year-old girl was deserted by her father when a baby and the mother boarded her with a woman who was coarse, eccentric and sometimes cruel to the child. The mother was out of work, got behind in her payments, and the woman threatened all sorts of things if the child was not given her for adoption. The child was removed from the home and boarded by the Native Sons and Native Daughters

Central Committee on Homeless Children until the mother got work. Later the mother married a good man, and the child is now very happy with them and they with her.

Multiply by a hundred these few examples of parents' lack in protecting their own child, and the need for state laws and societies that recognize the value of the law is apparent. With these examples of cruel mistakes before them, it is not difficult to understand why the small army of parents who are in need of temporary relief, adjustment, or perhaps separation from their children appeal to the licensed society, nor why the army, increasing each year, of childless men and women contact these agencies, because they know that while the welfare of a helpless child is their paramount concern, they also consider the rights and the needs of the applicant.

Here is the year's record of the Native Sons and Native Daughters Central Committee on Homeless Children, engaged in finding good homes for homeless children, regardless of race, creed or color:

Six hundred and sixty-six (666) applications for children received; 226 homes received children; 6 families returned children; 220 children placed.

The operating expense was $29,029.21. The Orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West contributed through their Subordinate Parlors, a total of $17,566.18. Other receipts included: $1,722 donated by friends; $2,700 bequest of Frank Reedy of Fresno; $100 from the estate of Emelie Lyons, mother of Hugh J. Lyons, past president Bay City Parlor No. 104 N.S.G.W., and Edmund E. Lyons; $2,577.77 refunded by state for board; $3,249.01 refunded by parents for board; $1,094.38 interest.

Since 1910, when this home-finding work was inaugurated by the Native Sons and Native Daughters, the Central Committee has found a total of 4,112 homes, 474 children have been replaced, and 3,638 children have been placed.

NORTH PRODUCES BIG CROP.

Oroville (Butte County)—Harvesting of the crop from the mother orange tree of California North has been completed, and the giant tree, producing for more than seventy years, gave a larger crop this year than for many past seasons.

The tree, located upon the bank of the Feather River at Bidwell Bar, historic early day mining camp of this county, was planted in 1856 by Judge Joseph Lewis, one of the California Argonauts. A monument now stands at the base of the tree as a memorial to the man who first proved that oranges could be successfully grown in Butte County.

LANSFORD WARREN HASTINGS

EMPIRE DREAMER AND CALIFORNIA PIONEER

LANSFORD WARREN HASTINGS, WHO WAS an uncle of my mother, Lois Hastings, and grandfather of Albert Spence, a member of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W., was born in Knox County, Ohio, in the year 1819, of New England stock. He received his education and was admitted to the bar in that state. Throughout his career and to the end of his days he was a rover, adventurer and dreamer.

At the age of 23, in the spring of 1842, he went to Independence, Missouri, for the purpose of joining an emigrant train to Oregon and thence to California. The emigrants assembled at Elm Grove, about twenty miles southwest of Independence, where, May 14, they organized and elected a "scientific corps" of three members, of whom Hastings was one, "to keep a faithful and true record of everything useful to government for future engagements." James Coates was selected as pilot and Dr. Elijah White, who had been a member of the missionary enterprise on the Willamette, was elected captain for the term of one month. They started from Independence May 16 with a company consisting, as stated by Hastings in his "Emigrant's Guide to Oregon and California," of 160 persons, 80 of whom were armed men, and, as stated by Ghent in his book, "The Road to Oregon," published in 1929, with 16 or 18 covered wagons and a company of about 107 persons. Ghent, speaking of this expedition, says:

"It was a party of divergent wills, and it had a stormy time. Two days after starting it had its first controversy. There were evidently too many dogs in the party, and at a meeting it was resolved to kill all of them. They would all go mad on the plains, it was argued, and even if they didn't they would be sure, by their barking and growling, to acquaint any prowling Indians with the fact that here was a party to be plundered. The counter argument that their barking would also apprise the emigrants of the presence of Indians did not, apparently, carry sufficient weight, and a motion was passed that all the dogs be shot. Medorem Crawford, in his journal, and Miss A. J. Allen, the author of the book of White's travels, say that the dogs—a total of twenty-two—were killed. Hastings, however, in his 'A New History of Oregon and California,' says that the motion produced a great deal of ill feeling; that after a few were killed, one owner after another declared that any man attempting to shoot his dog would himself be shot, and that as a consequence the execution was stopped then and there.

"On June 15, at the end of White's term as captain, a contest was held between Hastings and Stephen H. L. Meek, brother of Joseph, and the former was elected. He was, according to Bidwell, an energetic and ambitious man, and he seems to have something of what we should now call a Napoleonic complex. After his arrival on the Coast and his subsequent removal to California, he is said to have formed the plan of overturning the California government and establishing an independent republic, with himself as president. His assumption of the leadership was a little more than White could stand, and on the next day, with a small following, he separated from the party."

Each month successively thereafter Hastings was re-elected captain; and, after a long and perilous journey, in the course of which he and one of his companions were captured and released by hostile Indians at Independence Rock, the company arrived in Oregon in the fall of 1842.

May 30, 1843, according to Hastings, 53 emigrants, of whom 25 were armed men, under his command started from Oregon for, to quote him, "the second and last paradise of the west, California." On the way they met a company of emigrants going from California to Oregon, where, again quoting him, "they hoped to find refuge from the oppression, which they had suffered in California." While the members of this party, in the language of Hastings, "concurred in the opinion that California was, without any doubt, one of the most delightful countries in the world, both in point of mildness of climate, and fertility of soil," they claimed that they had been seriously oppressed there and that they would "seek refuge, for the time being, in Oregon." About a third of Hastings' party concluded to turn back to Oregon, but the rest, 16 or 17 men, besides nearly the same number of women and children, pressed on. After one or two serious encounters with hostile natives, the party arrived at a point opposite Sutter's Fort about July 10, 1843, where the members drifted apart.

Professor Clelland, in his "History of the American Period in California," says: "The leader of this company, Lansford W. Hastings, was something more than an ordinary settler. Like Hall J. Kelley, he was a Pacific Coast enthusiast, a propagandist, almost a professional organizer of western emigrant parties, and a descriptive writer of unusual ability. For several years he was engaged in presenting the attractions of California to the American people and in leading companies from the western states across the Sierras. Not only was he familiar with most of the established overland routes, but even added his contribution to the work of the explorers in opening up a more direct way, known as Hastings' Cut-Off, from the Great Salt Lake to the Humboldt. Following the expedition of 1843, Hastings became involved in the Mormon plan of sending a colony to the coast. Moreover, from beginning to end, his mind was busy with a scheme to bring about the independence of the province and to set up a republic on the Pacific. The model he set for himself in carrying out this program was Sam Houston of Texas."

Finding that the foreign population in California was too small for the successful carrying out of his plan, Hastings returned to Ohio, by way of Texas, with a view of promoting an increased emigration, to quote the language of Hubert Howe Bancroft, "through the agency of a glowing description of the country's advantages, supplemented by lectures and other personal efforts." Bancroft further says: "While there may be a degree of exaggeration in this version, it is evident that Hastings was not only an enthusiastic advocate of California's separation from her national allegiance, but one of the large class who could not or would not understand that either the Mexican government or the Californian people had any claim to be consulted in the matter." And, in elaboration of this view, Bancroft states that "Hastings and his companions had settled on land without even making the formal applications required by law, hoping to avoid the disagreeable necessity of becoming Mexican citizens."

In furtherance of his plan to attract emigrants to California, Hastings in 1845 published in Ohio a book entitled "Emigrant's Guide to Oregon and California," in which he gives glowing descriptions of the fertility of the soil, the excellence of the climate, the abundance and diversified character of the natural resources of California, as well as interesting accounts of his expeditions of 1842 and 1843. His severe criticism of Mexican rule and of the conduct of the Catholic priests justifies Bancroft's conclusion that Hastings was an advocate of California separation from Mexico.

In 1845 Hastings led another party of emigrants to California, regarding which, and conditions then existing, Professor Clella says: "One other company came to California before the year closed. This was led by a potential filibuster and explorer, Lansford Hastings. It left Independence late in August with twenty-two or twenty-three members. In cause of the lateness of the start and certain unexpected delays, the crossing of the Sierras was attended with very grave danger. But since the company consisted only of men, they were able to reach the plains a day or two before the passes became snow-blocked for the winter. The party arrived at Sutter's on Christmas Day where the holiday feast proved a welcome contrast to the hunger and privations suffered on the mountains. Besides Hastings, at least one other member of this party acquired some measure of fame in later California history. This was Robert Semple, who, among other claims to distinction, could boast a remarkable stature. He was six feet, eight inches tall.

"The arrival of these various overland companies, and the coming of some settlers by a materially increased the foreign population in California. The actual immigration, however, fell far short of the numbers that rumor spread on the way. Both in California and in the United States, the air was thick with stories of a westward migration that in a year or two would populate the entire Pacific Coast and displace the Mexican control of California.

"In the spring of 1845, for instance, it was commonly reported that seven thousand persons were assembled at Independence prepared to take the road for Oregon and California. A few months later Sutter predicted the arrival of 'more as one thousand souls' before the end of the summer, and of other thousands within the year. Well informed American residents of the province also thought that two or three thousand of their countrymen would be in California before the close of 1846. At various times, more exaggerated rumors spread along the coast that ten or twenty thousand emigrants were already westward bound; and a visionary editor of the New York Sun foretold the coming of a hundred thousand persons the spring of 1846.

"Behind these estimates, exaggerated as they appear, were a number of sober facts that gave color to all but the most fanciful of the predictions. Not only was actual immigration assuming considerable proportions but several forces, quietly working to stimulate the settlement of California by Americans, gave every indication of early success. The United States government, through its exploring expeditions, furnished valuable information to the prospective emigrants and also lent a semi-official encouragement to the American settlement of the province. More important still, the active propaganda began some years before by American residents of California to draw settlers to the coast, was not a flood-tide and its effects were everywhere evident throughout the American States."

Early in the spring of 1846 Hastings again started for the East. Later in that year when he returned to California he found the country in the possession of the United States forces, Commodore John D. Sloat having taken formal possession at Monterey July 7, 1846. The Mexican War had thus ended Hastings' dream of empire, regarding which Clelland says: "One might indeed, Lansford W. Hastings, whose activities as an emigrant guide have already been spoken of, had in mind the definite purpose of making himself president of the new republic."

Again, speaking of the delay of Congress in admitting California to the Union, the same author states: "It was during these months of debate and delay in Congress, while the problem of law and order and settled government was daily becoming more critical around them, that the people of the state talked openly of declaring their independence, and of setting up a separate republic on the Pacific, thus bringing to pass the old idea of Lansford W. Hastings and of other empire dreamers in the days before the Mexican War."

Hastings settled at Sutter's Fort, where he was residing at the time of the discovery of gold by Marshall. In 1847 and 1848 Hastings advertised in the San Francisco papers as a lawyer.

specializing in California land titles. In 1848 he married Charlotte C., daughter of H. Toler, a Virginian, whose wife was of Spanish descent and a native of Caracas, Venezuela. He represented Sacramento as a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1849, in which, it is said, he had much to do with fixing the eastern boundary of the state as defined in the Constitution. From that time until after the outbreak of the Civil War he does not seem to have been prominent in public or professional life. It is significant, however, in view of his activities during the Civil War, that in the later fifties, during which time there were several filibustering expeditions from California into Sonora, Hastings, with his family, moved to and lived in Yuma, Arizona. In 1862 he came back to California, his wife dying soon after his return.

This brings us to his second dream of grandeur. In a letter to his daughter Isabel, who was then in the convent of the Dominican sisters at Benicia, California, dated Mazatlan, Mexico, April 10, 1863, Hastings instructed Isabel to inform Sister Mary Thomas that his reason for not writing her by the same mail was that he had just arrived from the interior, where he

FIFTY-THIRD N.S.G.W. GRAND PARLOR

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

THE FIFTY-THIRD GRAND PARLOR of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West will convene at Merced City, Monday, May 19, at 10:30 a. m. Grand President Charles L. Dodge will preside, and at the close of the Grand Parlor will be installed as Junior Past Grand President. Sessions will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday, the intervening days, Tuesday and Thursday, being given over entirely to pleasure.

This year, for the first time, the legislation enacted at the 1928 Grand Parlor, requiring all members of the Grand Parlor to pay a registration fee of $2.50, will be in effect. The total thus collected, as provided for in the legislation, will be turned over to Yosemite Parlor No. 24 of Merced for entertainment expense. While the Grand Parlor has twice met in the Yosemite Valley, 1908 and 1919, this will be the first session held at the "Gateway to the Valley."

The reports of grand officers and committees will deal with the Order's affairs for the year 1929, and will most likely contain recommendations for the future course. That of Grand Secretary John T. Regan will set forth in detail the condition of the Subordinate Parlors. Parlors of 450 members, and their assets, include:

Ramona Parlor No. 109 of Los Angeles maintains its place as the largest, numerically, in the Order. San Jose No. 22 is the wealthiest, but Santa Lucia Parlor No. 97 of Salinas has the greatest percapita wealth.

One Parlor, Bakersfield No. 42, was instituted during 1929, at the government-seat of Kern County.

During the year the grand officers officiated at the following dedications: County Court House at Santa Barbara City; Herbert Hoover high school at Glendale, Los Angeles County; Pescadero grammar school at Pescadero, San Mateo County; Oakview school at Oakview, San Joaquin County; monument to commemorate gold quartz discovery in California at Grass Valley, Nevada County; swimming pool at Murphys, Calaveras County.

Subordinate Parlors made flag presentations as follows: Pacific No. 10 to Saint Anne's parochial school, Redwood No. 66 to San Mateo Park school, Sebastopol No. 143 to Green Valley school, Precita No. 187 to Le Conte school, Dolores No. 208 to Buena Vista and Saint Paul's schools, Twin Peaks No. 214 to Paul Revere school, Pebble Beach No. 230 to Pescadero grammar school, Bret Harte No. 260 to San Miguel school, Sepulveda No. 263 to Wilmington Boy Scouts of America, Humboldt County Parlors to South Fork union high school.

LEGISLATION.

The Grand Parlor will, undoubtedly, take some action regarding the menacing influx of Mexican peons and Filipinos, largely responsible for thousands of White citizens being unemployed in California.

The Board of Grand Officers will propose an amendment to Article V, Section 5 of the Grand Parlor Constitution to the effect that the Grand Treasurer shall be a member of the Board.

Fred H. Greely Assembly No. 6 Past Presidents Association and Hydraulic Parlor No. 5 of Nevada City will petition the Grand Parlor to suitably recognize a certain grave in Nevada County, and thereby "show that this Order does deeply and reverently acknowledge and appreciate the sacrifice of the Pioneers." Dr. C. W. Chapman, secretary of Hydraulic and largely responsible for the erection of the Pioneer monument at Donner Lake, Nevada County, recently turned over to the state by the Order, says:

"The neighborhood of Hydraulic Parlor is rich in items of interest, and many of them are milestones in the progress and upbuilding of the state. In this immediate neighborhood also have occurred some of the incidents that have proved the real texture of the Pioneers who crossed the plains to settle California. . . . One such incident marked by the grave of a child that has stood at the side of an emigrant trail for nearly three quarters of a century in mute evidence of the great sacrifice that was demanded, not of one but of many mothers and fathers who carried on and who bequeathed to us our heritage."

OFFICE CANDIDATES.

Indications are that there will be several last minute candidates for Grand Parlor offices. In fact, there are, and for some time have been, persistent rumors that there will be at least one additional, and possibly more, entrant in the Grand Third Vice-presidency contest, that there will be at least fourteen candidates for the Grand Trusteeships, and that the offices of Grand Marshal and Grand Outside Sentinel will be contested for by more than one. So, the race for honors promises an abundance of thrills.

The Grizzly Bear has been busy running down rumors, and as a result announces the following candidacies, vouched for either by the candidates themselves or the Parlors sponsoring their candidacies:

For Grand First Vice-President—Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez (Pacific No. 10) of San Francisco.

For Grand Second Vice-president—Grand Third Vice-president Seth Millington (Colusa No. 69) of Gridley.

For Grand Third Vice-president—Grand Trustee Frank M. Lane (Fresno No. 25) of Fresno; Justice Emmet Seawell (Santa Rosa No. 28) of Santa Rosa.

For Grand Secretary—John T. Regan (South San Francisco No. 157) of San Francisco, incumbent.

For Grand Treasurer—John A. Corotto (San Jose No. 22) of San Jose; Walton E. Holme (Sunset No. 26) of Sacramento; Frank M. Buckley (National No. 118) of San Francisco, incumbent.

For Grand Marshal—Grand Inside Sentinel Joseph Clavo (Vallejo No. 77) of Vallejo.

For Grand Outside Sentinel—Gam Hurst (Piedmont No. 120) of Oakland.

For Grand Trustee (seven to be elected)—Irving D. Gibson (Sacramento No. 3) of Sacramento, incumbent; George F. McNoble (Stockton No. 7) of Stockton; A. W. Garcelon (Arcata No. 20) of Arcata, incumbent; Charles A. Koenig (Golden Gate No. 29) of San Francisco, incumbent; Ed. L. Webber (Napa No. 62) of Napa; Ben Harrison (Arrowhead No. 110) of San Bernardino, incumbent; Samuel M. Shorridge Jr (Menlo No. 185) of Menlo Park; Jos. McShane (Twin Peaks No. 214) of San Francisco.

The San Francisco Parlors, through their Extension of the Order Committee, will ask for this year's Admission Day, September 9, celebration.

No place, as yet, has been announced as candidate for next year's Grand Parlor. There is a possibility, it is said, of the Humboldt County Parlors asking that it be assigned to Eureka. There has also been considerable talk about holding it in Los Angeles, in conjunction with the proposed celebration of Admission Day 1931 there, but as to neither proposition have the Los Angeles Natives, at this writing, arrived at a final decision. The suggestion is being considered, and there will in all likelihood be a def-

FACTS ABOUT FILIPINO IMMIGRATION INTO California," is the title of a report completed by the State Department of Industrial Relations, Will J. French, director, on the problem of Filipinos in California. It "furnishes data, not elsewhere available, as to the extent of the Filipino immigration into California since 1920, and also data hearing upon the characteristics of the new wave of Malay immigration into the state." Some of the report's highlights follow:

From 1920 to 1929, 31,092 Filipinos came into the state through the ports of San Francisco and Los Angeles. About 85 percent of them came from the Philippine and the Hawaiian Islands, in vessels operated by two California steamship companies.

The influx began in 1923, and the average annual number of arrivals from then until 1929 was 4,777. During 1929, 5,795 were admitted, an increase of 139 percent over the number of 1923 arrivals. Since 1920, there has been a constant increase in the number and proportions coming directly from the Philippines.

Out of every 100 Filipinos arriving in the ten-year period 1920-1929, 93 were males and 7 were females. This is a ratio of 14 to 1, whereas the ratio of males to females in the total California population is 1.1 to 1.

Seventy-seven and three-tenths percent of the Filipino arrivals are single, 22.5 percent married and 0.2 percent widowed. The corresponding percentages in the total population of California are 47.9, 43.7 and 6.7.

The number of Filipinos now in California is probably between 31,000 and 34,000.

Among the hotel, restaurant, and domestic occupations in which Filipinos find work in California are the following: bell boys, bus boys, cooks, dishwashers, door boys, hall boys, house canner, janitors, kitchen helpers, pantrymen, Filipinos are used extensively in agricultural occupations, such as asparagus cutting, fruit picking, rice harvesting, hoeing and topping lettuce, lettuce harvesting, grape picking, celery planting, hop picking and general ranch labor. In many occupations in which Filipinos find employment in California they are displacing native White workers and others. This is especially true in hotel, restaurant and domestic occupations. In box factories in California North, the Filipinos are also displacing White workers. In agricultural occupations, they are competing directly with Mexicans and other immigrant groups of labor, but even in some agricultural occupations they are taking the places of White workers.

The displacing of White workers by Filipinos, and the prevailing racial prejudices against these Orientals, account for the recent deplorable anti-Filipino riots in Exeter, Tulare County, and Watsonville, Santa Cruz County.

The attorney-general of California has ruled, at the request from Santa Barbara County for an opinion, that the state law prohibits the employment of any hut native-born or naturalized citizens by city or county governments, or the state itself; that the law forbids the employment of aliens.

That opinion opens the way for the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West to engage in an endeavor that will be beneficial to the state and to citizens of the United States residing within the confines of the state. For there is no doubt that hundreds, most likely thousands, of aliens are being illegally so employed.

The Order should see that the law is strictly obeyed by the state and every city and county thereof. The Grand Parlor which meets at Merced City this month should appoint a competent committee to wage the campaign, and should provide adequate funds to go into court, if necessary, to bring about compliance with the law. The passage of resolutions "deploring the situation" will avail little. What is needed is forceful action, within the law.

There are some city and county governments which will respect the law, and there are others which will not be guided by the law unless forced to do so. The Order of Native Sons should provide the ways and means to do the forcing!

Commenting on this subject, the "Evening Telegram" of San Bernardino recently said, editorially: "San Bernardino's proposed experiment in prohibiting alien labor on municipal projects will be watched with interest. . . . If citizens of this community can be found who will do the unskilled work now performed by alien labor, they ought, by all means, to be given the opportunity.

"A wayfaring man though a fool can sense the utter nonsense of employing Mexicans or non-residents on San Bernardino municipal projects, if citizens and taxpayers who need the employment and are willing to accept work of that character, are idle. . . .

"The Evening Telegram has repeatedly remarked that it knows of no position in the public service which cannot be quite as capably filled by a citizen and taxpayer of San Bernardino as by an alien, or a non-resident. This includes, as we have said before, city school superintendents and park superintendents. Also, it includes unskilled labor."

President Herbert Hoover radioed this tribute to the Pioneer Women of the West, on the occasion of the unveiling of a memorial at Ponca City, Oklahoma:

"There are few men of the West of my generation who did not know the Pioneer Woman in his own mother, and who do not rejoice to know that her part in building that great civilization is to have such beautiful recognition. It was those women who carried the refinement, the moral character and spiritual force into the West. Not only did they bear great burden of daily toil and the rearing of families, but they were intent that their children should have a chance, that the doors of opportunity should be opened to them. It was their insistence which made the schools and churches."

The Federal Congress has under consideration two bills having a most important bearing on the future welfare of California. One provides for the exclusion of Filipinos, the other for materially reducing the influx of Mexicans by applying the quota to their homeland. At this writing, both measures appear to have excellent possibility of passage.

Eventually, Congress will pass this necessary legislation, but it should be done now, for every day of delay adds more of undesirable and not-needed Mexis and Filipinos to the ineligible-to-citizenship population of this state, and increases the seriousness of the already over-serious race problem.

The "big interests" are, of course, using every means to kill off the bill aimed at the Mexis. They have not, however, advanced a single reason, supported by fact, to back up their claims.

SHASTA

(DR. O. T. FELLOWS.)

Lone Monarch of the wooded hills,
Thy kingly right none dares dispute.
My soul aspires, my being thrills
Beholding thee, so grand, yet mute!
I would that words my lips could speak,
Might voice thy overmastering spell
Aa Thunderer apoke, ere on thy peak,
The silence of the ages fell!

In majesty thy towering form
Its ermine robes befitting wears,
Unmoved alike by raging storm
Or softest breath of summer airs.
Upon thy summit first the dawn
Its beams of beauty deigns to cast,
And there, as evening hastens on,
The lessening splendor lingers last.

The night enfolds thee in its gloom,
All ghostly seems thy robe of snow.
Thy heart is but a frozen tomb;
Its fires subsided long ago.
Reign thou supreme, lone Monarch, reign,
Within thy realm till time is done!
Earth's throes may vex thee ne'er again—
Adieu, thou Solitary One!

Abundant evidence, however, has been presented by those looking after California's welfare—among them Senator Hiram W. Johnson, and Representative Albert Johnson of Washington State—to prove that the Mexis are not alone a menace, but a burden to the taxpayers. For, it should not be forgotten, the "big interests" bring in the Mexis to work for them—only as long as their services are required—at starvation wages, and then turn the peons loose, to be fed and clothed from public charity funds, or to compete with citizen laborers for exultance.

During debate the other day in the United States Senate, Senator Harris of Georgia made this declaration: "I am a member of the Immigration Committee and attended all the hearings. Many people came from various sections of the country and protested against the immigration bill, but not one of them, as I recall—and I remember many and noted the fact at the time—urged that we pass a bill that would be for the best interests of the United States. Every one of those people, as the record will show, protested against the bill because it might discriminate against or injure some other country. They did not, however, say a word about what would be best for our country."

There is sufficient Mexi labor in California now, if the "big interests" want it, but what they really are aiming to do is to establish Mexican wages and standard of living for their employes. This they cannot hope to do, unless they are allowed to continue deluging the state with additional Mexican peons, and thus sacrificing the American workman.

Stench from the Julian oil blowup—the scheme framed and executed by Los Angeles "worshipful financial bulls" to steal millions—continues to arise. The present investigation—and promise to hunt out and vigorously prosecute the "big boys"—has gotten into such a tangled mess it is doubtful if the district attorney of Los Angeles County, despite his apparently honest effort to do so, will be able to force out the truth and put the "big boys" where they belong—behind prison walls.

It appears that, through the conflicting charges of the "little fellows" in the Julian-wrecking game, the idea is to swear to any old thing to "save the faces" of the "bulls." There is a suspicion that right now the "bright young man" who was going to "blow the lid off" is being handsomely rewarded by the "bulls" to keep the lid down, so far as they are concerned.

There have been several indictments, but most of those indicted are little "big fellows"—so called "prominents" who are extra-large in ego, but very small in ability and possibility. Those suspicioned "in the street" of being the brains of the Julian thievery are not even among those mentioned in the present investigation.

Perhaps the source whence might be brought to light the unvarnished truth regarding the Julian scandal is being overlooked, and too much dependence placed on those who no doubt could, but evidently will not, give the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Perhaps thorough investigation of the real reason for a bank merger, shortly after the original indictments, might produce the key that will set free the wanted and needed truth.

"The state of business conditions in California is dependent upon the fiscal policies pursued by the governmental divisions of the state and the tax burden that is placed upon the people," said Dr. Milbank Johnson of Pasadena, chairman of the board of directors of the California Taxpayers Association, in opening the recent fourth annual meeting of that organization at Los Angeles. He pleaded for a vigilant and intelligent public opinion on matters of taxation, saying:

"Present economic conditions demand just as much retrenchment in public expenditures as in (Continued on Page 58) .

THINK THIS OVER!

The order of Native Sons of the Golden West is, we believe, with the exception of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West, the only organization that limits membership exclusively to NATIVE-BORN AMERICANS.

Knowing the serious conditions in this country today, this fact alone should impel every Native Son of California to immediately SEEK AFFILIATION with that American-born and American-operated institution, the man-power and wealth of which are pledged to the protection of American institutions in times of peace as well as in times of war.

CALIFORNIA HAPPENINGS OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

MAY 1880 WAS UNUSUALLY COLD IN California, and the ripening of fruits and berries was thereby halted. The first strawberries of the season appeared in the San Francisco market May 8; a case from Los Angeles sold there at 97c a pound. But one storm passed over the state during the month, but it lasted four days and brought the season's rainfall to nearly 25 inches. All parts of the state were optimistic of a hountiful harvest, and California was never in a more prosperous condition.

Picnics, always plentiful in the state during May, got a late start, but practically every organization managed to have a day's outing. The grass was never greener nor the flowers more luxuriant throughout the whole state.

May 23 a picnic was held at the Big Tree grove on the South Pacific Coast railroad, and trains were run from San Francisco and Santa Cruz Cities. When a train of three flat cars, fitted with railings and seats, was returning to Santa Cruz with 120 men, women and children, two of the cars became derailed near Felton Station, and the picnickers were thrown in a confusing heap beneath the cars and against the bank of a cut. Fourteen of them were killed outright, and twenty-six were severely injured, several fatally.

The Workingmen's party had a state convention at San Francisco in May, to elect delegates to the Chicago national convention in July. Becoming tempestuous, the gathering split into two factions, both vowing allegiance to Den Kearny, but differing in spirit.

Kearny, incarcerated in the San Francisco lockup, was taken before the State Supreme Court at Sacramento May 22 on a writ of habeas corpus. Three days were devoted to review his case, and May 27 he was freed on a technicality. Several thousand workmen gave him a reception at the San Francisco sand lot, which again assumed importance. A salute of 100 guns was fired, he made a characteristic speech, and a collection gave him $200 toward paying expenses.

Decoration Day, May 30, coming on Sunday was observed the following day in every city and town of the state. In most of the places, in addition to decorating graves with flowers, evening exercises, with orations and music, were held. At Sacramento, General Ben F. Butler, who arrived in the state the 30th, made an eloquent address at the cemetery.

FATALITIES IN LAND DISPUTE.

The United States Mint at San Francisco during the month coined 49,000 twenty-dollar, 6,000 ten-dollar and 98,000 five-dollar gold pieces and $800,000 in silver dollars—all from the products of Pacific Coast mines.

The Mussel Slough difficulty between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company had a fatal episode this month which resulted in the loss of seven lives. United States Marshal Poole, obeying court instructions, took two land purchasers to Hanford, Kings County, the 5th attempted to put them in possession of acreage they had purchased and to eject the settlers therefrom. Being resisted by a posse of settlers a shooting affray followed, resulting in the killing of M. J. Crow and M. D. Hart, who had bought land from the railroad company, and James Harris, A. McGregor, Daniel L. Kennerly, Inva Knutson and John Henderson of the settlers' league.

The Democratic party had a state convention at Oakland, Alameda County, May 19 to select twelve delegates to the Cincinnati national presidential convention in June. It lasted three days, as all the warhorses had to speechify.

Two masked men stopped the stage for Merced four miles out of San Andreas, Calaveras County. Unable to open the express-box, they robbed a passenger of $30.

May 6 two men ordered the stage from Jackson, Amador County, to halt a short distance from the former place. Tom Magee, Wells Fargo messenger, fired at them and they turned the fire. None of the shots took effect, and the scared horses piloted the stage to safety.

The stage from Forest Hill was stopped by two men near Auburn, Placer County, May 10. The passengers were relieved of $100 and their watches.

Two masked men stopped the stage from Georgetown to Placerville, El Dorado County, May 24. Carrying no express-box, the passengers were robbed of $50.

May 24 the stage from Murphy, Calaveras County, was held up near Vallecito, and from the express-hox was taken.

The San Francisco Board of Supervisors May 3 passed a resolution to impeach Mayor Kalle for acts of commission and omission, and proceeded to carry out the intention of the resolution. A judge, however, May 25 sustained the demurrer and put a stop to the proceedings.

McGee, McFarlane & Co., merchants of Highland Flat, Nevada County, took over the Bonanza mine for a debt of $3,000 owed them by a company of miners searching for the gravel in an ancient buried stream believed to be beneath the hills there. Men were put to work by the merchants to locate the stream, but after several months abandoned the search.

PROMINENT PIONEERS PASS.

This year (1880) the Empire Mining Company worked out a gravel deposit a quarter-mile away and quit, and the merchants started a drift from the Empire ground into that claim, and this month found the long-sought-for gravel deposit. The first six shovelful of gravel, cast into a candle box, was about half gold and yielded $182. The next day, in six hours, $17,000 worth of coarse gold was washed out. As the merchants had a length of 2,000 feet to their prospective wealth was incalculable.

W. H. Swain, prospecting six miles from the town of Mariposa, found a silver ledge, eight inches wide, that assayed $200 a ton.

A rich ledge of silver ore was found in the Providence Mountains, sixty miles from Colton, San Bernardino County. Assays of $5,000 a ton were obtained, and a rush of locators ensued.

U. S. C. SEMICENTENNIAL

FIFTY YEARS OF SERVICE TO THE world of education and modern progress will be celebrated by the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, May 29 through June 7, at the Semicentennial of the Trojan University, according to Dean Rockwell D. Hunt, chairman of the Semicentennial celebration.

From the anniversary joint program of the literary societies, on Thursday, May 29th, and throughout the week to the final informal group reunion dinners the evening of June 7th, the celebration will be marked with brilliant speeches, impressive programs and the prestige lent by the attendance of visiting dignitaries from all parts of the world.

Highlighting the week from the standpoint of the "old grad," will be the United Jubilee Banquet, under the supervision of the General Alumni Association. This will bring together for a gala reunion all the alumni of the various colleges at a general dinner meeting, presided over by Dr. Harold J. Stonier, formerly vice-president of the University. Various classes and colleges will be represented by their permanent presidents and their alumni association heads, who will respond to toasts apropos to the occasion.

Also sponsored by the General Alumni Association will be the dedication of the Trojan Shrine, the massive Trojan figure cast in bronze by Roger Noble Burnham, well-known sculptor. Standing eight feet high, this heroic statue will accommodate the entire band on its base, and it is proposed to make it a shrine for future reunions and pep rallies.

Dedication services will be held for the buildings recently added to the campus unit, including the beautiful Seeley Wintersmith Mudd Hall of Philosophy, the new Physical Education Building, Bridge Hall and the Hall of Science. Each of these ceremonies will incorporate the laying of the corner stones, and a conference pertaining to the subject most closely allied to the building being dedicated. These conferences will be led by the deans of the respective colleges, or the heads of the departments.

Music and the arts are not to be slighted in the least, for on Saturday, May 31st, the Commencement Recital of the College of Music will be held in Bovard Auditorium; on Monday, June 2nd, the campus musical organizations will conduct a concert and the first rendition of the winning University Ode, also in Bovard Auditorium; and the following day the Semicentennial Pageant and Apolliad of the School of Speech will be presented. Primary among the artistic works of the week will be the festival presentation of Mendelssohn's oratorio, "Elijah," by national artists, University chorus and augmented orchestra, with Alexander Stewart conducting. An open-air concert, given by the University band, will be the final musical event offered Saturday, June 7th.

During the week the regular commencement program of past years will be conformed with, including the Baccalaureate Service, the Farewell Tea of the Associated Graduate Students, the President's Levee, the Ivy Day Pageant, the Anniversary joint programs of Honor Scholarship societies, the Convocation, and the Commencement Procession. These events will be incorporated with the specially arranged Semicentennial plans.

Outstanding Semicentennial events will be the reception in honor of delegates, alumni and guests; the registration of Semicentennial delegates and alumni; campus tours and visitation of departments; luncheon and Conference on International Relations, with Dr. R. B. von KleinSmid presiding; assembly of faculty delegates and guests; invitational luncheon, and the convocation, introduction of delegates, reception of greetings and the Semicentennial address.

Women will come in for their share of entertainment at the Trojan Woman's Tea, sponsored by the seven Trojan women's clubs of Los Angeles, Pasadena, Long Beach, Glendale, San Diego, Bay Cities and Orange County. Wives of the delegates, S. C. graduating seniors, high school senior leaders, and wives of faculty members will be honored by the alumnae at this tea, given at the president's home in Chester place.

Faculty, students, alumni and friends are rejoicing in the success and recognition which has come to the University of Southern California, and are eagerly anticipating the Semicentennial celebration of 1930.

This is the year of the Golden Jubilee of the

(SAN DIEGO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.)

SAN DIEGO TURNS THE CALENDAR TO summer feeling good (if not grammatical). There are various reasons for this feeling, not the least of which is the mere fact that millions more people elsewhere in America now know that San Diego is a choice place to live, a delightful place to visit. Dissemination of convincing information that one community offers more joy of living than others is beset with difficulties.

Hence, when along comes so competent a judge as Arthur Brisbane and forcefully tells he declared it "The most interesting day I've had in my life."

To his millions of readers he wrote that here is everything they ever thought of or wanted and many things they never imagined; that they might multiply by ten the best things ever said about climate and sunshine and they would have San Diego; that "you have not seen anything yet" applies to all who have not seen San Diego; that to see San Diego is to live.

To a reminder that he himself had delayed visiting San Diego through five years of repeated 30,000,000 of readers what residents of the community have been trying to "get across" for years, there is bound to be a new buoyancy about town.

Arthur Brisbane, most everybody knows, has been around, seeing places and things with trained, discriminating and critical eyes and brain. Sizing up San Diego on a catch-as-catch can day, invitations, Brisbane said: "I have postponed going to heaven for sixty-five years, but that does not mean that I don't intend going there. I feel about San Diego as I expect to feel about heaven."

Assuming that a great many of Brisbane's readers will act upon his recommendations, San Diego is equipped as never before to accommodate an influx of summer visitors with comfortable housing and recreation facilities. Seashore and mountain resorts alike are prepared to make this the most enjoyable in their experience for all comers. More and better motoring highways will be duly appreciated, particularly by those who find novel delight in quick transition from surf to mountain recreations.

In more material matters, San Diego turns from "rainy" to summer season with copious rainfall added to water supply in storage in its mountain dams—and any Southern California community must feel good over plentiful water supply. At the same time, wage earners and material dealers have the satisfaction that $2.-350,000 is now being expended on improvements of the water works system.

Construction in all lines, including housing, continues as usual. A new hotel on Point Loma to cost $1,500,000 is announced, the United States Senate has passed a bill appropriating a million and a half for improvements at the naval establishments, and other sizeable construction projects are under way or contemplated. Turfing of the municipal golf course in Balboa Park, with installation of a sewage water reclamation plant to supply the required irrigation, has been approved by the San Diego City Council as a project combining additional recreation facilities and conservation of mountain water supply. Concerning golf, there was recently dedicated with acclaim a new grassed public course convenient to the city and named Emerald Hills. There anyone may play by payment of a nominal green-fee.

The San Diego Chamber of Commerce, celebrating its sixtieth anniversary as the second oldest organization of the kind west of the Rockies, outlines an ambitious program in continuation of its community building. Its convention and public events department has much in store this summer. An unusual number of conventions are scheduled, and events will be featured by a Fiesta de Cabrillo running from June 26 to July 6.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED.

The fifteenth institution anniversary of San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W. was celebrated with a dinner April 8. The tables were decorated with spring flowers from the gardens of the chairman of the committee, Jane Florentin. All past presidents assisted. Charter members present included Eliza Burns, Emma Robinson, Hattie Ziegler, Sophie Sharpe, Irma Heilbron and Alice H. Damarus.

April 26 the Parlor had its annual card party. The social committee—Pearl A. Simpson (chairman), Gertrude Farwell, Helen Hill, Katherine Heilbron, Victorrine Howison and Martha Klindt—was assisted by those members whose birthday anniversaries are in June. Creton card-table covers, made by the committee, were the prizes.

The Parlor is now arranging to observe Mother's Day. In the near future, jointly with San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W., San Diego Native Daughters will present California State (Bear) Flags to the Sherman and the Logan Heights schools.

ANNUAL PICNIC.

San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. initiated two candidates April 9 and received ten applications for membership. Under the leadership of Henry P. Stelling, the initiatory team exemplified the ritual in a splendid manner.

WANTS MORE.

From East San Diego, under date of April 7, B. H. Williams wrote the editor of The Grizzly Bear as follows:

"Please accept my thanks for your most excellent 'Grizzly Growls' in the current number.

"We don't want any Mexicans, and we don't want any booze, but we DO WANT a whole lot of crooks put into stripes—and one big fellow is better than ninety-nine little fellows.

"Give us some more 'Growls' of the same kind."

Monroe Ashbury, prominent citizen of San Francisco, died there May 4. He came to California in 1849 from Maryland and filled a number of public offices.

Judge W. P. Daingerfield dropped dead while engaged in the trial of a case at San Francisco. He came from Virginia in 1849, and for a decade was a judge and a prominent attorney of Shasta County.

Napoleon Broughton, who came from South Carolina in 1849, died May 22 in Sonoma County. He was clerk of Calaveras County in 1856 and afterward became a member of what was termed the "third house" of every State Legislature.

Paul Morrill, who came from New Hampshire in 1850 as a printer, died May 27 at San Francisco. In 1851 he, with two partners, Anthony and Larkin, established the "Sacramento Daily Union."

A. Wilsey, prominent Sonoma County farmer, dreamed the night of April 17 that he died May 1, and twice afterward had the same dream, but laughed at the incident. Selling his property and preparing to leave for Washington, D.C., the Sonoma County Grange, in which he was active, arranged a farewell dinner for May 1 in his honor. At 2 p. m. of that day, as he was about to be seated with his friends at the festive board, Wilsey dropped dead.

From July 1, 1879, to May 1, 1880, 262 vessels, loaded with 10,099,650 centals of grain valued at $19,374,874, passed out of the Golden Gate, bound for Europe. It was estimated 3,000,000 acres of California land had been sown to grain this season, and a great crop was expected.

John M. McPike of Napa County this month bought a 20,000-acre San Joaquin County grain ranch, paying $200,000 for the property.

OVERSIGHT CAUSES CONFUSION.

Eggs, covered with mud to preserve them, were being imported from China. Bamboo sprouts by the ton were also being brought in for the Chinese epicures.

A document recorded in Santa Barbara County showed the Southern Pacific Railroad Company had mortgaged to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis for $10,000,000 eleven million acres of land.

The ruins of the San Carlos Mission church, four miles southeast of Monterey City, were coming into prominence. Interred there were the remains of Padre Junipero Serra, founder of the state's chain of Franciscan missions, and fifteen of the early-day governors of California.

The Long Branch hotel at Alameda City burned May 4 with a $35,000 loss of property. Miss Mary Spaulding, who discovered the fire and warned the inmates to escape, was burned to death.

The Transcontinental hotel at Colton, San Bernardino County, a favorite hostelry for the tourists now coming into California South, burned May 8, causing a $30,000 loss.

Rev. DeWitt, a Boston evangelist making a big success at revival meetings throughout the state, dampened his hearers' ardor this month by requesting, when donation slips were being passed around: "Don't mark any of your slips 'paid' unless it is really so. This oversight has caused us much confusion!"

Willie Flynn, a Forest City, Sierra County, lad, while crossing Kanaka Creek May 6 stumbled off the bridge and was drowned.

A wild steer, escaping from a herd in Grass Valley, Nevada County, charged through the main street and finally entered the hallway of the Holbrook house, where it did much damage horning the plaster and the equipment.

A young woman of Sacramento petitioned the trustees of that city to remove a street lamp from the corner in front of her home, but giving no reason for the request was called on to state her objections. She blushing said she had a beau and they did their "sparking" on the front porch, and with the light in its present position, there was no privacy. She was advised to try the back porch.

Ed Sigsby, at Aqua Manua, near San Bernardino, May 22 held the $10 stakes for a mustang race. After the contest there was a dispute, and Sigsby refused to pay until it was settled. This so enraged Francisco Ortega, one of the contestants, that he shot Sigsby four times, killing him. At last accounts, Ortega was riding for Mexico, with a posse in pursuit.

University of Southern California—the Trojan University is rounding out its first half-century. Fifty years ago, in September 1880, it opened its doors for the first time and fifty students responded. Next commencement—June 1930—the University will celebrate its Semicentennial in a manner befitting its unparalleled growth and development.

With imposing academic ceremonial, with festival music and pageantry, proclamation will be made that, through the sacrifice and devotion of the founders, through much tribulation, the University of Southern California, located in the heart of metropolitan Los Angeles, has at length come of age. Altogether it will be the most significant and outstanding academic celebration yet undertaken in California South.

The general arrangements are in charge of a committee headed by Dean Rockwell D. Hunt of the Graduate School. Doctor Emory S. Bogardus is the vice-chairman, and Professor Hugh Willett the secretary. Twelve special committees are at work on various phases of the many-sided program.

Social Workers' Meet—The twenty-second annual meeting of the California Conference of Social Workers will be held at Santa Barbara City, May 13-17.

MABEL WEBSTER HARRIS.

At a regular session of Lugonia Parlor No. 241 N.D.G.W. held March 26, 1930, the following preamble and resolution were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, God, in His infinite wisdom, has seen fit to remove from our midst our beloved sister, Mabel Webster Harris; whereas, the intimate relations long held by our deceased sister with the members of this Parlor render it proper that we should place on record our appreciation of her services as a Native Daughter and her merits as a woman; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Parlor tenders its heartfelt sympathy to the family and relatives of our deceased sister in their sad affliction; resolved, that we spread a notice upon our minutes, and send a copy to our sister's family; also, that a notice be sent to The Grizzly Bear, and that our charter be draped for a period of thirty days.

NATURE'S CONVENTION METROPOLIS—LONG BEACH

A. A. Miller

(Manager Publicity Bureau
 LONG BEACH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.)

STILL YOUNG AS A CITY, LONG BEACH stands upon the threshold of a triumphal architectural creation worthy of its natural heritage, one which will enhance its picturesque setting beside the peaceful surges of the Pacific Ocean shore.

The task, which plans forecast will record this famed resort metropolis as "America's Premier Convention City-by-the-Sea," involves the construction of a mammoth new $5,000,000 civic auditorium and marine amphitheatre upon a promontory jutting out into the Pacific Ocean er with a 3,800-foot semi-circular pier, decked with driveway and sidewalks, encircling an additional area of forty acres of still water. Construction of this pier was of rock and piling and will afford a protection to the eight acres within.

The eight-acre fill, located in the center of the protective pier semi-circle, was made solid with a wood bulkhead enclosure. Eventually it is proposed to provide seating facilities upon the semi-circular pier accessible from the deck, where spectators may witness various aquatic sports, pageants, etc., staged throughout the year.

from its sandy shore, a project virile with the assets that fit naturally into the recreational environment of the city.

This ambitious project set upon by the city has been under construction for the past year, and involves the preliminary reclamation of eight acres of filled tideland from the sea as the site for the new auditorium and marine park, togeth-

The auditorium, on which construction commenced April 1, is planned in three parts—the convention hall or main auditorium, exhibition or athletic hall, and theatre. On the south side of the building, facing the ocean, there will be a Greek theatre with a glass dome which may be opened in summer, converting it into an open-air theatre and concert bowl. This will seat about 2,500 and will be used for pageants, amateur productions, and kindred dramatic and operatic activities, as well as for the public hand concerts rendered daily throughout the year by the Long Beach symphony band.

This will also be made available for the use of the Playground and Recreation Commission in conducting pageants, stage arrangements for community dramatics and large evening social programs. The stage of the theatre can be opened upon the stage of the main auditorium, when desired. Plans provide for an organ room and aquarium, and facilities for holding eight conventions simultaneously with a grand total seating capacity of 12,400 persons.

There will be special quarters for the symphony band with lockers, practice room, lounge, library and storage space. The United States Service Men's Club, made up of members of the United States Navy and Army stationed in this area, will also have quarters provided, including lockers, showers, library, hilliard and pool tables, and other features for their enjoyment. Banquet rooms will be provided in the building for all types of organization and committee banquets.

The first floor, or exhibition hall, will be set aside for all types of social recreational activities, including roller-skating, social dancing, parties, and basketball games. Adjacent there will be large locker rooms and showers for those engaged in the various sports, as well as special facilities for visiting and competing teams.

Beauty, utility and adaptability to its unique setting are the primary characteristics of this masterpiece of art to be. An imposing facade, with mural decoration symbolizing the romantic origin of California and its progress to the status of a modern commonwealth, is designed as the building's front approach. This is to be sixty feet high and twenty feet wide. Equally attractive is the design for the southern end of the building, looking out over the sheltered pier and the still water of the Pacific Ocean beyond.

The site of the eight-acre fill, now completed, is located at the foot of American avenue, one of the north-and-south thoroughfares of the city, while the semi-circular structure touches the shore at Pine and Linden, also important thoroughfares, a total shoreline distance of 1,800 feet.

The semi-circular pier reaches out 2,000 feet into the ocean. The eight-acre fill upon which the auditorium is to be constructed will be beautifully landscaped and will be made to fit into the recreational environment of Long Beach. The thirty-two-acre water area within the semi-circular pier will enhance the amusement feature, and at the same time eliminate the element of danger to bathers from heavy surf and tidal currents—a safeguard which will appeal especially to parents with children.

An artistic aquatic playground, as well as a convenient meeting place for conventions, will thus be provided in the heart of the city, where thousands of annual visitors and residents of nearby communities may enjoy rest, relaxation, recreation and amusement amid an artistic and picturesque setting by the greatest of oceans.

As a direct result of this ambitious project, Long Beach looks forward to becoming one of the popular convention cities of the nation. Already actual and tentative hookings of large conventions for 1930 and 1931 have been made. Long Beach thinks it not beyond possibility to entertain one or both of the major national political conventions of 1932.

Psychologists of Long Beach term this gigantic project "an investment of optimism," and confidently predict large dividends.

Angeles theatre party. After witnessing the play ice cream and cake were enjoyed.

March 20, President Lillian Lasater was hostess at a birthday party honoring those members born in March. The honorees were Kattie Dillon, Lucretia Coates, Eleonor Johnson, Ellen Margaret Rogers and May Young. Greetings were sent those unable, because of illness, to attend—Adeline Pierce, Wanda Mace and Gussie Taber. Many were in attendance, including several eligibles. Bunco was the diversion of the evening.

A very successful affair, both socially and financially, was the cabaret dinner sponsored by the Parlor April 3. Small tables were arranged around the room, leaving the center clear for dancing. An orchestra furnished popular dance music during the dinner hour. Violet T. Henshilwood was chairman of the dansant, and Kattie Dillon had charge of the card playing which followed.

The thimble club of the Parlor had a sewing bee, with Lela Arborn as hostess, March 27. April 10 the club met at the home of Clara Fay and enjoyed games after the covered-dish noon-day luncheon.

May 1 will be history night at Long Beach, and two candidates will be initiated. Observance of Mother's Day is planned for May 6, with Kate McFadyen in charge; dinner will be served at noon. May 15th, the Parlor will sponsor a benefit public card party at its meeting-place, K. C. Hall, 339 Pacific avenue. A hope-chest will be awarded. All Natives and their friends are invited.

CALIFORNIA STATE MINING BUREAU'S FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY.
Fifty years ago, April 16, 1880, the California State Mining Bureau, with headquarters in San Francisco, was created by act of the Legislature. In 1927 it was officially designated "Division of Mines and Mining" in the State Government, and in 1929 was made the "Division of Mines" of the State Department of Natural Resources.

The following have served as State Mineralogist: Henry G. Hanks, 1880-1886; Wm. Ireland, 1886-1893; J. J. Crawford, 1893-1897; A. S. Cooper, 1897-1901; Lewis E. Auhury, 1901-1911; Wm. H. Storms, December 1911, February 1913; Fletcher Hamilton, 1913-1923; Lloyd L. Root, February 1923, July 1928; the incumbent, Walter W. Bradley, since August 1, 1928.

Besides the main headquarters with offices in the Ferry Building, San Francisco, including library, laboratory and mineral exhibits, district mining engineers are stationed at Sacramento, Los Angeles and Redding. At the present time, the State Division of Mines has under way a new and comprehensive geological survey of California, one feature of which will be the preparation of a new geologic map of the entire state.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

KEEPING UP WITH THE MODE IN fabric is as important as knowing what is happening to the silhouette. The newest prints are beautiful, and very colorful. Chiffons take first place in the formal mode, and printed crepe-de-chine and flat crepe are the favorites for street and general wear. The printed chiffons for afternoon are either sleeveless, or have sleeves which terminate just above the elbow and are finished with fluffy, flaring effects.

Long sleeves have many new style features, and there is a feeling of soft femininity in the additional matching capes that may be removed at will, thus making the costume an ensemble with a variety of uses. The printed crepe-de-chines and flat crepes are charming in jacket suits, as well as separate frocks.

Shantungs, in both light and heavy weaves, are used for sports. Many of these weaves are printed, and are to be found in all the season's pastel shades. There are some bordered materials, also. The border is used for trimming, rather than cut in one with the garment. All fabrics are soft and pliable and drape gracefully.

The slender effect must exist, even if more fabric is needed, and the waistline is placed at a higher point, to be in vogue not only for evenings, but also for sports.

Dusty pink, baby blue, soft yellow and other pastels are not only found in plain shades, but as the motif color on printed chiffons, georgettes, voiles and flat crepes. The sheer cottons are beautifully styled and embroidered. Batistes have returned to fashion, not only for lingerie effects, but for collars, cuffs and vests.

Laces, too, are very smart. Allover in design, many have matching flounces, which add much to the gown. Lace is a satisfactory medium for the go-away gown that must be packed, as it arrives at the end of the journey without wrinkles and ready for the first night function.

Cottons are shown in weaves and designs for every occasion. Organdy and printed cotton nets are daintily flowered, and are worn over white slips, which are made very long. Printed zephyrs, batistes, dimities and percales are designed for street wear. Printed pique is combined with plain colors.

Some of the rougher, heavier linens are used for coats, and the handkerchief linen is employed in frocks. Voiles are also used for the hot-weather frock.

For children, there are cottons for every occasion, with tiny floral designs that amuse. Smocking, hand embroidery, bias binding and other sewing helps are used.

Younger girls will find many trifles that make great smartness. A checked gingham handkerchief and bag match. Polkadots have returned, and appear in bertha collars.

Summer shoes, handkerchiefs and hats for the young girl are stitched in silk, in tones to match, or in contrast with the frock.

Bakou is the novelty straw, and the summer weaves appear in charming new shapes. Brims are in again, or taking to new lines that widen at the sides.

It's smart to be pretty this summer, and it's very easy, for the new frocks are among the most flattering. We have tiny puffed sleeves, high waistlines, and long, graceful skirts. The latter, of course, appear in frocks for late afternoon and informal evening. At night, they may touch the insteps.

Actually, the sum and substance of this factor of length is, that the style of the dress meet the demand of the individual figure wearing it. One thing is certain, however, we are not going to see any more knees showing below skirts, not even when women are sitting, thank goodness!

Cottons are climbing to new social successes this year, and summer will find them playing an important role. The tripe of cottons is steadily increasing, and the newest member to join the ranks is cotton crepe, which is in the sheer qualities, comparable to georgette.

Organdy is used for the picturesque frock. Solid colors are enjoying success, and while pastels are favored, white promises to be preferred. Eyelet embroidered hatiste is seen in the formal picture.

One of the interesting tendencies for summer is found in the growing favor shown for self-colored embroidery.

Both lace and chiffon frocks frequently have an accompanying holero, and there are many capelets, attached or separate. Capelet sleeves are another important item. The graduated polkadot is one of the newest ideas for street wear.

Stockings are gossamer affairs, in mesh lace and cohweh designs, and come in colors that include the new pastels, grays and sun-tans.

Slippers for afternoon are designed with slender heels and open shanks. Fabric working is characteristic, with colors interwoven to repeat the color motif of the costume.

A most stunning pair of white linen shoes have bright green embroidered vamps and plain green leather heels. Spike heels, ankle straps and buckles are good.

The Six-Button Length In a Mousquetaire

Is the popular glove for right now. Shown in light-weight capeskin, these gloves are washable and may be had in the new shades that so delightfully complement Spring apparel.

A green and rose print georgette frock has a green hat to match. One may match up any color combination wanted, for it is a glorious season. Jewelry is picturesque in the new design. Black onyx is combined with crystal and jade pearls that are powder pink, aquamarine blue and maize yellow. The newest chokers are longer than those of last year, varying from sixteen to eighteen inches.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS ASKED TO HELP IN "BUYING" STUDY.
 The modern housewife must choose what she needs for her home from hundreds of different retail articles. Her mother and grandmother found only a limited number of kinds and qualities of articles offered for sale, and because they made many things themselves at home they knew quality. The homemaker of today has little to guide her in respect to quality and is greatly in need of authoritative buying information.

The Federal Agricultural Department's bureau of home economics and the American Home Economics Association have been interested in the possibility that specifications might be provided on the most commonly used household articles offered for sale. One necessary step in drawing up such specifications, or statements of facts concerning quality and performance, is to learn what information the homemaker lacks; what facts she wants, especially in the case of larger purchases.

Discussions of points connected with the purchase of food, clothing, textiles and equipment, by women's organizations, would help in the formulation of specifications in several ways. First, as each topic comes up every homemaker can list the commodities under that head which could be purchased more satisfactorily if they were labeled with quality or performance information. This will help indicate what articles should receive attention. Then each woman can give in detail the particular facts she wants to know about each article on her list.

One woman wants to know how to choose a blanket. Is all-wool better than part-wool? How should table linen be judged? What is meant by weighted silk and how can one tell it? How does it wear? There are dozens of other commodities on which questions immediately suggest themselves. Careful consideration of a few articles will be more helpful than casual attention to a larger field.

The Bureau of Home Economics and the American Home Economics Association will welcome lists of commodities suggested by women's organizations, along with a statement of the points needed on each as an aid in buying. Forms for recording this information will be supplied on request to Washington headquarters of either of these organizations.

A series of definite programs for women's organizations on the subject of consumer purchasing has been outlined by the Bureau of Home Economics. It also may be obtained by writing to the bureau in Washington, D. C.

Pioneer Guests—Directors of the 1930 California State Fair, to be held at Sacramento City during September, are endeavoring to locate all persons who were residents of the state during 1849 and 1850. Those found will be invited to be honor-guests at the exposition September 7, which has been designated Pioneers' Day.

School Bonds—Santa Ana, Orange County, has voted $494,000 bonds for a new junior high-school building.

A BIT O' FARMING

PREPARED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY M. H. ELLIS

WITH THE REPORT OF PROF. B. H. Crocheron of the University of California on the possibilities of markets in the Orient for California fruit, the growers are given information possessed by packers and shippers for many years. There is, and likely will be for some time, plenty of fruit in Far Eastern countries to meet all the needs of the peoples. Some of the fruit may not be equal to that of California in quality, but it meets real needs, and it is far cheaper than fruit shipped from this state possibly can be. Only through a consistent campaign can a demand be built up that will have any effect on the surplus problem here. South America, according to reports brought back by trade scouts of the Sacramento Region Citizens Council, offers more encouragement, but here again fruit is being produced and the buying power is limited. An investigation of conditions in Europe might well be made; indeed, it already is planned by the Giannini Foundation of the University.

But from all indications, most of the countries meet their own needs pretty well, and most of them have native fruit at prices which will make it hard for California to compete. The remedy appears to be development of domestic markets and such foreign markets as offer real promise; a curtailment of production, or at least a limit on expansion; and an intensive campaign to produce quality that will create a larger demand.

THINNING OLIVES FOR SIZE.

The olive industry, started originally on an oil basis, has developed almost entirely into the production of fruit for pickling. Olives that are large enough always are sold for pickling; only the small fruit is used for oil. The difference in profits is large. The larger the olive, the greater the price it commands. Indeed, a sixteenth of an inch in the diameter of the fruit often means an increase of from $50 to $75 a ton.

As most of the older orchards were planted with the oil market in mind, the varieties are small. To increase them has been a problem, one that now appears to have been solved. Hand thinning, while the seeds are still unhardened, has given good results. Moreover, it takes the excess load from the tree and, instead of getting one big crop of small olives every two years, by hand thinning the producer gets a smaller but more profitable crop of larger sizes every year. In thinning, two or three olives should be left to the foot of twig. Increased price considered, the cost of thinning is small.

BIRDS AND FRUIT BUDS.

Growers frequently find they have lost a really considerable amount of fruit through birds during the dormant period. The birds, unable to find other food, eat the buds and at times the loss is very severe. Many orchardists have tried various means of combatting the birds. Poisoning and shooting are unsatisfactory, and kill birds that otherwise are beneficial. A repellent spray has also been tried, and gives promise of solving the difficulty. A spray composed of 90 pounds of lime, 25 pounds of dry lime-sulphur, 10 pounds of salt and two pounds of dried milk, to which water is added to make 100 gallons, has been found quite effective. It does no damage to the buds, but it makes them distasteful to the birds.

BUDDING CITRUS TREES.

Citrus trees, while they may be budded at any time, are best worked upon while the bark will slip. In the dormant season the bark is tight and not so easily handled. Budding tape is much to be preferred to string or raffia in tying the buds; the percentage of failures will be much smaller. Be careful in the selection of budding wood. Just now, of course, the buds have started and the selection of proper material is difficult, though not at all impossible. It is better, of course, to cut budding material during the winter and store it for use, but if this has not been done, last year's wood, well rounded and mature, can be found.

GETTING A TOMATO CROP.

Every year there come inquiries as to why the first blossoms fall from tomato plants. There are many reasons, but the one most common is excessive irrigation in forcing growth. When the buds begin to break, slack up on the water until the fruit has begun to set. After that the water may be applied again. Heavy fertilization, particularly with materials high in nitrogen content, often have the same effect. Heavy growth and fruiting are not usually compatible in tomato growing; it is best to slack away during the setting period, then when the fruits are well started irrigate again to maintain the vigor of the plants and to mature the crop.

ALFALFA AND RED SPIDER.

In several parts of the state it has been found that alfalfa planted in the orchard has quite effectually stopped the red spider. Of course, it will require more water for irrigation, for there is an added crop to support. So the plan does not work where water is scarce; where it is abundant, it is well worth the trial. The crop can be cut for hay, or better yet can be pastured off. Sheep will work well in the orchard on alfalfa, and they leave a not inconsiderable amount of fertilizer. The profit thus comes in several ways: the control of red spider, the profit on the sheep, the added fertility for the soil. If water is available, the practice should add to the farmer's balance at the end of the year.

CUTWORMS IN TREES.

This year there has appeared in some sections noticeable damage to fruit trees from cutworms. These worms stay in the soil during the day, emerging to do their damage at night. On trees, tanglefoot fly paper bands will stop them quickly. Of course, poison mash may be used, as in gardens, but the sticky bands are more quickly effective. The mash is made by dry-mixing a pound of bran and an ounce of calcium arsenate, adding a cupful of molasses and enough water to make the mixture crumbly. This should be broadcast in the late afternoon to get the best results. In gardens, it is a good plan to use the poison mash before planting.

PRUNING YOUNG ORANGES.

Don't prune back the young orange tree, for the non-hearing plant needs its limbs and roots for rapid development. As the growth below and above ground is interdependent, merely cutting back the limbs in an attempt to shape the tree or to stimulate growth is a real mistake. Some branches that will never be of use may be removed, of course, but it is well to recognize that pruning weakens the tree and retards development. Shape in an orange tree is not essential; pruning, generally speaking, is not desirable except where an unruly tendency develops. Be sure the tree has plenty of food in the soil and that there is available moisture, and there will be little need for pruning, at least before the crops begin to appear.

SULPHURING FOR MILDEW.

In most parts of the state the first sulphuring for mildew should have been completed before this time. When the shoots are eight to six inches long, dusting with finely ground sulphur should start. But the one application will do little good unless it is followed up. When the shoots are from 16 to 20 inches in length, the second dusting should be given, and again when the growth is about 3 feet in length. The sulphur will not damage blossoms, so no care need be exercised in this regard. If the season is unusually humid, dusting may be necessary again when the berries are the size of buckshot, and again when they are of good size. The dust should be applied with a good blower to get a cloud of fine particles over all the vines, so that the deposit is noticeable.

CULTIVATING CORN.

In cultivating corn be careful that the roots are not cut. Deep cultivation may easily do more harm than good. Cultivation should be directed only at killing weeds; beyond that it is a waste of time and money. The first cultivation is not likely to hurt the roots, for they will not have developed sufficiently. Successive cultivations, however, will find the roots more and more extensive and liable to injury from the blades of the cultivator. Cultivate at the shallowest possible depth that will get the weeds. A two-inch cultivation leaves 50 percent more feeding space for the roots than a four-inch cultivation, in soil that has been plowed to a depth of eight inches. The plants need all the substance they can get from the soil, and they can get it only through their roots.

WATERMELON WILT.

Many times watermelons, apparently doing well and giving every indication of a good yield, will suddenly wilt. There is nothing that can be done about it, as far as is known. Watermelon wilt is a soil-borne disease caused by the Fusarium fungus, and there is no spray or treatment to combat it. The fungus enters the root tissues and breaks down the sap tissues, causing the wilt. Resistant varieties eventually should get around the difficulty, but none has been developed as yet. When the wilt appears in the soil, change the crop; it will remain there for several seasons.

SUCKERING SAVES PRUNING.

When thinning peaches and apricots, it is well to thin out the mass of growth that develops on the inside of the tree. Not only will this practice let the sunlight in the middle of the tree, but it will save pruning costs next winter. Trees must have sunlight if they are to produce good crops of well-colored fruit and make proper growth. While thinning, merely jerk off the suckers which are evidently not going to be needed by the tree. A V-shaped hook can be used for reaching suckers high in the tree.

KEEP TURKEYS GROWING.

The season is all too short for the turkey grower. In order to get his birds ready for Thanksgiving market, he must keep them developing at the fastest possible rate. Now is the time to be concerned; next November, or even October, will be too late. Unless the turkeys are kept coming along, they will not grade number one, and if they do not they will bring lower prices.

PRUNING FLOWERING PEACHES.

Flowering peaches, like other peaches, bear blossoms on the new wood of the previous season's growth, hence pruning is necessary to keep the tree growing vigorously. Thin out as with fruiting varieties, but do not cut back much. The pruning may be delayed until after the blossoming is completed, and the mass of bloom need not be disturbed. When the blossoms drop, and before the leaves come along, use the shears to shape the tree and to maintain its vigor of growth for the next year. If pruned in the winter, the tree will produce less blossom, naturally.

PIONEER LIVERMOREAN ESTABLISHED ALAMEDA COUNTY HOME IN 1835.

Robert Livermore, original settler of the valley in Alameda County which now bears his name, established his home on a ranch there ninety-five years ago. This interesting fact was revealed, said the "Livermore Herald," by Councilman William Sees in a talk before the social problem class of the Livermore high school April 9. The Pioneer, he declared, completed erection of his home April 10, 1835.

The history of Livermore from that time until the town's incorporation was commented on, particular attention being given to the history of the schools, the first of which was built in 1866.

Transformation of the site of Livermore from open cattle country to a bustling community was described. William Mendenhall, said the speaker, desirous of huddling a city on his land, donated property to C. J. Stevens for a flour mill, to the Central Pacific Railroad for a railway depot, and for schools and churches, finally attracting residents and forming the Town of Livermore.

Solano Exposition—The Bells of Solano County Exposition, to be held May 24 to June 1 at Fairfield, will feature an elaborate pageant.

FOR SAFETY'S SAKE, LOOK

WELL TO EQUIPMENT LOAD.

With the advent of California's annual camping season, the State Division of Motor Vehicles calls attention to the provisions of the law governing the loading of camping equipment aboard autos.

The law requires that no trunk, carrier or other luggage extend beyond the line of the hub caps on the left side of the car, nor more than six inches beyond the hub-cap line on the right side of the car. A new section prohibits the carrying of spare tires in front of the radiator.

Luggage or camp equipment must not be so loaded as to cover either the front or the rear plates. No load may be carried exceeding a height of 13½ feet above the surface of the road.

Campers contemplating the addition of trailer or semi-trailer are urged to remember that the law prohibits the operation of a trailer that whips or swerves from side to side in a dangerous manner and fails to "follow substantially in the path of the towing vehicle." License plates are required for all trailers.

Those who go to the mountains are advised to remember that audible warning with the horn must be given when approaching curves where the view is obstructed for 200 feet, and that coasting is illegal. All persons contemplating long motor trips should have lights and brakes adjusted.

RECORD BREAKING APPROPRIATION BY CONGRESS FOR ROAD BUILDING.

President Herbert Hoover signed April 4 a bill (H.R. 5616), passed by the Federal Congress, authorizing the expenditure of $300,000,000 for road construction, under the federal-aid plan, throughout the United States. The appropriation is the largest ever passed by Congress for road building, exceeding all previous amounts for such purposes by $50,000,000 per annum.

Of the total, $125,000,000 is authorized to be expended as the Federal Government's contribution to road construction during the fiscal years 1932 and 1933, and $50,000,000 is added to the $75,000,000 already authorized for 1931. California will receive $1,667,447 of the additional $50,000,000 authorized for 1931.

MAKING HIGHWAYS SAFER BY ELIMINATING DANGEROUS CROSSINGS.

California, through its Public Works Department, has initiated an aggressive program for the separation of hazardous grade crossings of railroads and highways. During the biennium July 1, 1929, to June 30, 1931, there will have been constructed twenty-four overhead or sub-way structures at the most dangerous railroad crossings on the more important highways.

In addition, plans are being completed to eliminate at least ten dangerous grade crossings by changing the routing and alignment of highways. This work will bring a net result of thirty-four grade crossing eliminations on state roads in 1931, and will require an expenditure of more than $3,000,000.

Going Forward—The Federal Public Roads Bureau predicts highway building and maintenance will go forward at a faster rate this year than ever before. The Pacific Coast states will, it is estimated, spend $121,950,000.

Autos Predominate—One auto was manufactured and made ready for service every six seconds of 1929. The total was five times greater than the country's new arrivals in the form of babies.

CAREFUL INSPECTION WILL

AID IN DRIVING SAFELY.

A mechanically perfect car does not insure safety upon street or highway, but it goes a long way toward safety in traffic. As far as mechanical equipment is concerned, the most common causes of accidents are defective brakes, defective steering mechanism and improper lights, according to the public safety department of the California State Automobile Association, which suggests a few points to remember in keeping a car fit:

Adopt a regular program of brake inspection; the loss of a cotter pin may lead to a serious accident.

Brake care should include the removal of oil and grease from linings; oil and grease take the "bite" out of brakes.

If brakes squeak, they are not properly adjusted.

Never lock the wheels when applying brakes; by so doing you lay yourself open to a skid which may prove disastrous, and it doesn't help your tire bill one bit.

Inspect steering mechanism regularly; make certain that the steering column is solidly anchored, and do not permit the parts to wear excessively.

As a steering precaution, watch the tires; a blowout is always dangerous.

To drive with improperly adjusted headlights is not playing fair with the drivers whom you approach.

BRAKE CERTIFICATE NOT REQUIRED TO OPERATE AUTO.

It is not necessary to have a brake certificate to operate a motor vehicle in California, according to an announcement sent out by the State Division of Motor Vehicles in answer to numerous inquiries concerning the brake testing requirements set forth in the state law.

A brake certificate is necessary only, it is explained, when an auto has been tested and its brakes found deficient. After a motorist has been officially warned that the brakes do not conform to the standards of the law, satisfactory evidence must thereafter be produced that the brakes have been properly adjusted.

LEAVE CARD AND NOTIFY POLICE.

Don't leave a gash in the fender of a fellow motorist's parked vehicle unless you also leave your card as well, telling him how it happened and where to find you.

That is the gist of a warning issued by the State Division of Motor Vehicles, calling attention to section 141 1/2 of the motor-vehicle act aimed at the particular species of "hit and run" driver who smashes fenders, running boards and bumpers of unattended vehicles and sneaks away in the hope no one has seen him do it. The same section requires that the police also be notified of the accident within twenty-four hours.

COMING, IN INCREASING NUMBERS.

During the first two months of 1930, 16,671 tourists' autos came into scenic California South, according to the State Department of Agriculture. The number represents an increase of 3,562 autos, compared with the arrivals the first two months of 1929.

A Driving Sin—"Cutting In Is a Driving Sin." was the April slogan of the California Public Safety Committee's campaign against dangerous driving practices.

Crossing Accidents—There were 2,864 grade-crossing accidents in California last year, 30 percent more than in 1928.

Used Car Deals—Used cars are traded in on approximately 50 percent of the new cars sold.

COMMUNITIES SHOULD "DOLL UP"

TO ATTRACT AUTO TOURISTS' DOLLARS.
 Why California South towns should "doll up" to attract motor tourists is told convincingly, from a business standpoint, in figures reaching the Automobile Club of Southern California. It is estimated that about 4 1/2 percent of the total national income is spent by tourists, vacationists, campers, etc. This amounts to about $4,000,000,000, and but 21 percent of it goes to foreign countries.

Entire living expenses of tourists are distributed among the local businessmen of towns and resorts visited. But 25 percent of tourist money goes to hotels and the hotel in turn spends 71 percent of its share locally for supplies, taxes, wages, etc. At least 93 cents of every dollar of tourist money stays in the locality where the tourist leaves it.

"While Southern California is not dependent upon tourist trade," says the motoring organization, "tourists are out to enjoy themselves, and will follow the best roads and the most attractive scenery, and will stop in the cleanest and the best appearing towns, especially where efforts are made to cater to the travelers and make them comfortable."

GOING CAMPING THIS SUMMER? GET THE NEW MAP-FOLDER.

Vacationists looking forward to a camping trip this summer in the mountains of California will find much of interest in the new map-folder entitled "National Forests of California," according to United States Forest Service officials. It shows all the main roads and highways of the state, lists improved free camp grounds, scenic and recreation areas, and sets forth rules which must be observed by national forest visitors. It also describes the different forest regions of the state, and the commercial resources of the national forests.

Copies of the "National Forests of California" map-folder may be secured on request from forest supervisors located in Yreka, Mount Shasta, Bishop, Weaverville, Willows, Alturas, Susanville, Quincy, Nevada City, Placerville, Sonora, North Fork, Porterville, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, San Bernardino and San Diego, and from the United States Forest Service, San Francisco.

MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATIONS AND FEES IN BIG INCREASE.

Motor vehicle registrations in the United States last year totaled 26,501,443 and gained 8 percent over the preceding year, according to information collected by the Federal Agricultural Department bureau of public roads. Fees for registration and other purposes totaled $347,843,543, an increase of more than $25,000,000 over such receipts in 1928; 93 percent of that total was used for highway purposes.

New York, with 2,263,259, led in registrations, and also in fees, $38,293,313. California, with 1,974,341, was second in registrations, and tenth in fees, $10,489,068. In addition to the fees, however, Californians paid over $30,000,000 in gas taxes in this state.

REDWOOD HIGHWAY OPEN.

While considerable construction work is under way at several places along the Redwood highway, to meet the needs of summer travel, the activities in no way interfere with travel over that scenic route. Motorists are subject to short delays, but there is no difficulty in getting through.

SIGNAL CORRECTLY.

Correct signaling on the part of drivers of autos is one of the fundamentals of traffic safety. Incorrect signals, or no signals at all, are responsible for many crashes along the highways.

HAS SLAVERY BEEN ABOLISHED?

Mr. Crowther, a dry witness, says prohibition has cut down employees' expenditures for liquor. Has the employee become a slave who has no personal rights which the employer and Congress are bound to respect?—Advertisement.

OLD DOCUMENT REVEALS LOW WAGES PAID CHINKS IN CALIFORNIA.
 Leo Lobner of Sacramento, a Colfax, Placer county, born and raised boy, has an old document that is a curiosity, said "The Placer Herald" of Auburn, April 12. It is in the form of a contract or agreement, between the Lake Tahoe and San Francisco Water Works and Long Lee & Co. of San Francisco and John Woodland of Hotelling. Hotelling was between Auburn and Colfax. The document is dated September 1, 1871, and is beautifully written. "The Lake Tahoe and San Francisco Water Works is to drive a tunnel through the Sierra Nevada Mountains, from the Valley of Coldstream Creek to Soda Springs on the North Fork of the American River. The contract calls for all the Chinese laborers that are necessary to complete the job. Their wages are to be 90 cents a day, seven days a week, night and day shifts. Day shifts 10 hours; night shifts 8 hours. The Water Company is to furnish cabins and transportation; the laborers are to board themselves." A. W. Von Schmidt was the president of the water company.

Native Sons of the Golden West

Permission was granted Keystone No. 173 (Amador City) to consolidate with Amador No. 17 (Sutter Creek), and Fortuna No. 218 to consolidate with Humboldt No. 14 (Eureka).

Invitations were accepted: From Las Positas No. 96 to dedicate the Livermore union high school May 4, and from Placerville No. 9 to dedicate the El Dorado County high school May 11.

A request for information concerning the Mulanphy Trust Fund, a relief fund for the forty-niners during the gold-rush period, was referred to Grand Secretary Regan to procure information and forward to the inquirer.

In approval of the code on the use of the flag adopted at a conference of patriotic organizations—"Do not place any object or emblem of any kind on or above the Flag of the United States of America"—the Grand Secretary was directed to communicate with the Subordinate Parlors and request their compliance with the regulation.

Bakersfield No. 42 having been instituted with fifty members, was voted a credit of $150 for supplies.

Grand Trustee Lane presented a petition for a parlor in Manteca, San Joaquin County, signed by thirty-one residents of the town. A motion prevailed that a charter be granted when and if the names of fifty eligibles, who are ready to join the Order, are attached to the petition.

Following the transaction of much routine business the Board adjourned to the call of Grand President Dodge.

Valleyites Trek to Gold Diggings.

Stockton—A large delegation of Stockton No. 7 members went to Murphys, Calaveras County, April 12, to witness the initiation of a class of candidates into Chispa No. 139, the sole survivor of the four Parlors—Prince of Altaville, Calaveras of San Andreas, Angeles of Angels Camp and Chispa of Murphys—that once flourished in the county. The caravan was headed by Past Grand President Hubert R. McNoble, a native of old Calaveras.

The ritual was exemplified by past presidents of Stockton Parlor, including, in addition to Past Grand McNoble, the following:

W. I. Neeley, Ralph Mitscher, W. A. Strong, C. W. Walsh, John W. Kerrick, John A. Fisher Jr., Walter P. Rothenbush, Joel V. Beck Jr., Harry H. Herrmann and William P. Wolleson. This is the first time, it is said, that a team made up exclusively of past presidents has gone from the San Joaquin Valley back into the gold counties to exemplify the ritual.

Dr. George F. Pache, president of Chispa, has a unique membership record in the Order. He originally joined Stockton forty years ago, later became a member of Prince, thereafter of Angeles, and now is affiliated with Chispa. At various times he has been president of all four Parlors.

An old-fashioned chicken supper was served at the conclusion of the ceremonies, and a real old California visit was enjoyed by the many members of the Order present—from Amador, Calaveras, Tuolumne, San Francisco and San Joaquin Counties.

Another object of the visit to Murphys was to create interest in the dedication, set for June 8, of the site of the first Calaveras County Court House, at Double Springs, thirty-one miles northeast of Stockton. The grand officers will be in charge.

Humboldters Open Season.

Eureka—Managers of the baseball teams of the 1930 Humboldt County Native Sons League met April 8 and adopted a schedule. The season opened April 20 and will run to June 15, with teams of Humboldt No. 14 (Enreka), Arcata No. 20 and Ferndale No. 93 participating.

Present at the conference were George Becker and Reese Cruickshanks of Ferndale, George Hale and Jack Hamilton of Arcata, Arthur Anderson and L. M. Nelson of Humboldt.

Moving Up.

San Bernardino—Arrowhead No. 110 is moving right along toward a top place in the membership of the Order, now having 560 nam upon its roster, and applications being received every meeting. Plans are under way to have monster initiation at its clubhouse at Crestlin in the San Bernardino Mountains, early in September.

The Parlor adopted a resolution protesting against changing street names with historic backgrounds, and appointed John Andreson J. Harry G. Lord and Jerome B. Kavanaugh a committee to confer with the City Planning Commission. Harry G. Lord has been elected a member of the San Bernardino City Council.

The meeting of April 16 was one of the best of the year, as it was past presidents night. Twenty-one of them were in attendance, guests of honor, and each gave a two-minute talk. A supper preceded the meeting.

Joseph E. Rich, president of Arrowhead 1889, presided at the Parlor session. In addition to him, the following past presidents, order of seniority, were in attendance: Eme B. Tyler, Albert A. Burcham, William E. Ke John Andreson Jr., M. Guy Hale, R. W. Brazton, T. J. McFarlane, R. E. Burcham, Charles Frost, Harry G. Lord, Jerome B. Kavanaugh, Charles E. McElvaine, J. W. Jasper, A. E. Hancock, Grand Trustee Ben Harrison, John J. Csd Tom E. Dexter, Jack A. Gregory, Joseph H. Hayden and Judge Donald E. VanLaven.

Pioneer Memorial.

Oroville—The building committee of Argons No. 8 and Gold of Ophir No. 190 N.D.G.W. has a proved plans for the first unit of a building occupy a site overlooking Feather River. It will be a memorial to the Pioneers and will house valuable collection of early-day relics.

The building will represent a California mine cabin and will be constructed of native rock. At one end will be a large fireplace. The entrance door will be of iron, and the windows will have steel sashes, as in the days of '49.

The building committee is composed of Florence Boyle (chairman), Cornelia Lott Sank, Irene Lund, William H. Hibbard, Frank Boyle and Cy Macdonald.

Membership Standing Largest Parlors.

San Francisco—Grand Secretary John T. Ferguson reports the standing of the Subordinate Parlors having a membership of over 400 January 1, 1930, as follows, together with their membership figures April 19, 1930:

Parlor	Jan. 1	Apr. 19	Gain

Hopes to Be Near Top.

Santa Rosa—The newly organized baseball team of Santa Rosa No. 28 played a practice game with the team of Mount Tamalpais No. 64, and the latter came out victorious, 6 to 5.

Under the management of Wesley Colgan, the Santa Rosa team has entered the Sonoma County Baseball League, made up of eight fast aggregations. League playing started April 20, and at the end of the series of twenty games the team of 28, made up entirely of members of the Order hopes to be near the top.

For the benefit of the team the baseball committee of the Parlor is giving a series of dances Guerneville Grove, on the Russian River. They are proving very successful, being largely attended and much enjoyed by members of all the Sonoma County Parlors.

Spring Dansant.

Berkeley—Berkeley No. 210 will feature spring dansant at the beautiful Twentieth Century Clubhouse the evening of Saturday, May 3. A committee under the leadership of Mrs. Case, assisted by Edward W. Lambert, Maur Kane, William Gohl, Oscar Lauren, Max Ran Harry Corbett and Con. F. Rowe has been visiting all the Native Son and Native Daughter Parlors of Alameda County to urge attendance at the event.

Invitation Accepted.

San Rafael—Mount Tamalpais No. 64 has accepted the invitation of Napa No. 62 to pay that Parlor a fraternal visit on "Charter Night." The drum and bugle corps of No. 64 will go along, and Mount Tamalpais' officers will initiate a class of candidates for No. 62.

Blue Rock Shoot.

Menlo Park—Menlo No. 185 had a blue rock shoot and barbecue on the Bear Gulch property, and everybody had a good time. Among the best shots were C. E. Mahoney, Ted Hoff, Foster Andrews and Lionel Nunn. George Murray was the chief cook. April 3, a delegation of members from Mountain View No. 215 visited the Parlor.

Flags Presented School.

Arcata—The Humboldt County Parlors presented a Flag of the United States of America and a California State (Bear) Flag to the South Fork union high school April 25.

Grand Trustee A. W. Garcelon made the presentation address, and David Wood, school board trustee, accepted the flags for the school. A musical program was given by the pupils, and the ceremonies concluded with a salute to the flag.

Entertains Visitors.

Ukiah—Ukiah No. 71 initiated two candidates April 18, and entertained the following visitors: W. W. Church of Humboldt No. 14 (Eureka), Ed Zimmerman and Frank Reynolds of Broderick No. 117 (Point Arena), Leonard Stone of Alder Glen No. 200 (Fort Bragg) and Harry W. Carr of Diamond No. 246 (Pittsburg).

Following the ceremonies refreshments were served, and Joe Figone, acting as toastmaster, called on the visitors, the initiates and others, all of whom responded.

To Dedicate School.

Placerville—The new El Dorado County high school will be formally dedicated May 11, under the auspices of Placerville No. 9. The dedicatory ceremonies will be conducted by the grand officers, with Grand President Charles L. Dodge presiding.

The dedication program, which will include the placing of a plaque, is being arrayed by a committee of the Parlor headed by T. F. Lewis. All neighboring Parlors, it is expected, will be largely represented.

Native Daughters of the Golden West

SUBORDINATE PARLORS OF THE ORDER of Native Daughters of the Golden West will, during May, select their delegates to the Forty-fourth Grand Parlor, which will be in session at Oakland, Alameda County, the week of June 16, with Grand President Esther R. Sullivan presiding.

While the Board of Grand Officers selected the meeting-place for this year's Grand Parlor, arrangements for the gathering will be perfected by a joint committee made up of representatives of all the Oakland Parlors.

A few additional candidates for Grand Parlor office were reported to The Grizzly Bear during April, but the line-up for the "big parade" is not anywhere near complete, and will not be until after the Parlors have selected their delegates. Several potential candidates have joined the watchful-waiting ranks, to see how they emerge from the delegate contests at home. "Old woman" rumor continues gossiping along and, if "she" be well informed, there will be plenty of office-seeking excitement at the Oakland Grand Parlor. In fact, there are whisperings that there will be more than one contestant for all the offices, excepting those of Grand President and Past Grand President, the latter of which is honorary.

The line-up to date, compiled from information received by The Grizzly Bear direct from the candidates or the Subordinate Parlors sponsoring their candidacies, includes:

For Grand Vice-president—Grand Marshal Evelyn I. Carlson (Dolores No. 169) of San Francisco.

For Grand Secretary—Sallie R. Thaler (Aloha No. 106) of Oakland, incumbent.

For Grand Marshal—Grand Trustee May F. Givens (Mariposa No. 63) of Cathay; Grand Trustee Anna Nixon Armstrong (Woodland No. 90) or Woodland; Grand Trustee Irma Laird (Alturas No. 159) of Alturas.

For Grand Organist—Lola Horgan (La Estrella No. 89) of San Francisco.

For Grand Trustee (seven to be elected)—Sadie Winn-Brainard (Califa No. 22) of Sacramento, incumbent; Pearl N. Reid (Santa Cruz No. 26) of Santa Cruz, incumbent; Gladys E. Noce (Amapola No. 80) of Sutter Creek, incumbent; Marvel Thomas (Los Angeles No. 124) of Los Angeles; Grand Inside Sentinel Millie Rock (Gabrielle No. 139) of San Francisco; Ethel Stuhr (Marinita No. 198) of San Rafael; Florence Dodson-Schoneman (Rudecinda No. 230) of San Pedro.

Provided all those communicated with furnish the desired information, The Grizzly Bear for June will contain a complete list of Grand Parlor office candidates. There are a great many people, however, who are apparently adverse to responding to anything—C.M.H.

County Gathering.

Daly City—The annual get-together meeting of the San Mateo County Parlors—Bonita No. 10, Redwood City; Vista del Mar No. 155, Halfmoon Bay; Ano Nuevo No. 180, Pescadero; El Carmelo No. 181, Daly City; Menlo No. 211, Menlo Park; San Bruno No. 246, San Bruno—was held here April 4 under the direction of Supervising Deputy Clara A. Gairaud. Among the many in attendance were representatives of several Parlors, twelve district deputies and the following grand officers: Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, Past Grand Presidents Dr. Louise C. Heilbron and Margaret Grote Hill, Grand Marshal Evelyn I. Carlson, Grand Trustees Eldora Freeman McCarty and Sadie Winn Brainard, Grand Inside Sentinel Millie Rock, Supervising Deputies Anna Thuesen, Ethel Stuhr and Clara Gairaud.

The county deputies—Hattie Kelly, Anna Collins, Grace Loverich, Marian Miramontes, Alice Mattei, Marguerite Kaufmann—assisted by the presidents, marshals and other officers of the county Parlors, exemplified the work in a most commendable manner. They were attired in pastel shaded evening gowns, with corsages of purple and gold.

Grand President Sullivan was presented with a gift of silver, and Supervising Deputy Gairaud was the recipient of a handbag. In appreciation for many honors and courtesies extended her, Mrs. Gairaud presented Miss Sullivan, Dr. Heilbron, Mrs. Susie Mattei and the six San Mateo County deputies gifts of hand-embroidered linen from her own needle. Congratulatory messages were received from all parts of the state, and the grand officers declared the gathering a great success.

Protest Heeded.

San Bernardino—Springtime brought renewed enthusiasm to Lugonia No. 241, and many events were planned for April and May. A scheme to change some of the street names in San Bernardino was proposed to the City Council and the Native Daughters requested it be tabled, in order that the historic significance of the names may be retained. The Council complied, and the members of the Parlor are hoping the scheme has been killed off for all time.

April 9 an Italian dinner netted No. 241 a tidy sum, which will be used to place a sundial in Pioneer Park in memory of the Pioneer Mothers. An event to raise funds to assist in restoring historic Mission Asistencia, near San Bernardino, was sponsored April 15. Indian students from the Sherman Institute were presented in a program. Among the visitors was District Deputy Florence Dodson-Schoneman. An informal card party was held April 23, and on the 30th the members of Lugonia joined those of Arrowhead

No. 110 N.S.G.W. at a dance and gala social function.

April 7 a caravan of autos conveyed members of both Parlors to the banks of Bear Creek near Poody, on the desert, where a delightful picnic was held. Each group provided its own basket lunch. A variety of games were introduced.

Small Parlor Generous.

Palo Alto—Palo Alto No. 229 sponsored a happy breakfast at the Native Daughter Home in San Francisco April 13. The dining-room was a bower of roses and sweet-scented orange blossoms. Past Grand President Dr. Mariana Bertola, chairman of the Grand Parlor Home Committee, was toastmistress and introduced as speaker Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Second Vice-president N.S.G.W., who responded for Senator James D. Phelan, unable because of illness to be in attendance.

A loyalty song written by Grand Trustee Eldora McCarty was sung by Palo Alto members, Emily Bidwell gave a solo, and Frances Commerford and Emily Bidwell favored with a duet. June Rayner and Mrs. McCarty were the accompanists. Officers and members of No. 229 were introduced; many remaining, among them Mrs. Amanda, the oldest, born in 1855.

Grand Trustee McCarty, on behalf of Palo Alto, presented a check for $66, making a total of $136 this small, but active, Parlor has contributed to the Home. It has also promised a screen for one of the immense fireplaces. The committee in charge for the occasion consisted of District Deputy Genevieve Commerford, Mary Neuman and Helena Hansen; Emily Bidwell, Frances Commerford and June Rayner assisted at the tables.

Grand officers in attendance were: Past Grand Presidents Dr. Mariaua Bertola, Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, Margaret Grote Hill, Bertha A. Briggs and Addie L. Mosher, Grand Marshal Evelyn I. Carlou, Grand Trustees Sadie Brainard and Eldora McCarty. Parlors represented, in addition to Palo Alto, included Alta, Minerva, Golden State, Twin Peaks, Dolores and Castro of San Francisco, Piedmont and Aloha of Oakland, Copa de Oro of Hollister.

Memory Garden.

Fullerton—Grace No. 242 is making plans for the planting of a "memory garden" in honor of the Pioneer Mothers of Orange County in the patio of San Juan Capistrano Mission. President Lucana McFadden has appointed the history and landmarks committee, of which Carrie Shepherd is chairman and Nellie M. Cline is a member, to direct this work. Santa Ana No. 235 will be asked to co-operate.

The Parlor is planning a public money-raising event for shortly after the first of May.

Broadcast Great Success.

San Jose—The program broadcast from KQW April 4 under the supervision of Mrs. Clara Gairaud of the Grand Parlor Publicity Committee was a great success. More of like nature will be heard, if time is again granted. Past Grand President Dr. Louise C. Heilbron spoke on "Loyalty Pledges," and John Burnett paid tribute to the California Pioneers.

A musical program of choruses, duets and solos was contributed by Palo Alto N.D. Glee Club, Ray Tinney, Emily Bidwell, Julia Domenici, Elva Christian, Hazel Haub, Madeline Chargin, Sara Curtioni, Lena Alameda, Hilda Campbell, Belle White, Anna Leu, Eugene Mancini and Clara Smith. The latter, a guest artist, gave a musical novelty recitation, "Hollywood," dedicated to Californiana No. 247 (Los Angeles). Grand Trustee Eldora McCarty, Teresa Forbes, Tillie Brohaska, Hazel Haub and Clara Gairaud were the accompanists. A social hour followed the program, the hostesses being Genevieve Commerford, Anna Leu and Mrs. Gairaud.

Large Assemblage.

San Rafael—Marinita No. 198 received an official visit from Grand President Esther R. Sullivan March 31. One hundred and eighty members of the Order were present to greet her, among the number being Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Marshal Evelyn I. Carlson, Grand Trustee Sadie Brainard, Past Grand Presidents Emma G. Foley, Margaret G. Hill, Mae Boldemann and Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, Supervising Deputies Ethel Stuhr and Anna Theusen.

The officers, gowned in white, exemplified the ritual in a very efficient and impressive manner. The hall was beautifully decorated in blue and gold, iris and poppies carrying out the color scheme. Ella Trumbly was chairman of the arrangements committee for the evening. April 5 the Parlor had a food sale, and the 8th, a card party.

Sons Entertain.

Saint Helena—La Junta No. 203 was delightfully entertained April 1 by Saint Helena No. 53 N.S.G.W. A fine program was presented under the direction of Thomas B. Street and Walter Metzner, the latter leading in the singing of many familiar songs that enthused the crowd. Mrs. Paul R. Alexander was the accompanist.

W. W. Lyman gave a reading, "The Congo," and an amusing skit, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," was presented by Street, Metzner, Oscar

AVAILABILITY!

More than a quarter of a century ago, Mr. A. M. Chaffey, now Chairman of the Board, California Bank, had a vision . . . foresaw not only a wide-spread and populous Los Angeles, City and County, but also the necessity of taking banking service to the people. Then it was that the branch office banking system originated in California.

Today, as a result of his foresight, California Bank, through the medium of fifty-seven offices, conveniently located in Los Angeles, City and County, brings to your door a complete financial service.

THE ALWAYS FAITHFUL FEW.
 The following lines, author unknown, came to the Grizzly Bear from Dan P. Taylor, one of the faithfuls of Santa Barbara No. 116. They speak the truth, that's certain:
 When the meeting's called to order
 And you look around the room,
 You're sure to see some faces
 That from out the shadows loom;
 They are always in the meeting
 And they stay until it's through—
 The ones that I would mention
 Are the Always Faithful Few.
 They fill the many offices
 And are always on the spot,
 No matter what the weather,
 Though it may be awful hot;
 It may be dark and rainy,
 But they are tried and true—
 The ones that you rely on
 Are the Always Faithful Few.
 There's lots of worthy members
 Who will come when in the mood,
 When everything's convenient
 They can do a little good;
 They're a factor in the meeting
 And are necessary, too,
 But the ones who never fall us
 Are the Always Faithful Few.
 If it were not for these faithful
 Whose shoulders at the wheel,
 Keep the institution moving
 Without a halt or reel,
 What would be the fate of meetings
 Where we claim so much to do?
 They surely would be failures—
 But for the Always Faithful Few.

EDWARD HENRY KRAUS.
 To the Officers and Members of Sacramento Parlor No. 3 N.S.G.W.: It has been the wish of an All-wise Providence to call from our ranks Brother Edward Henry Kraus to the Grand Parlor on High. Brother Kraus, the Parlor's Historian and also one of its Senior Past Presidents, was esteemed and beloved by each and every member of the Parlor. Brother Kraus was relieved of the trials and tribulations of this world on the third day of March, and while it is true that he had reached three-score-and-ten, he was a very valued and important member of this Parlor, and how we do miss his kindly word and easy-going disposition! If there was any one thing that Brother Kraus took an active interest in, it was true Native Sonism, and as a loyal member of Sacramento Parlor it would be difficult to find his equal.
 Brother Kraus was a lover of his Parlor, and in his passing both Sacramento Parlor and the Grand Parlor have lost one of their most faithful attendants. His many friends in and out of the Parlor keenly feel his demise, and his place in the ranks of the Parlor will be very difficult to fill. As President of the Hall Association, each and every one connected with the building will miss his easy-going ways and willingness to help out in whatever difficulty that might arise.
 Sacramento Parlor desires to convey to his sister, brother and many other relatives its sincerest sympathy and regret, realizing that they, too, have Cippa; violin solo, Stanley Noonan; piano solo, William Pisani; vocal solo, Stanley Noonan. The arrangements committee included Mms. Nellie Nordstrom (chairman), Estelle Buckley, Rose Close and Clara Lewis.

Every Past President a Worker.

Elk Grove—Without one single exception, every past president of Liberty No. 213 belongs to the past presidents club of that Parlor, attends almost every meeting and is an active worker for the Order. The club meets the first Wednesday of each month, with three hostesses.

Mms. G. R. Rhoades, C. C. Wackman and A. C. Grover were the April hostesses, and following luncheon at a local cafe bridge was enjoyed at the home of Mrs. Grover. The June gathering will be no-hostess day, and will be held in the hills near Fair Oaks, Sacramento County.

Two Contests.

Santa Ana—With captains and lieutenants chosen, Santa Ana No. 235 has under way two contests, for attendance at meetings and increase of membership. At the close of the term the winners will be feted by the losers.

Pageant of the Year.

San Jose—Vendome No. 100's great spring event, the $100 party, will be held May 21, and everybody is invited to attend. The affair will open with a card party at 8:30. Mrs. Clara Gairaud is the chairman. Two afternoon card parties, with Mms. Louise Lillick and Della Mae Sanderson as chairmen, were held during April. Miss Martha Waddington was hostess to the sewing club April 16. "A Pageant of the Year" was enacted by groups of members, depicting the months. Mrs. Lotta Koppel was chairman.

The Santa Clara County get-together, April 30, was largely attended. It opened with a dinner, during which there were addresses by various members and songs by the Parlors represented—San Jose No. 81, Vendome No. 100, El Monte No. 205 (Mountain View), Palo Alto No. 229. A program of stunts was presented later in the evening. Mrs. Kathryn Nelson was the general chairman.

Immense Crowd.

Callistoga—The entertainment sponsored by Callistoga No. 145 and Callistoga No. 86 N.S.G.W. was a huge success and attended by an immense crowd. The hall was prettily decorated, and not a single detail in the arrangements for the affair was overlooked.

Rev. T. J. McKeon, affiliated with No. 86, was the master of ceremonies, and the program consisted of several musical numbers and two one-act plays, "Do Your Worst" and "Easy Terms." The finale was the singing of "I Love You, California," by a big chorus. The successful and delightful evening concluded with dancing.

Valued Assistance.

Alturas—Members and guests of Alturas No. 159 enjoyed dutch whist April 3, after which delicious refreshments, suggestive of the Easter season, were served.

The Parlor is assisting the schools of Modoc County in curriculum building by placing at their disposal, through the county superintendent's office, all early Modoc history and pioneer biographies which No. 159 has assembled.

Flowers Beautify Old Home.

Oroville—Butte County Past Presidents Association No. 5 was delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Cornelia Sank, who had as co-hostesses Mms. Mary Woodall, Ruby Mekellos and Margaret Gilbert. Seasonal flowers beautified the lovely old home-place. Bridge followed the business session, during which one candidate was initiated.

Alta Hengy, Ruby Mekellos, Margaret Hudspeth and Ruth Brown were chosen delegates to the General Assembly meeting in San Francisco. The May meeting of the association will be at the home of Mrs. Harriet Eames, in Chico.

Gold Star Mother President.

Bieber—Mount Lassen No. 205 was entertained by Big Valley No. 211 N.S.G.W. at cards March 21. Awards were made to Beatrice Loomis, Angie Kenyon, Fred Bunselmier, Hazel Iverson and Ceryl Schott. The committee, A. W. McKenzie, Ceryl Schott and Fred Bunselmier, served appetizing refreshments and proved themselves splendid hosts. April 5, No. 205 returned the compliment and entertained No. 211. Awards went to Mary Marchino, H. C. Smith, Nettie McKenzie and Colburn Campbell. Delicious refreshments were served by the hospitality committee, Lettie Holl and Bertie Bunselmier.

Installation of the officers of Mount Lassen by District Deputy Lettie Holl was concluded in March, as during the winter months it was impossible for the officers-elect to attend. Hattie Cary, a gold star mother over 70 years of age, became president. March 26, a native son arrived at the home of George and Stella Tyler; the mother of George Frederick is a member of Mount Lassen. March 30, little Norman Ray arrived at the home of George and Grace Bunselmier; both parents are members of the local Parlors.

Successful Poppy Sale.

Bakersfield—District Deputy Minnie B. Heath visited El Tejon No. 239 April 4 and witnessed the initiation of three candidates; the work was splendidly exemplified. Tables for the banquet, which followed the initiation, were placed in the form of the letter "H" and were beautifully decorated with baskets of roses.

The Parlor has just completed a most successful sale of poppies for the benefit of the homeless children.

N.D.G.W. OFFICIAL DEATH LIST.

BENJAMIN FOXEN'S GREAT SERVICE TO UNITED STATES

SANTA BARBARA PARLOR NO. 116 N.S.G.W. has again come into the lime-light with a spirit of progressiveness, and April 19 placed a plaque on the building which now occupies the site where Lieutenant-Colonel John C. Fremont raised the Flag of the United States of America in Santa Barbara and declared the puehlo American territory. Later in the month he caused the surrender of the Mexican forces at Cahuenga, Los Angeles County, and secured Alta California, as this state was then known, for the United States of America, and three years and eight months later California was admitted into the Sisterhood of States.

The following report of the arrival of Lieutenant-Colonel John C. Fremont is authentic history prepared by Mrs. Walter D. Benefield of Eagle Rock, Los Angeles County, a granddaughter of Benjamin Foxen, who made it possible for Fremont to successfully conclude the mission he was detailed by United States naval officers to accomplish:

"I should like to take you back to the latter part of the Mexican era. From the early '40s, California was, officially and politically, in a state of seething unrest. There was much discontent with the Mexican government. The territory wanted its freedom. Alvarado and Castro led a party of rebels south to arouse the people and declare for freedom, but they were defeated by southern troops at Cahuenga Pass. Russia, England and France all coveted California. Russia wanted it as a base for its Alaskan development; British warships lay off the coast.

"Then came the war between the United States and Mexico. General Jose Maria Flores was in command at Los Angeles. Lieutenant-Colonel Gumesindo Flores, comandante at Santa Barbara, was in charge of all the region between San Buenaventura and San Luis Obispo. He had a sub-comandante by the name of Augustin Janssens. Janssens was justice of the peace at Santa Ynez and was made military comandante of that district, including Gaviota Pass on the coast. He was instructed by General Flores to have spies on the Monterey road to watch for Fremont, in command of the California Regiment. Fremont's force consisted of a few hundred Whites and Walla Walla Indians. He had some artillery, and the usual wagon train.

"The north by this time had been conquered and was in the hands of the Americans. Fremont planned to unite near Los Angeles with Stockton, who was marching north from San Diego. The journey was one of great hardship and privation.

"Some twelve miles from Santa Ynez Mission and about twenty miles southeast of the town of Santa Maria, lies Foxen Canyon, extending for three leagues and embracing about 9,000 acres. This tract of land was granted to Benjamin Foxen by the Mexican government in 1832.

"Benjamin Foxen first appeared on this coast in 1820, fifteen years before Richard Dana, who wrote 'Two Years Before the Mast.' He was born in Norwich, England, in 1796, and as a hoy sailed on merchant vessels, visited many ports of the world, and became, in time, the first officer of a trader. He came around the Horn on his westward voyage, and some time after became a partner of Captain Noriega at Santa Barbara, and entered the coastwise trade which plied between Yerbu Buena, now San Francisco, and Mazatlan, Sinaloa, Mexico.

"But California appealed to Foxen, particularly after casting eyes on a certain Spanish senorita of Santa Barbara, and he decided then and there to give up his sea-faring life and establish for himself a home. In the course of a few months he joined the Catholic church and married the lady of his dreams, Senorita Eduarda Osuna, a descendant of the counts of Osuna, nobles of Spain and founders of the town of Osuna, near the Alhambra. The church gave him the name of 'William Domingo,' but the natives, thinking that the name 'William' sounded like their name of 'Julian,' called him 'Don Julian,' by which title he was better known. He first established a mercantile business in Santa Barbara, living there for a few years, then removed his family to his Mexican grant, now known as Foxen Canyon. He built his home of adobe, midway of the canyon.

"Grizzly bears were so numerous in those days that Don Julian with his little family often repaired to the roof of the house in order to sleep while the bears prowled around below. Besides the general activities of a large stock rancho, Don Julian erected a grist mill, where he ground grain for the Missions Santa Ynez and La Purissima. He also supplied the neighboring ranchos. He also set up a large iron kettle, taller than himself, in which he made soap for the missions. Each year he went over the mountains to the Tulare country, where grew the 'natural,' the bush which he burned for lye for the soap.

"When the Mexican War broke out, Don Julian Foxen was in middle life. He was a man of standing and influence in the community. Mexican officials, in their journeying to and from Monterey, the capital of the territory, made it a point to spend the night at the rancho and consult Don Julian on affairs of state. They, like all the countryside, respected and admired him.

"You will remember that he was an Englishman by birth, and a Mexican by adoption. He owed the United States little. Prudence and common sense called to him insistently, either to remain neutral in the war, or else to favor the cause of Mexico. Prior to the arrival of Colonel Fremont, he hadn't been called to put himself on record.

"Fremont and his force, tattered and half-starved, entered the upper end of Foxen Canyon and proceeded to what has since been known as Fremont's camp. It is a beautiful spot about a mile below the Fred Wickenden ranch. Mrs. Ramona Wickenden was the daughter of Don Julian. Fremont stopped here for three weeks and rested his soldiers and horses and replenished his supplies from Don Julian's rancho. Many heads of cattle were killed and the meat jerked, and a great number of horses taken. Don Julian also furnished Fremont with flour and bran from his mill.

"The whole province was at this time in a state of tense excitement. War was on. Fremont rode up the Foxen hacienda and interviewed Don Julian. From the first meeting, the men liked each other. Each had the qualities of the Pioneer. Each sturdy, straightforward and self-reliant; men of action, who conquered circumstances and misfortune and bent them to their needs.

"The Californians who were in control of the Santa Ynez Valley, formed a plot to let Fremont's column march unmolested into Gaviota, the only pass at that time regarded as surmountable by wagons and artillery. The pass today is not as it was in those days, due to the fact that a great deal of blasting was done in forming the new highway. The pass originally was barely wide enough for a wagon to go through, with very high perpendicular walls on either side. The heart of the pass is where the bridge spans the small stream today. Fremont was to be permitted to reach this point, then great boulders were to be hurled by gunpowder from their base on the cliffs. These would not only crush men and horses beneath them, but would effectually block both ends of the pass, so that the few survivors could be picked off by rifle fire by the Californians above. So confident were the men encamped on the cliffs on either side of the pass, that the days and nights were given over to much feasting and singing, in anticipation of their triumph.

"Don Julian Foxen heard of the plot from his wife. She had gotten it from the servants of the household, who were in sympathy with the Mexican government and believed that she was. She did not approve of the slaughter, and told her husband so. Foxen's mind was instantly made up to warn Fremont, regardless of the fact that to keep quiet would earn reward and approval from Mexico. He did not hesitate, although he must have known that nearly all his friends and associates would turn against him.

"When Fremont was told of the ambush, he declared that he must go through Gaviota Pass. Whereupon Foxen told him that he knew of another way, just a narrow horse trail over the San Marcos, a pass in the San Rafael Mountains. It was then that Fremont commanded Foxen to lead the way.

"On the day before Christmas 1846, Fremont's column broke camp and began plodding through a drenching rain, toward the lower end of the canyon. The sentinels on the nearby hills left their posts and galloped to Gaviota to give the word. Those in ambush made ready. But Fremont did not appear. Guided by Don Julian and his eldest son, William, the Patbänder swung abruptly to the left, passed over the site of the present town of Los Olivos, and marched up the Santa Ynez River toward the towering wall of the San Rafael Mountains in the east. They began the ascent of the wild and perilous San Marcos Pass, until that time regarded insurmountable by vehicles. All day the cold rain poured down while men smashed and rolled boulders, cut trees and chiseled the rocks to make steps for the mules' feet. They swung their cannons by block and tackle across thousand-foot chasms. Don Julian and his son worked shoulder to shoulder with Fremont and his men. The toll was heartbreaking. That night Fremont camped in the sodden wilderness on the summit.

"One of the soldiers received a fall and sustained a broken leg. This, Don Julian set. As a sea captain, he had a fair knowledge of medicine and surgery, gained by caring for his men out on the deep. Early the next morning, after explaining to Fremont that his son William could guide him into Santa Barbara, he started on his homeward way, taking with him the soldier with the broken leg, to be cared for at the ranch. Dona Eduarda cared for this man for over six weeks, when he was again able to join his force.

"Fremont descended the mountain safely and reached Santa Barbara on Christmas Day. When the women and children and old men—the young men being at Gaviota—came out of church, they found the American Flag floating in the town plaza. History tells of Fremont's success in completing the conquest of California.

"But Don Julian did not fare so well. For him, his unselfish aid to Fremont resulted in calamity. Back on the rancho with Fremont's disabled soldier, he found himself surrounded by an atmosphere of hatred and distrust. The Californians knew they had been tricked, and they planned revenge. Many a night Don Julian and his sons and a few faithful servants sat on guard at the rancho, their rifles across their knees. There was raid upon raid, until there was practically nothing left of his great flocks and herds. His home was burned to the ground three times. In fact, it became so unsafe for his family to live there that he abandoned the rancho for a period of seven years. In his 'History of Santa Barbara County, recently published, Michael J. Phillips says:

"It is a curious fact that Foxen is generally ignored by historians—even by Fremont himself. Fremont dismisses the entire journey from San Luis Obispo on, with a few lines. And yet, in after years, when a daughter of Foxen called on him in Los Angeles, he said: 'I owe everything to your father; without him, I would not be here today!'"

Santa Barbara Parlor will give a barbecue at the historic Olivos Rancho some time in June. Native Sons and Native Daughters in adjoining counties will be invited to the festivities. The Parlor is now meeting every Wednesday night.

welcome visitors and bid them join in the festivities—just as they did in the old days.

The fiesta, so eloquently portraying the romantic days of old Santa Barbara, its struggles, its triumphs, its sadness and its gayeties, is free from any thought of commercialism. It is a celebration conceived by altruistic citizens who have a true reverence for the history of early California.

It is marvelous to note how citizens and visitors alike enter into the merry mood of the fiesta and respond to its romantic appeal. Everyone dons Spanish costume and participates in the songs, dances and pageants, or in some way becomes a part of the brilliant picture.

Every hour of the three days has its own special program. The parade on the first day, which, incidentally, is growing larger each year, shows episodes in Santa Barbara's history from the time the Chumash Indians lived in this part of the country to the present day. Floats and marchers will depict Indian scenes, and the landing of Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, the discoverer of Alta California, who entered Santa Barbara Harbor October 14, 1542.

There will be portrayed such highlights in Santa Barbara's history as the coming of the English navigator, Francis Drake; the arrival of Governor Gaspar de Portola who, with his famous aides and soldiers, camped near the site of the present court house; the founding of the Presidio, April 12, 1782, by Father Junipero Serra; the founding of Santa Barbara Mission, December 4, 1786.

Episodes will show the gay social life at the old De la Guerra house and the coming of Colonel John C. Fremont and his soldiers, in 1846. All these, and many more. The tableaux and episodes describing the pioneer days, with their miners, cowboys, trappers, old stage coaches and emigrant wagons, will be vivid reminders of the old days.

All day strolling musicians, strumming their beribboned guitars, weave in and out of the throngs. At night the gayly-decorated streets and plaza are transformed into dancing scenes. Skilled tangoists catch the attention of the on-lookers, but the usually serious-minded resident, in fiesta costume, enters into the spirit of the hour and dances to the dreamy Spanish music with noticeable pleasure, if not always with professional skill.

Not only is the Old Spanish Days Fiesta an occasion to throw aside formality and the cares of the present workaday world and live for a while in a machineless past, when everyone had time for a song, but the various scenes represented by the many plays, tableaux and parade have a remarkable educational value. From the fiesta one may learn more of California's past than from any amount of casual reading.

During the fiesta numerous clubs keep open house; receptions and teas are given everywhere. Historic plays are performed at the beautiful Lohero Theater and Peabody Stadium. Garden tours, affording visitors an opportunity to stroll through gorgeous Montecito estates seldom opened to the public, are arranged. There is a local regatta, in which the sailing and motor craft in the harbor take part.

These events and many, many more, together with other things of interest that usually intrigue the visitor to Santa Barbara, make the Old Spanish Days Fiesta an occasion that will always live in memory.

FERTILIZER FOR FLOWERS.

To secure the best results in the flower garden, plant food must be provided. To be sure, there is plant food in the soil, and flowers will thrive according to the amount of this food and its availability. But to have the finest flowers, fertilizers must be applied. Those who wish to do this in the easiest way will take a good commercial fertilizer with a high nitrogen content and apply it.

However, if manure is available, and the gardener wishes to take a little time and trouble, he will find the use of liquid manure very efficient. Fill a common grain or gunny sack with good cow manure, sheep manure or well-rotted horse manure. Put it in a water-tight harrel and leave it for a few days, then use the liquid for fertilizing. Use it weak and often rather than seldom and strong. By putting the manure in the hag, the liquid is kept clear. Roses, carnations, pot plants and all others will profit by the application of liquid manure, if it is not used too strong.

FEEDING DAIRY COWS.

The cheapest feed for dairy cows, without question, is in good roughage, and where the cow does not make more than 200 pounds of butterfat a year she needs no other food. However, in California it is to be hoped that no dairyman has any cows of this kind. So concentrates must be added to the ration. When the prices of roughage and concentrates are normal, divide the number of pounds of butterfat produced monthly by five to arrive at the number of pounds of concentrates to feed daily. If concentrates are high, divide by six; if roughage is high, divide by four. Not all cows, of course, may be fed the same ration, for production varies with individuals. The careful dairyman will feed his cows in proportion to their ability to produce.

ORIGIN OF NAME "HANGTOWN" AS APPLIED TO PLACERVILLE

SEARCH OF THE TRUE ORIGIN OF THE name "Hangtown," as applied to Placerville, government seat of El Dorado County, in early days has resulted in bringing to light two different versions which trace the first application of the name to two separate hangings, according to the "Mountain Democrat" of Placerville, which says: "It appears that we can be positive of only one thing at this time: that the name was applied as a nickname following an execution by mob rule.

"Among our authorities are a 'Directory of the City of Placerville,' published by the Placerville Republican in '62; and The Democrat's diamond anniversary special edition, published January 6, 1928. These two publications each trace the origin of the nickname to two different lynchings. And in the two different lynchings, different 'hang trees' were used. The directory of '62 says, in part:

"The sobriquet of 'Hangtown,' by which Placerville was at one time only known and which is now not unfrequently applied to it, had its origin in the lynching by a mob, in October, 1850, of a desperado named Richard Crone, but known to the community by the nom-de-plume of 'Irish Dick.' The directory then recites his arrival here and the murder by him of a man in the El Dorado saloon, his trial in the middle of Main street by a citizens' court and the verdict, guilty. Continuing, 'and so soon as it was pronounced, the condemned was pushed from the platform whereon he and the sheriff and the extemporized court had sat, and hurried along with the crowd toward the Plaza, where preparations were made for his execution. At this point the mob was told that a sick man was in a house near-by, and that the uproar seriously troubled him. The crowd at once returned down Main street and up to what is now Coloma street, to a large oak near where is now the Episcopal parsonage . . . and he was jerked up by strong and willing hands and was soon a dangling corpse."

"The Democrat's diamond anniversary edition says: The name is directly traceable to the execution of a White man and two Mexicans in 1849. It seems a French miner was robbed in his cabin during the night by two Mexicans. The two yeggs did not leave the camp, and the next morning the miner told of the robbery. The Mexicans were at once taken in charge, and about the same moment there arrived in camp a party in pursuit of horse-thieves from the southern part of the state. The two Mexicans and a White man present being identified as the thieves they were in search of, their doom was settled and they were hung from the limb of an oak tree that stood near the corner of Coloma and Main streets. Their bodies were buried on the north side of Hangtown Creek."

Here is another version of how Placerville came to be known originally as Hangtown. The statement, which appeared in public print in May of 1878, came from John Breen, who came to California with the Reed-Donner Party and was a resident of Hangtown:

"During '48 and '49 I lived in what is now called Placerville. In January '49 three men stole a quantity of gold dust from a company of miners and, when caught, a vigilance committee was organized. They sentenced them to be flogged. This was done. After they were let loose the men made threats of vengeance against the committee, who again took them into custody and hung two of them from the limb of an oak tree on what is now called Coloma street. The hanging of the third man was, for some reason, postponed until the next day, and the man was put in charge of Jim Doyle and Pat Fry, who lived in a cabin with me. During the night they took pity on the poor devil and let him escape. When the vigilantes got ready for busi-

DIAMOND JUBILEE OF N.S. PAST GRAND.

To commemorate the seventy-fifth birthday anniversary, the diamond jubilee, of Dr. Charles W. Decker, Past Grand President N.S.G.W., a banquet was given him at the Elks club, San Francisco, the evening of March 31.

Dr. Decker was born at Sutterville, Sacramento County, March 31, 1855. His father had come to California around Cape Horn in 1850, and shortly thereafter opened the well-known City hotel in Sacramento, patronized by most of the early settlers and miners of pioneer days. His father and mother were married in Saint Louis before coming West, and his father had managed for a time at Galveston, Texas, one of the first banks in that state. He also brought to California, around the Horn, eleven hilliard tables, the first that came into the state.

During the time his parents conducted the City hotel, his mother became the banker for many of the miners from the mountains, who would bring to her their huckskin hags containing nuggets from the river beds, and from these they would draw the gold to pay hills incurred and, when leaving the hotel, nearly always rewarded Mrs. Decker, their banker, with one or more nuggets for her kindness as custodian.

"Charley," when a hoy, came to San Francisco and received his education at the historic Lincoln school on Fifth street, and is a life director of the Graduates Association. He served for a number of years as a member of the San Francisco Board of Education. He joined the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West about the time of its organization, 1875, and became Grand President in 1886. During his term twenty-two Parlors were instituted, beginning with Yerha Buena No. 84 and ending with Niantic No. 105, and he was the main spirit in organizing at least twenty others. During his administration he traveled throughout California at his own expense, receiving no compensation from the Grand Parlor. During the fifty-five years he has been a member of the Order his pride in, and zeal for, the fraternity has never abated. He attends all Grand Parlors, and takes part in all activities of the Order.

Among those attending the golden jubilee banquet were: Grand President Charles L. Dodge, Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell, Grand Second Vice-President Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Treasurer Frank M. Buckley, Grand Trustees Ben Harrison, J. Hartley Russell, Charles A. Koenig and Harmon D. Skillin, and Historiographer George H. Barron.

Past Grand Presidents William H. Miller, Judge Frank H. Dunne, Judge Henry C. Gesford, George D. Clark, Lewis F. Byington, Walter D. Wagner, Daniel A. Ryan, Thomas Monahan, William P. Caubu, Harry G. Williams, William J. Hayes, Edward J. Lynch, Judge Fletcher A. Cutler, Judge Charles A. Thompson, James A. Wilson. And these additional members of the Order: Justice Emmet Seawell, Percy V. Long, Joseph B. Keenan, Judge I. Harris, John A. Corotto, Sheriff R. R. Veale, C. D. Steiger, W. D. Hynes, Supervisor Angelo J. Rossi, Louis Nonnenmann, B. F. Hanlon, Jesse Miller, William James, Sam Dixon, L. K. Hagenkamp, Harry W. Gaetjen, Dave Gibbons, John Finn, Dan Q. Troy, Robert Morse, Joseph Earls, Thomas Curtin, Fred Ehlers, William Ehlers, Joe Clement, Dr. Charles W. Decker Jr. and Louis Ososke.

Warm-hearted greetings were received from the following Past Grand Presidents unable, for sundry reasons, to be in attendance at the jubilee: Fred H. Greely, Judge Frank L. Coombs, Robert M. Fitzgerald, Judge William M. Conley, Herman C. Lichtenberger, Thomas Flint, Judge Charles E. McLaughlin, Clarence E. Jarvis, Hubert R. McNoble, Sheriff William I. Traeger and Hilliard E. Welch.

GRAND PRESIDENT N.S. RECEPTION GUEST.

Grand President Charles L. Dodge and the candidates initiated by the San Francisco Parlors of Native Sons during the March membership drive were honor-guests at a reception March 29 arranged by the Extension of the Order Committee. A splendid program of entertainment was presented, and in addresses by prominent members of the Order the new members were enlightened as to the aims and accomplishments of the organization.

DIRECTORS ENTERTAINED.

Senator James D. Phelan, affiliated with Pacific Parlor No. 10 N.S.G.W., entertained about forty of the directors of the San Francisco Native Sons Hall Association at the Bohemian club, April 8. It was a wonderful evening, Senator Phelan, who is president of the hall association, again proving that he is the ideal host.

HONOR FOR SERVICE.

Colonel Henry G. W. Dinkelspiel of Bay City Parlor No. 104 N.S.G.W., after thirty-five years as president of the Grizzly Bear Club, which is quartered on the top floor of Native Sons Building, 414 Mason street, declined a re-election, and Judge James G. Conlon of Stanford Parlor No. 76, vice-president the past twenty years, was advanced to the club presidency.

Dinkelspiel was elected an honorary life director, the first time such an honor has been conferred.

FAMILY OUTING.

Olympus Parlor No. 189 and El Dorado Parlor No. 52 N.S.G.W. crossed bats in a game of baseball at Golden Gate Park, April 13, the game being won by the former with a score of 19 to 5. The batteries were Scott and Hopkins for Olympus, Chappie and Bragg for El Dorado. Gene Herzo and E. Cuadro were the umpires, and Al Vlautin was the official scorer.

May 4 the Parlors, reinforced by Dolores Parlor No. 208 and their friends, will have a family picnic at New Portola Park, down the peninsula.

PAST PRESIDENTS MEET.

The N.D.G.W. Past Presidents Association held its annual general assembly April 26 at the Native Daughter Home, 555 Baker street. The chief president, Millie Tietjen, instituted two new associations this year, at Grass Valley, Nevada County, and Santa Rosa, Sonoma County. The afternoon was spent in the transaction of business, and a banquet was enjoyed by the delegates in the evening.

The officers are: Chief president, Millie Tietjen; vice-president, Lillie Tilden; secretary, Anna Loser; treasurer, Emma Foley, marshal, Josephine Clark; inside sentinel, Cora Stobing; outside sentinel, Winifred Hater; organist, Lillian Troy; directors, Margaret Hill, May F. Mitchell, Mamie Davis, Myrtle Bernardo and Emily Clifford. The delegates: Hannah Barry, Jennie Brown, Louise Cases, Evelyn Carlson, Harriet Cate, Minnie Dobbin, Autoinette Hecht, Margaret Kaufman, May Marchant, Elizabeth Muller, Minnie Spillman, Kate Tietjen and Lena Wall.

PEPPY PARTY PROMISED.

There was a large attendance at the April 9 meeting of Dolores Parlor No. 169 N.D.G.W. when two candidates were initiated. Following the ceremonies there was a lovely banquet which carried out in detail the spirit of Easter. Bunnies and rabbits vied with each other for prominent places at the tables, and all present voted the party a very successful one.

May 14 two more eligibles will unite with the Parlor. Plans are being formulated for a "German night," at which time the "frauliens" of the Parlor will be in charge. This promises to be one of the "peppiest" parties ever held in the Parlor.

UNUSUAL COSTUMES.

Members of Twin Peaks Parlor No. 185 N.D.G.W. enjoyed another of the "funny dressup" parties. Of the many original costumes worn, those of Emma Christen and Eva Anglasay were the most unusual. After the meeting Mrs. Laura Lee, Chinese accordion player, entertained and refreshments were served.

Very successful sewing meetings have been held at the homes of Hannah Sandell, Ruth McDonald and Loretta Gavigan. Accordingly, the Central Homeless Children Committee is assured a generous box of baby clothes from Twin Peaks.

In Memoriam

LOTTIE MABEL STABEL.

Whereas, The Almighty, in His infinite wisdom, has seen fit to call into the Great Parlor on High the soul of our departed sister, Lottie Mabel Stabel; and whereas, our late sister was an earnest, faithful Native Daughter, who was often tried but never found wanting, and who endeavored to cherish the sentiments peculiar to our Order; she was true to her convictions because she was honest, and as a member of society she was just and worthy and loved by all who knew her; whereas, although we mourn the loss of our sister, we hold in memory her cheerful smile, her loving ways and her happy disposition; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we extend our sincere sympathy to the family of our departed sister and commend them to the tender mercies of our Heavenly Father, "Who doeth all things well;" and resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Parlor, that a copy be forwarded to the family of our deceased sister, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication; be it further resolved, that the charter of the Parlor be draped in mourning for the period of thirty days.

Fraternally submitted,

MAY H. SOUTHERN,
EDNA SAYGROVER,
EVA P. YOUNG,
Committee.

Redding, March 27, 1930.

MRS. MARY DOUGHERTY McCABILL.

It has pleased our Heavenly Father to take home our dearly beloved sister, Mrs. Mary Dougherty McCabill, after a life of loving devotion to all those whose great pleasure it was to have been her friend.

The long and constant service of Mrs. McCabill, guiding the destinies of Angelita Parlor No. 32 N.D.G.W., has been a bright spot in our history; and it is hereby resolved that her beautiful unselfish character shall always live in our memories.

The respect and admiration of the valley are joined in by us, and we take this means of resolving that the passing of our sister was a great loss to our Parlor as well as to the community.

SAN GABRIEL MEMORY GARDEN

THROUGH AN AUTHORIZED COMMITTEE, the Native Sons and the Native Daughters of Los Angeles County are sponsoring the San Gabriel Mission Memory Garden. To raise funds, the committee has issued the following appeal, and the project being a most worthy cause, the response should be prompt and liberal:

"Knowing your great love for California, and your interest in its romantic history, the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West of Los Angeles County desire the privilege of calling your attention to a project in which we are particularly interested at the present time.

"Undoubtedly you know that our Orders were organized primarily for the purpose of perpetuating the memory of the Pioneers, and preserving and restoring historical landmarks. The pitiful ruins of our beautiful missions, our most valued asset, plead for a continuation of the restoration work which has been sponsored by our Orders for many years past.

"The grounds surrounding our own Mission San Gabriel, hallowed by the footprints of Junipero Serra, the sainted Father of California, lie in a state of complete ruin. Native Sons and Daughters sponsor a movement to restore and permanently maintain these grounds, planting therein the trees and shrubs characteristic of the early mission garden. The garden will then be dedicated to the Pioneer Mothers and Fathers of California.

"Plans for the garden have been donated and many of the necessary materials have also been given. It is estimated that the cost of the restoration work will be $1,500, and we are now calling upon you for a donation of $1 or more toward this most worthy project. Please make check payable to Miss Flora Holy, Treasurer, Memory Garden Committee, Box 106, Mar Vista, California.

"When the 'Memory Garden' is dedicated, as it will be with colorful ceremonies, a plaque will be erected, bearing the names of all those assisting in the project."

"ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT."

"All Quiet on the Western Front," most sensational of all war novels and for two years a best seller the world over, transformed into a vividly realistic talking-picture by Universal, is the attraction at the Fox Carthay Circle Theatre, where it had its world premiere April 21.

Few stories have elicited such comment as "All Quiet on the Western Front" and Californians, close to the scene of its production, showed more than usual interest in how closely the film follows the Remarque story.

Lewis Ayres, 20-year-old lad with experience in but two other screen plays, won the leading role in "All Quiet on the Western Front" from a score of other applicants. Louis Wolheim, creator of the stage Captain Flagg of "What Price Glory" fame, plays Katcinsky. John Wray is seen as Himelstoss and among others in the exceptionally large cast are Ben Alexander, Russell Gleason, Scott Kolk, William Bakewell, Walter Browne Rogers, Harold Goodwin, Slim Summerville, Owen Davis Jr., Yola D'Avril, Zasu Pitts, Raymond Griffith, Edmund Breese and Bodil Rosing. Lewis Milestone directed the production.

Abe Lyman and his band, recently returned from a season in London, are an added attraction at Fox Carthay Circle during the run of "All Quiet on the Western Front."

MADE 'EM "DIG FOR THE KIDS."

Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W., continuing to build up its membership, initiated another class of candidates, thirty-eight in number, April 11. Among the speakers, following the initiation, were Superior Judge Walton J. Wood; Assemblyman Percy G. West, a visitor; Thomas D. Mott Sr., one of the initiates, who made an excellent address; "Chuck" Bright, a past president. Superior Judge B. Rey Schauer, president Ramona, appreciating Bright's ability to "go get 'em," turned the gavel over to him, and "Chuck" proceeded to make the boys "dig for the kids." The Parlor has taken out a membership in the American Green Cross Association.

May 9, Ramona will initiate another large class of candidates, the ceremonies to be preceded by a supper; Charles Gassagne and Ray Russell, in charge of the feast, promise this will be is typified in this colorful set for your porch, patio, or lawn. The adjustable head piece, movable top, and link springs are all designed for your perfect relaxation and rest. A couch hammock set adds charm to your garden . . . transforms your porch or patio into an outdoor living room. Spend the golden sunny days outdoors . . . in comfort.

These hammocks are sturdy and well constructed . . . built to endure . . . of a refreshing jade green duck with painted design in gay yellow and orange. A heavy wrought iron frame keeps the swing in place. The accompanying table, adjustable umbrella, and chair make up a set that is charmingly colorful as well as durable and capable of giving long service.

Now is the time to turn those old odd pieces into money . . . bring them in and let them help to furnish your outdoor living room.

the most elaborate one ever spread by the Parlor. May 16, educational night, Henry I. Dockweller will tell of his "Experiences in Foreign Countries as a Member of the United States Diplomatic Corps." May 23, the good of the order committee, First Vice-president Ray Russell chairman, will have charge. May 30 the delegates will report the Grand Parlor proceedings, and officers for the ensuing term will be nominated. Plans for celebrating the Parlor's forty-third institution anniversary June 8 are well advanced.

"STARESSSES" WERE THERE.

Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. initiated four candidates April 16. Mrs. Lucy Malin reported on the opening of Olivera street, and Miss Marvel Thomas told of a luncheon at Avilla adobe given by the History and Landmarks Club of Southern California. A donation was made to the restoration fund of San Miguel Mission. The drill team, which is practicing every week, is making good progress.

The birthday party of April 23, in celebration of the Parlor's twenty-ninth institution, was largely attended and greatly enjoyed. All the movie "stareesses" were there, by substitutes, and contributed much to the evening's pleasure. Refreshments, including a birthday cake, were served. Miss Grace Norton, the social hostess, and her able committee saw that everybody had a good time. The bunco party, Miss Louise Crews chairman, and the card party, Miss Jeanne Close chairman, held during the month were successes. Harriet Martin has been appointed historian of the Parlor.

No. 124's May calendar includes: 7th, election delegates to the Oakland Grand Parlor; 17th, card party at Avilla adobe, Mrs. Jennie Raymond chairman; 21st, nomination officers July-December term; 28th, dance. Misses Ruth Ruiz and Flora Holy are planning an Italian dinner for June 11.

BONDS ARE A BURDEN!

A local morning paper the other day had an editorial, headed "Water Bonds and Assessments," in which this statement was made: "Water bonds are not a tax, not an assessment, not a burden on property."

To assert that water, or any other, bonds are "not a burden on property" is misleading, if not deliberate falsifying. Every bond issued by the City of Los Angeles, for any and every purpose, is a burden on—a lien against—each and every piece of property within the City of Los Angeles.

It is true that the Department of Water and Power very frequently assumes the attitude of a private corporation—that the masses are entitled to little consideration, except when more funds are wanted. Then the "our" is temporarily changed to "your." The Department of Water and Power, however, irrespective of the attitude of its conductors, is but one branch of the City Government. The city is liable for the department's actions, and the taxpayers are liable for its financial obligations, bond issues and otherwise.

Now, every city must have water, and particularly so if it be a growing city like Los Angeles, and water must be had! The nation's greatest authorities should be consulted, however, before millions are expended on any plan to procure additional water. Too much of the taxpayers' money has already been paid out in experimenting.

Remember the Saint Francis dam disaster, which resulted in the loss of storage facilities costing millions to construct, and additional millions to pay damages? Also, the San Gabriel dam, on which more millions were thrown away? In both instances, the colossal waste of the taxpayers' money was, according to published reports, due to incompetency. Every official, elective or appointive, responsible for that waste, should have been removed from the public service. But, instead, they are still on the jobs, drawing fat salaries and seeking more dams to conquer.

The morning paper's expressed fear, that the $38,000,000 proposed bond issue will fail, is well founded, for the masses are beginning to realize the rotten conditions in public service hereabouts. They have lost faith, and have little confidence in those in charge of affairs of government. And so, if the bonds are not voted, it

MANY GOING TO MERCED.

The program of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 N.S.G.W. for May includes: 9th, initiation of a class of candidates, followed by refreshments. 16th, a send-off for the delegates to the Merced Grand Parlor. John T. Newell, long a member of No. 45, will be installed as Grand President at the Merced session, and many members of the Parlor, in addition to the delegates, will be there to witness his induction into office. 23rd, surprise entertainment. The 30th being Memorial Day, there will be no meeting.

During April the Parlor initiated four candidates and received several applications. Another of the monthly get-together dances was enjoyed.

STATUE COMMITTEE REORGANIZED.

Owing to the withdrawal of Mrs. Arthur Wright as chairman of the Felipe de Neve statue fund committee of Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W., the committee has been reorganized by Mrs. A. O. Evans, president, to include: Mrs. Charles W. Decker, third vice-president (chairman), Mrs. Charles E. Noerenberg and Mrs. Ralph Tuttle, first and second vice-presidents, Mms. Arthur Wright, Leland Atherton Irish, Charles Burt, Catherine O'Brien, Misses Mary Emily Foy and Eliza J. Quinn. Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer and Mrs. Florence Dodson Schoneman, state chairman of history and landmarks, are advisory members. Mrs. Harry Leigh Bentley, a member of the committee and chairman of history and landmarks for Californiana, will meet soon with the art committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, which will appoint a sub-committee to work with the Native Daughters.

A membership drive has been in progress and the Parlor, as a result, will send five delegates to Grand Parlor this year. Twelve candidates were initiated April 22. Following the regular luncheon, a delightful program was presented by Mrs. Guy Oliver, member of the program committee. Mrs. Edith Sage McDonald, soprano, and Jean Steffin, pianist, provided pleasing musical numbers, and Father James E. Dolan, assistant director of the Catholic Welfare Bureau and a native of the state, delivered an interesting address on "Social Welfare Work."

The Parlor plans to take a more active part in veterans' welfare work, and Miss Rita O'Brien, a native daughter who is in the San Fernando Hospital, has been "adopted" by No. 247. The first courtesy shown her was in the form of Easter gifts. Miss O'Brien was an overseas nurse. At the first April meeting of Californiana a charming program was given by Madame Constance Balfour, recently returned from abroad, and Mrs. Mary King Hunter of London, who presented "The Psychology of Color" in a very interesting and inspiring lecture. The address covered also the use of linen and table equipment. Madame Balfour's vocal numbers were thoroughly enjoyed.

NEW PARIS INN.

Something hitherto unthought of, the new Paris Inn, at 210 East Market street, has brought to Los Angeles all of the gay romance and sparkling zest of Parisian life. In trying to describe the inn, presided over by Bert Revere and I. Pedrolli, proprietors, little can be said by way of description. The unique exterior, the interior, the decorations, the atmosphere, are beyond a collection of phrases and adjectives.

Revere and Pedrolli deserve much credit for their enterprise. In management, as well as in the building itself, the new Paris Inn is said to be entirely different from any establishment in the nation. Only in this Los Angeles showplace can there be found the attractions here provided. First-class entertainment is presented nightly.

WONDERFUL ENTERTAINMENT.

The thirty-fourth institution anniversary banquet of Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W., April 23, was most successful. The menu was excellent, and the entertainment wonderful. Among the speakers were Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenberger, Grand First Vice-president John T. Nowell, Judges B. Rey Schauer, Henry M. Willis, Joseph P. Sproul, William Baird, John L. Fleming and Samuel R. Blake, and District Deputy Al Cron.

Henry G. Bodkin (chairman), Leland Owens, Edgar Black, Ernest Crawford, Harold Thomas and M. U. Rosenthal made up the committee of arrangements.

ANNUAL BENEFIT.

Announcement is made by the Los Angeles Native Sons and Native Daughters Joint Homeless Children Committee that the annual Pearl Keller benefit will be held at Philharmonic Auditorium, June 14.

BARBECUE AND DEDICATION.

Glendale—Glendale Parlor No. 264 N.S.G.W. will sponsor a barbecue May 4 at the Beque ranch, at the foot of the Verdugo Hills, Michigan boulevard, Tujunga, to which all Natives and their friends are invited.

A feature will be the plaquing of a landmark—an old well on the ranch, the property of Philip Beque, a member of the Parlor, which has an important place in the history of Los Angeles County.

SILVER TEAS FOR RESTORATION.

Glendale—Verdugo Parlor No. 240 N.D.G.W. had a card party March 25 at which bridge and five hundred were played. Members of the entertainment committee included Mms. Kathryn Burke, Nan Hutchinson, Idelle Winegardner and Rose Bartel.

Proceeds from a series of silver teas, given by Past President Hazel Hansen, go toward restoring some of California's old missions.

BIG SHOW, LARGE CROWD.

Ocean Park—Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W. entertained a large crowd at another of its social functions April 14. The big show was greatly enjoyed, and there was plenty to eat. No. 267 has an enviable record as an entertainer.

The Parlor goes right along adding to its membership and on this occasion, also, initiated three additional candidates, thereby gaining an additional Grand Parlor delegate.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Mrs. Mary Greenstock (Los Angeles N.D.) is visiting at Santa Cruz.

Jos. McShane (Twin Peaks N.S.) of San Francisco was a visitor last month.

M. U. Rosenthal (Hollywood N.S.) paid a visit last month to Nevada State.

Mrs. Clara Bird (Los Angeles N.D.) was a visitor last month to San Diego.

Albert Mayrhofer (San Diego N.S.) of San Diego paid a brief visit last month.

A native son arrived at the home of John W. Haugen (Ramona N.S.) April 10.

MRS. ANNA O'BRYAN MARSHALL.

To the Officers and Members of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 Native Daughters of the Golden West: We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our late sister, Mrs. Anna O'Bryan Marshall, submit the following:

The Angel of Death has again visited our Parlor and removed from our midst our beloved sister, Anna O'Bryan Marshall. We bow to the will of our Father in Heaven, and tenderly condole with her bereft dear ones in their bereavement, especially her loving daughter, Sister Bertha Marshall Murray.

Resolved, That our charter be draped in mourning in respect to our sister; that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor; that a copy be sent her family, and also to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

ability to citizenship devolves upon the defendant in civil and criminal proceedings brought pursuant to the California Alien Land Law, and that Section 1983 of the Code of Civil Procedure is constitutional. Justice Emmet Seawell wrote the opinion, which was concurred in by the entire court.

Two Japs were charged with and convicted of the crime of conspiring to violate the Alien Land Law of California, to the end that one should have an interest and the beneficial use of certain agricultural lands, and pursuant to which conspiracy he entered into possession of and did use and cultivate and occupy the property so described.

The case was appealed to the District Court of Appeal for the Third District, which held the Section 9a of the Alien Land Law, as amended in 1927, as well as Section 1983, Code of Civil Procedure, were unconstitutional, and that as the matter of alienage was an essential element of the charge and a part of the corpus delicti private expenditures. This is not the time for government to expend money on services or projects that are not necessary. Government is never justified in wasting the people's money. The people of our state must realize that government cannot undertake every social and economic expansion. Our fiscal resources must be conserved.

"The increase in governmental costs in the State of California has been sudden and rapid. To bring down these costs is difficult, but we can accomplish it by the promotion of efficiency and economy in government."

Referring to the special assessments problem in California, Dr. Johnson said: "We find that the special assessment law conditions in this state are detrimental to the healthy movement of real estate in general, and that they are a menace to the safety of home ownership."

Here's good news—news that should encourage added effort to dislodge the Japs, as great a menace to California as the Mexis and the Filipinos, from every acre of land they illegally claim title to:

the burden of proof of such alienage is upon the people, reversing the judgment of the lower court, thus practically nullifying proceedings under the penal provisions of the law.

Attorney-General U. S. Webb applied to the Supreme Court for a hearing, after judgment in the District Court of Appeal, which hearing was granted and the Supreme Court has affirmed the original judgment of conviction.

The Grizzly Bear for March extensively reviewed "Uncle Sam's Camels," edited by Dr. Lewis B. Lesley, associate professor of history at the State Teachers College in San Diego. The review brought from him, to the editor, the following:

"I have been very interested in the reception given to the book, because most people say instantly that they have never heard of the experiment, and I hope that this little-known item in the history of our country will some day take its place, not only as a phase of the general history of the West, but as bearing directly upon the early attempts to hold the area of Southern California definitely to the Union by means of first the military roads and then the railroad. I hope some day to write a second volume, which will be devoted to the work of Jefferson Davis in the service of California as the terminal of the Pacific railroad, which, as you know, he hoped would run from Memphis, Tennessee, or New Orleans, to San Diego, California.

"In closing, it may interest you to know that I am a Native Son of California and a member of the San Diego Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West. As you probably recall, I was the Native Sons Traveling History Fellow to Europe, 1923 and 1924, and I am very grateful in every way for all that the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West has done for me in the past and is continuing to do, as evidenced by your splendid and appreciative review of my book."

HUGE REVENUE DERIVED FROM UNITED STATES GAS SALES.

The last two states to adopt taxes on motor fuel, New York and Illinois, joined the others last year, with the result that the forty-eight states and the District of Columbia collected $431,636,454 in taxes on the sale of 13,400,180,062 gallons of motor fuel in 1929. This is according to an announcement of the Federal Agricultural Department. Most of the huge sum was used for highway purposes.

Comparison of the total number of vehicles registered in 1929, with the total tax collected and with the taxable gallonage in all states (except New York and Illinois) and in the District of Columbia, shows an average tax revenue of $17.72 per vehicle and an average purchase of 532 gallons of gasoline.

California is credited with having collected a total tax of $34,192,037 on 1,139,736,244 gallons of gasoline.

POWDERY MILDEW IN APPLES.

To control powdery apple mildew, apply lime-sulphur, one to nine, when the dormant buds swell. Then apply wettable sulphur, eight pounds in 100 gallons of water, in the cluster bud period, just before the petals unfold. Repeat the second spray just after the petals fall, combining with the first arsenate of lead spray for codling moth. Finally, at the second arsenate of lead spray, add about six pounds of wettable sulphur to 100 gallons.

GRAND PARLOR ENTERTAINMENT

YOSEMITE PARLOR NO. 24 N.S.G.W. has about completed arrangements for the entertainment of the members of the Grand Parlor which meets in Merced City the week of May 19. "There may be minor changes in the program," says Secretary T. W. Fowler, "but if so, features of equal enjoyment will be substituted." Housing accommodations are plentiful, and all Natives will be welcomed.

During the week the visiting womenfolks will be entertained at various social affairs arranged by Veritas Parlor No. 75 N.D.G.W. Mrs. Mildred Jensen, president of the Parlor, and Grand trustee May F. Givens, affiliated with Mariposa Parlor No. 63 N.D.G.W., have charge of these arrangements.

Not alone the Native Daughters, but all other organizations in Merced, fraternal and civic, are co-operating heartily with Yosemite Parlor of

This will commemorate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of Merced County, which was organized April 19, 1855.

In the evening, following return from this tour, the visitors will be taken to Yosemite Lake, near Merced, where there will be a display of fireworks and appropriate exercises. Dancing will be provided for those who care to indulge in that pleasure.

WEDNESDAY.

In the evening, grand ball, at the American Legion Hall, for the members of the Grand Parlor and their womenfolks. Special entertainment will be furnished by the Native Daughters, and light refreshments will be served.

THURSDAY.

Afternoon, Spanish Fiesta, including bullfight.

Evening, banquet, complimentary to the Grand Parlor members. A "high jinks," consisting of

D. K. STODDARD,
President Yosemite N.S.G.W.

T. W. FOWLER,
Secretary Yosemite N.S.G.W.

Native Sons, to the end that all-comers may be delighted with their visit to Merced.

Most of the Grand Parlor members and other visitors will arrive Sunday, May 18, and they will be registered, presented with tickets of admission to the various entertainment features, and escorted to quarters assigned them by the accommodations committee. That evening, open house will be maintained by Merced Lodge of Elks. Other events on the week's program include:

MONDAY.

In the evening, at American Legion Hall, reception to Grand Parlor members and other visitors. A varied entertainment program will be presented.

TUESDAY.

All-day auto tour through the historic sections of Mariposa and Merced Counties, visiting route Cathay, Mariposa Town, Mount Ophir, Bear Valley, Quartzburg, Hornitos, Merced Falls and Snelling.

At 1 p.m. a barbecue will be served at Hortos. This is being prepared by the members Yosemite Parlor residing in Mariposa County. At Snelling, a plaque upon a monument built of stone, will be presented to the community.

KEEPING DOWN THE FLIES.

The summer brings with it the fly, a pest that could by no means be tolerated on the farm, in a house or out of doors. Fly traps baited with wit or other food relished by the insects will count for thousands of flies during the summer. Each one killed early in the season is as good as many more later on, for they multiply rapidly.

When the flies are asleep at night spraying with one of the preparations offered on the market will aid in keeping them down. These sprays are not harmful, and are very effective. It goes without saying that manure and other refuse that will furnish a breeding place for flies should be enclosed in a box or otherwise so that the pests cannot propagate.

GREATER LOVE HATH NO MAN

Jeanne Le Strange

THEY WERE WALKING ALONG THE pleasure pier at Avalon. It was out of season, and at nine o'clock the little town seemed deserted. They were an odd pair, there in the moonlight, and might have been taken for an allegorical illustration of the past and the present. He was a well-built man of about thirty-five and carried himself with a dignity that bespoke the man of public character; the windsor tie beneath his chin proclaimed him something in the theatrical line. She was an Indian girl. She wore, instead of the conventional dress of the Whites or the primitive blanket of her people, a sort of kimono or one-piece dress made of a beautiful blanket. At the bottom was a heavy fringe composed of strands of leather and beads. Upon her feet were moccasins. She was bareheaded, and two long glossy braids hung down her back. About her head was a band of leather decorated with beads, and in the back a solitary feather from a bluebird's wing stood upright. She made a beautiful picture, carrying herself with the dignity of a queen.

He had taken her hand and was speaking earnestly. "Why won't you consent, little Bluebird?" he asked. "You acknowledge that you love me and in the same breath say you will not marry me. What a strange girl you are."

The girl shook her head. "My people are not your people, and no amount of education can make them so," she answered. "You are a big motion-picture manager and I am simply one of your players. I know there are many White girls who would be glad to accept the offer you make me. I love you, that you know, but it brings me no comfort. Not that I doubt your love, but could you bear the name of squaw-man without suffering?"

He squirmed under the appellation. He had thought of that, too, rather seriously, for he had played the lead in that famous play before he took to the movies. But he could see nothing else, when Bluebird was by his side, though he often called himself a fool when away from the magnetism of those deep black eyes.

"Do not call your answer final," he said. "We will go to the chimneys tomorrow and take that scene and then on to the quarries. That will finish the work here; the next day we go home. Reserve your answer until we are through at the quarries, then we will talk it over again." He was figuring on the effect of the play in which they were to engage, and knew that when she was in his arms she would hardly have the strength to refuse. She agreed to his plan, putting her arm about his neck, and as he held her close she told more of her love in that one kiss, there in the moonlight upon the deserted pier, than she had ever been able to put into words.

The next morning the whole company were out early. They went by coach and took all the appurtenances to motion-picture taking. As usual, the Indian girl kept to herself; she knew the White girls did not care for her company and they were jealous of Hartman's attention to her as well as her larger pay envelope. But Bluebird was the lady, and would have been so considered by any chance observer. Her manner was more genteel, her bearing more graceful.

At the chimneys, when they were unloading and preparing for work, she remarked to Hartman that she felt as though it was a sacrilege for her to enact the role of her ancestors here, upon what, to them, was hallowed ground. He laughed, and asked if she were going back on them at the last minute. He knew if a thing once impressed her as wrong, no power on earth could get her to do it; but he need not have worried, it would never look quite wrong if it was something he asked.

She took her place, Hartman playing opposite her as the White man first discovering the island and its inhabitants and becoming enamored of the little Indian girl. It was not a hard thing to play; it was true to life, and the love scenes were particularly realistic. The climax was the happy marriage of the two. When they had finished and were packing up to move on to the quarries, Bluebird remarked to the manager: "I should like to know if the play would have ended the same had it really been enacted here those many years ago." He thought a moment—thought of the many cases of which he had heard and read. It was true they had not ended the same as this play.

"Oh, there is no telling," he answered carelessly. "What is the difference? You are in one of your queer moods today, Bluebird."

She shook her head. "I am moody today," she said, "but I cannot shake it off. There is so much in life both to enjoy and to suffer; so much to miss, both good and bad, it is hard to tell which to do."

Hartman laughed uneasily. "There is but one thing to do," he said. "We have no choice, we must do as the fates decree." She looked at him as if to answer, then changing her mind said nothing, but the look did not escape her companion's watchful eye and though he did not know why it made him uneasy.

The picture at the quarries finished, they were getting ready for the trip back to Avalon when Hartman reminded her that she had not given him an answer.

"Give me until tomorrow morning," she said. "I can, even in the crowd, tell you either yes or no and you will understand." He told her that he would, and made one more plea for his love.

"I do not know yet," she said. "Some day you will go East again to your people and would be ashamed of your Indian wife. Even among the people of your profession you would hate to have it known that you had married a squaw." She said the word with all the bitterness of her soul. Why had she been born a squaw? Or, if it were necessary for her to be one, why had they not let her alone as a squaw? Why had they educated her and sent her out among the White people? Some of them received her and treated her nicely, condescendingly so, and she knew it. They thought it was wonderful for an Indian girl to so far raise herself above her race, to be so intellectual as to put some of them to shame had she tried, and they held her up as a living example of what civilization and christianity had done for the Red men.

They were right. She was a "living example," and none knew so well as she what a heart-breaking thing it was to be that example. No one protested at her presence until it came to loving; there she was barred, and eligible young men were carefully steered away from danger by anxious mammas—"for you know she is an Indian." Was she supposed to have no heart, no natural feeling?—she, as robust and perfect a human specimen as could be found. Not one of the White girls of her acquaintance had her physique, strength or natural beauty and she knew it, yet they looked upon her as inferior, simply because of a difference in the color of her skin.

They joined the rest of the party and were soon upon the road to town. At dinner, Bluebird did not care to eat. Hartman looked at her keenly. She smiled at him, saying she was tired and would go to bed and to please not disturb her. She went directly to her room, but not to rest. She put a blanket over her dress, slipped quietly downstairs and out into the street. She went to the livery stable and asked for a horse. Recognizing her as one of the motion-picture company who had the outfit that day the man readily brought out the animal. She asked him if the horse was fresh, as she was going for a long ride. It was upon his tongue to warn her of going far at that time of night, but he remembered she was an Indian, and held his peace.

She rode out of town by a back street and struck the coach road. On she went, until she arrived at the quarries where they had taken the pictures that afternoon. At the foot of one of the most prominent hills of sandstone which her ancestors had used for all kinds of utensils, there is a little valley. Here Bluebird dismounted, tied her horse and made her way to the center, where a huge houlder stuck up out of the soil. Climbing the rock she drew her feet up under her and pulled her blanket more closely about her, for the night was cold. Here she sat and thought.

What should she do? What should she say to her lover in the morning? She had come out here to the old grounds where her ancestors were wont to worship, to think and fight it out, hoping that away from all civilization she might see the clearer, act more wisely,—just as One other fought out His great battle alone under the stars.

BAYARD WOOTEN, Manager

Gradually the scene changed. It was broad daylight, yet she did not wonder, it all seemed so natural. She saw a strange people walking about their daily tasks or basking in the sun, as fancy dictated. Some women were washing fish at the seashore and great birds hovered near; sometimes growing bold, they snatched the fish, and the women, in evident fright, offered no resistance. Further up the hill she saw people going into a little amphitheater in the center of which was an altar. Some of them had birds in their hands and were plucking the brightest feathers and decorating the altar where the bodies of the birds were offered as a sacrifice. The idol upon the altar was something like the accepted idea of the devil; one side was a representation of the sun and the other the moon. The ceremony was more like that intended to appease the wrath of one feared, than in worship of a being adored.

But what is the matter? All eyes are turned toward the horizon. A great white thing was sailing upon the water, moving steadily toward the island. The people began a queer kind of chant. What had they done that the Great-giver-of-life was sending this horrible monster? He had not said He would destroy even the law-breakers in this way, only that "To those who obey my teachings I will give all they ask, but to those who obey not I will send bears to bite, serpents to sting, and they shall be without food or water and have disease that they may die." Surely if He had intended to destroy them otherwise He would have told them—so they reasoned among themselves. Steadily the thing came on, and there were human beings aboard. As it drew closer they saw that the newcomers were fairer than they and wore a peculiar covering for their bodies; not one had a sealskin.

They came ashore, and as they showed no warlike tendencies were soon welcomed as simply another kind of being belonging to the Great-giver-of-life. The women ran to prepare fish for the guests and when, as usual, the huge birds came to harass them, one of the strangers, seizing a large stick, beat them back. Immediately there were murmurings—were these birds not a specie of imp which must be propitiated? But when no evil thing came upon them for the destruction of the birds, they thought the new men were wiser than they and that the evil spirit was afraid of them.

There was one maiden, the daughter of the chief, who was particularly beautiful, and Bluebird wondered where she had seen her, her face was so familiar; but she did not wonder long. Things were changing rapidly, and it was hard to keep up with it all. She seemed to see as upon a picture screen, the days go by and one of the strangers growing more and more in love with the Indian girl. She saw them together, talking only by sign and the touch of hand. She saw him trying to learn the language, and his teacher doing her best to help him, for it was a labor of love. She saw the old chief, smiling and content at the happiness of his daughter.

One day the white-winged carrier which had brought them to the island was repaired and loaded with provisions—the White men were going back to their own country. And the lovers? The maiden clung to him, he was very dear, but he told her he must go. There was a great chief in their country, and they must go back and carry the news of the little island and its wonderful people. He told her he would come back as soon as another boat made the journey, which would be about a year, and she must wait for him. He loved her dearly, but he must be true to the trust of his master. So she gave him many beautiful presents for his chief, kissed him goodbye, and the boat sailed away. The girl stood upon the shore and watched as long as anything could be seen, then turned away, but not disconsolate. He loved her, why should she grieve? He was a big man in his tribe and must do as his master bid, then he would come back. She did not know the meaning of treachery, so had no fear.

Near the end of the year she began to haunt the shore and scan the horizon; then she became uneasy, but not doubting. The year had

GENEROUS GIFT TO SAN PEDRO NATIVE SONS

Ramon D. Sepulveda presented Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W., named in his honor, a building site April 12, and the generous gift was formally accepted by President J. P. Paraliou, for the Parlor.

The site consists of two lots, with a frontage of 100 feet on Paseo del Mar, in the White Point tract. They are 150 deep, and from them there is an unobstructed view of the ocean.

Upon the site the Parlor will proceed to erect a permanent home, probably of the Spanish style of architecture. Some of the features will be a patio, a meeting hall with a large fireplace, barbecue pits and a typical California arbor.

A general committee, consisting of the following, has been appointed to carry out the project: Ramon D. Sepulveda, honorary chairman; C. Roy Butterfield, permanent vice-chairman; William F. Durr, James H. Dodson Sr., James H. Dodson Jr., James W. Mee, John P. Martin Jr., Albert E. Mackley, Clyde H. Foot, Treasurer Edward E. Baldwin and Recording Secretary Frank I. Markey. Sub-committees on financing and building plans have also been appointed.

GREATER LOVE

passed, still no sign; then the months dragged into another year, and he did not come. The maid mourned him as dead; if he was alive, he would have surely come. Gradually the girl faded like a flower in the autumn; there was no malady, she was simply without incentive to live. In the happy land she was sure to meet him again, so why stay here? He could not come to her, but she could go to him, so one day her spirit went to the great unknown. Bluebird saw the dead face, the look of anticipated joy visible even in death. She turned away, cold and gloomy. Why should all this affect her so strangely?

What was this, any way? A new play they were rehearsing, or a film she had seen upon the screen? She looked around and—it was grey dawn. She was huddled upon the rock in the amphitheater. She was damp and cold. She heard her horse pawing uneasily; it wanted to go home. She settled herself more comfortably and sat thinking a long time of her dream—or, was it a dream? Ah, no! It was the Great Spirit showing her the inevitable result should she marry the White man. But Hartman was so kind and gentle, he would not forsake her. Then the thought came, no, but if he did not desert her, then he would be the victim as in the "Squaw Man." She could never stand that.

Slowly getting down from the rock, she went to the horse, patted its velvety nose and gave it a hug, untied it and gave it a smart cut with her whip which sent it on a run in the direction of town. She wandered down to the beach and sat watching the sun gradually rise as if from out of the sea. They were just getting up at the hotel, and she would not be missed until the horse reached home.

Hartman had not rested well and was up early. All night he had alternately hoped Bluebird would accept his proposal, and been afraid she would. He knew the nobility of her soul, her integrity; that except for the fact that she was an Indian, she was a woman any man could justly be proud of. But a "squaw man"—he did not know. As he walked along the street he noticed a riderless horse galloping along. He did not know why, but, as he looked, he had an instinctive feeling of horror. As the animal ame closer he noticed it was saddled and ridled. He went out to stop it, but it shled rom him and continued its course homeward.

Hartman followed. At the barn door the horse alted, as it could not get in, but in a moment n attendant opened the door and looked cu-lously at the empty saddle. Seeing Hartman oming up, he concluded the horse had given
'm the slip.

When Hartman arrived he asked: "Who had hat horse and how comes it running around ke this?" It was the attendant's turn to look uprised. "Why, one of your people got it last ight, and a fine time I have had of it. The oss give me the Dickens for letting the animal ut all night, and no telling where that wild pling would ride." Hartman did not heed all ae man's tirade but, telling him he would pay ll damages, ordered another horse—then made two. "Do you happen to know which way liss Bluebird went last night?" he asked. The man thought she had taken the coach trail north and Hartman wonderingly waited for more information on the subject, but was disappointed.

Hartman mounted and rode away, leading the second horse. At the hotel he called for his cameraman, not that he intended to take pictures, but because he was the most dependable man in the company. Without making any explanation, Hartman asked if he would like to take a ride. The man addressed knew there was something wrong by the way the manager spoke, but he mounted without comment and they started. Once out of earshot of any curious person, Hartman explained. It was not hard to follow the fresh tracks of the riderless horse which led them, in the end, to where they had taken the pictures the day before.

Upon a big rock lay a bright blanket. Hartman hurried to it, but the owner was not there.
The tide was coming in as they started toward the shore. A hoarse yell from Hartman froze the blood in his companion's veins. He had seen the blanket-clad figure of Bluebird upon the beach; the waves had just reached it and were gently washing the blanket back and forth. They were soon upon the spot and Hartman, forgetting all else, ran into the water and, grasping the girl in his arms, called her all the dear names he knew and begged her to open her big brown eyes and tell him she heard. But it was a dead thing he held, and it could not hear. They carried the body to the big rock and, picking up the discarded blanket, started to cover her with it, when they discovered this note:

"Dearest, you would marry me, and your love
I do not doubt, but some day, if I accepted your wild proposal, you would be humiliated and ashamed. You would suffer, for so great is the goodness of your heart, I cannot believe you would ever desert me, but to save you this certain sorrow and shame I do this thing. As a measure of my love for you remember: 'Greater love hath no man than this—that he giveth his life for a friend'."

HASTINGS DREAMER, PIONEER

had been for the last three weeks. October 3, of the same year, James A. Seddon, Secretary of War, Confederate States of America, stated in a letter to Lieutenant-General E. K. Smith, dated at Richmond, that Hastings desired authority to organize an expedition to Arizona, and had laid before him a proposition, having in view the accomplishment of this proposed end, which plan was inclosed with the letter. After expressing some general views, Secretary Seddon said the matter was submitted to General Smith for the exercise of his own discretion, but having no great confidence in its feasibility, and only sanctioning it "if decided on by your own superior judgment."

In a communication to President Jefferson Davis dated Richmond, December 16, 1863, Hastings stated he had recently come from California for the purpose of obtaining the co-operation of the Confederate Government in a great and important enterprise, which, upon his arrival within the Confederacy, he had submitted to Generals Magruder and Smith; that General Smith had written to the Secretary of War and directed that he (Hastings) proceed to Richmond to lay the matter before the President; that on his arrival in Richmond, President Davis was absent, whereupon he had submitted the matter to the Secretary of War in the nature of a proposition "to retake and permanently hold the Territory of Arizona, to establish and maintain the Confederate Territorial Government therein, and establish a permanent thoroughfare through that territory, and thus maintain an unbroken intercourse between California and the Confederacy, to be accomplished from forces drawn wholly from California;" that he had just returned from Shreveport for the purpose of presenting the matter to President Davis in person.

The letter was accompanied by a plan in which Hastings proposed to return by way of Mexico to California, there raise from three to five thousand troops to be introduced into Arizona as miners and emigrants to Mexico, with which he would reduce the U. S. forts and capture the troops and take and hold all Federal property in that territory in the name of the Confederacy, establish a Confederate Territorial Government, keep communication open from the Pacific to Texas, maintaining unbroken intercourse between California and the Confederate states "so as to enable the thousands of Californians who desire to aid in the Confederate cause to do so at will and with safety;" that, in order to enable him to accomplish these objects, all he required of the Confederate Government was a commission covering his acts in the premises, funds necessary to defray his personal expense and transportation of volunteers who are without means.

In a communication dated Richmond, December 18, 1863, to President Davis, H. H. Mac-Willie "Delegate Arizona Territory," Jno. A. Wilcox, F. B. Sexton, M. D. Graham, W. B. Wright and W. S. Oldham transmitted a memorial from Hastings, who was then in Richmond, embodying an outline of a proposition for the recovery of Arizona and New Mexico, stating they agreed to the obvious necessity for such an enterprise and in the practicability of the plan, that Hastings had long resided in California, that they had the fullest confidence in his capacity and ability to accomplish all he might undertake, and believed the organization and direction of the proposed expedition could safely be entrusted to him with every prospect of successful consummation.

In a letter dated Richmond, December 29, 1863, to President Davis, Hastings requested, as a war measure, the granting to him of letters of marque and reprisal as an auxiliary movement. This request was submitted by Jefferson Davis to the Secretary of War for advice. January 11, 1864, in a letter to President Davis, Hastings stated he had been informed by the Secretary of War that the government, for want of funds, could not enter upon the enterprise he had submitted, which he very much regretted, as he "did desire above all things to inaugurate and consummate the enterprise upon a large scale;" but as he desired, "if permitted to aid the Confederacy in her present struggle for independence and to secure a home under the Confederate flag for her numerous friends and admirers on the Pacific coast," he deemed proper to present the matter upon a scale conforming to the present ability of the government. He proposed, he said, to immediately return to California by way of Mexico, where he would perfect a secret organization, raise a thousand to fifteen hundred volunteers, who would furnish their own arms and transportation, etc.

This letter was accompanied by a document styled "Modus Operandi," in which he stated he would immediately return to California, perfect secret organizations throughout that state, charter vessels, employ miners in the name of various mining companies, furnish transportation to emigrants in the name of the Mexican Immigration Aid Society, and at a proper time forward troops as miners and emigrants to Guaymas and the mines in the vicinity of Yuma; that a competent agent, not known to the people of the Pacific as ever having had any connection with the Confederacy, would either accompany him or leave the Confederacy for Guaymas with the necessary funds, within two months after his departure for California, which agent, having arrived at his destination, would ostensibly act as agent of various mining companies and of the Immigrant Aid Society, settle freight and transportation accounts, furnish, when necessary, subsistence, arms, etc. That the troops would leave Guaymas in small squads by different routes, assuming to be miners and immigrants, that when a sufficient number of troops had arrived in the interior of Arizona and upon the Colorado, he, Hastings, would find his way to that territory, having previously arranged to continue sending miners and emigrants "until the news shall have reached California that the Confederate flag floats in Arizona, after which time they will continue to send them as before, but by interior and unused routes."

Immediately upon his arrival at the Colorado mines he stated he would perfect the organization of that portion of the expedition and without delay capture Fort Yuma, and cause all the arms, etc., captured therewith to be removed to the Arizona side of the Colorado River; that he would then "with the aid of Greek fire, destroy the Fort and three steamers now on that river, thus completely demolishing at one blow the Federals' key and only means of transportation to that Territory;" that he would enlist and muster into the service such of the prisoners as may desire to unite with him, parole the balance and send them across the Great Desert, and then by means of the trains already captured, remove everything valuable to the interior of the territory. That thereupon the officer in command of the forces arriving by way of Mexico would be instructed to remain with his men in the character of miners and immigrants within the Mexican territory, if his safety shall require it, until he (Hastings) shall have arrived with the forces from the Colorado, to send out scouts and spies as miners to Fort Buchanan, Tucson and elsewhere so as to have the exact state of things throughout the surrounding country; but if the commander of the Mexican expedition should ascertain his forces were ample for that purpose, he would be directed to surprise and capture Fort Buchanan at once, being careful to allow none of the Federal civil officers to escape. He concludes by saying: "By the aid of favorable circumstances and accumulating forces from the adjacent States and Territories, I hope to be able soon after accomplishing the foregoing purposes to dispose of New Mexico in a similar manner."

LARGEST IN THE CITY (ROYD W. AMBERSON, Proprietor, LOS ANGELES)

This apparently terminated the correspondence between Hastings and the officers of the Confederacy, and marks the end of his second great adventure.

His third and final adventure was the promotion of emigration of ex-Confederates to Brazil. After the close of the Civil War he visited Brazil and obtained a grant of a large tract of land for colonization purposes. In a book entitled "Emigrant's Guide to Brazil," the preface to which is dated Mobile, Alabama, June, 1867, he graphically and with much detail treats of the land, climate, fertility of the soil, productions, rainfall, and kindred matters, painting in glowing language its adaptability and desirability for the purpose of founding a colony of ex-Confederates. He says in the preface:

"Several years' connection with the Confederate army, had, long before the fall of Richmond, fully convinced the writer, as well as many others, that the Confederate cause was hopeless, and that dire disaster and humiliating, social conflict were inevitable, all of which, the result was clearly demonstrated, leaving but two alternatives that a high-toned, conquered people could adopt. The acceptance of the situation, without mental reservation, or voluntary expatriation presents the only lines of duty, worthy of the noble patriots of the South. The writer, with thousands of others, from the best of motives, has determined to adopt the latter alternative.

"In conformity with the foregoing determination, the writer immediately proceeded to Brazil, where he spent six months in an examination of that vast Empire, and where, with great labor, care and solicitude, he selected what he deems a fitting home, for himself and unfortunate compatriots, with the means of transportation thither, and at the same time, collected much valuable, descriptive and statistical information, which he had intended to publish in extenso, but want of time and proper facilities has temporarily, if not permanently changed that purpose.

"His sole objects in visiting Brazil were to secure peaceful and happy homes for himself and distressed countrymen, and to collect and communicate to them, that character of information, which is at present so deficient, and yet so essential to those of our people who contemplate emigrating to that country; he would, therefore, feel that his work was unfinished and his labor in a great degree lost, should he now return to Brazil, the land of his adoption, without leaving, at least, a compendium of his labors, for the benefit of the thousands who are seeking information as to that prosperous country. He now, therefore, presents to the Southern public, condensed abstract from his numerous notes, with a view of furnishing, at an early period, and in cheap and convenient form, such practical information as the actual emigrant absolutely requires. But the reader must be satisfied with a brief abstract of his journal, as hurriedly written, while traveling through that vast country. Assuming that the reader's assent is given, the writer will now proceed to extract from such parts of his journal as he shall deem most interesting to the actual emigrant, omitting much that might be more interesting to the general reader."

It has been and is my understanding he succeeded in conducting one steamship load of emigrants from the South to Brazil, returning to the United States for more; he sailed with another shipload of emigrants, accompanied by his wife—he having married again—and died on the voyage to Brazil. This ended his third, and last, adventure.

A history of the emigration from Alabama to Brazil is in course of preparation by the Alabama Department of Archives and History, of which Mrs. Marie B. Owen is director. At her request, and with the consent of its owner, Albert Spence, the only copy known to exist of Hastings' "Emigrant's Guide to Brazil" was recently sent to Mrs. Owen for use in the preparation of the history. In acknowledging receipt of the book Mrs. Owen requested Hastings' picture photograph, and this request has been complied with.

As further indicating the interest in his career, Charles Kelly of Salt Lake City, who is preparing a book on the "Hastings' Cut-Off," has asked for a picture of Hastings and information regarding his expeditions.

OIL AND OIL PRODUCTS CONSUMPTION IN THE UNITED STATES.

The anticipated 1930 consumption of oil and oil products in the United States is 1,150,700,000 barrels, while production of crude necessary to meet the demand is 942,800,000 barrels, according to estimates presented in a report of the committee on petroleum economics recently appointed by the secretary of the Federal Interior Department.

The difference between consumption and supply of crude should be made up by a reduction of stocks by 30,100,000 barrels, an output of 58,000,000 barrels of natural gasoline and 3,300,000 barrels of benzol, imports of crude oil aggregating 69,000,000 barrels, and imports of oil products totaling 47,500,000 barrels.

The committee allocates the domestic crude oil production for the last nine months of the year to the principal producing areas as follows, in thousands of barrels per day: California, 610; Oklahoma, 655; Texas, 750; all others, 480; from storage, 78. The total for the entire country would be 2,573,000 barrels per day.

The committee splits up the demand for 1930 into 476,700,000 barrels of gasoline, 456,000,000 barrels of fuel oil, and 130,000 barrels of other products, including kerosene, lubricants, crude as such, and refinery losses.

The domestic consumption of gasoline is estimated at 409,700,000 barrels, while exports are expected to aggregate 476,700,000 barrels, which will make the 1930 demand for gasoline 9 percent greater than that of 1929.

In making the estimate of domestic consumption, the committee set the average number of cars and trucks expected to be in use during the year at 23,959,000, consuming 17.1 barrels of 42 gallons of gasoline each.

PACIFIC ISLANDERS MAY HAVE COME TO AMERICA BEFORE WHITES.

Ancient graves and dwelling sites left by the extinct Chumash Indians along the Santa Barbara coast and on Santa Rosa and Santa Cruz Islands have yielded evidence which may be interpreted to mean that Pacific islanders came in contact with America by sea before White men arrived, according to Dr. Ronald Olson, recent graduate student of the University of California, now a member of the staff of the American Museum of Natural History.

Concerning the possibility of island natives having visited America, bringing with them knowledge of how to make such things as curved shell hooks, perforated stones for war clubs and plank canoes, he says California South "exhibits a number of traits in both material and social culture which have provided cause for the suspicion of Oceanic influences." While the evidence found by him is not definite enough to support positive statements, he says the art of making such things was evidently developed shortly before the coming of the White men and this is not incompatible with the theory of trans-oceanic contacts.

The mainland dwelling sites and cemeteries investigated by Dr. Olson were all within twenty miles of Santa Barbara. Santa Cruz and Santa Rosa Islands are about twenty-five miles from the coast. Eighty-six Indian dwelling sites were located on these islands in 1918, and he found 120 more. Some of the shell mounds left by these extinct Indians reached tremendous size, one being 600x700 feet in area, an average of six feet in depth, and containing 93,000 cubic yards of refuse, or kitchen-middens as anthropologists call it.

Approximately 725 burials were located, although only 100 were sufficiently well preserved to permit removal of the entire skeleton. The Chumash had a habit of using the same grave over and over, sometimes dislodging the bones of two or three previous burials to deposit a new body, Dr. Olson reports.

AIMS AND ACCOMPLISHMENTS

ORDER NATIVE DAUGHTERS GOLDEN WEST

ON JUNE 16, 1930, THE GRAND Parlor of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West convenes in Oakland. Here will be reviewed the accomplishments of many projects sponsored by our organization. Here plans will be formulated to continue the usual service which our members give for the progressive development of California.

"One has to traverse the Heart of the other Lode to fully appreciate the inspiration which our Worthy Founder of the Order, Mrs. Lilly O. Reichling Dyer, received and wished to perpetuate when she organized the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

"Our primal objectives were historical and patriotic, but being progressive, our organization has added projects which benefit our State, our Nation, and Humanity.

"We promote the study of the history of our vicinity and State, for this knowledge inspires honor and admiration for the early builders of California.

"We fully realize that we are indebted to the Pioneer Men and Women who gave so much in creating this great Empire of the West. It was through almost incredible suffering and unsurmountable obstacles that the Western March of Civilization was accomplished and the future of California assured.

PIONEER ROSTER AND RELICS.

"Through the registration of the Pioneers, many valuable and interesting pioneer stories have been collected. This is a means of preserving authentic data and would receive the attention of every Subordinate Parlor. The collecting of pioneer relics has received consideration from many parlors, and plans for museums are under consideration in several Parlors.

"State Chairman, Margaret A. Kelly of 11 Dorado Parlor No. 186, has given valuable help and suggestions for this line of historical work.

MISSION RESTORATION.

"Our historic missions stand in silent tribute to the period in which colonization and christianity were brought to California. Famed throughout the world, this chain of twenty-one missions reaching from San Diego Bay to the Valley of the Moon re-echo the story of service and devotion, suffered through privations to render service to God and man. It took years of patient toil for the padres to build these monuments of beauty. The appeal for funds to aid in restoring San Miguel Mission and an Antonio de Padua Mission by our State Chairman of History and Landmarks, Florence Dodson Schoneman of Rudecinda Parlor No. 230, has met with a liberal response from many Subordinate Parlors.

"Many Parlors are interested in marking historic spots, collecting pioneer relics and authentic pioneer stories so that correct data is preserved for posterity. Every Parlor should work for the perpetuation of the historic names which lend to the history and romance of our State.

REDWOOD MEMORIAL GROVE.

"We are to purchase a Redwood Grove in Humboldt County which will be dedicated to the Pioneer Men and Women of California.

"We are saving these century-old sentinels of the forest as living tributes of a glorious past.

Esther R. Sullivan (GRAND PRESIDENT.)

"Past Grand President Anna L. Monroe is State Chairman of the Redwood Memorial Grove Committee.

VETERANS WELFARE.

"The veterans welfare work has received helpful recognition from many of the Subordinate Parlors. Many Parlor committees make personal calls, presenting entertaining programs and give baskets of delicacies to these shut-in heroes.

"One Parlor has an efficient chairman who sends monthly from fifty to seventy cartons containing fresh and preserved fruits and cigarettes to veteran patients in Arizona. Other Parlors have adopted an invalid buddy who receives help and personal care each month.

"Our Order has been highly commended by the United States Government for the great service rendered in this cause.

"Our State Chairman, Past Grand President Stella Finkeldey, sends messages of cheer, articles of comfort and luxuries to government hospitals in our State and in other States where our veterans are paying the price for love of country and devotion to our Flag.

MISS ESTHER R. SULLIVAN OF MARYSVILLE
GRAND PRESIDENT N.D.G.W.

AMERICANIZATION.

"The americanization service rendered by our organization impresses those who desire citizenship that our country has much to give, but it requires an exchange of civic and social principles upon which our American democracy is founded. We welcome the men and women who come to our country willing to serve under our principles of American democracy, by which they should become patriotic citizens.

"Past Grand President Catherine Gloster is chairman of this patriotic committee.

HOMELESS CHILDREN.

"This year the homeless children work has been sponsored and financed by every Subordinate Parlor of our Order. This worthy project gives joy to a dependent child and brings happiness to the home. This is an excellent type of americanization. A child receives the advantage of a moral training and the right of an education which develops a better future citizen for our State and Nation.

"Over three thousand eight hundred children have been adopted under the recommendation and supervision of the Subordinate Parlor committees without additional expense. This is a service which has its recompense in personal satisfaction for having aided these dependent babes.

"Mary E. Brusie of Argonaut Parlor No. 166, our efficient secretary, has endeared herself to our members for her wise counsel and helpful suggestions. Her heart and hands are ever willing to serve for this noble work.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS GOLDEN WEST HOME.

"The successful efforts of the Native Daughters of the Golden West Home Committee has given to our Order a building which makes every Native Daughter feel proud that this modern, substantial building bears the name 'Native Daughters of the Golden West Home.' This building represents in a material way the progressive and helpful spirit which characterizes our projects.

"In the Home, many of our younger members from the interior are enjoying a home atmosphere under the kind management of Laura Hawkins of Santa Cruz Parlor No. 26. The indebtedness is being liquidated by the Loyalty Pledge—a pledge of five dollars given by the individual member to prove her loyalty to an Order which gives shelter and comfort to those who need such protection when the shadows are falling on life's pathway.

"Past Grand President Dr. Mariana Bertola has given years of thoughtful preparation and effort to make the 'Home Beautiful' a realization. Her services as chairman of the Home Committee should be appreciated by every member of our Order.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS GOLDEN WEST SCHOLARSHIPS.

"The Native Daughters of the Golden West encourage higher education for women. We prove our interest by the three scholarships which are given to the young women of our Order who qualify with the required university grading.

"One scholarship is at Mills College, another at the University of California, and a third at the University of California at Los Angeles.

"This enriched opportunity prepares for a service of broader vision and gives to our State women who are especially trained to be of valuable help and an acquisition to any community.

"The Mills College scholarship is under the chairmanship of past Grand President Dr. Mariana Bertola. Grand Trustee Irma Laird is chairman of the university scholarships.

COMMUNITY PROJECTS.

"Each Subordinate Parlor is advised to participate in social and civic projects. We must prove our worth as a valuable asset in our community. Many Parlors lend their help in children's welfare work, and other phases of helpful service in all civic affairs.

MEMBERSHIP.

"California women prove their loyalty to their birthright by affiliation with the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West.

"One thousand new members have been added to our Parlors this term. We welcome these representative California women into our ranks and ask their co-operation for the ideals and projects that our Order sponsors. Two essentials necessary for development are increased interest and increased finances. These are aided by an increased membership.

"Our program of social activities appeals to the younger members, who enjoy this social entertainment and aid our Parlors with their spirit of fraternal helpfulness.

"Our Order is to inspire a love for California and to serve as a builder for the great future of our Golden State. Every California woman should be proud of the opportunity to be a member of such an organization which proves its worth by serving, with a vision to make our State worthy of its past achievements and equal to the great future that is assured to California.

PUBLICITY.

"Publicity gives to our organization the recognition it deserves. Interested people have the privilege of knowing our aims and accomplishments. These projects should interest every California woman who desires to serve for the development and progress of California.

"Excellent publicity was given to the Native Daughters of the Golden West Home by a recent broadcast from San Jose. Past Grand Presidents Bertha Adelle Briggs and Dr. Louise C. Heilbron gave interesting and instructive talks. John M. Burnett of San Jose assisted with an able address for the Home and the benefits derived from this progressive project.

"The constructive work which has been accomplished this term has been most gratifying. It was made possible by the loyal co-operation of the individual members of the Subordinate Parlors. The continuation of this spirit of fraternal service means much for the future of our great organization, composed of women who pledge their loyalty by deeds of service to "The greatest, the best,

The most wonderful State
Of the Golden West."

BOOK REVIEWS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

"LIFE AND LETTERS OF A FORTY-NINER'S DAUGHTER."
By Aurora Esmeralda; Harr Wagner Publishing Company, Publishers, San Francisco; Price, $5.00.

The writer of this book is none other than Mrs. Ella Sterling Mighels of San Francisco, author of "The Story of the Files," "Literary California," etc. She is the daughter of Sterling Benjamin Franklin Clark, who came across the plains from Hollidaysburg, Pennsylvania, to California in 1849. In 1852 he went back to Pennsylvania, via Panama, to claim his bride, and they immediately set out for California, via Nicaragua. Two weeks after their arrival in San Francisco, October 1, 1852, Clark passed away. May 5, 1853, his descendant, Ella Sterling Clark, was born, near Folsom, Sacramento County.

The book, a tribute to the early-day miners of California and Nevada, is the life-history of Aurora Esmeralda, a child of the mines. It tells the story of her being cradled in a gold-rocker, of her travels in other states and foreign lands, and of her "quartz-mill experiences in the high Sierras, where I took to myself," quoting the author, "the philosophy of the miners, which I am now teaching to the youth of my neighborhood, who are pledged never to forget those early Pioneers." One of the most interesting

AIMS AND OBJECTS

ORDER OF NATIVE DAUGHTERS OF THE GOLDEN WEST

- To cultivate state pride.
- To aid state development.
- To advance state progress.
- To promote the study of California history.
- To preserve California's landmarks, relics and traditions.
- To honor and keep in memory California's Pioneers.
- To stimulate and inspire patriotism.
- To assist in the work of americanization.
- To encourage higher education for women, as evidenced by the Order's liberal college scholarship.
- To guarantee social enjoyment, mental improvement and mutual benefit to members.
- To care, conjointly with the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, for the orphaned children of California, of whatever class, color or creed, by placing them in permanent homes through legal adoption proceedings, thus engaging in the most humanitarian of public welfare work, that of improving the future citizenship of the state.
- If YOU were born in California and believe in these principles, you should be a member of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West.

features of the book is this deposition, made before a notary public:

"Mrs. Lucy A. Hoxsie, being duly sworn, deposes and says: I am a resident of Mormon Island, near Folsom, Sacramento County, California. I am a widow of about the age of seventy-eight. . . . When I was a child I went to school on Mormon Island. That school was located on the ranch where I then lived. . . . The teacher and founder of the school was Mrs. Sterling B. F. Clark. I attended the school in 1853. The school was the first one established by the Americans or anyone else in that district. Mrs. Clark was the widow of Mr. Sterling B. F. Clark, deceased.

"Our family has maintained a landmark's sign on the ranch, directing where the school stood. We did this in deference to the wish of the posthumous daughter of Sterling B. F. Clark, who was born in this school house on May 5th, 1853. This daughter was Ella Sterling Clark, now Mrs. Ella Sterling Cummins Mighels, who is the author of 'The Story of the Files of California' and of 'Literary California,' in recognition of which works she received in 1919 from the Legislature of California the title of 'First Historian of Literary California.' Being a pupil of the school and attached to the teacher, I became familiar with the family affairs, and learned of the existence and death of the husband, Sterling B. F. Clark, and of the birth of the daughter, whose name of Sterling is derived from this father."

Aurora Esmeralda (Mrs. Mighels) is affiliated with Hayward Parlor No. 122 N.D.G.W. of Hayward, Alameda County. She is well known readers of The Grizzly Bear, which has published many of her writings, as well as the dia of her father, the original manuscript of which has been purchased by Senator James D. Phelan and presented to the Society of California Pioneers, San Francisco.

The book, of 400 pages, contains several illustrations and an index. It concludes with the words and the music of a song, entitled "California," composed by Ella Sterling Mighels: "She dreams by the side of her own beloved sea A dark eyed and tropical child With a heart that is fresh and a soul that is free And a nature untrammell'd and wild. She seems in a dream or beneath a strange spee All with sweetness and beauty replete From her flowing dark hair with its abalone shell To her beaded and moccasin'd feet."

"MISSION SAN ANTONIO DE PADUA."

By Fr. Zephyrin Engelhardt, O.F.M.; Missions Santa Barbara, Publisher; Price, $1.00.

Fr. Zephyrin is well and favorably known all interested in the history of California, for as the author of "The Missions and Missionsaries," etc., he has contributed many valuable historical works to Californiana.

The book presents the detailed history of San Antonio de Padua, "The Mission in the Sierras third in age in the chain of missions extending from San Diego to Sonoma, established in California. It was founded by Father Junipero Serra, July 14, 1771, "at a spot"—in the San Lucia Mountains in Monterey County—"which the expedition of Portola on September 1, 1769, had called 'La Hoya de la Sierra de San Lucia'; the place lay in a large valley covered with oak trees, for which reason it was termed 'Los Robles.'" The first White child baptized there was Maria de la Concepcion Duarte, May 5, 1774. The mission commemorates "Saint Anthony, surnamed 'de Padua' to distinguish him from Saint Anthony, the Hermit," who was born in Portugal in 1195 and proclaimed the Great Wonderworker.

"My object" in presenting the book, says Fr. Zephyrin in a note to the editor, "was to give due credit to the Orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West," which contributed generously to the mission's restoration fund. "It was the first chance to manifest my appreciation. So let them have the honor due them for their generosity. But for them, San Antonio would be only a mass of adobe earth.

THE PINE TREE

(EDNA GEARHART.)

Defiled and starving in an arid strip
Between the street and churlish factory wall,
A dingy pine tree droops with weight of soot.
Of all who pass, the factory watchman stops,
With lingering hand on rough familiar bark.

Beyond the reeking midnight's blare, the branches
Stir to life in cleaner wind, that brings
A cool gray interval, the silent flight
Of fog, a blotting out of heated bricks
And lights that dim like drowning fire-flies.
The watchman, pausing on his barren trails Through stagnant halls, throws wide a door feel

The drifting moisture on his face, and sees
The quivering pine benignly magnified
In long deliberate lines and fringing edge.
Its dark design looms tall on silver mist,
And all its pride of slender shaft and crown,
And fresh wet scent of needles are restored
In shining vapor, kind as petaled snow.

To these sad mountain exiles now is given An hour's release from death in ugliness.
—University California Chronicle.

'49 PIONEER TO BE HONORED.

Shasta (Shasta County)—This historic town the home of California's first Masonic Lodge will have a Pioneer Day celebration June 8. The guest of honor will be Mrs. Anna B. Leach C. Inwood, aged 89, said to be the only Pioneer of '49 now residing in this county. She came across the plains, via the Lassen Trail, in November of 1849.

OAKLAND WILL WELCOME GRAND PARLOR OF NATIVE DAUGHTERS

WHEN DELEGATES OF THE ORDER of Native Daughters of the Golden West gather in Oakland, California, for the annual Grand Parlor session in June, they will find themselves in the center of historical California. Visitors will tread the same ground over which stately Spanish dons, English and Russian traders, Jesuit priests, and later picturesque American forty-niners passed in the procession which marked the development of the Golden State.

Within a few miles of the city still stands the historic old Mission San Jose, sometimes called the cradle of Alameda County. In the hills back of the city is the picturesque home of Joaquin Miller, famous "Poet of the Sierras," and on Oakland's waterfront may still be found relics of the days of '49. Trails once trod by Indians, plodding ox teams and feet of Spanish caballeros, are now broad thoroughfares, but they follow the same routes that marked the simple lines of commerce in the early days. The wharf from which Spanish Pioneers loaded horns and tallow on the old-time sailing vessels is now Oakland's beautiful Embarcadero, and the creek which served as a connecting link with San Francisco Bay is now Lake Merritt.

Everywhere the delegates go they will be moving in the former habitat of those who made California history in its most colorful days. Old friendships will be renewed and new ones made under the most ideal circumstances at the gathering.

No stone is being left unturned either by the Oakland committee, the Oakland Chamber of Commerce or the Oakland city officials to make the convention highly successful. NEW WONDERS DISPLAYED.

The march of progress, with its influx of new peoples, has brought many added wonders. Between sessions, visitors in Oakland will find a wealth of beauty, lovely scenery, marvels of engineering skill and hundreds of attractive spots to visit within a few hours from the heart of the city.

Those who have visited Oakland will always associate it with beautiful Lake Merritt, the only tidal lake in the center of any American city. Just a stone's throw from the busy downtown section lies this sparkling body of water, cradled in the center of a marvelous panorama of parks, homes, apartment houses, business buildings and, in the distance, the hills of Piedmont.

DRIVES OFFER BEAUTY.

In their leisure hours, delegates may enjoy the drives in and around Oakland. The boulevard around the lake is one of scenic loveliness, while not far from the heart of the city is the Skyline boulevard, rated as one of the most beautiful drives in the world. The route follows the crest of hills back of Oakland and offers marvelous views of San Francisco Bay and the neighboring cities of Alameda County. On this drive is the home of Joaquin Miller and also the municipal zoo.

Oakland's municipal airport, where the huge "denizens of the air" arrive and depart with passengers, airmail and express, is always a source of interest to visitors in the city.

HAS FIVE HANGARS.

The mammoth municipal airfield contains five enormous hangars, three of which are said to be the largest non-military hangars in the United States; a fully-equipped repair shop, large transport hangar, naval reserve base, and a model administration building which has been copied all over the country. Here will be found the United States Weather Bureau, a post office, the Pacific Coast headquarters for the Federal Department of Commerce, an up-to-date hotel and restaurant, a barber shop and numerous aviation schools—all within an area of 845 acres.

SPEEDY SERVICE.

Another novel and extremely important addition to the field is the speed-boat service from the airport to San Francisco, which has so facilitated service that it is possible to arrive at the San Francisco Ferry Building just thirty minutes after getting out of a plane at the Oakland field.

Aviation enthusiasts may enjoy a ride across San Francisco Bay by plane on the newly-estab-arriving and departing as they carry cargoes the seven seas, is centered around Oakland waterfront. It is one of the most important factors in the development of foreign trade, is promoting the city's progress, and offers never-ending panorama of industrial as well as scenic interest.

Five miles from Oakland, in Berkeley, is famous University of California, largest university in America in point of enrollment, its internationally-known campanile, staid Hearst greek theatre and beautiful grounds.

IS PROSPEROUS CITY.

These are just a few of the interesting worth-while places to visit while in Oakland, third largest city in the state, which has carved its niche into the state's history as an industrial and thrifty municipality. Oakland has been called the most prosperous city in America, the largest statistical organization in the world which based that assertion on the following facts:

A commanding position at one of the chief roads of the world.

A back country of unlimited wealth.

A cool, equable climate.

An industrial population, largely of American extraction.

Huge manufacturing output.

Foreign domestic commerce of great magnitude.

Splendid water and electric facilities.

FIGURES TELL STORY.

That figures tell the story well be applied to the following vital facts: Within the past years Oakland population experienced healthy increase. Its deposits in commercial savings banks increased from $105,262,800 in 1919 to $1,092,773 in 1921. In 1910, bank clearings were $157,183,300 while last year they were $1,020,614,224. More than 50,000 persons are given employment in the city's 1,000 manufacturing plants, which have an annual payroll of $69,490,000 and a yearly output of $552,000,000.

It has often been referred to as the "Industrial Capital of the West," and visitors in Oakland will want to watch the wheels of industry turn in its great automotive plants, its beer canneries, factories, mills, packing plants and kindred citadels of commerce and trade. Many of these plants are open for inspection and travelers will not have to go far to see them. You know why Oakland is the center of industrial activity on the Pacific Coast.

These facts are given for those who are interested in knowing Oakland in a commercial sense, but for the Grand Parlor guest it is more immediate interest to know that she will find in Oakland a city of unusual beauty and charm, a hospitable citizenry, and ample entertainment and accommodations.

GOOD HOTEL SERVICE.

Oaklanders have assured convention delegates that there will be no worries in getting the kind of hotel service and accommodations. Hotels in the city range from the elaborate furnished hostelry to the more modest "bohemian" hotel. There are 6,500 hotel rooms available, some 2,000 rooms in private clubs and approximately 3,000 rooms in the immediate vicinity adjoining Oakland. Thousands coming to the city can be amply cared for and there will be no "housing" problem for committee chairmen.

A VIEW OF LAKE MERRITT—THE ONLY TIDAL LAKE IN THE HEART OF ANY AMERICAN CITY—SHOWING THE OAKLAND MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM.

lished air ferry, which is the shortest and most frequent air passenger line in the world.

Another point of interest is the George A. Posey tube, the largest subaqueous pre-cast vehicular tube in the world, which carries for the traffic between Oakland and Alameda by means of a wide roadway under the Oakland Estuary. The tube is 4,426.5 feet long, of which 3,545 feet are covered and furnished with mechanical ventilation, lighting and signals, and can accommodate 4,224 vehicles per hour. It was constructed at a cost of $5,000,000 and took forty months to complete.

OBSERVATORY LARGEST.

Chabot Observatory, the largest municipal observatory in the United States and one of the five best in America, is a short trip of a few moments from convention headquarters and well worth visiting.

Located on the shores of Lake Merritt is the Municipal Auditorium, a splendid structure seating 8,000 persons. This is the gathering place of the city and all civic functions are conducted here. A large art gallery with hundreds of costly paintings will interest the visitor here.

Every city of consequence has a fine City Hall, but few have as an imposing one as Oakland. This $2,000,000 structure rises from the center of the city and its lofty tower dominates the skyline. From its top the traveler may obtain a wonderful view of Oakland, San Francisco Bay and Mount Tamalpais.

and the Oakland Chamber of Commerce convention bureau to meet.

WILL GET CORDIAL WELCOME.

Great plans are being made for the entertainment of the Daughters of the Golden West while the annual Grand Parlor holds its sessions here. There will be theatre parties at the many beautiful show palaces in the city. Teas, card parties and motor trips throughout the entire East Bay section are also being arranged.

The Oakland committee, the City of Oakland and the Oakland Chamber of Commerce are all co-operating to make this convention an outstanding success, and a cordial welcome awaits the delegates.

OAKLAND'S PARKS AND PLAYGROUNDS INCLUDE LAKES AND REDWOOD FORESTS.

"Six hundred and thirty acres, including 155 acres in Lake Merritt, are under the control of the Board of Park Directors," says L. S. Kerfoot, superintendent of parks, "and 285 acres are controlled by the Recreation Department. The city, therefore, owns 915 acres of parks and playgrounds, besides which the Recreation Department rents from the Federal Government two summer camps in the Sierras, the combined area of the two camps being 50 acres.

"Sequoia Park, 183 acres, is our largest park and it adjoins 'The Heights,' a park of 67 acres.

The two are really one park of 250 acres, the separate names being retained for sentimental reasons only. There are about 100 acres of second growth redwoods in Sequoia Park, some of them measuring as much as 4 feet in diameter, while many of the original trees measured from 15 to 20 feet in diameter.

"The Heights" was barren of trees at the time it was purchased by Joaquin Miller. He planted about 75,000 hardy trees, and the park is now a real forest. He also erected various monuments, one to Moses, one to Browning and one to General Fremont. The Fremont monument is particularly interesting because it marks the spot where he and his scouts camped on September 21, 1846, while on their way to Sutter's Fort after capturing Los Angeles and winning the state for Uncle Sam.

of Oakland's park system, being located almost in the center of the city and entirely surrounded by highly improved parks. The lake was originally an arm of the estuary and was surrounded by marsh lands and mud flats. The marsh lands were filled in, gates installed to regulate the water level and a rock wall built along the shore line to prevent the lawns being ruined by salt water; and now, instead of the marshes, Oakland has 130 acres of parks surrounding the lake."

ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF THE PAST POINT TO GLORIOUS FUTURE.

"Oakland may well be described as the dwelling place of prophets. This is not the extravagant statement that it seems to be at first sight, for any one of us who is at all familiar with what has taken place in our industrial and commercial life in the last few years can describe the glorious future of this city in unlimited terms, and not overrate the actual facts," comments E. B. Field, president Oakland Chamber of Commerce.

"Rising, in a comparatively few years, from a small community to a metropolis of national and international importance, Oakland has commanded the attention of all who study community development.

"The phenomenal growth in the volume and value of goods produced in the Eastbay metropolitan area was maintained in 1929. A significant fact is that while the number of new industries locating here in 1929 was less than the number in 1928, they have produced goods exceeding in volume and value those produced by the new firms in 1928.

"While industry may be termed to be the backbone of the prosperity of a city because of its employment of labor, the type of industries located and the type of labor employed go a long way toward determining the degree of prosperity which is to be experienced by the community. In Oakland our industries employ a high type of labor with corresponding compensation which enables 40 percent of those employed to own their own homes. Well may it be said, therefore, that the future belongs to Oakland!"

OAKLAND PUBLIC SCHOOLS

AMONG THE NATION'S BEST.

"Educational experts have ranked the Oakland public schools among the best in the nation," according to Willard E. Givens, superintendent of schools, "as they offer educational and vocational opportunities that are unexcelled to boys and girls who are being trained to become self-supporting and self-respecting citizens, and for adults who desire to better themselves and improve their conditions.

"The Oakland public schools have a staff of 1,908 teachers, physical plants valued at $25,000,000, including 320 acres of school sites, 76 school buildings with more than 4,000,000 square feet of floor space and equipment, guaranteeing educational opportunities to all, and encouraging every child and adult to make full use of the advantages offered to prepare for a successful, fruitful and healthful life, and the wise use of their leisure time.

"The schools' program is very wide and includes, in addition to the adult education classes and apprenticeship courses, classes in child study for parents, a program of character training, health conservation, a system of counselling, guidance and placement, classes for the physically handicapped, and special sections for the children whose rate of progress is slightly below normal."

OAKLAND'S MARCH OF PROGRESS AIDED BY CHAMBER COMMERCE.

"The Oakland Chamber of Commerce," says General Manager Joseph M. Parker, "faces the future with a spirit of supreme optimism. During the past year the chamber was active in promoting the growth and expansion which the city has enjoyed, and it is with pardonable pride that one can look back over the period of accomplishment.

"Largely through the efforts of the chamber's foreign and domestic trade department, Oakland was made a port of entry last year, which automatically created for the Port of Oakland all of the export and customs facilities formerly available only through San Francisco.

"A splendid record was established in 1929, when 118 new industries located in Oakland, bringing an estimated investment of $5,750,000, an estimated annual production value of $52,500,000, a payroll of approximately $4,000,000, and about 2,500 employes. There also came to Oakland during the year 865 new business houses.

"These welcome additions to the city's industrial and business life were brought about, to a great extent, through the activities of the chamber and its industrial department.

"The Chamber of Commerce has kept faith with Oakland and its residents, and has rendered a very definite and constructive service to the Eastbay community, which service will continue in a constant effort to quicken the stride of greater Oakland on its march of progress."

"CITY OF DEEDS AND OF DESTINY"

Sue J. Irwin

(PAST GRAND PRESIDENT NATIVE DAUGHTERS GOLDEN WEST.)

BERKELEY,—CITY OF CULTURE, EDUCATION, and beautiful homes,—of which the California poet, Joaquin Miller, has so aptly said: "Aye, write her fair story—as fair as a star, as sweet as her sea winds, as strong as her sea—city with never a stain or a scar—city of deeds and of destiny. Sea-horn and sun-bred Mecca to be—matchless, magnificent Berkeley."

Matchless? Yes, in the rapidity with which she has progressed from the days of the primitive unkept Indians of the Costanoans, or "coast people" tribe,—who occupied the flat portions of the East Bay—to her present commanding position as the cultural and educational center of the West.

Legend tells us that hundreds of years before the advent of the White man, even before the day of the Indian, all of this central portion of California was covered with water. With the recession of the water, the great lake eventually became dry land and was occupied by the American Indian. Came then an earthquake, rocking California from end to end and severing the hills where now is located the Golden Gate, allowing the waters of the sea to rush in and form the bay. With the sea came Palefaces and from the sea have ever since continued to come Palefaces.

But the coming of the White man—the Spaniards came first—was not accomplished with all the ease indicated by the legend. The early Spanish explorers, the friars, who labored unceasingly to turn the Indian from his savage ways, the early settlers—these suffered all of the privations, hardships and disappointments incident to pioneering in a new land.

The location of San Francisco Bay was not definitely established in the minds of the Spanish officials, and expeditions were sent from what is now San Diego—with little else to guide them than the none-too-definite reports of earlier explorers and the rather hazy knowledge of the natives. After the long journey from San Diego, Lieutenant Fages, with a party of twelve soldiers and an Indian guide, reached the vicinity of San Francisco Bay in 1772. He visited San Leandro Bay, climbed the hills of what is now East Oakland, passed the arm of an estuary known today as Lake Merritt, and camped in the hills just north of the present site of the University of California campus. This was probably the first time a White man set foot on this East Bay soil.

Followed then, the coming of Spanish settlers, and, with the settlers, the granting—as was the custom of the government—of huge tracts of land in return for various services, usually military. One of these grants was made to Luis Maria Peralta in 1820, and embraced eleven leagues (44,800 acres), including what is now Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley. In 1843 this original rancho was divided among the four sons of Don Luis Peralta and the most northerly portion, or what is now Berkeley, became the property of Jose Domingo Peralta.

Three years later General Fremont appeared and gave to the Golden Gate its name, forecasting, among other things, the future development of the land where Berkeley now stands. In the years immediately following, such men as Frances K. Shattuck, George M. Blake, William Hillegass and others—men who played a large part in the shaping of the destinies of Berkeley, and men for whom the city has named its important streets,—came to the new community and commenced farming.

With the coming of American settlers, plans for an educational system began to take form. Henry Durant, in 1853, opened his school in the vicinity of what is now Fifth and Broadway, Oakland,—Broadway being the only well-defined avenue in a hamlet of a few hundred population. Subsequently the school was moved to larger quarters a few blocks away and later became the College of California.

Meanwhile, a search was being made for a suitable and permanent location for the seat of learning, and many were the sites considered. Some question seems to exist as to the actual method of selection of the present location of the University of California; some maintain that Professor Henry Durant was the man responsible for choosing the site, while others are of the opinion that the board of trustees of the College of California—after a memorable search by Horace Bushnell—finally approved the ground now occupied by the State University.

Whatever the method of selection, we find that there followed the purchase of four plots of land from as many early settlers, and the deeding of this land—together with that owned by the College of California in Oakland—to the State of California in order that the state might have a university and not merely an agricultural, mining and mechanical arts college. On March 23,

ONE OF BERKELEY'S SHOPPING CENTERS AS IT IS TODAY.

1868, the University of California received its charter.

After the selection of the site for the university and before the granting of the charter, the question of a name for the community, which was rapidly springing up around the location of the future educational center, was occupying much of the attention of the settlers. Peralta, Bushnell and Billings—names prominent in the day—with prefixes or suffixes of various kinds were frequently suggested, as well as numerous others. Peralta, possibly, seemed to be favored until there came a day when Frederick Billing, a college trustee, was casting about in his mind for lines of thought that would suggest a name appropriate and unobjectionable. Our far western location brought to his recollection:

"Westward the course of empire takes its way
The four first acts already past,

A fifth shall close the drama of the day;
Time's noblest offering is the last."

"Berkeley," he said to himself, "Berkeley, the author of those prophetic lines, 'Westward the course of empire takes its way,' . . . wouldn't 'Berkeley' be a good name for our town?"

So, he proposed it; it was talked over. The more it was considered, the more it was favored, for it seemed to meet the condition of the case better, on the whole, than any other name that had been suggested. At a meeting of the trustees held on May 24, 1866, "Berkeley" was the name unanimously chosen for the new college town.

It is a far cry from George Berkeley, Bishop of Cloyne, to Berkeley, California,—cultural and educational center of the West. And yet, is it? For Bishop Berkeley, though born in Ireland, and a citizen of Ireland, the greater part of his life did aspire to the establishment in America of an institution for the education of the aboriginal Americans,—and, in 1729, actually came to this country for that purpose. Three years later, having waited in vain for promised aid, he returned to London, little dreaming that in a land yet unknown to him, would be established, in a city bearing his name, one of the foremost institutions of learning in the world.

Berkeley is a name to conjure with in the educational world. Could the bishop for whom the city is named behold the University of California, with its 10,000 students—students from every State in the Union from every civilized country on the face of the earth; could the good bishop see the 1,500 professors and instructors of the university staff; and then could he, in addition see the large number of private schools, preparatory and finishing schools, the numerous divinity schools of the city and the public school system which has gained international recognition for its high standards; then would Bishop Berkeley know that his vision of super-educational facilities for Americans has been realized.

Naturally enough, to such a center have been attracted large numbers of cultured, home-loving citizens, and travelers tell us that ours is among the most beautiful home cities to be found anywhere in the world today. The verdant and wooded Berkeley hills, lying back two miles from the shores of San Francisco Bay, form a natural amphitheatre of gorgeous beauty, the walls of which are rapidly becoming covered with charming residences which look down over the city proper,—and beyond, over San Francisco Bay and westward through the Golden Gate. The setting is ideal,—so much so, that we who see it daily little realize that we have here what is undoubtedly a worthy rival of the beauty of the Bay of Naples.

There are many things which add attractiveness to Berkeley as a home city. The homes themselves,—yes, for homes are here ranging from those of the modest dwelling of the semi-skilled worker to the most palatial homes to be found in any community,—all of them showing the pride of ownership, the civic pride which is so universally felt in Berkeley.

Again, the careful attention given by the city government to the protection of trees and shrubs, as well as to the planning and developing of park areas, has maintained for us much of the original beauty which is so often destroyed in a growing city. Fourteen parks and playgrounds in as many sections of the city help to maintain the natural attractiveness of Berkeley.

The beautiful six-hundred-acre campus of the University of California,—with the world-famed Greek Theatre, where frequently appear noted artists of the world of music and drama, the Memorial Stadium in which each year thousands the university and the type of resident it attracts, offer merchandise a little more distinctive and set a little higher standard than the ordinary city,—these, coupled with the fact that our climate varies but slightly from the figure set by the Federal Government as being ideal for efficiency, make Berkeley stand out pre-eminently as a home city,—a city of culture and refinement.

Miss Sue J. Irwin, who prepared the accompanying article, "Berkeley, City of Deeds and of Destiny," is prominently identified with educational and civic endeavors, as well as with the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West.

It is also significant that in addition to these many splendid advantages, Berkeley is rapidly assuming importance as an industrial center. On the eastern shores of San Francisco Bay and to the west of the city is a well-zoned industrial area, in which, according to a recent survey, are located two hundred and ten manufacturing establishments turning raw materials into finished products to the value of sixty million dollars annually. Several nationally-known organizations with a wide variety of products are located here, and have brought with them a large number of skilled employees,—substantial citizens who have welcomed the opportunity to cast their lot in a city which has the many home-educational and recreational advantages that Berkeley has to offer.

Magnificent in her unlimited and varied opportunity for the enrichment of life and the profitable employment of the leisure time of her citizens, Berkeley occupies a unique position in her relation to the attractive metropolitan district of San Francisco Bay, and from her hills, looking through the Golden Gate, extends a true California Welcome.

"Berkeley, my Berkeley. Nations laud thy name over land and sea. Nestling at the portals of the Golden Gate, Smiling welcome to our Golden State, Berkeley, my Berkeley, City of Destiny."

MOKELUMNE WATER PROJECT MILESTONE OF EASTBAY PROGRES-

"The threat of a water shortage, which hung over the Eastbay cities for many years, has been removed through completion of the Mokelumne River water project," according to Frank W. Hanna, chief engineer and general manager. "This project, which was launched through creation of the East Bay Municipal Utility District in 1923, and actually commenced so far as construction was concerned in 1925, is now complete, save for a few minor details, and Mokelumne River water has been flowing through the local distribution system since June 2, 1929.

"The principal features of the Mokelumne River project," representing an investment of

A DISTINCTIVE BERKELEY HILLSIDE RESIDENCE.

$39,000,000, "consist of a large storage reservoir on Mokelumne River in the foothills of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, a large aqueduct leading from this reservoir across the interior basin and through the Coast Range into the district, auxiliary structures and works along this aqueduct, and high line aqueducts within the district itself.

"The storage reservoir in the Sierra foothills has been designated the Pardee Reservoir. The reservoir has a gross capacity of approximately 225,000 acre-feet of water, of which about 200,000 acre-feet are above the aqueduct outlet leading from it into the district. Inasmuch as the average mean annual runoff of the Mokelumne River is about 860,000 acre-feet, the reservoir has an available storage capacity of about 25 percent of the mean annual runoff of the upper drainage basin of the river. Nature has made provisions for an ideal reservoir site at this location.

"The Pardee Dam is one of the largest and most imposing dams in the world. It is a gravity type structure 358 feet high, 1,337 feet long, 241 feet thick at the base, and 16 feet wide at the top.

"The Pardee Power Plant is located in the old river channel at the base of the dam and receives its water through two 72-inch cast iron penstocks. The power plant consists of two turbo-generator sets of 7,500 kilowatt capacity each. The transformers are located in the powerhouse and are designed to transform the current generated by the turbo-generator units to a line voltage of 66,000. The power plant was completed in December, 1929."

DANDELIONS IN LAWNS.

The dandelion is the most common and most persistent enemy of beautiful lawns. The spread from a neighboring lawn, take root under ordinary conditions, and run out the grass unless they are kept down. Merely cutting them will not kill them. If they are cut off, and good weed killer applied by the drop, the dandelion will be killed. Spraying with iron sulphate is a good control under most conditions. This spray may injure the grass, but it will recover after the treatments are discontinued.

ALAMEDA COUNTY'S NATIVE DAUGHTER PARLORS

ALAMEDA COUNTY HAS FIFTEEN SUB-ordinate Parlors of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West. The Grizzly Bear directed a letter to the secretary of each, seeking information so as to publish a brief history of the several Parlors. From replies received, the following is presented:

ANGELITA PARLOR.

Angelita Parlor No. 32, Livermore—Instituted May 12, 1888, by Grand President Tina L. Kane, with twenty-nine charter members. Mrs. Josephine Inman was the charter president, and Mrs. Pauline Nusbaumer was the charter recording secretary. It is claimed that Mrs. Inman was the first child born of American parents in California; she was born at Napa City, January 24, 1847.

Charter members still affiliated are: Mrs. Annie McDonald and Mrs. Annie Iverson. The past presidents of the Parlor include: Alice Dougherty, Josephine Bernal, Mayme Hupers, Emma Johnson, Zylpha Beck, Etta Lefever, Edith Kingsley, Olive Block, Mary Henry, Grace Gardella, Florence Compton, Minnie Cragholm, Marie Clarke, Mae Gallagher, Agnes Reuss, Helen Ruter, Orlena Beck, Mabel Jorgensen, Vera Hauberg and Myrtle Johnson.

The Parlor's membership is now 86, and it has assets of $600. It is active in civic, Red Cross, child-welfare and veteran-welfare work.

Following are the present officers: Past president, Myrtle Johnson; president, Hazel Strominger; first vice-president, Etta Lefever; second vice-president, Katie Jensen; third vice-president, Josie Kaiser; marshal, Edna Twisselman; inside sentinel, Dorothy Madsen; outside sentinel, Mabel Belles; treasurer, Grace Gardella; financial secretary, Annie McDonald; recording secretary, Orlena Beck; organist, Elizabeth McDevitt; trustees, Olive Block, Mary Henry, Vera Hauberg.

PIEDMONT PARLOR.

Piedmont Parlor No. 87, Oakland—Instituted January 23, 1896, by Grand Vice-president Belle W. Conrad, with forty-six charter members. Jennie Brown was the charter president, and Gertrude Bibber the charter recording secretary.

Cronin; organist, Elva Marker; inside sentinel, Margaret Peterson; outside sentinel, Margaret Cronin.

ARGONAUT PARLOR.

Argonaut Parlor No. 166, Oakland—Instituted October 6, 1908, by Past Grand Presidents Eliza D. Keith and Emma Gruber-Foley, with thirty-three charter members. Lollita Perez was the charter president, and Anna McCarty was the charter recording secretary. The name was selected in honor of the California Pioneers.

Charter members still affiliated are: Alice Chicou, Clemence Chicou, Margaret Doyle, Anna Ehle, Eda Bauer Elgem, Mary Little, Minnie Church, Mae McLaughlin and Ada Spilman; the latter was the charter third vice-president, and has served in some official capacity continuously. The past presidents of the Parlor include: Ada Spilman, Agnes Osborne, Margaret Doyle, Florence Phillips, Christina Bartlett, Della Moitoza, Mary E. Brusie, Myrtle Bellerive, Martha Band, Alice Arata, Katherine Hansen, Maude Stevens, Marguerite Welsh, Marjory Bellerive, Louise DeLuuchi, Amelia Figone, Edna Gifford, Marie Kavanagh, Evelyn Bellerive, Claudia Broderick, Ella Freitas and Lillian Caton.

The Parlor's membership is now 73, and it has assets of $1,658. It is active in civic, veteran-welfare, Red Cross, homeless children and americanization work and in assisting the unemployed. It uses as a flag-stand the stool of the first organ shipped into the lower part of the Sacramento Valley, in 1860, a gift of Mrs. K. V. Klinkner.

"And, best of all," says Secretary Ada Spilman, "we have as a beloved member of Argonaut, Mary E. Brusie, secretary of the N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Central Committee on Homeless Children who, by her beautiful character and unselfish devotion to her work and friends, has endeared herself not only to the Native Daughters and the Native Sons, but to all who have had the pleasure of knowing her."

Following are the present officers: Past president, Lillian Caton; president, Irma Doyle; first vice-president, Florence O'Shea; second vice-president, Esther Streiv; third vice-president, Bertha Sinnat; recording secretary, Ada Spilman; financial secretary, Christina Bartlett; treasurer, Alice Chicou; marshal, Madeline Schroeder; organist, Claudia Broderick; inside sentinel, Helen Dangles; outside sentinel, Claire Gedeon; trustees, Mary J. # A RETROSPECT OF OAKLAND

LESS THAN TWO CENTURIES AGO, ON THE east side of the great Bay of San Francisco, practically unclaimed and unknown, there lay an extensive beauty spot of Nature. There were peaceful little valleys, watered by limpid streams and covered with sturdy, sheltering oaks; rolling hills, which in spring were carpeted with emerald, woven with gay patterns of many-colored blossoms; hillsides, gleaming golden in the sun, with fields of gorgeous poppies; intersected in this series of oak-dotted meadows a strip of woodland with magnificent redwoods; and, back of all, a chain of higher hills which combined to give shelter to the graceful deer, antelope and other wild life which abounded in a haven disturbed only by a few dusky Redmen.

The first history of this delightful region dates back to the time of Portola's visit to the San Francisco Peninsula, and the excursion over the hills of a hunting party which viewed that great "Braço del Mar," now known as San Francisco Bay. The hunters reported their experience, and Portola sent his trustworthy scout, Sergeant Ortega, to cross the hills and confirm the great discovery.

Three men made the trip with the valiant sargeant and saw, not only a vast inland sea, but also a green coast upon its farther shore. This they called "Contra Costa," and the name has endured to the present day. We may imagine the great thrill of these early Pioneers, and their feelings of awe and reverence for the great Creative Power "At whose nod, from discord and from night, sprang beauty and yon sparkling worlds of light." Little wonder that their enthusiasm found vent, for historians tell us that on their return they fired muskets and shouted, to announce the impressive things they had seen.

Apparently little was done toward exploring this region, and March 27, 1772, is recorded as the date of the entry of the first White man, when a Spanish expedition, under Lieutenant Fages and Father Crespi, visited what is now the East Oakland and Berkeley hills. Just prior to the close of the eighteenth century, however, two friars of the Franciscan order, Ysidro Barcinello and Augustin Merin, seeking for a field to convert the Indians, decided to locate on the western side of the Contra Costa hills, near a stream now known as Alameda Creek.

Accordingly, June 11, 1797, a little group of men might have been seen on a low plateau enacting a drama that had now become familiar to California. Father Laseun took the principal part, and the other actors were gray-clad friars, perhaps a few leather-jacketed Spaniards and some sparsely-clad Indians. The ground was consecrated, the great cross of wood was raised, and so was founded the Mission San Jose, the first inland settlement of California North, which served as a center around which there grew up ranches and haciendas, a nucleus for the early Spanish settlement that prevailed for another fifty years.

The Indians, or native Californians of this section, were called the Castanoan group, the Spanish word "costanos" meaning coast people. Although they were hunters, a large portion of their food was furnished by the abundance of clams found upon the mudflats and from their fishing; an occasional whale washing up on the shores was the occasion of great feasting. They were very friendly to the friars, and the mission grew rapidly in importance, in numbers and in influence, soon outstripping the older missions of San Francisco and Santa Clara, and rivaling that of El Carmelo, founded about fifteen years previously by the illustrious Junipero Serra. In 1822, twenty-five years after its beginning, Mission San Jose was second in the number of neophytes taken in, and over 1,900 Indians resided in its immediate vicinity. Its herds covered the hills, and its vintages had become famous. But as elsewhere, with the succession of Mexican rule in Alta California, came the secularization and decline of the mission. However, the building has been preserved and still stands as a monument of those pioneer days, and has fittingly been called the "cradle of Alameda County."

One of the early settlers in this district was Don Luis Maria Peralta, a valiant member of the military forces which upheld the honor of the Spanish crown in the New World, being undoubtedly one of the party which escorted the original colonists from Sonora with Anza. He, at least, had won favorable recognition, and August 16, 1820, was granted by the Spanish crown the Rancho de San Antonio, which contained five Spanish leagues, or nearly twenty-two square miles—the largest grant ever made in the state, extending from the Bay of San Francisco to the Contra Costa hills.

In 1842, realizing that the curtain of night would soon be drawn over the brilliant day of his earthly activities, Peralta divided his rancho into four parts, giving each of his sons a quarter of the estate. Vincente and Antonia Maria, the two brothers who owned the part now the site of Oakland, established themselves on their rancho. Vincente, who owned the land from about Sixty-fifth street to the Estuary, built his home a little north of Temescal. Antonia Maria's holdings were east of the Estuary, including Alameda to Arroyo del Leon, so he chose a location for his casa in what is now Fruitvale. Other grants from the government brought other neighbors, and the forerunner of Oakland streets began to appear in the form of roads from one rancho to another. The Estudillos were in the San Leandro region, the Castros on Rancho San Pablo, and the Moragos on the other side of the Contra Costa hills.

While celebration of church ceremonials occupied some time in these days, yet there was a constant round of gaiety, with feasting, dancing and barbecues, where a thousand dined at one rancho. The throb of the guitar and the lively castanets gave wings to graceful feet, and the old stories of life and love were daily enacted, while the noise, the excitement and the shouting of a bullfight or a rodeo added to the zest of existence.

Though lacking the magnificence that obtained in the feudal days of Europe, there nevertheless was a certain result from the utilization of leisure on these early Spanish ranchos in California which has never been equaled elsewhere. There seemed to be no need or thought for money, for there was plenty for all; not even the lower classes worked hard to extract a living from this bountiful land. Their generosity was traditional—everything was at the disposal of friends, or even to a chance-met stranger.

Their men bore a high reputation for courage, and the care of livestock being their chief occupation, they learned to ride in infancy and attained so much skill with the lasso or riata that it was not uncommon for their experts to catch bears with ropes and to throw and tie them without dismounting from their horses.

Moses Chase, who leased holdings from the Peralta brothers, enjoyed the distinction of being the first American citizen of the future City of Oakland. He was closely followed by two brothers, named Patten, who settled and farmed around San Leandro Creek. In 1850, A. J. Moon, H. W. Carpenter and Edson Adams built cabins near what is now the foot of Broadway. They claimed that the land belonged to the United States Government. Their example was followed by others, and was the beginning of squatters' war and title contests which lasted for years.

A village with a population of seventy-five persons had now come into existence, and at the session of the State Legislature on May 4, 1852 it was incorporated under the name of Oakland. This was seventy-eight years ago, and the changes from that time to the present have been many and various. The first election was held on the second Monday of May, 1852. In this same year a ferry steamer was put on the Estuary, to ply across the bay between Oakland and San Francisco.

A most important event in the educational development of the entire State of California occurred in 1853, when Rev. Henry Duran opened the Oakland College School which, in turn, became the California College, and was the foundation of the present University of California now located in Berkeley and enjoying the distinction of being the largest university of the world in point of enrollment. It was also in 1853 that the County of Alameda was created by the State Legislature, but it was not until 1871 that the county-seat was removed from San Leandro to Oakland.

In 1854, though yet but little more than a mere village, Horace W. Carpenter was elected as Oakland's first mayor. This little town did not depend directly on the mines during the great gold-rush days for support, for from the beginning it was the central point of an agricultural community, and a ready market for farm products was found in San Francisco or at the mines.

From that unpretentious past has developed a city of today. Not by spectacular strides, it is true, but by consistent growth, it has forged its way into a progressive center of the greatest importance, with a future of unlimited potential possibilities. Oakland is at present the third largest city of California, and it is not too much to predict that California shall one day be the first state in our union to boast of three cities with a population of a million or more.

During the onward march of time, Oakland has maintained much of the original beauty of its surroundings. One of its greatest assets is its beautiful inland Lake Merritt. By day, it is a gem of lovely sapphire with an emerald setting of grass and tree; and at night, aside from the necklace of lights about it, is reflected the beautiful coloring of the electric signs, with their thousands of twinkling lights, which attest the triumph of progress since the day, so short a time ago, when an occasional campfire's gleam was the only light to penetrate the silent and majestic darkness.

Conceded to be one of the outstanding beautiful drives of the world is the skyline boulevard which overlooks the East Bay settlements. On this road, in the Sequoia Park, is nestled the former home of Joaquin Miller, poet of the Sierras. It is not out of place to pause for a moment to enlarge upon the mention of this fact, for in the middle eighties and the nineties Joaquin Miller was a familiar figure upon the streets of Oakland, and his top-booted form, with his long waving hair and grizzled beard, gave him a patriarchal appearance which never failed to attract attention.

Like other great men, Miller was appreciated abroad more than at home, and speaking of his own career he once said, of his visit to England that "from backwoods obscurity he had stepped at one stride into the full noontide of glory." Now, it is admitted by the severest critics that he brought much of beauty and splendor into American literature. Always in the background of his mind there was a curious accumulation of Utopian and Arcadian dreams, which from his boyhood he had vaguely desired to realize. This wish finally led him to the tract of land upon the "Hights," overlooking San Francisco Bay, and here his imagination was stimulated, and the spirit of the love of light and color and immensity found its echo in his poems.

Impressions of the panoramic view before him were freely given. In his poem to his daughter, Juanita, is a description of some of the beauties of his home:

"Dear, I took these trackless masses
Fresh from Him who fashioned them:
Wrought in rock, and hewed fair passes,
Flower set, as sets a gem

Steep below me lies the valley,
Deep before me lies the town,
Where great sea-ships ride and rally,
And the world walks up and down.

O the sea of lights far streaming
When the thousand flags are furled—
When the dreaming bay lies gleaming
As it duplicates the world."

And again he writes:

"How fair is San Francisco Bay
When golden stars consort and when
The moon pours silver paths for men,
And care walks by the other way!
'Twas twilight, such soft, twilight night
As only Californians know,
When faithful love is forth, and when
The Bay lies bathed in mellow light;
And perfumed breath and softened breeze
Blows far from Honolulu's seas."

But perhaps the poem in which we take the greatest of pride, and which is an appropriate close to the fragments of bistory here given, is his tribute to Oakland:

"Thou Rose land! Oakland! Thou mine own!
Thou Sun land! Leaf land! Land of seas
Wide crescented in walls of stone!
Thy lion's mane is to the breeze!
Thy tawny, sunlit lion steeps—
Leap forward as the lion leaps!

"Be this my home till some fair star
Stoops earthward and shall beckon me;
For surely God-land lies not far
From these Greek heights and this great sea.
My friend, my lovers, trend this way:
Not far along lies Arcady!"

School Bonds—Upper Lake, Lake County, has voted $35,000 bonds for a new grammar school.

ALAMEDA—CITY OF HOMES

CONSISTENT GROWTH AND EXPANSION constituted the keynote of the story of the City of Alameda for the year 1929, according to City Manager Clifton E. Hickok. A general review for the period discloses the fact that Alameda City ranks as one of the nation's most progressive municipalities.

In the latter part of 1928 the George A. Posey tube, constructed under the Estuary by Alameda County at a cost of $4,500,000, was dedicated and opened for use by the public. The completion of this project, resulting in an unobstructed thoroughfare between Alameda City and Oakland, initiated a new era in the former. The annoyances and delays occasioned by the intermittent openings of the old Webster Street bridge have been superseded by a continuous flow of traffic through the tube, making it possible to drive from Alameda to the center of Oakland within a few minutes.

Not only has the passage of land traffic between the two cities been expedited, but all obstacles to water traffic have been removed in the inner harbor. This advantage to the navigation and commerce along the waterfront of the two cities is inestimable.

As a result of the opening of the Posey tube, numerous apartment houses have been built.

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, there was a stimulation in general business activities resulting largely from the opening of the tube. One hundred and ninety-four new buildings were erected in Alameda City, the total cost of building construction for the period being $2,104,395.

Due to the construction of the tube Webster Street was widened to one hundred feet and repaved and attractive electroliers were erected, thereby creating a main entrance to the city in keeping with its importance as a business and residential community.

The Alameda municipal golf course is growing in popularity, and this recreational asset of the city has done much to enhance the desirability of Alameda as a home center. This golf course is one of the most successful municipal golf courses around San Francisco Bay, due largely to its easy accessibility, located as it is within a few minutes' drive of the center of Oakland and Alameda.

Alameda City is making great strides in airport development. The Alameda Airport, occupying 346 acres of the tidelands leased from the city, has become one of a national chain of airports. The United States Army, through its air corps, has selected a site on the Alameda western waterfront as the most desirable site for a Western air base and depot, recommending such site to the governmental authorities. These lands are owned by the City of Alameda, and as soon as the Federal Congress has indicated an intention to accept the lands and proceed with the construction of the project, the people of Alameda will be asked to vote upon the question of deeding the area in question to the United States Government.

Alameda is distinctly a city of homes. Ideally located, it has every attraction—splendid schools, beautiful parks, etc. It is progressive, and operates under the city manager form of government. No barrier to beauty is the amount of capital available to be put into the construction of a home here. Nature co-operates—offers a diversified setting, inspiring to architect, stimulating to builder.

Alameda was originally incorporated as a town under special act of the State Legislature in 1854. In 1884, under the general laws, it was incorporated as a city.

THE QUIET WAY

(ALICE HARLOW STETSON.)

Quietly, quietly let me take my way;
Not by the highroad where flags and trumpets go;
Not through the gilded cities clamorous and gay;
But through the hazel coppice where the wild flowers grow.
Sometimes I hear a strain of high haunting music,— Hidden on my hillside where the shy quail call;
Sometimes catch a glimpse of the glittering procession
Through the woven branches where the red leaves fall.
Dreams that had been slumbering wake and wanly rise,
Flickering like weary flames to hurt my heart again;
Then they fall and fade against the glory of the skies
Ablaze with fires of sunset down the hollow of the glen.

—University California Chronicle.

PIONEERS OF DAYS OF '49 IN ALAMEDA COUNTY

MOUNT EDEN, ALAMEDA COUNTY, was first inhabited by Indians, who fished and hunted, as wild game was plentiful. After the Red men, came the Spaniards. Mount Eden was a part of the Vallejo grant, given to Jose J. Vallejo by the king of Spain in the nineteenth century. Many White settlers came in the early '50s. In 1853 the United States gave title to those owning land." Such is the introduction of a paper, recently prepared by Mrs. Mary L. Zehfuss Gading, affiliated with Hayward Parlor No. 122 N.D.G.W., in which she refers to the following Pioneers of the Mount Eden district:
 "Edward Clawiter, born in Germany in 1818, was one of the first to arrive. He became a sea-faring man and as an officer of a ship arrived in the port of San Francisco in 1847. In 1849 he returned from another voyage, and hearing of the gold mines, left the ship and went to Sonora [Tuolumne County], for a time and was quite successful. Returning to Europe, he took with him the first American gold to reach Germany, which was deposited in the museum at Berlin. While in Germany he married Mary Gading, a native of Bremen. They returned to California, and in 1851 located at Union City [Alameda County], which was part of what is now known as Alvarado. Here their daughter Union was born, in 1852, being the first White child born there. John M. Horner, who owned most of the town, gave her a lot, with the understanding that she should be named Union. She married Converse Howe, a relative of Howe, the historian. Her husband was auditor of Los Angeles County. Clawiter settled in Mount Eden in 1855.
 "John Johnson was born in Hamburg, March 14, 1818. At the age of 13 he found employment as a cabin-boy on the brig 'Louise Field,' and followed the sea for twenty years, touching at every important port of the world. He sailed for California in 1849, locating in San Francisco. After that he went to Oakland. Coming then to Mount Eden in 1853, he began the manufacture of salt. He opened the Mount Eden Grove, which was a pleasure ground for many years. Holidays and all celebrations were kept there.

"Christopher Gading, born in Bremen in 1798, came with his youngest son, Justus, to Mount Eden in 1855.
 "Nicolaus Gading, born in Bremen in 1824, desirous of seeing the world shipped as a cabin-boy on a whaler at the age of 13. He followed the sea for almost twenty years, and had become first-mate when he came to California in 1854. After living in San Francisco a short time he came to Mount Eden.

"Fred D. Arff came to California in 1849. When a young man he took to mining in El Dorado County. After securing enough of gold, he went to San Francisco and started in the draying business, which was important in those days; he also bought property on Kearny street, which he later sold to secure a farm in Mount Eden in 1854.

"Justus Gading, born in Bremen in 1835, came to the United States with his father in 1854. For a time he was captain of a schooner in San Francisco Bay. He then went to the gold mines along the American and the Feather Rivers, where he made quite a large fortune, later lost through failure of business associates. He came to Mount Eden in 1855.

"Edward Eichler, horn in Vienna in 1821, arrived in New York in 1848 and there worked at his trade of goldsmith for a year. He then became one of a party of sixty to cross the plains in large prairie wagons. They were attacked several times by Indians, who stole their horses, so that they had to walk. The party finally reached Salt Lake City [Utah State], where they separated. Eichler and his companions went to Placer County and mined for several years. Then he came to Mount Eden.

"George Meyer, born in Germany in 1812, came from New York with Stevenson's Regiment in 1846. Arriving in California, he mined successfully near Chinese Camp [Tuolumne County], and took his gold to the mint at Philadelphia, going by way of Panama. There he met some Mexicans who heard of his having the gold. They plotted to throw him overboard. Meyer understood Spanish and, pretending to be asleep, awaited their attack. As the robbers approached, he covered them with his revolver and dared them to advance. He married at Philadelphia in 1850, and the couple left on the bark 'Onyx' for San Francisco, coming around Cape Horn. It took but three weeks less than a year to make the voyage. They came to Mount Eden in the late '50s.

"John Wille, born in Germany, came to California in the '50s and was one of Mount Eden's early settlers. Christian Penke, horn in Germany in 1821, and Cornelius Mohr, born in Germany in 1822, came in the late '50s to Mount Eden.

"Captain Fred Meyer, born in Germany in 1827, began his career as a sailor, coming to California in 1849. He released his vessel to another captain and went to the gold fields, where he soon lost all the money he had accumulated. He then went to Alvarado [Alameda County], where he kept a store; later he built the first store in Mount Eden.

"Other Pioneers who came in the '50s were: Christian Hese, George Obermueller, C. P. Hansen, Tim Hauschildt, Henry Hoare, Henry Dobbell, Fred Brustgruen, Chris. Bothson, Fred

"Among the old-timers who came in the '60s were: Henry Petermann, August W. Schafer, Jacob Harder Sr., John Kuck, Herman Dieckmann, August Frank, Phillip Zamstein, Frank Wiede and Frank Lund.

"In the early days Mount Eden hotel on Telegraph road was kept by John Ludwig. It was a busy place. Here the horses were changed on the busses carrying the mail from San Jose to Oakland. Barron's Landing at Mount Eder was the outlet for the produce of the surrounding country and from Livermore Valley. It was shipped on steamers to San Francisco. During the busy season, wagons laden with hay and grain would stand for a mile waiting their turn to unload."

PIONEERS WANTED, FOR GUESTS, AT ANNUAL LIVERMORE RODEO.

Livermore (Alameda County)—California's observance of the centennial of the first covered-wagon journey across the continent will center at Livermore, Alameda County, July 4, 5 and 6, when the Livermore Rodeo Association will entertain every covered-wagon passenger now living in the state at its annual presentation of early western sport.

For three thrill-packed days, the Pioneers will be spectators at a sensational exhibition that will revive dimming memories of old frontier days. They will ride in covered wagons, drawn by long strings of oxen, in a pioneer parade being arranged for Independence Day, July 4. They will sit in honored places in the grandstand while daredevil cowboys and beautiful cowgirls turn back the pages of time to ride pitching, tossing horses and plunging, bellowing bulls.

Livermore, only thirty miles from the metropolitan bay district of San Francisco and Oakland, holds the distinction of being a wild western town within an hour's ride of hustling cities. Here the Pioneers who braved the dangers of the plains, crossing a wilderness in swaying, jolting prairie schooners, will find the days of their youth lived over again.

Las Positas Parlor No. 96 Native Sons of the Golden West is assisting the rodeo management in locating the Pioneers who will be guests at the rodeo. Pioneers who would like to attend are asked to send their names and addresses to either J. J. Kelly, secretary of the Parlor, or to M. G. Callaghan, secretary of the Rodeo Association. An invitation will be immediately forthcoming.

Bankers To Confer—The thirty-sixth annual convention of the California Bankers' Association will be held at Del Monte, Monterey County, June 5, 6 and 7.

ARE YOU A TOP NOTCHER?

HAVE YOU PAID YOUR LOYALTY Pledge?" should be the question upon the lips of every member of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West. If you are obliged to answer in the negative, then it is time for you to devise a method by which you will raise your Loyalty Pledge to assist in the liquidation of the mortgage on the Native Daughter Home.

Desire is at the bottom of every achievement! It has ever been the great molding, shaping force of humanity. Desire is behind all progress; civilization rests upon it. Our cities are the representations of the desire of those who built them. Our lives, our friends, our homes are all manifestations of individual desires. The erection of a bigger and better Native Daughter Home, where more attention and service could be rendered to those residing therein, was the combined desire of those comprising the Native Daughter Home Committee. The preliminaries of this undertaking entailed a great deal of conalty Pledge, much money has been raised for the liquidation of our mortgage. However, the past year has not shown as much progress as the previous one. Perhaps this could be attributed to many reasons, but I am sure none of them would serve as an excuse for us to deviate from our plan and purpose.

In the year and a half since the dedication of our Home, many of us have had the privilege of visiting it and seeing for ourselves what a monument find inertia stepping in, it is time to sound the alarm.

I feel that the Native Daughters are at the crossroads of their success in the solicitation of the Loyalty Pledge. An organization that is not safeguarded on every side by active, alert, attentive, vigilant members is in danger. If our members are neutral and indifferent, our entire organization suffers. If the whole world loves a lover, it is equally true that the whole world hates a quitter. We all have often heard "Stand by the ship." If necessary go down with it, and go down gloriously, as did Captain Smith on the "Titanic." As I think of the Native Daughter Home and our slowness to liquidate its indebtedness, many comparisons come before my eyes, and I am wondering what, as individuals, we would think of the soldier who deserts the army on the eve of battle; of the sailor who abandons the ship at sea; of the cook who walks out when the guests are coming; of the farm hands who throw up their jobs at harvest time; of the employe in business who, having made a scientious thought, in addition to securing the co-operation of the Grand Parlor and the interest of the individual members of the Order.

The Grand Parlor at Modesto officially endorsed our plan and instructed the Grand Parlor to proceed with the erection of the Home. That completed, dedicated and now being used, has brought us to another stage in our progress. Through the very earnest solicitation and enthusiastic efforts of Past Grand President Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, who inaugurated the Loyment this is to our organization. However, there are some of you who have not had this privilege, and in order to give you a better idea of how your contributions are expended, we are displaying pictures of the Home for your observation, which will show how your money has been spent. These illustrations should renew your interest in the undertaking and stimulate a desire to do your part.

Let us consider for a few moments what constitutes true loyalty. It is that quality which prompts a person to be true to the thing he or she undertakes to do. It means going in a definite direction with a fixity of purpose. In organization, it serves as a ballast. If we are careless, slipshod and indifferent to the record set at hand, we will not be successful in our undertaking. Loyalty in one sense is love—it is a form of attraction. It is not a mere matter of brain capacity; success does not always go to those who know the most—it gravitates to those who are true to the causes for which they are working. If we are to succeed with our Home, we must win through unflinching, unflinching and tireless loyalty, and work for the fulfillment of our Loyalty Pledge.

I think of loyalty in this regard as the great lubricant to raise this money. Civilization has reached its present degree of development through struggle, and this demonstration of progress should ever remind us that life and the things we attempt to do consist of continuous and continual efforts. Work there must be, and always will be, to complete our objective. As man has evolved, his development has shifted from the physical to the mental, the psychic and the spiritual; all life is activity, and when we bad break and caused a loss of money to his firm, thinks to make good by sitting down and writing, "I hereby tender my resignation." All these tasks have been difficult, but when once you have undertaken a responsibility see it through to completion. Let us not run away from our responsibility.

If every member of the Order who has had the good fortune to be located in the Home had the privilege of giving her own interpretation of what the atmosphere of that place meant to her, I am sure it would be most gratifying to those of us who have been of any assistance in

44th NATIVE DAUGHTER GRAND PARLOR

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

MONDAY, JUNE 16, the FORTY-fourth annual Grand Parlor of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West will convene at Oakland, Alameda County, for a four-day session. Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, affiliated with Marysville Parlor No. 162 (Marysville), will preside throughout the deliberations, and at their conclusion will automatically become the Junior Past Grand President.

But once previously, in the history of the Order, has a Grand Parlor met in Oakland—the Twenty-eighth, presided over by Alison F. Watt of Manzanita Parlor No. 29 (Grass Valley), now a Past Grand President.

Alameda is the home-county of four Past Grand Presidents, well known and active in the affairs of the Order. Mrs. Arinna W. Strlring of Aleli Parlor No. 102 (Salinas), resident of Berkeley, who presided at the Twentieth (Salinas) Grand Parlor; Mrs. Addie L. Mosher of Piedmont Parlor No. 87 (Oakland), resident of Oakland, who presided at the Thirty-third (Berkeley) Grand Parlor; Dr. Victory A. Derrick of Aloha Parlor No. 106 (Oakland), resident of Oakland, who presided at the Thirty-sixth (San Rafael) Grand Parlor, and Miss Sue J. Irwin of Berkeley Parlor No. 150, resident of Berkeley, who presided at the Fortieth (Sacramento) Grand Parlor. Mrs. Sallie R. Thaler, the Grand Secretary, is a resident of Oakland, affiliated with Aloha Parlor No. 106 of that city.

Headquarters of the Forty-fourth Grand Parlor will be at Hotel Leamington, Nineteenth and Franklin streets. Therein will be held not only the daily sessions, June 16, 17, 18 and 19, but, as well, the several entertainment features being arranged for the pleasure of the Grand Parlor members.

The closing Grand Parlor year has been one of success for the Order—the membership has increased, the finances are in a healthy condition, and advancement has been made toward the final completion of the Order's several worthwhile projects.

According to information received direct by The Grizzly Bear from the Subordinate Parlors of the Order, Joaquin No. 5 of Stockton continues to hold its lead as numerically the strongest Parlor, having a membership of 313. Seven Parlors have a membership of over 200, namely:

PROPOSED LEGISLATION.

Two resolutions, dealing with the Subordinate Parlors' representation in the Grand Parlor, will be introduced. One, to be submitted by Long Beach Parlor No. 154 (Long Beach) will propose: "Each Parlor shall be entitled to one delegate at large, and one additional delegate for each seventy-five members at the time of the election."

to learn, in perusing the latest figures available from the Parlors, that twenty-five have failed to respond with even one Loyalty Pledge. The Home Committee is happy that we have been able to pay $4,000 on our obligation this year, making a total of $15,000 paid up to date. However, I am extremely sorry that 1929-30 was not as productive as 1928-1929.

A further analysis of the two years we have been functioning this campaign, reveals that only 3,000 Native Daughters have rallied to the cause. We realize that our progress will be slow, but the interest, enthusiasm and perseverance displayed by our members should be endless. I would suggest that every Parlor appoint a permanent Loyalty Pledge Committee to serve until this indebtedness is liquidated.

I hope that at the Grand Parlor this month in Oakland, as a fitting testimonial to present to our Grand President, Miss Esther R. Sullivan, and in appreciation of her efforts in behalf of the Home, many additional Loyalty Pledges will be submitted, thereby increasing the number of Parlors that have contributed to this worthy cause.

In conclusion, let me emphasize that the success or failure of this enterprise depends upon the mental, moral and spiritual qualities of our members. Our members must imbue our workers with a spirit of fidelity to do the thing that should be done. There is no moment like the present! The person who will not execute his resolutions when they are fresh upon him can have no hope from them afterwards; they will be dissipated and lost in the hurry and scurry of our busy everyday life.

God operates through man, and man's business is to be a good conductor of the divine current which we call Life. Civilization is the efficient way of doing things; art is a beautiful way of doing things; economy is the cheapest way of doing things. Therefore, in order to do things properly, we must combine efficiency, industry, art, economy—and cement all with love. In these is expressed the sentiment of the N.D.G.W. Home!

Another, to be submitted by Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 (Los Angeles), declares: "The expense of conducting the annual Grand Parlor of the N.D.G.W. is a great drain upon the treasury of the Grand Parlor, due to the large number of delegates, which is detrimental to the primal interests of our Order, namely, the perpetuation of the romantic history of our state, in that funds which might otherwise be applied to such worthy work are necessarily expended in the maintenance of the annual convention," and contends that "other large organizations have found a reduction of delegates to be for the best interests of their organizations." Therefore, it will be proposed that each Subordinate Parlor "shall be entitled to two delegates, namely, the president and one to be elected by ballot by the respective Parlors at the first regular meeting in May."

Gold of Ophir Parlor No. 190 (Oroville) will propose amending the law governing Grand Parlor elections by adding thereto: "When all delegates who present themselves shall have voted, and the time specified by the Grand President shall have elapsed, the Grand President, personally, or through an agent, shall declare the ballot closed, and cause the ballot-box to be locked and delivered for safekeeping to those constituting the Board of Election. She shall then announce publicly the place where, and time when, the ballot-box shall be unlocked and opened, which place shall be one to which all who desire shall have entrance, and which time shall be not later than one hour after the ballot shall have been declared closed. At the time and place thus specified, the ballot-box shall be unlocked and opened in the presence of bystanders, and the ballots counted."

Marinita Parlor No. 198 (San Rafael) will offer an amendment to the opening ceremonies in Subordinate Parlors, to provide for some form of salutation to the American Flag.

Believing "a drill team adds greatly to the impressiveness of ritualistic ceremonies," El Tejon Parlor No. 239 (Bakersfield) will present a resolution "favoring the use of a drill team in ritualistic work, particularly for initiation, in such Parlors as have drill teams."

Contending that "modern efficient business methods demand loose-leaf bookkeeping systems," Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 (Los Angeles) will propose "that the Subordinate Parlors of the Native Daughters of the Golden West may use loose-leaf ledgers in the keeping of their membership accounts."

CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE.

Through communication with all the Subordinate Parlors and the many "rumored" candidates, The Grizzly Bear is enabled to announce the candidacies of several aspirants for Grand Parlor office honors. The list is complete, insofar as definite information has been received, but it is not complete if "Old Woman Rumor's" gossip is founded on fact. For, there are still persistent whisperings that every elective office will have two or more seekers. Be that as it may, here is the authentic "dope" received by The Grizzly Bear:

For Grand Secretary—Sallie R. Thaler (Aloha No. 106) of Oakland, incumbent.

For Grand Treasurer—Susie K. Christ (Yosemite No. 83) of San Francisco, incumbent.

For Grand Inside Sentinel—Grand Outside Sentinel Edna B. Briggs (La Bandera No. 110) of Sacramento.

For Grand Organist—Lola Horgan (La Estrella No. 89) of San Francisco; Hattie Kelly (El Carmelo No. 181) of Daly City.

For Grand Trustee (seven to be selected)—Annie Thuesen (Alta No. 3) of San Francisco; Sadie Winn-Brainard (Califa No. 22) of Sacramento, incumbent; Pearl N. Reid (Santa Cruz No. 26) of Santa Cruz, incumbent; Gladys E. Noce (Amapola No. 80) of Sutter Creek, incumbent; Marvel Thomas (Los Angeles No. 124) of Los Angeles; Grand Inside Sentinel Millie Rock its building. Many of mankind's dearest memories and happiest experiences center about the thought of home. Home fills a sacred place in the human heart; it is the abiding place of peace and joy, the center of our affections and activities; at once a shelter from all kinds of weather and from all the storms and stresses which at times threaten to beset human experience. It is the scene of life's innermost cherished hopes and desires.

After all, human service is the highest form of interest for the person who serves. By so doing we preserve our own sanity, only as we forget self in service. To center on one's self and forget one's relationship to the community, is to summon misery and discomfort. We can help ourselves only as we help others. In this Home some of the finest friendships have been formed, and will continue to be cemented by ties of loving companionship.

The desire for friendship is always strong in every human heart. We crave the companionship of those who understand. We all sigh for home, and long for the presence of someone who sympathizes with our aspirations, comprehends our hopes, and is able to partake of our joys. One can bear grief alone, but it takes two to be glad. We all know, from our own experiences, that the sky is never so blue, the birds never sing so sweetly and our acquaintances are never so gracious as when we are filled with love for some one or some thing. With friendship comes forgiveness, charity and sympathy; to have known an ideal friendship is one of life's rarest experiences.

Those of us who have the opportunity of serving the Native Daughters and of making this Home environment possible for those who are less fortunate, should feel more than compensated for our efforts.

As chairman of the Finance Subcommittee of the Native Daughter Home, it has been incumbent upon me to suggest ways and means of liquidating this indebtedness, which is so well known to all of us. I was greatly disappointed

FRUITVALE PARLOR.

Fruitvale Parlor No. 177, Oakland—Instituted December 6, 1909, by Grand President Emma Lillie Humphrey, with twenty charter members. Theresa Lillienthal Randall was the charter president, and Alva Opie Eistfeldt was the charter recording secretary.

Charter members still affiliated are: May Barthold, Nell Crowley, Agnes M. Grant, Lena Gill, May Heino, Theresa Randall, Gertrude Rossi, Agnes Smith and Alice Wrenn. The past presidents of the Parlor include: Agnes M. Grant, Theresa Randall, Alice Wrenn, May Heino, Gertrude Rossi, Agnes Smith, May Barthold, Nell Crowley, Nettie Christensen, Cora Clough, Kathryn McClellan, Effie Parry, Flora Crockett, Rita Steffin, Minnie O'Brien, Mary Harrell, Evelyn Browne, Helen Cleu, Anne Weber, Josephine Grosse, Margaret Stambaugh, Pauline Cleu, Flora Eckstrom, Florence McGrath, Emma Smith, Christine Harrison, Vera Grosse, Theresa Grosse, Elsie Nelson, Frances O'Brien, Gladys Michel and Lucy Fonts.

Following are the present officers: Past president, Lucy Fonts; president, Anne Mello; first vice-president, Aileen O'Leary; second vice-president, Jane Lange; marshal, Florence Fonts; recording secretary, Agnes M. Grant; financial secretary, Christine Harrison; treasurer, Nell E. Crowley; inside sentinel, Alice Miller; outside sentinel, Oro Rogers; organist, Frances O'Brien; trustees, Nettie Christensen, Josephine Grosse, Frances Fournier.

EL CERESO PARLOR.

El Cereso Parlor No. 207, San Leandro—Instituted February 15, 1915, by Grand President May C. Boldemann, with thirty-two charter members. Elizabeth Goodman was the charter president and Bessie Birchenall was the charter recording secretary. Name was given on account of its location in "The Cherry City," San Leandro. This was the original home of the well-known Peralta family, Don Luis Peralta being a Spanish grandee who had obtained large grants of land from the Spanish king. The name El Cereso means, in Spanish, "The Cherry," and was suggested by a member of the Peralta family who was one of the Parlor's charter members; she and her descendants to the third generation are members of El Cereso.

(Gahrielle No. 139) of San Francisco; Harriet D. Cate (Twin Peaks No. 185) of San Francisco; Florence Danforth Boyle (Gold of Ophir No. 190) of Oroville; Ethel I. Stuhr (Marinita No. 198) of San Rafael; Florence Dodson-Schoneman (Rudecinda No. 230) of San Pedro. San Francisco was selected by the Native Sons as the place for holding this year's Admission Day, September 9, celebration, so the Native Daughters will join in California's natal day festivities there. As yet, no city has been mentioned as the likely meeting-place for next year's Grand Parlor.

ENTERTAINMENT.

While the Board of Grand Officers selected Oakland as the meeting-place of the Forty-fourth Grand Parlor, arrangements for the gathering are being made by a joint committee representing all the Alameda County Parlors. Past Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derrick is the general chairman, and Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler is the general secretary.

Past Grand President Sue J. Irwin is chairman of the program committee, Past Grand President Ariana W. Stirling is chairman of the reception committee, and Past Grand President Addie L. Mosher is chairman of the printing committee.

The events outlined for the session, other than the daily meetings of the Grand Parlor, include: Monday evening, reception; Tuesday evening, grand ball; Wednesday evening, Alameda County district meeting; Thursday evening, installation newly-elected grand officers. An auto tour is being planned for Wednesday afternoon, and a theater party may also be arranged for, in the way of entertainment.

All the events—the daily sessions of the Grand Parlor, the reception, the ball, the district meeting and the installation—will be held in the Leamington Hotel.

MEMBERS
44th GRAND PARLOR

Any member of the Order is privileged to attend the Grand Parlor. Those entitled to a vote, however, include:

Grand Officers—Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, Junior Past Grand President; Esther R. Sullivan, Grand President; Estelle Evans, Grand Vice-president; Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Secretary; Susie K. Christ, Grand Treasurer; Evelyn I. Carlson, Grand Marshal; Millie Rock, Grand Inside Sentinel; Edna B. Briggs, Grand Outside Sentinel; Minna Kane-Horn, Grand Organist; Anna Mixon-Armstrong, Irma W. Laird, Sadie Brainard, May F. Givens, Eldora McCarty, Pearl Reid, Gladys E. Noce, Grand Trustees.

Charter members still affiliated are: Mrs. E. Goodman, Mrs. C. Hatherly, Mrs. Mae Madaria Rose, Mrs. M. Garcia Fickett, Mrs. Filomena Rose, Mrs. Barbara Whitcomb, Mrs. Leanour Silva, Mrs. Clara George Fratas, Mrs. Mary Luiz Enos, Mrs. Belle Shaddock, Mrs. Mae Fields, Mrs. Mary Olimpia, Mrs. Mary Tuttle and Miss Mae Focha. The charter financial secretary was Miss M. Quadros, now a Dominican sister in Stockton—the order to which belonged the member of the family of California's early history whose sad romance has come down to us in story and in song, Senorita Arguello.

The past presidents of the Parlor include: Mrs. E. Goodman, Mrs. Caroline Hatherly, Mrs. Rose Sanders, Mrs. Addie Mae Silva, Miss Jessie Medina, Mrs. Clara Medina Cardoza, Mrs. Anna Lewis, Mrs. Anna Enos, Mrs. Ruth Motto, Mrs. Rose Madaria, Miss Corinne Rose, Mrs. Alice Hatherly Riggen, Mrs. Luvina Fledderman, Miss Florence Munro, Miss Edna Stenzel, Mrs. Ethel Whitcomb and Mrs. Virginia Hunt.

The Parlor's membership is now 131, and it has assets of $1,077. It is active in civic and homeless children work, and always makes an attractive showing in the Admission Day, September 9, parades.

Following are the present officers: Past president, Miss E. Stenzel; president, Mrs. A. M. Silva; first vice-president, Mrs. Rose Sanders; second vice-president, Miss Emily Phillips; third vice-president, Mrs. D. Chavez; recording secretary, Mrs. M. Tuttle; financial secretary, Miss Mae Focha; marshal, Mrs. Olinda Kardoza; treasurer, Mrs. C. Hatherly; inside sentinel, Mrs. B. Passmore; outside sentinel, Mrs. B. Larsen; organist, Mrs. E. Bettancourt; trustees, Mrs. A. Enos, Mrs. J. Fratas, Mrs. A. Lewis.

OTHER PARLORS.

Other Parlors, whose secretaries failed to supply the asked-for data, are: Bear Flag No. 151, Berkeley; Encinal No. 156, Alameda City; Laura Loma No. 182, Niles; Pleasanton No. 237, Pleasanton; Betsy Ross No. 238, Centerville.

Native Sons of the Golden West

JOHN FRANCIS DAVIS IS DEAD, AND with his passing California lost one of its exemplary citizens—in every particular, a splendid man, who served faithfully and efficiently! He crossed the Great Divide at San Francisco, May 3, survived by a wife and four children.

He was born on Angel Island, San Francisco Bay, June 5, 1859, and following his graduation in law located in Amador County. He was judge of the Superior Court of that county for some time, and represented the district embracing Calaveras, Alpine, Mono and Amador Counties in the State Legislature. Early in the '90s, he took up his residence in San Francisco, where he was active in civic affairs.

JOHN FRANCIS DAVIS,

Judge Davis was affiliated with Excelsior Parlor No. 31 N.S.G.W. of Jackson, Amador County, and in 1915 was selected as the Grand President of the Order. That was the year of the Panama Pacific International Exposition, and he represented the Order at many notable gatherings. The Panama-Pacific Historical Congress of the American Historical Association was among the number, and July 22 Grand President Davis delivered before that assemblage of historians a masterly address on "The History of California," published in full in The Grizzly Bear of September 1915.

Among the many endeavors of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, that which pertains to California history interested him most, and he gave generously of his time to that work. Largely through his efforts, the Order has for several years made financial provision for sending traveling history fellows from the University of California throughout the world, to gather data pertaining to the history of the state. As a representative of the Order, he was for several years president of the California Historical Survey Commission.

Past Grand President Davis was not only a noted orator, but an author as well, his "California, Romantic and Resourceful," being a gem. It is written in that inimitable style which characterized him as a most forceful speaker. He was chairman of the committee, created by the State Legislature, to select two outstanding characters in the state's history to represent California in the National Hall of Fame at Washington, D. C., and the committee selected Father Junipero Serra and Rev. Thomas Starr King.

"It seemeth such a little way to me
Across to that strange country, the beyond,
And yet not strange for it has grown to be
The home of those of whom I am so fond.
It seems to grow familiar and most dear
As journeying friends bring distant regions near.
So close it lies that when my sight is clear
I think I can almost see the gleaming strand.
I know I feel those who have gone from here Come close enough sometimes to touch my hand."
—C. M. H.

New Parlor Instituted.

Manteca (San Joaquin County)—Manteca No. 271 was instituted April 30 with a charter membership of fifty-four. The initiatory ceremonies were conducted by a ritual team from Stockton No. 7 composed of the following: President, W. A. Strong; junior past president, W. I. Neeley; senior past president, R. A. Mitcher; first vice-president, C. W. Walsh; second vice-president, L. B. Buol; third vice-president, J. A. Fishemarshal, W. P. Rothenbush; inside sentinel, Joe Beck Jr.; C. J. Frerichs (Tracy No. 186) act as outside sentinel.

Officers of the new Parlor were then installed by District Deputy R. J. Maraccini, as follows: President, Joseph A. Wilson; junior past president, George Williams; first vice-president, Raymond W. Pope; second vice-president, Thomas C. Lauritson; third vice-president, Dr. J. A. Donogh; recording secretary, W. R. Perry; financial secretary, F. W. Foster; treasurer, J. M. Luck; marshal, Lewis Ryan; inside sentinel, Charles N. Howell; outside sentinel, O. W. Paterson; trustees, Anthony L. Escobar, L. E. Theway, J. K. Littlejohn; organist, John Gutbins Jr. President Joseph A. Wilson and Third Vice-president Dr. J. A. Donogh were elected to represent Manteca at the Merced Grand Parlor.

At the conclusion of the institution a banquet was served by the following committee from Phoebe A. Hearst No. 214 N.D.G.W.: Mms. Hattie Mewborn, Angela Perry, Nina Williams, Mar Baker, Wilhelmina Wilson, Elsie Cowell, Bertha Smith, Eva Gustafson; Misses Susie Theiler, Josephine Converse, Clara Fagundes, Bessie Fagundes, Alta Schneider. Most active in forming this new link in the chain of Native Son Parlor was Mrs. Hattie Mewborn of Phoebe A. Hearst Parlor, Grand Trustee Frank M. Lane and Deputy Grand President Louis Davis.

Livermore Dedication.

Livermore—Under the auspices of Las Positas No. 96 the Livermore union high school representing an investment of $160,000, was dedicated May 4 by the grand officers in the presence of 800 people. A splendid program was presented, including musical numbers, and addresses by Professor Hebert Lee, Stanley Smallwood, Grand President Charles L. Dodge and Past Grand President Charles A. Thompson.

The dedicatory ceremonies were conducted by Grand President Dodge, Junior Past Grand President James A. Wilson, Past Grand President Thompson, Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez and Grand Secretary John T. Regan. Previous to the ceremonies the grand officers were guests of Las Positas at luncheon. The Parlor's committee of arrangements included H. D. Ruter, H. J. Ruetz, H. W. Hufers, C. G. Clarke, J. J. Kelly and F. S. Young.

Membership Standing Largest Parlors.

Mothers Honored Guests.

Menlo Park—Menlo No. 185 and Menlo No. 211 N.D.G.W. had a most successful social affair May 15, when the mothers of the members, to the number of thirty, were honored guests. Roses and old-fashioned flowers were used in the decorations, and each mother was presented with a gift. A delightful program was followed by dancing, including those dances popular in the days of old.

Forty-fifth Anniversary.

San Rafael—A big delegation from Mount Tamalpais No. 64 accompanied the Parlor's drum and bugle corps to Napa, May 5, to parparticipate in the celebration of the forty-fifth anniversary of the institution of Napa No. 62. Following a street parade, led by Napa Parlor's drum corps, a large class of candidates were initiated by Mount Tamalpais' officers. A reception was tendered the surviving charter members. Of sixty-eight original members, nine still remain on the rolls, seven being present: Past Grand President Frank L. Coombs, Past Grand President Judge Henry C. Gestford, Edward Kelton, Robert Landon, Ralph Wilson, Henry Behrens and Daniel Behrens.

In an eloquent discourse, Judge Gestford told the history of Napa Parlor and reviewed the aims and purposes of the Order. He also paid a tribute to the splendid exemplification of the ritual by the visiting degree team. Charles T. Redding, Marin County treasurer, also praised the degree team and spoke in glowing terms of his own Parlor, Nicasio No. 183—not such a big one, but oh my! President Frank Kelly, B. J. Brusatori, M. E. Soares and M. A. Andrade of Tamalpais, and George Cuthbertson of Castro No. 232 also spoke. At the banquet, which was served by Eschol No. 16 N.D.G.W., Tamalpais Parlor's Hawaiian trio rendered a number of selections and H. R. (Jack) Cole sang several popular song hits.

Placerville Dedication.

Placerville—Under the auspices of Placerville No. 9 the El Dorado County high school, representing an investment of $175,000, was dedicated by the grand officers in the presence of 500 people. A fine program was presented, including musical numbers, and addresses by Henry S. Lyon, James A. Irving, Grand President Charles L. Dodge and Past Grand President Charles A. Thompson.

The dedicatory ceremonies were conducted by Grand President Dodge, Past Grand President Thompson, Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Third Vice-president Seth Millington, Grand Secretary John T. Regan and Grand Trustee Frank M. Lane.

Children Participate.

Halfmoon Bay—Seaside No. 95 had its annual Mother's Day program, President Louis S. Miguel being master of ceremonies, and the principal speaker being Mr. Madfrey, who told a lovely little story about a Pioneer Mother and sang "The Redwood Trail," his own composition.

Children from the Halfmoon Bay and the Miramar grammar schools participated in the program, Alvin Hatch rendered "The Songs My Mother Sang To Me," and Mrs. Irene Kerr gave several piano selections. Refreshments were served at the program's conclusion.

Secretary Extends Thanks.

Ukiah—Ukiab No. 71 had a party May 17 for Delegates Albert Bechtol and Harold J. Zimmerman, to speed them on their way to the Merced Grand Parlor. There was a large attendance, and refreshments were served. President Zimmerman, having proved his efficiency, was nominated to succeed himself as bead of the Parlor for another six months. No. 71 has returned to the benefit-paying class of Parlors and hopes to materially increase its membership.

"At this time," says Secretary Ben Hofman, "I want to thank all those in Ukiah who so generously aided the subscription campaign of The Grizzly Bear Magazine, conducted by Thos. O'Leary. I hope all of you get as much pleasure from reading the magazine as I do. If any of you were lucky enough to have been born in California, join Ukiab Parlor, which should be one of the largest in the Order."

"Singles" Defeat "Marrieds."

Ferndale—Ferndale No. 93 is again leading the Humboldt County Native Sons Baseball League, having defeated Humboldt No. 14 (Enreka) 11 to 3, and Arcata No. 20, 18 to 1. The team of No. 93 includes Hartley, catcher; Jacobsen and McAllister, pitchers; Cruickshank, first base; Becker, second base; Redden, third base; Oeschger, shortstop; Bertelsen, left field; Olsen, center field; Boyd, right field; Lanini, Kausen, Pries, substitutes.

The single men of the Parlor defeated the married men by a score of 10 to 2 in a baseball game, and the latter will therefore be hosts to the "singles" at an abalone feed.

No. 93 will again this year have charge of the Memorial Day ceremonies at Ferndale. J. W. Trigg, H. E. Giacomini and R. S. Feenaty constitute the arrangements committee.

Flower Show—The San Fernando Valley Horticultural Society will have its annual Flower Show at Van Nuys, Los Angeles County, June 6 and 7.

Native Daughters of the Golden West

DURING YOUR ATTENDANCE AT Grand Parlor in Oakland this June you should not miss the opportunity to visit our Native Daughter Home in San Francisco. Just a short trip across the bay will bring a most pleasant revelation of your activities and interest in this Home. Your first sight of the imposing building is an inspiration well worth the trip itself.

"You will enter the building through the beautiful ornamental iron gates donated by the Native Sons of the Golden West. As you enter the spacious foyer you will be greeted by a grand sight—looking out onto and into the court garden, beyond the assembly room. To the left of the entrance are the Grand Secretary's rooms, and just beyond is one of the lodge rooms.

"The second floor holds our beautiful lounge, dining room and the kitchen. The artistic arrangement of everything, and the homelike cheerfulness throughout, will impress you.

"The third and fourth floors are devoted to the bedrooms of the Home family. Here you are bound to further note the real homelike comforts, and the appearance of the surroundings. All of the rooms are occupied. A good many of them have been furnished by a certain amount of money donated by the Parlors of our Order.

"We ask that, if you are a member of any one of these Parlors, you locate your room and note its cheeriness. You will find your Parlor name on a plate on the door.

"At the last Grand Parlor the writer, as chairman of the rooms committee, made the statement that twenty-two rooms were then filled, but that she hoped to be able to report that all rooms were occupied at the next Grand Parlor. This dream has been more than fulfilled, as the rooms are not only all occupied, but there is now a waiting list.

"One of the pleasant memories of your visit to the Home will be the hospitable reception given you by our matron, Mrs. Laura Hawkins. Her work in this Home is contributing greatly to its success."—MRS. ADDIE L. MOSHER, Past Grand President, Chairman Rooms Committee N.D.G.W. Home.

Grateful for Remembrances.

Santa Cruz—Past Grand President Stella Finkeldey, chairman Grand Parlor Veterans Welfare Committee, received under date of April 24 from Miss Bertha Lovell, field director American Red Cross at Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, the following:

"Your annual donation of ferns to Letterman General Hospital on Easter Day is always eagerly accepted by the wards. Both the nurses and the patients are so happy to have these ferns to make the rooms look more homelike and cheerful. We sent them to the surgical wards, where the patients are confined to their beds for some time.

"Please assure those who contributed this gift that there is nothing more acceptable than growing plants, and we are most grateful for their recent donation of twenty beautiful ferns."

From P. G. Lasche, medical officer in charge of the United States Veterans Hospital at Palo Alto, Miss Finkeldey received, under date of May 17, the following:

"We are pleased to acknowledge receipt of eight copies of 'National Geographic' and two copies of the 'Times Midweek Pictorial Magazine,' which your society so kindly donated to this hospital for the use of the patients. We thank you for your kind co-operation and assure you that we appreciate your interest."

Turkey Feast To Benefit Mission.

Santa Ana—Santa Ana No. 235 is adding to its membership. Pioneer Mothers Day was observed May 26 with a fitting program of old-time music and addresses. Refreshments were served, and the guests related reminiscences. The cooked-food sale of May 3 was quite successful, considering the inclement weather; Mrs. Mary Moore and Mae West were in charge. District Deputy Kate McFadyen and Mrs. Bertha Hitt, organizer of the Parlor, were recent visitors from Long Beach. Ten dollars has been donated to the children's health camp.

Plans are under way for a turkey dinner, to be served in Santiago Canyon. Mrs. J. E. Pleasants has the arrangements in charge. The purpose is to raise sufficient funds to complete payment of the Parlor's $300 subscription for the restoration of the baptistry of San Juan Capistrano Mission, in Orange County, $200 of which pledge has already been paid.

Santa Ana's thimble club is to make comfort pillows for the use of the disabled world war veterans at San Fernando Hospital. Mrs. Mae West, trustee of the Parlor, who has been appointed state chairman for the San Fernando veterans by the Orange County Womans Club, is in charge.

Miss Mary E. Foy, district press chairman, recently reviewed the publicity activities of the Parlors under her supervision at a delightful luncheon in Santa Ana at which she was hostess. At a business session following she suggested to the committees the best manner in which reports should be sent to her for presentation to the Oakland Grand Parlor.

Those responding were: President Genevieve Hiskey, Secretary Matilda Lemon and Mrs. Adeline Pleasants of Santa Ana No. 235; President Mrs. A. O. Evans and Mrs. Olive Lopez of Californiana No. 247 (Los Angeles); President Lucanna McFadden, Mrs. Kate Hill, Secretary Mary Rothaermel and District Deputy Nellie Cline of Grace No. 242 (Fullerton).

"California."

Sacramento—At an entertainment sponsored by Calif. No. 22, April 22, Mrs. Lena Cowan, a member of the Parlor, read the following verse, her composition, entitled "California":

"In the land of western sunshine
Is a haven that I love—
It's just a bit of heaven
That slipped through the clouds above.

"On the shores are lofty mountains,
That go towering to the skies;
It's the place that brings us nearest
To the joys of Paradise.

"Silvery lakes and restless rivers
Lend their beauty to the scene,
While stately white peaks glisten
With the glory of their sheen.

"With rich and luring sunsets,
And gold spun draperies sheer,
There's no place in any country
Where I'd rather be than here.

"There are no cyclones raging,
No bitter north winds blow,
But enough of rain and sunshine
To keep our hearts aglow.

"If you've roamed in other places
And feel sort of tired and lone,
California is the refuge
You may call your home sweet home.

"Uncle Sam's a fine old fellow
And he's loyal to us all,
But I know he'd like to live here,
Winter, summer, spring and fall."

"Mother's Tools."

Chico—Annie K. Bidwell No. 163 had a Mother's Day program May 8 arranged by Mrs. Margaret Hudspeth. A skit, "Mother's Tools," was staged by a number of the members, and others presented "A Tribute to Mother." Mrs. Francis Snider and Mrs. Hudspeth gave readings. Refreshments were served by a committee headed by Mrs. Irene Henry. May 10 several of the members attended the reception at Marysville tendered Grand President Esther R. Sullivan by her home-Parlor, Marysville No. 162.

At Easter time the homeless children committee of the Parlor—Mms. Josephine Alexander, Lois Heberlie and Josephine Hughes—sent to the Central Committee a box of clothing, on which the members worked for weeks, including nineteen suits for boys between the ages of 2 and 6 years.

"Children" Have Party.

Hayward—At an Easter party given by Hayward No. 122 Mrs. Ethel Trumpler, Mrs. Helen Nelsen and Miss Mazie Moura acted as the reception committee and arranged a program of games for which prizes were awarded. District Deputy Bessie Hall and a delegation from Bahia Vista No. 167 were guests of honor. A banquet was served at a table centered with a basket of Easter lilies and made bright with gaily-colored Easter eggs.

Members attended a "children's party" given by the Parlor May 6 dressed in kiddish frocks. There were romping "babies" and all sorts of dainty, pretty "children." Games for which prizes were awarded constituted the amusement program. A maypole centered the refreshment table, and paper dolls were used as favors. Many visitors were in attendance. Mrs. Daniel Walde, Miss Ann Menicke and Miss Elsie Ferreira were hostesses for the evening.

Past Presidents Entertained.

Chico—Butte County Past Presidents Association No. 5 was entertained May 2 at the home of Mrs. Harriet Eames, which was adorned with baskets of iris and columbine. The delegates reported the proceedings of the General Assembly, which met in San Francisco April 26, and then bridge was enjoyed.

Grizzly Bear From Switzerland.

Hollister—May 8 four new names were added to the membership-roll of Copa de Oro No. 105, the initiatory ceremonies being witnessed by a large number of members and several guests from Santa Cruz No. 26. Itha Shore Brown, recently returned from an eight-months tour of the world, presented the Parlor with a hand-carved grizzly bear from Switzerland. Guessing games and refreshments added to the evening's happiness.

Mrs. Jewell Ojeda was tendered a kitchen shower April 24. In a series of rhymes, prepared by Ruby Nyland, she was given advice to guide her to future happiness. Josephine Winn carried off the honors in the enumeration of a list of articles to be found in "grandmother's kitchen," and Myrtle Palmtag rendered a vocal selection. Tasty refreshments were served, and from the bride's cake Eileen Hansen got the dime, Jessie Winter the thimble and Elma Chandler the ring, and Anne Smith secured the major portion of the bride's bouquet.

Anniversary Party.

Oroville—Gold of Ophir No. 190 initiated two candidates May 7 and after the ceremonies a meeting was held with Argonaut No. 8 N.S.G.W. to discuss building plans, which are progressing satisfactorily.

Then followed the Parlor's nineteenth institution anniversary party, for which a three-tiered cake, beautifully decorated, was made by Mrs. Loretta Ross. Charter members in attendance included Miss Fredericka Braden, who cut the cake, Mrs. Mary Woodall, Mac Belle Bills, Corinne Gregory, Elice LaVoy, Maggie D. Bowers and Anna Bernhard. Flowers were presented the initiates and the Parlor's latest bride, Mrs. Hazel Stover-Bissett. The committee in charge of the party was composed of Mrs. Rosa Crum, Maggie D. Bowers and Pearl Damon.

Triple Event.

San Bernardino—At a charmingly appointed dinner May 14 Lugonia No. 241 honored the mothers of its members, greeted its organizer, Mrs. Florence Dodson-Schoneman, and observed its third institution anniversary. Miss Ava S. Klapp was the toastmistress. President Miss Lois Poling gave the toast to the mothers, which was responded to by her mother, Mrs. Lois Poling. Mrs. Schoneman cut and served the birthday cake, and Mrs. Annie Laurie Clark gave the Parlor's history. Vocal selections were contributed by Lois Aldridge-Johnson and Victoria Lisama.

A feature of the evening was the calling of the roll, each member responding with the place and the date of her birth. The Parlor sponsored a card party May 21 for the benefit of the homeless children.

"Shut-Ins" Remembered.

Quincy—Following their annual custom, Plumas Pioneer No. 219, assisted by Quincy No. 131 N.S.G.W., entertained the Pioneer Mothers at a reception held on Mothers' Day, May 11. The hall was beautifully decorated with a variety of spring blossoms in pastel shades, and each guest was presented with the customary carnation in memory of mother.

A most interesting program of songs, recitations and short addresses was enjoyed by the assemblage of seventy guests and members, after which delicious refreshments were served. The "shut-ins," numbering nine in number, were remembered with dainty baskets of cake, homemade candy and flowers.

Mrs. Verhenia Moseley, charming and gracious president of Plumas Pioneer, together with her able assistants, deserve a great deal of credit for arranging and bringing to completion one of the most delightful receptions ever held in honor of the most precious of all beings—our mother.

Pioneer Day Pageant.

Alturas—A delegation from Alturas No. 159, including Past Grand President Catherine E. Gloster and Grand Trustee Irma Laird, visited Lassen View No. 98 in the historic town of Shasta May 9. The following day the delegation were in Marysville to do honor to Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, the occasion being her official visit to her home-Parlor, Marysville No. 162.

At the annual Modoc County school meet, held in Alturas May 17, No. 159 presented a five-dollar gold piece, minted in California, to Joy Butler of the State Line school, New Pine Creek, Oregon State, for the best oral report on California history. President Ella McGrath made the presentation.

The Alturas Roundup Association and the Pioneer Days Committee of Alturas have requested the Parlor to take charge of the Pioneer Day Pageant to be staged during the Independence Day, July 4, celebration, and the Parlor has agreed to do so.

"Those Husbands" Enjoyed.

Oakland—A joint Mother's Night was held May 8 by Piedmont No. 87 and Piedmont No. 120 N.S.G.W., with Miss Mae Meade as chairman. Vocal and instrumental selections were rendered by members of both Parlors, and Helen Ring, Pauline Griswold, Kathleen Halloran, Hazel Frazer, Rose Rodriguez and Rose Martindell presented a riotous play entitled "Those Husbands," which was much enjoyed. After a very interesting program all retired to the banquet-room, where a very tasty repast was partaken of.

No. 87 recently held a very successful rummage sale, which netted one hundred dollars. May 22 a splendid class of candidates were initiated, and two recent brides, formerly Miss Mabel Hamb and Miss Wanda Planer, were entertained and presented with gifts by the Parlor.

Original Ceremony.

Stockton—Grand President Esther R. Sullivan paid an official visit to Caliz de Oro No. 206 April 29. Following dinner at the Country Club adjournment was had to the lodge-rooms, where the ritual was exemplified, with President Grace Goins presiding; the work of the officers was highly praised by Miss Sullivan. The hall was tastefully decorated with large baskets of scotch broom, red and white roses.

Grand President Sullivan gave an interesting address on work sponsored by the Order, referring particularly to the Native Daughter Home and the preservation of the state's redwood groves. Thomas Kenyon delighted with several songs. This was followed by a unique and original ceremony, four of the officers, in appropriate words, presenting Miss Sullivan, in the Parlor's behalf, flowers in the colors of the Order and a gift.

During the evening short talks were made by Past Grand Presidents Mamie G. Peyton and Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, Grand Trustees Sadie Brainard and Eldora McCarty, Grand Outside Sentinel Edna Briggs and District Deputy Irene Tefft. At the meeting's conclusion delicious refreshments were served by the hostess committee for the evening, Mary Fay, chairman.

Bassinets for Young Mothers.

Bieber—Mount Lassen No. 215 observed Mother's Day with a luncheon and short program. Each member invited as her guest a mother. The table was prettily decorated with flowers and appropriate motifs. The centerpiece was a ship with flags, a miniature sailor and a gold star, symbolizing the voyage of President Carey, who left New York May 28 to visit the grave of her son in France. Mrs. Carey was recently presented with an emblematic pin to wear on her journey.

Those who appeared on the program included Mrs. Nettie McKenzie, chairman of the day, Angie Kenyon, Lettie Hall, Marie Walsh and Eva Harvey, Misses Muriel McKenzie and Alice Chace. While refreshments were being served, Mrs. Hall and McKenzie retired and brought in two dainty bassinets made of crepe paper, containing gifts for the little native sons of Mrs. Stella Tyler and Grace Bunselmeier.

May 1 five members of the Parlor accompanied District Deputy Lettie Holl on an official visit to Alturas No. 159. They were entertained at cards, and delicious refreshments were served. Mrs. Holl was presented with a pretty gift by Past Grand President Catherine E. Gloster. May 22 the Parlor initiated four candidates.

Eighth Anniversary.

Petaluma—Petaluma No. 222 observed its eighth institution anniversary with a chicken dinner May 20. Among the visitors were Past Grand President Emma Gruber-Foley and Super-vising Deputy Ethel Stuhr. President Mary Garzoffi presided in her usual gracious manner.

Orange and white, the colors of the Parlor, were carried out in the beautiful decorations with marigolds, freesias and roses. A basket holding golden blossoms formed the centerpiece, and to it were attached garlands of other blossoms in harmony with the color note. Announcement was made that the Sonoma County Past Presidents Association will meet in Petaluma June 3, following the regular meeting of No. 222.

In Memoriam

MARGARET A. GARDINER.

To the Officers and Members of Mission Parlor No. 227 N.D.G.W.:

Whereas, Almighty God, in His Infinite wisdom, has seen fit to call our dearly beloved sister, Margaret A. Gardiner, into the great heavenly parlor on high, we hold in fond memory her cheerful smile, her loving ways and her happy disposition.

Though on earth you are not forgotten, Still in memory you are with us, As you always were before.

Therefore, be it resolved, that we extend to her dear son, Harry A. Gardiner, our deepest sympathy; it is our earnest prayer that God, in His Infinite mercy, assuage his deep grief and send peace into his sad heart; we here record our tribute of affection for one whose kindly ways endeared her to all; and be it further resolved, that our flag be draped in mourning, in due respect for our late sister; that a copy of these resolutions be spread in full upon our minutes; that a copy be sent to her devoted son, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Respectfully submitted,

ANN SAXON,

MAY BARRY,

MINNIE DAVIS,

Committee.

San Francisco, May 11, 1930.

ELIZABETH WATSON McMILLAN.

We, your committee appointed to draw resolutions to the memory of our departed sister, Elizabeth Watson McMILLAN, respectfully submit the following:

Resolved, That we, the members of Morada Parlor No. 199 N.D.G.W. do express our sincere grief over the loss of our beloved sister, Elizabeth Watson McMILLAN; be it also resolved, that in tribute to her memory, we spread upon the minutes of this meeting our tribute of love and sympathy; be it further resolved, that these resolutions be recorded upon the books of our Parlor and that copies be sent to the bereaved family, and to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

KATHERINE KOFF,

HELEN C. CONDIT,

LUCY OUTLAND,

Committee.

(Seal) Modesto, May 14, 1930.

LOUISE DIMOND.

To the Officers and Members of Bahia Vista Parlor No. 167 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our beloved sister, Louise Dimond, submit the following:

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father, in His Infinite wisdom, has called from our midst our beloved sister, Louise Dimond; and whereas, the Parlor has lost a faithful member, and the bereaved family a loving wife and mother. In the loss of Sister Louise Dimond the Order has lost a true and loyal Native Daughter, having joined the Parlor shortly after it was instituted; her kind, loving, generous and unselfish nature won for her many friends, and all who knew her loved her.

Resolved, That we extend to the bereaved family our deepest sympathy, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, and one to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication, and that a copy be spread upon the minutes of this Parlor.

LOUISE F. McDUGALL,

MINNIE E. RAFFER,

MARY E. WRIGHT,

LONG BEACH— A CITY BY THE SEA

A. A. Miller

(Manager Publicity Bureau
LONG BEACH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.)

THE STORY HERE PRESENTED IS INTENDED to bring to you the chronicle of Long Beach as the all-year playground of California South, beautifully situated on the blue shore of the Pacific Ocean, with exhilarating climate and a velvet, sandy doorstep on which the sea forever swirls.

Nowhere else abounds such beguilements to rest and play as in this great modern city with a population of approximately 165,000. Due to an aggregation of Nature's bounties, of which the scenic charms and climate conditions head the list, this great city-by-the-sea has had a growth unprecedented in the annals of city building. In consequence, it is rated the wonder of the world in its rapid development and municipal achievements, considering the brief quarter-of-a-century that has elapsed since it was but a diminutive seaside village, where the pleasure-lovers and visitors from afar congregated to enjoy surf bathing and the warm waters of the Pacific, beneath the gentle beams by those of any city of equal size. With a population of approximately 165,000, Long Beach is at once a metropolitan city and one of the best-known beach resorts of California South. There are more than 1,000 hotels and apartments overlooking the ocean, and as many as 100,000 people are entertained frequently over week-ends. The wide beach, more than nine miles long, which slopes very gradually, is filled with joys and pleasure-play, sun swept and breezes blown. There are working home-folks, year on year, there are tourists also here, who come as guests, in season's time, our wondrous joys to share, and 'mid the beauties of the flowers and palms, where e'er you go, is all about, in drifts and piles, a sand as white as snow.

Long Beach is a large commercial city with all the qualities of a huge summer resort, and is California's most beautiful "all year city." The amusement zone is one of the finest and most complete to be found anywhere. You can spend days and days sight-seeing, and enjoy of the semi-tropical sun, or participated in the entertainment features along the strand, and the amusement zone that has grown into a municipality in itself, dotted with amusement devices of every conceivable kind and character.

The speedy upbuilding and phenomenal growth of Long Beach, if accurately told in story, would read like a tale of the "Arabian Nights" and require volumes of space, lacking which it is only within the province of this message to present a prologue, as it were, of the narrative in extenso yet to come, that will properly present, statistically and chronologically, the facts regarding its many attributes.

Long Beach covers an area of over thirty square miles. Its health statistics are unequaled every minute of it. Add to all this the comfort of warm days and cool nights—nights sufficiently cool for sleep—surely Long Beach is a mecca for tourists. Always there awaits you that which is Long Beach's most valuable asset—the unfailing courtesy and hospitality of her citizens.

Sports of all kinds can be indulged in, including fishing (deep-sea and surf), boating, yachting, golf, swimming, etc.; in fact, every sort of outdoor and indoor pastime. Clubs of all classes, study clubs, art clubs, etc., offer social contact for every taste. The municipal band of forty pieces, under the leadership of Herbert L. Clarke, famous bandmaster, renders two free concerts daily on year-around schedule in an open-air pavilion. Jutting out into the ocean are two large piers. One of them, the Silver Spray, ranks with the largest amusement piers in the country and abounds in high-class attractions. Palatial dancing pavilions, skating rinks, racing coasters, chutes, fun houses, rides, trained animals, aquarium, games, shows and various sports vie with each other in furnishing thrills and excitement. Fishing, too, may be enjoyed from either of these piers. Deep-sea fishing boats are on daily schedule for the deep-sea fishing beds off shore for the sportsman who is out after the big catch.

Long Beach has fourteen public parks comprising 500 acres, providing every form of outdoor recreation and sport, including two municipal golf links at Recreation Park, rated among the finest in the country. Within the city limits there are more than seven miles of smooth water in Alamitos Bay and Recreation Park channels and lagoons. Here sailing, motorboating, aquaplaning, canoeing and still-water bathing are year-round attractions.

People who come here from the four corners of the earth can find nowhere a better place in which to rear their children, in which to enjoy all of the good things that God and man can provide for their health, comfort and happiness.

There are upwards of seventy churches in the city, of every denomination and creed, so that all classes of worshippers can find a ready welcome. We also boast of the largest Bible class in the world, and every Sunday morning a bright brotherly service is conducted in the Municipal Auditorium by the Tauhman Bible class, and every man and woman finds a warm welcome at these gatherings.

Our schools are one of the greatest features of the city. The greatest care is exercised by the authorities to secure the best possible masters and instructors, so that the children may be put through a proper course of both mental and physical training.

To the manufacturer we offer the best prospects and facilities of any city in California. Situated on a natural harbor, Long Beach gives ready transport facilities by water to all parts of the Orient, and also via Panama to the Atlantic ports, Europe and Africa. By rail, to all parts of the United States, Canada, Mexico and South America. Large freight boats are continually leaving the harbor for all parts of the world, thus giving the manufacturer easy foreign transport for his goods. Tracts of land are available for almost any class of industry. The huge oil fields in the immediate vicinity make both fuel and power cheap.

To the merchant, no other city can offer more scope for salesmanship than Long Beach. With a steadily growing population of 55,000 in 1920 to 165,000 in 1930, it gives a fine scope to all classes of business, whether wholesale or retail. One has but to walk a few blocks and see the fine modern buildings and stores to be at once convinced that Long Beach as a business city is well in the running with the largest cities of the Pacific Coast.

To the resident, Long Beach offers everything the heart can desire. The continual sunshine and even temperature throughout the year; it is never too hot, never too cold, but always a beautiful all-year climate. Flowers are ever in bloom, giving a spring cheer on every day of the year. The intending resident can either purchase or rent a house or apartment to suit his style or purse, and even a very modest purse can rent easily and well.

Few places in the world offer the same number of days of sunshine, and the incident happy outdoor life which is afforded here, besides all of the comforts and conveniences of a modern city. It is only natural that men and women should desire to live here. Long Beach will continue to grow and prosper as long as people have a desire to live and enjoy a mild and health-giving climate.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS ENTERTAIN PIONEER MOTHERS OF CALIFORNIA.

An outstanding event in Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W. was the annual Mother's Day observance, at the home of Mrs. Clara Fay, May 6, when the Pioneer Mothers, several of them members of the Order, were honored guests. Memories of the early days were vividly recalled. Mrs. Eliza Moore, the eldest of the guests, is 94; she came West in a covered wagon in 1854, stopping first in Nevada County and later settling in Yolo County; her daughter, Mrs. Geneva West, and granddaughter, Mrs. Lela Arborn, a Native Daughter, were in attendance.

Mrs. Esther Halloway, 91, was born in Delaware and came to California via the Isthmus of Panama in 1854; her daughter, Mrs. Georgia Peirson, and four granddaughters are members of the Parlor. Mrs. Sallie Collins, mother of Mrs. Lucretia Coates of No. 154, came in 1870 and settled where Whittier now stands. Mrs. Adeline Pearce was born in San Bernardino seventy-four years ago; she is the mother of Mrs. Julia E. Arborn and Mrs. Lena Hansen of the Parlor. Mrs. Ysabel Carrillo-Campbell, a member of No. 154, retains a portion of the Spanish land grant which was her birthplace seventy-two years ago. Mrs. Belle Coates arrived in California in 1859. Mrs. Kittie Breen-Dillon, a member of the Parlor, is a direct descendant of a member of the historic "Reed-Donner Party." In all, there were forty-six guests at the celebration.

A chicken dinner was served at noon, the guest mothers being seated at a central table adorned with nasturtiums, poppies and yellow tapers. The favors, in pastel colors, were made by Mrs. Daisy Hansen. Following the dinner President Lillian Mullen Lasater welcomed the mothers, among them being her own mother, who arrived from Honolulu May 3. Mrs. Helen Cervantes and Mrs. O. P. Palestine rendered several vocal selections. Mrs. Kate McFadyen, chairman of the arrangements committee, introduced the mothers. Others on the committee were Elnora Martin, E. Mabel Emery, Fannie McPherson, Bertha Hitt, Lena Hansen and Lucretia Coates.

May 3, the Parlor initiated two candidates and enjoyed a history program presented by District Deputy Kate McFadyen, chairman No. 154's history and landmarks committee, who gave a historical reading of early Long Beach. District Deputy Florence Dodson-Schoneman gave an interesting address, and won the history contest. Mrs. O. P. Palestine sang two numbers. District Deputy Hazel Hansen was among the many guests.

The Parlor's thimble club was entertained April 24 at the home of Mrs. O. P. Palestine. May 8 a motor trip, in charge of Mrs. Julia E.

OLD DEEDS HAVE HISTORY INTEREST

SEVERAL OLD DEEDS, RECENTLY UNCOVERED in the archives of a Los Angeles title insurance company, are interesting from a historical viewpoint, and also reveal the enormous increases in land values of the southern section of the state. Property descriptions were vague, in the early days, and little attention was given engineering problems.

A deed of July 16, 1851, reads: "Josefa Lopez de Vejar sells to Felipa Rhim 13 1/2 varas of land in front of my orchard, for which land Rhim has given me a double barrel shotgun, an equivalent transfer, to my entire satisfaction."

Plo Pico, an early-day governor of California previous to the advent of the Gringos, added

400 cattle to his herds at the Buena Esperanza Rancho through the sale of a residence holding in the Plaza district of Los Angeles in 1851. The deed reads, in part: "Plo Pico of the city of Los Angeles does sell and alienate unto Francisca Uribe of said city, wife of Francisco O'Campo, a certain house situate in this city, on one side of the Plaza, which belongs to him in property and possession by purchase made of the attorney of the legitimate heir, Ana Maria Tosto. He sells it for the sum of four hundred head of cattle from 3 years up, half steers and one-half cows, which said purchaser promises to deliver at the rancho of Buena Esperanza during all of the present month of May of 1851."

Another document, dated 1848, in the form of a lease and a conditional sale, reads: "Rosalia Dalton delivers the place to Juan Apablaza at the rent of half of the products and expenses, and when she dies, if it happens after the year 1849, Apablaza will give as the value of the vineyard and appurtenances, $250, and it will remain his property; but if she wishes payment before, to conclude the sale, Apablaza will give to the said senora one barrel of grape brandy each year during her life. Apablaza stipulates that if she dies before 1849 he will give something for the burial and shortly after will give the rest to Maria Antonia Pogerlon."

HISTORIC LANDMARK PLAQUED.

Glendale—Glendale Parlor No. 264 N.S.G.W. and Verdugo Parlor No. 240 N.D.G.W. sponsored a barbecue May 11 at the Tujunga ranch of Philip Begue, a member of No. 264, which was attended and enjoyed by about 200. The feast was prepared by Philip Begue Jr., assisted by Jack Verdugo, descendant of the family who, in the early days of Los Angeles County, occupied the San Rafael rancho.

Following the barbecue there was a short program. John Steven McGroarty gave an interesting talk on the early history of the valley, referring particularly to that portion now occupied by the Begue family, which in early days was the site of Sister Elsie's Indian school. John Bodkin (Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W.), mayor of Tujunga, welcomed the assemblage, and there were addresses by District Deputy Florence Dodson-Schoneman of the Native Daughters and Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell of the Native Sons. Ray McGrath entertained with vocal selections.

The crowd then proceeded to the site of a landmark, an old well, which was marked with a plaque inscribed: "Sister Elsie's Well. Dug by the Neophytes on the Rancho Los Hermanos. Was used by the Padres traveling over Old Mission Trail during the Spanish Regime. Dedicated May 11, 1930, by the Native Sons and Daughters of Glendale Parlors." W. Joseph Ford, a member of No. 264, delivered the dedicatory address.

The program of the day concluded with races, the winners in which were presented with awards donated by Glendale merchants. Johnny Zitto, a resident of the neighborhood and a Native Son, entertained with stunt flying.

TO DEDICATE ROOM IN HOME.

Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. had several visitors May 7, among them D.D.G.P. Doria Phillips. Ruth Ruiz reported the sports dance was a social and financial success, Lucy Malin told of the opening of Olivera street, and Marvel Thomas reported on the San Gabriel Mission Memory Garden. Hazel Hansen of Verdugo Parlor No. 240 was awarded the "mystery box," donated by Patricia Eaton. Through this box, originated by Mrs. Mary Thomas, the Parlor has enriched its Loyalty Pledge fund. The bridge party at the Avila adobe May 17, Jennie Raymond chairman, was a great success.

June 4, the Parlor will initiate a class of candidates and elect officers for the July-December term. June 11 an Italian dinner, with Ruth Ruiz and Flora Holy as the hostesses, will be featured.

June 15, Los Angeles Parlor will be in charge of the breakfast at the Native Daughter Home in San Francisco, and at that time the Parlor's room in the Home will be dedicated with appropriate ceremonies to Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer. Many of the delegates to the Oakland Grand Parlor will attend the function.

ANNIVERSARY ROUNDUP.

Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. initiated another large class of candidates May 9, bringing its membership total to 1,175. Among the initiates was Rudolph C. Heinsch, a charter member, who returned to the fold. Prior to the ceremonies Charlie Gassagne filled the gang to their chins with a wonderful feast of chicken and all the fixings.

May 9 was the birthday anniversary of Superior Judge B. Rey Schauer, president of the Parlor. A delegation visited him in his courtroom and presented him with a California State (Bear) Flag, Edwin A. Meserve making the presentation address. Judge Schauer is a native of Santa Barbara County, being born at Fairlawn, in 1891.

In recognition of Flag Day, Superior Judge J. Walton Wood, on behalf of Ramona, will present a Flag of the United States of America and a California State (Bear) Flag to the Luther Burbank junior high school June 13 at 3 p.m. June 8, in celebration of its institution anniversary, the Parlor will stage a stag roundup at Glen Oaks "from 9 a.m. to ?" Members of the Order, their friends, and eligibles will be welcomed. Ray Russill heads the arrangements committee.

Other events on Ramona's June calendar are: 6th. election of officers. 13th, class initiation; last chance to qualify for the grand prize by having a candidate initiated. 20th, judge's night; Judges Arthur Keetch, Carlos A. Hardy, Elliot Craig, Harry R. Archbald, Walter Guerin, Hugh J. Crawford, William Hazlett and Marshall F. McComb will be among those present.

BIRTHDAY OBSERVED.

Ocean Park—Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 N.D.G.W. observed its institution anniversary May 5. Catherine Worsham being chairman of the evening. Mrs. Ruth Dannis accompanied her daughter, Miss Fay Dannis, in violin selections, and Miss Dorothy Barnes gave several readings. Then the guests of honor—District Deputy Florence Dodson-Schoneman, Miss Marvel Thomas, organizer of the Parlor, Past President Hazel Hansen of Verdugo and Past President Flora Holy of Los Angeles—and the members adjourned to the banquet-room, which was beautifully decorated in golden poppies. A huge birthday cake, in yellow, white and red, was flanked by tall gleaming candles, which shed a soft ray of light over all and was reflected in the happy smiles of those who wished for the Parlor many happy hirthdays.

Santa Monica Bay recently had the pleasure of listening to an interesting address by Miss Marian Sparks, who spoke on the early-day Spanish customs in California and called attention to the state's many landmarks. El Camino Real sewing club of the Parlor was entertained April 28 at the Santa Monica home of Marie Barnes. Marshal Letha Cram, who is to be married, was surprised with a shower of miscellaneous wedding gifts.

BE AT THE HELM!

The luncheon program of Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. May 13 was in charge of Mrs. Ethel Hearst. She presented Robert E. Callahan, who spoke feelingly of the many injustices done the Red man, Martin Napa, a tenor, and Chief Snow White entertained with songs and dances. Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer was also a speaker. She mentioned some of the historical projects being sponsored by other organizations, and declared that instead of being contributing factors in such movements the Native Daughters should be at the helm.

May 27 the Parlor initiated a class of fifteen candidates, among the number being Mrs. Maude Bristol-Quinn, wife of Supervisor John R. Quinn, who comes from a prominent Bakersfield family.

SPLENDID ENDORSEMENT.

"All Quiet on the Western Front," now showing twice daily at the Fox Carthay Circle Theater, in addition to unprecedented praise from many sources has received the endorsement of the General Federation of Womens Clubs.

"Magnificent battle scenes and the lights and shadows of every-day life of the soldier are perfectly portrayed without vulgarity and should be seen by the youth of every land, adults and adolescents," reads the report the federation executives have sent broadcast over America.

GREAT WORK BEING DONE.

Glendale—April and May were busy months for Verdugo Parlor No. 240 N.D.G.W. A luncheon was given at Mable Devine's home in honor of Floe Perdew, an active worker in the Parlor who is to make her home in Needles, and she was showered with handkerchiefs. The card party of April 29, given jointly by the Parlor and Glendale Parlor No. 264 N.S.G.W., was a huge success. At a pot-luck dinner at the home of Florence McMillan the members sewed for a worthy cause. Card parties are being sponsored by various members.

May 13, Mother's Day was observed with a program directed by Secretary Martha Hawkensen. Great work is being done by an auxiliary of the Parlor under the leadership of President Gussie Anderson. It meets every two weeks, sewing for the homeless children and getting ready for the fall bazar.

FOLLOW A SUCCESSFUL LEADER.

Ocean Park—June 9 will be airplane night at Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W. A class of ten candidates, in honor of John T. Newell, the new Grand President, will be initiated, entertainment will be provided, and refreshments will be served.

"Santa Monica Bay is going to do its bit to make Grand President Newell's year a banner one for the Order," declares Secretary John J. Smith, "and you know No. 267! We want all the Los Angeles County Parlors to follow our lead."

HOMELESS CHILDREN BENEFIT.

The annual benefit of Pearl Keller for the homeless children will be given at the Philharmonic Auditorium June 14, Flag Day. Tickets may be had at all Native Son and Native Daughter Parlors.

THE DEATH RECORD.

Gordon MacLean, affiliated with Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 N.S.G.W., died May 18. He was born at Los Angeles City, May 3, 1891.

PLUM PLANTING PROBLEM.

The indications in deciduous fruits are that plums are about the most promising of trees to plant at the present time. In planting, it will be well to remember that many varieties are early blossoming, and the farmer who plans to plant plums next winter should note carefully the frost conditions. Plums do best on rather deep, well-drained loam or clay-loam soils. However, good yields may be obtained in favored localities in shallow soils, by planting rather closer together to secure a satisfactory tonnage. Commercial and organic fertilizers will aid in such cases. Plums, marketed fresh, must be fairly close to shipping facilities, and the roads must be of such nature that they will be delivered in good shape. While the outlook for plums may be good, it is best to remember that marginal soils never produce great profits; to be used conditions, aside from soil, must be very favorable.

COURTS UPHOLD PEDESTRIANS' RIGHTS TO THE HIGHWAYS.

The State Division of Motor Vehicles calls the attention of motorists to the fact that in recent months the courts of this and other states have held, almost unanimously, that pedestrians have the right of way over motor vehicles, and that pedestrians have frequently collected heavy damages from motorists who failed to respect their rights. Here are some of the important points in the courts' decisions:

The pedestrian has the right to use all parts of the highway, being chargeable only for the exercise of a due amount of care.

The pedestrian hit and injured in the center of the street cannot be considered as negligent because he was there instead of upon the sidewalk.

The pedestrian is not guilty of negligence because he fails to look behind him; he is not bound, as a matter of law, to be looking and listening continuously to see if motor vehicles are approaching.

The rule of reasonable precaution requires that the driver be certain the pedestrian is aware of the approach of his vehicle at such distance as to avoid running over him.

The driver who strikes a pedestrian because he was blinded by the sun or lights cannot escape responsibility by offering that as an excuse.

"It will be seen from these decisions that the odds are against the motorist who hits a pedestrian and strives to avoid payment of damages," says the division's bulletin. "The courts have repeatedly held with the pedestrian, the old common law freedom of use of the king's highway by foot passengers having been modified but little by statutory enactment. Our records prove that a large amount of the damage suits growing out of the use of the motor vehicle involve pedestrian accidents. Despite this, however, fatal accidents to pedestrians mount every year.

"The only recent change in the law affecting pedestrians is to require them to walk on the left-hand side of public highways. This does not, in any sense, mean that the motorist must not exercise due caution in avoiding pedestrians even though they are walking on the wrong side of the road. The only safe rule for the motorist to follow is to be on the alert constantly to avoid striking pedestrians. This is particularly true in crowded streets where foot passengers, many of whom are likely to be aged or crippled, are numerous.

"The motorist who drives without due caution under such conditions is laying himself liable to a heavy financial loss and possible loss of his driving license."

FAILURE TO PAY LOSSES LICENSE.

The auto financial responsibility law, enacted by the last State Legislature, has resulted in the cancellation or suspension of several licenses. The law provides for revocation of a driver's license where an auto owner fails to pay judgment for personal injury or property damage.

PROLIFIC ACCIDENT CAUSE.

Eagerness to pass the other fellow upon the highway is a prolific cause of traffic accidents. In addition to over 2,000 human lives, highway crashes cost California $70,000,000 annually.

The teacher asked little Abie to give a sentence using the word "diadem." After much effort, he responded: "People who drive onto railroad crossings without looking, diadem sight quicker than those who stop, look and listen."

CAUTION "DON'TS" ON APPROACHING RAILROAD GRADE CROSSINGS.

With the advent of the touring season, railroad grade crossings loom as a serious threat to highway safety, and there will be the usual number of fatal accidents and untold suffering unless motorists exercise every precaution. In 1929 there were 5,046 grade-crossing accidents with a death toll of 2,165. There are 210,874 unprotected grade crossings throughout the country, one to every fourteen miles of the nation's three million miles of highways of all types.

Last year, it is estimated, 44,000,000 people in the United States and Canada took vacation motor trips. This year the number will be even greater. For the benefit of motorists generally, the public safety department of the California State Automobile Association has issued the following "don'ts" on approaching railroad crossings:

Don't trust to signals and signs, unless there is a watchman present.

Don't approach at other than an extremely low rate of speed.

Don't blow your horn or carry on a conversation that is liable to drown out the sound of an approaching train.

Don't shift gears while upon the tracks; if it is an upgrade, change before starting uphill and cross the tracks in low or intermediate.

Don't take the chance of running out of gas upon railroad tracks.

Don't forget that a train travels along a fixed path and cannot swerve.

Don't forget to always stop before crossing the tracks if the approach is around a curve that is liable to shut off the view of an approaching train.

Don't trust your memory as to train schedules.

Don't forget that there may be a second section or, if double tracks, a train coming from the opposite direction of the one that has just passed.

BENEFIT DEBATABLE.

During the past five years the average driving speed of motor vehicles increased about 40 percent. Drivers have been quick to take advantage of the modern car's higher speed capabilities, but not so quick to learn the proper use of speed.

A motor journal says: "It is debatable whether the public has gained anything besides more accidents and greater nervous tension from the swifter pace, nor is the time saved being devoted to any useful purpose."

BOULEVARD STOPS ESSENTIAL.

Boulevard stops, so essential to the safety of traffic on arterial as well as intersecting streets, was the subject of the May state-wide traffic safety educational campaign conducted by the California Committee on Public Safety in co-operation with traffic law-enforcement officials.

Be Sure—The windshield wiper is not just a winter-weather accessory. Be sure it functions at all times, as foggy weather may be encountered any time.

Indicator—Oil found upon the garage floor when the car is backed out indicates the time has come to tighten crankcase bolts or to replace a gasket.

Dangerous—Having a lighted cigarette in the mouth while opening the hood of a car is often as dangerous as holding a match over a gas tank.

All Could Ride—With five people to a car, the autos now in use in the United States could transport the nation's population.

AVERAGE DRIVER DOES NOT

REALIZE AUTO'S TREMENDOUS POWER.
 How much do you actually know about the power that is in your car? The statistical department of the State Division of Motor Vehicles attributes a large number of fatal accidents to the ignorance of motorists about the power possibilities of motor vehicles. Computations made by the department show that 60 percent of all fatal accidents occur on straight roads, in good weather, and with cars operated by experienced drivers.

"The average man does not realize the tremendous amount of power his car possesses," Chief Frank G. Snook says. "A railroad engineer is required to put in long hours studying the power possibilities of his locomotive. Not so with the motorist. He drives his car without realizing the tremendous power it is capable of developing."

A car actually moves 58.6 feet a second when going at the legal rate of forty miles an hour. To stop the average 3,500-pound car going at forty miles an hour within a distance of one foot, would require the pull of 400 horses in an opposite direction. The same power needed to propel a car at forty miles an hour would move a block of steel weighing 200,000 pounds at the rate of one foot per second.

The man who drives his car at fifty miles an hour is traveling close to seventy feet per second. If he is not a quick thinker when emergency arises, he may travel as much as 150 feet before actually applying his brakes. "How important it is then that his brakes be absolutely in good working order and that he be constantly on the alert," says Eugene W. Biscailuz, superintendent of the state highway patrol.

DECALOGUE OF SAFETY FOR IRRESPONSIBLE VACATION MOTORISTS.

Vacation motorists who fail to realize individual responsibility in driving should be particularly interested in this decalogue of safety: "Good intentions are a treacherous substitute for good brakes."

"The born that is defective may yet prove very effective in plunging its owner into trouble."

"Beneath the skin, the man who neglects his steering gear is blood brother to the bridge jumper."

"There are many brands of danger, but only one kind of safety."

"A dark tail light is no protection against the car thundering along in the rear."

"Danger wings with lightning speed, for him who puts his trust in greed."

"All any bad brake asks is an opportunity to show what it cannot do in a critical situation."

"It's a poor time to think of brake inspection when one is within ten feet of eternity."

"Hard luck takes many a wallop that belongs to faulty judgment."

"The nearest American approach to the French guillotine is the exposed edge of a broken window or windshield glass"

HAVE HEADLIGHTS ADJUSTED.

With the approach of the summer tourist season, when night driving increases, motorists should be more certain than ever that the auto's headlights are adjusted to avoid glare, and thereby comply with the law.

A nation-wide survey shows that about 5 percent of the motor vehicle accidents are due to improperly adjusted headlights.

AVERAGE LIFE OF USEFULNESS.

The "old bus" will last just six and three-quarters years, if it attains the average life of usefulness, according to estimates of experts, who have studied the life of modern autos. The average life has been gradually increasing, so that replacement periods are more extended.

Safest Place—The safest place to drive along streets and highways is in the line of travel on the extreme right.

Indicator—Spark plugs constantly oily and fouling, indicate oil is leaking past the piston rings.

CALIFORNIA EARLY-DAY CUSTOM REVIVED

(SANTA BARBARA CHAMBER COMMERCE.)

OVER A HUNDRED OF THE MOST prominent citizens of Santa Barbara and vicinity started on an epoch-making visit to historic ranches in the Santa Ynez Valley May 9, reviving the old California custom of "Rancheros Visitadores." Riding horseback, or in one of four stagecoaches actually used in pioneer days—the men—for it was strictly a stag affair—re-lived the picturesque days of the plains in their four-day tour, sleeping under the stars and eating in the open.

Many historic places were visited, including the scene of the Indian uprising in the valley, the old camp of Colonel John C. Fremont, and the place where an ambush had been planned for the American army when it marched on Santa Barbara. Trailing the many riders and the stagecoaches were a chuck-wagon, carrying food and cooking equipment, and a covered-wagon, containing the bedding. Automobiles were taboo.

During the daytime the modern caballeros were greeted with old-time hospitality at various ranches. Strangely enough in this swift-moving country of ours, the region they visited has changed but little in the last fifty or seventy-five years. At night they pitched camp, and grouped around the campfires rang out the songs and music of the pioneer days, and many were the "wild and woolly" stories that were told.

The first night was spent at the famous Los Priostos rancho of Dwight Murphy, where a barbecue was held, and in the morning the riders followed the Santa Ynez River to the San Marcos rancho, the greatest of the county's single land holdings, where they stopped for luncheon. The second night was spent on the Juan Lolita rancho, owned by John J. Mitchell, well-known Chicago financier. No don of the glorious Spanish days could have been more hospitable than he. To recall the early times, a great old-fashioned bar had been constructed for the benefit of the visitors, with many fixtures resurrected from the old days. The only note which made one realize he was not in a typical "Wild West" saloon of the quick-shooting, hard-riding fifties was the presence of ginger ale and lemonade in place of the hardier beverages of other times. Another night was spent at Alisal rancho, and from there the party went to Nojoqui to disband.

As the riders left Santa Barbara, singly or in groups, to join the first roundup at Los Priostos ranch, they represented a curious sight. All manner of pioneer attire was noted. Many wore overalls, brilliant shirts and kerchiefs, old coats and, of course, a wide-brimmed hat. Others wore the picturesque Spanish costume. One prominent citizen had affixed a fierce moustache and beard, and put on the long prince albert coat and other paraphernalia of the old-time gambler. In a rickety mule-drawn buckboard he arrived at the ranch to join the cavalcade.

Among those who made the journey were E. W. Alexander, George Owen Knapp, George Edwards, William Gibbs McAdoo, A. K. Bennett, L. Deming Tilton, S. A. Nash-Boulden, George R. Marcy of Pasadena, Lawrence Requa, Alexander Gray, John J. Mitchell, Sam Stanwood, Dwight Murphy, Wilson Dibblee, Ed Borein, Silsby Spanlding, Ray Skofeld, Jim

 Santa Barbara, perhaps more than any other city in California, does much to perpetuate its early history. The plays and pageants given during the year and the annual Old Spanish Days Fiesta are events that keep the memories alive. The "Rancheros Visitadores" revives another California custom. It is planned to make it an annual event.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS AID IN PROGRAM OF SOCIAL CONFERENCE
Evelyn Joyce Eby
 (Chairman Publicity Committee Reina del Mar Parlor N.D.G.W.)

REINA DEL MAR PARLOR NO. 126 Native Daughters of the Golden West was an outstanding contributor to the program of the California Conference of Social Work which met in Santa Barbara May 13 to 17. As a Parlor, the Santa Barbara unit gave its hearty endorsement to the state conference and lent a colorful and local expression in the civic reception tendered the 1,500 social workers who gathered from all communities in California's fifty-eight counties.
 Contributions of the individual members of Reina del Mar toward the conference's success were exceptionally noteworthy. Miss Anna E. McCaughey, a life member of the Parlor and a past district deputy grand president, was without question the leader in state conference circles who stood above all. Miss McCaughey was the chairman of the family and child welfare section of the conference, and as such carried on with the same spirit that has predominated her work in the interest of the Native Daughters. To her goes no small share of the credit for the success of the conference.
 Entirely unselfish in her zeal for making the conference a success, Miss McCaughey did not confine her efforts to her section alone. For months in advance of the conference she was a regular attendant at the meetings of the program committee and assisted in perfecting each detail for the sectional meetings, general sessions and kindred group gatherings. Considering the fact that there were eight sections, each with a meeting scheduled for the five days of the conference, five general sessions, and nineteen kindred group gatherings simultaneously, her program was no small one. In addition to assisting in all courtesies shown the visiting hosts of social workers, Miss McCaughey also carried on the publicity program for the entire conference, a task that was gigantic in itself.

 Results obtained from the conference sectional meetings display that Miss McCaughey was unerring in her judgment in her choice of speakers, presiding chairmen and consultants. Her section was one of the most important of the conference, a fact that is attested to by the attendance at the four meetings held in Recreation Center Auditorium, the hearthstone of Santa Barbara's welfare program. Each morning the huge auditorium was filled with experts in and workers interested in family and child care, the average attendance at this section being well over 500. Not a few of this number were Native Daughters and Native Sons, both of Santa Barbara and other cities in the state. It was proper that this should be true, for one of the principal objectives of the Native Daughters and Native Sons is a well-organized child care program throughout California.

One of the phases that Native Daughters and Native Sons have a particular interest in—homes for homeless children—was one of the principal topics of the final session of the family and child care section. In this particular session, Miss McCaughey called to her assistance one of whom every Native Daughter and Native Son is proud—Miss Mary E. Brusie of San Francisco, secretary of the Native Daughters and Native Sons Central Committee on Homeless Children. Judge W. E. Learned of Santa Barbara, a prominent member of Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116 N.S.G.W., also assisted Miss McCaughey in putting across a message in adoption homes that will be of vast aid in California's child-care work.

With her experience in acting as home-finder for homeless children, Miss Brusie was able to make a very valuable contribution to Miss McCaughey's section. During her stay in Santa Barbara she was royally feted by Reina del Mar and was the house-guest of Mrs. Julius Bergen, a member of the Parlor.

Still another Native Daughter who gave invaluable assistance to the state social welfare group was Dr. Mariana Bertola of San Francisco, a Past Grand President of the Native Daughters.

Reina del Mar delegated a special committee to attend conference meetings that would aid the Parlor in carrying on its program in child care. This committee comprised those who have charge of the adoption work in the Santa Barbara district: Mrs. H. A. Spreitz (chairman), Mrs. William Vick, Miss Emma Martin, Mrs. C. E. Lataillade, Mrs. Frank Siford and Miss Marjorie Stone.

Santa Barbara County's reception to the California Conference was an event that will long be remembered by those who were participants. This affair was staged in and on the lawns surrounding the beautiful Santa Barbara Court House. Here, in an atmosphere of Old Spanish days, were the state workers received. In carrying out this atmosphere, members of Reina del Mar Parlor were predominant. Garbed in costumes of Santa Barbara's glorious past they formed an important part of the reception hostess group and acted as guides for the visitors as well as serving the refreshments of the afternoon. It was an eloquent expression on the part of the Parlor.

Among the Native Daughters who took part in this reception were Mrs. William Vick, Mrs. Wesley McCormick, Mrs. M. C. Harrison, Mrs. H. J. Sartwell, Miss Vera Pacheco, Mrs. Paul Miller, Mrs. Amelia Meyers, Mrs. John Mitchell, Mrs. B. B. Hoover, Mrs. A. C. Warren and Mrs. Floyd Stewart

To mention all the Native Daughters or Native Sons who participated in the California Conference of Social Work sessions would be an impossible task. For, in every section and in every kindred group meeting would be found representatives from all of the California Parlors, all striving toward a common cause—the control and prevention of social evils through a well-organized plan of social welfare, state-wide in its scope.

It is with pride that Reina del Mar Parlor can point to the part it and other Parlors of the state played in making the 1930 meeting of the California Conference one of the most successful in its history.

SPECIAL PROGRAM HONORS MOTHERS.

The younger members planned the evening as complete surprise, in order to relieve Dora Itchell and Jane Vick, president and district deputy, respectively, who have been untiring in their efforts to further the Parlor's work effectively.

With members and mothers seated in the auditorium, the program was opened by Mrs. Amelia Acres, chairman of the evening. A clever and original skit, prepared under the direction of Mrs. A. C. Warren, was then presented. Alda Feliz, who made a charming younger sister, appeared, carrying the old family album, prepared to entertain Sister Matilda's boy friend. This part was most cleverly played by Miss Inez Larpe, the Parlor's second vice-president who most deceived the audience.

With each picture vividly described with tell-tale stories by "little sister" and presented in bloom, memories of similar happenings and occasions were brought to mind by the mothers present. Among the most amusing pictures presented were: a wedding as of thirty years ago; a college quartet as in the days of derbys, deburns and moustaches; a swimming costume as worn by a woman of long ago; the hay-g party.

Those taking part in these amusing and well-contrived sketches were Frances Warren, Amelia Acres, Gloria Smith, Lydia Scudeleri, Mary Arcota, Inez Sharpe, Alda Feliz, Marian Arron, Elizabeth Hollow, Maria O'Neill and Vivian Sweet. Miss Ida Vizzolini acted as pianist for the evening's program.

Following the presentation of the skit, the young daughter of Della Johnson gave two charming dances in costume. Miss Lina Allright, one of Reina del Mar's accomplished singers, favored with two songs typical of other's Day.

The evening closed with a light supper, prepared under the direction of Mrs. Christine McCre, assisted by Edna McCormick, Mamie Miller and Della Longmire. Each mother was presented with a gift during the supper.

Reina del Mar wishes to claim the honor of having four sisters, all active in Parlor affairs and each of whom has at one time or another held office: Lillian Tinsley, Agnes Broekelsby, Mamie Miller and Christine McCre. The mother of these members, Mrs. George Sangster, has attended the Parlor's annual Mother's Day programs since her daughters' admission to Reina del Mar.

NATIVE DAUGHTER NEWS

Day program there presented, participated in by the Halfmoon Bay band, Father Smith, Miss Catherine Cunha, Mrs. Harriett Schoppe, Russell Bernardo, Mrs. Elizabeth Olney, Jack Bernardo.

The plot, beautifully decorated with flags and banners, was dedicated to the coastside Pioneers by Mrs. Grace Griffith, the Parlor's first president, and a tree was christened "Pioneer" by Mrs. Jenny McGinty, the Parlor's oldest member. The garden was started but a couple of months ago and by Mother's Day next year will be a brilliant mass of blooming flowers.

Neat Sum for Loyalty Pledge.

Stockton—At the meeting of Joaquin No. 5 May 13, Miss Irene Tefft, chairman of the Parlor's Loyalty Pledge Committee, reported she expected to be able to turn in a neat sum before the Oakland Grand Parlor. Concluding the business session, whist was played and dainty refreshments were served.

The Parlor sponsored a public whist party May 27, with Mrs. Mary Ricker as chairman. A large variety of beautiful prizes were awarded.

Fifty-four Mothers Are Guests.

Etna—Mothers were entertained at a Mother's Day program and lunch May 11. President Frances Kappler delivered the address of welcome, and those who contributed to the enjoyment of the occasion included Mary Parker, Lettie Lewis, Grand Organist Minna Kane Horn, Margaret E. Weston, Sisters Tucker and Bottoms. The assemblage joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne." Refreshments were served at long tables decorated with baskets of beautiful flowers. Evelyn Timmons was the decorator, and Bernice Smith had charge of the refreshments. Fifty-four mothers enjoyed the Parlor's hospitality.

Grand Organist Minna Kane Horn and her sister, Kathryn Pitman, attended the music week festival at Weed, and appeared on the program in piano selections.

Hearty Reception.

Antioch—Grand President Esther R. Sullivan was given a hearty reception on the occasion of her official visit to Antioch No. 223. The evening's events began with a supper, where the motif of the decorations was a combination of Easter colors, pink, yellow and orchid. The attractive table embellishments were done by a committee composed of Eloria Holway, Edith Stagi, Genevieve Field and Mrs. W. H. Beasley. The refreshment committee included Mms. R. F. Wien (chairman), Welch, R. F. Trembath, J. J. Brennan, John Rademacher and Elizabeth Tilley. Community singing, led by Mrs. Lybnet, was enjoyed. Five candidates were initiated during the evening.

In addition to Grand President Sullivan, the following grand officers, all of whom were presented with gifts, were in attendance: Grand Vice-president Estelle M. Evans, Past Grand President Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, Grand Marshal Evelyn I. Carlson, Grand Trustee Sadie Winn-Brainard, Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Inside Sentinel Millie Rock, Grand Outside Sentinel Edna B. Briggs and Past Grand President Amy V. McAvoy.

LONG BEACH

Arborn, was made to Universal City. The May 15 card party was a financial, as well as a social, success. The hope-chest, containing many useful and expensive articles, went to Fred Sanders. Mrs. Frances Griffith and Mrs. Daisy T. Hansen had charge of the arrangements.

Walton V. Collins, native of Louisiana, 79, died at San Fernando April 17 survived by a wife and four children, among them Lucretia Coates of Long Beach Parlor. In 1870 he came to Los Angeles County, settling at the site of the present City of Whittier.

OLD CALAVERAS WILL FIGHT FOR JUMPING FROG HONORS.

"While we don't like to be one of those 'I told you so' persons, we have often predicted that it would come to pass and now it has happened. Los Angeles is now claiming that gold was first discovered in that vicinity. In The Grizzly Bear [April 1930 issue] Olive Lopez writes that 'the first gold find in California of which there is any record was on March 9, 1842, six years before Marshall's discovery, and the location of it was in Placeritos Canyon on the San Francisquito ranch, forty miles northwest of Los Angeles, and that Don Francisco Lopez made the discovery while in search of wild onions for his wife.' It is stated that documentary evidence sustains the claim. The writer states that five million dollars was produced from the Los Angeles mines. As long as he was at it, why did he not make it more than five million as most any old mine in Calaveras County that worked 500 men produced from ten to fifty million dollars.

"Well, the people of the Mother Lode will not worry much about this new evidence on the first gold discovery, but we want to give them ample warning. If Los Angeles ever claims that Mark Twain's first Jumping Frog contest was staged in the southern metropolis, Angels Camp will send a delegation down there and Buron Fitts will have an investigation on his hands that will eclipse the Julian mixup. And while we are giving warnings we would like to call attention to owners of valuable relics. Do not let them get out of Calaveras County. They belong here. If Los Angeles gets many more of the early day relics, it will have all the evidence to prove that gold was discovered there, and we will have nothing to prove our early day romance in the Mother Lode."—Calaveras Prospect & Citizen.

social life and citizenship which is ending with unnecessary tragedy to American workers.

"Clearly, we are but at the beginning of the way to improve citizenship and economic stability under our immigration provisions and among the immigrant classes. Greater care, greater restrictions, and more machinery in carrying out the immigration act and all its amendments, both present and contemplated, are directly necessary. With 45,000,000 gainfully employed workers contributing daily to our national upkeep, in both necessity and luxury, it is patent that they constantly need every protection which American statesmanship and government can give them.

"The quota has proved its efficacy, but some of its 'corners' must be strengthened. Indeed, the pending legislation before Congress, which seeks to give greater benefits to native-born and naturalized workers, by putting additional countries under quota provisions, and particularly our southern neighbor across the Rio Grande, is worthy of the support of every person in America who really believes that 'charity begins at home' and that free government is worthy of an exalted citizenship."

MEXICANS PROVE LABOR PROBLEM

HARRY E. HULL, UNITED STATES Commissioner-General of Immigration, recently made public the following statement pertaining to the coming into this country of thousands of undesirable Mexicans, encouraged to come, legally or otherwise, by "unscrupulous employers, of whom, unfortunately, there have been far too many in the history of American employment":

"During the past fiscal year 42,385 immigrants from our Mexican neighbor were legally admitted into this country. Of this number, 38,980 came with the intention of becoming permanent residents. These fall into the following occupational groups: Unskilled or common laborers, 11,581; farm laborers, 3,167; skilled workers, 4,252; servants, 1,266; professionals, 732; miscellaneous, 1,295; no occupation specified, 16,687; total, 38,980.

"But this does not tell half the story. The remaining but living reminiscence of Mexican labor competition in America is found in the pathetic tale of immigrant 'bootlegging' and other illegal entries, day in and day out, across our Mexican border, from which the most far-reaching effects are found wherever workers come face to face at the gates of employment.

"Up and down the Ohio River, through the trunk railway lines of the Middle West, upon the farmlands in sunny Southern California, in the iron and steel industries of Pennsylvania and Ohio, and at various points of industry, both east and west, north and south, are found thousands of swarthy immigrants from Mexico, who gain entrance into our country without complying with any of the formalities of the act to regulate immigration. And it is sad but true that the only aid they needed, after gaining access to the land of opportunity, was the bid of careless and unscrupulous employers, of whom, unfortunately, there have been far too many in the history of American employment.

"To these labor-seekers, the 25 to 35 cents per hour rate of the Mexican 'bootlegged' immigrant has ever seemed an economic saving; and thus these employers have not reckoned with the stern results which always come from offending the wise statutory provisions of Nation and State. Nor have they stopped to realize the price which such unethical practices put upon the heads of the native-born and naturalized labor, which, by all the graces of our Constitution and our Government, are certainly entitled to first consideration as constant bearers of the obligations of American citizenship.

"Half a century ago, perhaps, the toll would not have been so great. But today, modern industry and agriculture are continuously undergoing rapid changes. Labor-saving machinery is constantly lessening the need for hand labor and displacing many a veteran hand of long experience and worth. Science and modern means of production and distribution are already creating a problem which is taxing our best thought, and which needs no augmentation by the devastating effects of illegal immigration. Add to this picture the lower living standards which the Mexican immigrant along with many of his contemporaries normally brings to America, and you have a moving drama in economics.

Entitled "How the Treaty Finally Got Ratified," the following appeared in the "New York Times" of May 25:

"Tokio, May 25.—The London naval treaty was ratified by an overwhelming majority in the Japanese Diet this afternoon. Up to within ten minutes of the poll it seemed certain that the pact would be rejected. Then the Minister of the Navy got up and proceeded to read how American and British experts felt about the treaty. The British Admirals had no trouble in showing that the treaty was a triumph for the United States and Japan. The American admirals demonstrated that the treaty was a triumph for Great Britain and Japan. Here, exclaimed the Tokio Minister of the Navy, were two foreign sources agreeing that Japan had managed to do very well.

"He read from the British press, which showed that as a result of the treaty Japan would be master of Australia, and white butlers would be waiting upon yellow employers in Singapore. He read from the American press, which showed that as a result of the treaty Japan would in the next two years be in full control of Hollywood, Tia Juana and the California unfermented grape-juice industry. The members of the Japanese Diet broke out into loud cheers and ratified the treaty by 345 votes to 2."

In view of the suddenly-sprung proposal to set aside the exclusion law—adopted by the Federal Congress after years of endeavor on the part of those interested solely in California's welfare—and put Japan on a quota basis, the above is most significant.

This quota-proposal is undoubtedly the result of the kid-glove, soft-soap method adopted in some quarters to combat the Jap evil in California. Had the laws of the state been strictly enforced, and the Jap deliberate lawbreakers dealt with as they should have been dealt with, this quota-proposal would, in all likelihood, never have been advanced.

The authorities of California, by failing to do their duty, and others who have been misguided, willingly or otherwise, into contending that friendly conferences could accomplish that which, so far as the Japs are concerned, cannot possibly be brought about other than by legal force, have played into the hands of those who have been watching and waiting for an opportune time to pull down the exclusion bar, erected as a defense against this Yellow menace!

The situation is most serious! Granting the quota to Japan will hasten the end of White supremacy on the Pacific Coast, and the Federal Congress, if it grant the quota, will signify its intention and desire to surrender the territory west of the Rockies to the Yellow race. No body of red-hooded Americans, acquainted with the facts, would for a moment consider the proposal, irrespective of the powerful forces urging it.—C.M.H.

KILLING WEEDS IN LAWNS.

Weeds in lawns may be killed without going through the tedious and expensive operation of digging them out. The operation, though, is one in which care must be used. An arsenic chloride weed killer such as is sold commercially, is used in a one-to-eight solution. A little whaleoil soap or a refined oil emulsion is first added to the water, then the chemical put in. This is sprayed on the grass. At first, the lawn will show the effects of the treatment, but will come back in better shape than before, with the competition from the weeds eliminated. Broadcasting more seed to fill up thinned places will aid in re-establishing the lawn.

"Lighthouses don't ring bells and fire cannon to call attention to their shining; they just shine on."—J. Arthur Thomson.

CHILDREN VISITED.

The twentieth anniversary banquet was well attended and greatly enjoyed by members of Twin Peaks Parlor No. 185 N.D.G.W. District Deputy Elizabeth Muller and Organizer Della Koneltzki were guests of honor. Pleasant evenings have been spent at the homes of Loretta Gavigan and Kay Jensen by the members interested in homeless children work. A very successful card party was held May 8, and much credit is due Chairman Loretta Cameron.

The Parlor's child welfare committee paid Easter and May Day visits to the children in the tubercular ward of San Francisco Hospital. Candy, scrapbooks, magazines and appropriate favors were given the children.

WONDERFUL TALENT.

Mission Parlor No. 227 N.D.G.W. entertained the mothers, in honor of Mother's Day, at a banquet May 9. The table was beautifully decorated with spring flowers, pale green and pink candles. Adorning the center of the table was a huge cake, from which ran streamers of pastel shaded ribbons attached to dainty gifts for each mother.

The entertainment, under the able guidance of Chairman Clare Gelsner and an active committee, with the array of wonderful talent Mission Parlor can so proudly boast of, made the event a memorable one. Ernestine McCormack and her children, Cissy and Frank Jr.; Helen Burgess and her daughter, Helen; Hattie Schwartz's son; Alice Dormody and Baby Peggie; Gertrude Tracy, radio entertainer—all helped to make the occasion one never to be forgotten.

The Parlor's drum corps, Helen McEvoy chairman, had a bingo party May 23. The glee club, directed by Hattie Schwartz, and the dramatic club, directed by Ann Saxon, are very busy raising funds for the 1931 Admission Day celebration, and President Minnie Davis is most desirous that it increase rapidly.

GRAND PRESIDENT VISITS "BABY."

Grand President Esther R. Sullivan officially visited the "baby" Parlor of San Francisco, La Dorada No. 236, April 24. The hall was beautifully decorated with spring flowers and greenery. Among the many visitors were Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Marshal Evelyn I. Carlson, Grand Inside Sentinel Millie Rock, Supervising Deputy Anna Theusen and representatives of twelve Parlors. Five candidates were initiated.

Grand President Sullivan gave an interesting talk on the Order's projects, in the course of which she praised the Parlor for its efficient work. Refreshments were served at the close of a very enjoyable evening.

May 8 the Parlor celebrated its fourth institution anniversary. A beautifully decorated birthday cake was presented by Emma Sanders, the first president, and delightful refreshments were served at a wonderfully decorated table by the new members. One candidate was initiated. June 12 La Dorada is giving a whist party and a large attendance from all the Parlors is hoped for. Many beautiful prizes will be awarded.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS INSTITUTE NEW PARLOR AT TURLOCK.

Turlock (Stanislaus County)—Eldora Parlor No. 248 N.D.G.W. was instituted here May 28 by Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, assisted by the grand officers. The Parlor was organized by Grand Trustee Eldora McCarty, and the ritual was exemplified by Morada Parlor No. 199 (Modesto). The charter list numbered thirty-one.

The charter officers include: Mary Ahern Hauck, past president; Laura Darby Roberts, president; Agnes Tiernan McCue, first vice-president; Gladys Hook Windmiller, second vice-president; Lena Dorothy Starr, third vice-president; Marguerite Jackson Kraetsch, recording secretary; Hazel Dunning Boies, financial secretary; Katherine O'Brien Zimmerman, treasurer; Myrtle Larson Hjelm, marshal; Emily Verna Vignola, inside sentinel; Emma Waehl, outside sentinel; Effie Osterland Lund, organizer, Hattie McCutchen Scott, Effie Smith Freeman, Evelyn Service Etnyre, trustees.

PATHFINDER'S SAN LUIS OBISPO CAMP SITE MARKED BY NATIVES.

San Miguel (San Luis Obispo County)—A monument, "The Pathfinder," erected by San Miguel Parlor No. 150 N.S.G.W., San Miguel Parlor No. 94 N.D.G.W. and the Paso Robles Womans Club, to the memory of Lieutenant-Colonel John C. Fremont, was unveiled May 11. It stands near Mission San Miguel Arcangel, founded July 25, 1797, the first camp-site of Colonel Fremont and his army in San Luis Obispo County.

Among the speakers were Supervisor Henry Twisselman and State Assemblyman Chris Jessperson. Miss Mamie Fitzgerald, a charter member of San Miguel Parlor N.D.G.W., unveiled the monument. A large number of Santa Barbara Natives attended the ceremonies.

CALIFORNIA HAPPENINGS OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

JUNE 1880 IN CALIFORNIA WAS USHERED in with a north wind, which prevailed for eight days. There were rumors of much damage to maturing grain, but this was offset by the disappearance of an incipient growth of rust fungus that was beginning to develop from excessive moisture. Harvesting of grain began this month, and there were reports of excellent yields.

General John A. Sutter, noted California Pioneer who erected historic Sutter Fort, now in the center of Sacramento City, died at Washington, D. C., June 19, and his remains were interred at Lititz, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. The California Pioneer Association of New York City attended the ceremonies. General Sutter was born at Baden, March 1, 1803, and arrived in California in 1839. August 15 of that year he landed at the junction of the Sacramento and the American Rivers, and there founded a settlement, termed Helvetia, which later became Sacramento.

During the month the Republican National Convention in Chicago nominated Chester A. Arthur for president, and the Democratic National Convention in Cincinnati nominated General Winfield S. Hancock. Leaders and followers of both parties in California made preparations for an active campaign in this state.

Dennis Kearney left June 2 for Chicago to attend the Greenback National Convention, and the shepard being away the San Francisco sandlot sheep went astray. They were split into three factions, and the police were kept busy quelling riots. One afternoon, following his return, Kearney was sent home by the police in a hack. But he refused to pay the cabby, so all the hackmen joined the Republican ranks.

Sutter Creek, Amador County, women were arranging a leap-year Independence Day celebration. They planned to fire the sunrise and the sunset salutes, and a female baseball contest was to be featured. The men were told to "put up and shut up."

Bakersfield, Kern County, was muchly excited over the arrest of five county officials for embezzlement of public funds. Several thousand dollars had been collected in taxes, but the money had not been turned into the treasury.

Stockton, San Joaquin County, suspended business June 2 because of a firemen's picnic. The place was gaily decorated, there were day and night parades, and it was gala occasion generally.

The County Reunion Club, a Nevada County organization, had a picnic June 17 between Nevada City and Grass Valley, and many former residents of the county journeyed "back home" to attend.

June 3, the one hundred and tenth anniversary of the landing of Padre Junipero Serra at Monterey, was celebrated by the opening of Del Monte hotel, near by.

BOOZE AND PORK GET "POOR LOS."

The levee of Roberts Island, in the San Joaquin delta, went out and a wheat field of 20,000 acres was greatly damaged.

The Crater mine near Auburn, Placer County, this month yielded $53,000 in gold.

B. C. Quigley began mining a block of the Town of Folsom, Sacramento County.

Laborers excavating a trench in Spring street, Los Angeles City, found a streak of gravel which yielded three bits (75 cents) in gold to the

Laces and Lace Curtains

Mining at Chili Bar, on the American River near Placerville, El Dorado County, Chinamen found the skeleton of a man, and underneath it a wallet containing $500 in gold dust. The oldest inhabitant could not say who the miner was.

A cave-in at the Northern Light mine in Shasta County uncovered a silver ledge assaying $200 a ton.

Mexicans operating six arastras in Inyo County were getting $200 from a ton of dirt. They were not getting rich, however, as man and mule power could not handle many tons of earth in a month.

J. C. Riley of Santa Barbara the evening of June 1 heard the whizz of a passing meteorite, and the next morning, searching his land, found a six-pound ball of what appeared to be lead. A small piece of the mass, when assayed, showed a silver value of $2,000 to the ton.

A steam wagon capable of pulling a forty-ton load was constructed at Stockton for use in a Tuolumne County mine.

In 1849, it was stated, 12,000 Indians were residing in Placer County. This year's (1880) census showed less than 100. Many of the "Poor Los" had died from imbibing and eating whiskey and pork supplied by White men.

June 1 at 6 a.m. an earthquake was felt from Sonoma County to San Luis Obispo County, and at 4:15 p.m. of June 13 San Jose, Santa Clara County, had a shake.

On the stage from Ventura City to Newhall, Los Angeles County, June 15, E. S. Mills, a passenger riding with the driver, C. N. Baker, upon the box, went insane, drew a hatchet and commanded Baker to "drive like hell," which he did. At Newhall, the crazy man leaped to the ground and dashed into the hills, where he was later overtaken.

An insane Mexican escaped, stark naked, from the Stockton State Hospital June 16. Running down the street, he met a schoolmarm, who took one look and fainted. Finding a saddled and bridled horse tied to a post, he unhitched it, mounted and rode away to a farm. There he obtained a butcher knife and threatened the occupants until the farmer quieted him with a charge of bird shot.

POSSE KILL HORSETHIEVES.

A large sun spot, plainly visible in California South, appeared just before sunset of June 1 and created much excitement.

June 12 at Vacaville, Solano County, Mrs. P. Riordan gave birth to triplets—two girls and a boy—a total weight of seventeen pounds. Twice previously she had given birth to twins.

At San Leandro, Alameda County, a Chink applied to the peace justice for permission to sue a White female for breach of promise. He also wanted valuable presents given her returned.

Dolores Mereada, member of an old Mexican family living near Antioch, Contra Costa County, died June 22 at the age of 107.

A cow dance termed the "soapville trot" this month was introduced into Siskiyou County.

June 16 three men arrived at the Hamcarey ranch in Fresno County and drove off a flock of 2,000 sheep.

Three men stole five horses from the Louis Lowell ranch in San Benito County. Lowell and a posse, in pursuit, overtook them near Blitterwater and killed the horsethieves.

Near Booneville, Mendocino County, F. Bomar, firing at a moving object which he thought was a deer, killed Rowland Nunn.

G. W. Colby, inspecting his Butte County ranch, was treed by a grizzly and had to remain there all night.

Drowning while bathing began taking its annual toll this month, several lads in various parts of the state being among the many unfortunate.

Charles Thomas and a German youth were drowned in the Sacramento River opposite Chico, Butte County, June 3, while attempting to remove a snag from the river.

Martha Pottor, a popular Negro woman of Sonoma County, fell asleep while smoking her cornch pipe. A spark set her clothes afire, and she was fatally burned.

The first grain-field fire of the season occurred in Visalia, Tulare County, at the 4,000-acre farm of Fisher and Sweet. Twenty-five hundred acres were burned over.

Fire the afternoon of June 5 destroyed the whole of the Chinatown of Nevada City, Nevada County, causing a $100,000 loss. In mass meeting, the citizens resolved to prevent the Chinks from rebuilding within the city limits.

George and Henry Myers, 25-year-old twins of Mount Eden, Alameda County, got into a quarrel and their mother interfered. Henry struck her upon the head with a hatchet, knocking her unconscious. Thinking he had killed her, he jumped into a well and was drowned.

ORIGIN OF THE ESCHSCHOLTZIA

(JOEY DENTON.)

The Sky called down to this mundane sphere
And said, "Why hurry your gold?
Bring mine forth at the close of day
Where all who will may behold."

Vise Mother Nature the challenge called Out here in the Golden West,
And fashioned some howls of magic gold
While taking her winter's rest.

And ever since, with return of spring,
She brings forth her bowls of gold,
And sets them out in the fields and lanes
Where all who pass may behold.

The gold of earth is Eschscholtzia,
Of sky 'tis a gleaming star;
And one is seen at our feet by day,
The other at night, afar.

(The above came to The Grizzly Bear from the author, Miss Joey Denton of Santa Monica, resident Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 G.D.W.—Editor.)

NATIVE DAUGHTERS COMBINE BUSINESS WITH PLEASURE.
 Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W. combined business with pleasure May 16, when Past President Florence Dodson-Schoneman was hostess to members of the Parlor and those of Santa Ana No. 235, Verdugo No. 240 (Glendale) and Lugonia No. 241 (San Bernardino), in celebration of her birthday anniversary. Refreshments, including a birthday cake, were served, and the occasion was a most interesting and happy one. The unique mission decorations designed by Secretary Carrie E. Lenhouse, which have received much favorable comment, were again used.
 A shower of handkerchiefs was presented Mrs. Schoneman by her friends, and she was the recipient of tributes of flowers from the visiting Parlors. On behalf of Rudecinda, she was presented with a basket of beautiful flowers by President Mary Dever, who wished her many more happy birthdays and success in her every endeavor and aspiration.
 A card party, with Mrs. Beatrice Cummings as chairman, is an event to be sponsored by Rudecinda at an early date.

ory of our departed brother and charter member, do respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, The Lord, having seen fit to call beyond, our much beloved brother, Thomas Patrick Pizzotti, on March 11, 1930, leaving behind him on earth his wife, five sisters and two brothers by blood; and whereas, Brother Pizzotti was a charter member of our Parlor, and as such responsible in part for whatever success we may have attained in the world of fraternal and brotherly relationships; and whereas, as a seafaring man in younger days and more recently as a businessman in San Pedro, he attained a place of respect and responsibility, and made innumerable friends; Resolved, That we extend our sincere sympathy to the family and relatives of our deceased brother; that this resolution be forwarded to them; that we here record our heartfelt affection for one of our number who built for himself lasting friendships; and be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be kept with the permanent records of Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 Native Sons of the Golden West, and that another copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

"PLAYGROUND OF THE STARS"

(W. G. "BILL" FURMAN.)

BY FAR THE LARGEST PIER IN THE entire West, in point of patronage and number of stellar attractions, is the Ocean Park Amusement Pier, owned and operated by the Ocean Park Realty Corporation under the general management of Jefferson W. Asher, who is also the secretary of the company. Asher was formerly expansion executive of the West Coast Theaters, Incorporated, the largest theater chain west of Chicago. He organized the first real estate department for this company and, as its head for several years was, in a great measure, responsible for the remarkable growth and development of the company, which was purchased by the William Fox interests two years ago. The pier was built at a cost of $3,000,000, following the devastating fire of 1923, and extends 1,200 feet into the Pacific, affording the best pier fishing on the coast.

Ocean Park, Los Angeles County, is the summer and winter playground of millions, and constitutes the amusement section of Santa Monica, a city of more than 50,000 inhabitants. Six great highways, one of which, the Coast or Roosevelt highway, is said to carry more traffic than any road in the world, lead north, south and east, while on the west the surf is dotted with thousands of bathers.

Hollywood, the film capital of the world, is but twelve miles from Ocean Park, and Cuve City, with its great motion-picture studios, is but four. Companies from all the studios are frequently "on location," making pictures on the big pleasure pier or the clean white beach while many leading film stars, directors and producers make their homes in palatial mansions nearby. Ocean Park has been well named "the playground of the stars."

The Ocean Park Amusement Pier abounds with rides, slides and shows for the pleasure seeker. On the extreme end, rising to a height of 100 feet, is the great shoot-the-chutes. Its vari-colored lighted tower visible far at sea "Shooting the chutes" was a favorite pastime in the gay nineties, and it has not lost its zest judging from the shouts of happy boatloads as they hit the miniature lake on the pier after a breath-taking slide down the tumbling waters in the chute.

The Egyptian hallroom, a magnificent dance-salon, attracts hundreds nightly with its smooth floor and fine orchestra. "The lid is off" on fancy dancing Friday, "collegiate night" and young people from far and near make glorious whoopees. Frequently stars of stage and screen drop in to "strut their stuff;" in fact, celebrities are so often seen that their presence creates little comment.

The great highboy coaster, dipping and twisting over the waves and from the top of which can be seen the lights of Hollywood and Beverly Hills, thrills thousands, as do the miniature auto speedway, the whip, the scooter, the waiter, lighthouse slide, aero glider, monkey racer and other concessions. Many fascinating game of skill and many "freak shows" furnish entertainment day and night. Adjoining the Ocean Park Amusement Pier is the world's largest auto-parking pier, built of concrete at a cost of $300,000 and capable of caring for 3,000 cars without congestion.

The Ocean Park Realty Corporation is also the owner of the Ocean Park Plunge, under the management of Dave Wilson, widely-known lifeguard and plunge manager. Swimming lessons here are given by Howard Snyder, who has taught many screen celebrities the art of swimming and diving.

Surf bathing at Ocean Park is rated the safest in the country, and the mild temperature of the water, sometimes reaching 70 degrees during the summer months, attracts thousands of bathers, while children of all ages "go wading" or build sand castles upon the clean beach. An eff dent corps of lifeguards is maintained and long life-lines with wooden floats afford additional protection for the less-experienced swimmers. Although millions take to the water annually, there has not been a case of drowning at Ocean Park for several years.

Although many small fish, and occasionally a big one, are caught off the end of the pleasure pier, lovers of deep-sea angling will enjoy themselves to their hearts' content on the big fishing barge "Billings," a former famous clipper ship 225 feet long and 50 feet wide, anchored two and a half miles at sea in eighty feet of water. Cabin speedboats ply to and from this barge and live bait and tackle are furnished free. Barracuda and yellowtail abound, and now and then a great jewfish, sometimes weighing in the neighborhood of 500 pounds, is taken. Excellent meals are served on the big barge or, if preferred, the chef will cook your catch. Sleeping accommodations are provided for those who would be "rocked in the cradle of the deep."

Truly, a finer place than Ocean Park in which to live and prosper would be hard to find

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

WHETHER IT IS ACTUALLY TRUE or not is not so important, but most women will say that they feel cooler in a printed chiffon frock than in one fashioned of solid color, no matter how soft and delicate the color. Frocks done in prints are undeniably cool in appearance.

Greens are especially in the foreground, with two or more shades combined in one print, ranging from the delightfully cool water greens to the deeper and equally cool tones that suggest moss.

Black and white with green, black and white with pale and royal blue, and black and white with pink and rose are other favorites in the campaign. Soft gray shades also combine with pastel pinks, blues and yellow with cool results.

White accessories with black, especially white gloves, are much seen. Often the black patent pump has a quarter or other trimming of white.

Pique ragged edge trimmings are rampant, and white boutonnieres and white handbags are sometimes noted in line with the popular feeling.

It is the double silver fox scarf which finishes the smartest costumes.

The cold shoulder that has been given neutrals in costumes generally has been making itself more keenly felt in accessories. This movement has gradually spread until, little by little, each season the note of color has become noticeably stronger.

This spring and summer the vogue for touches of color has merited marked approval. Possibly no two items illustrate the idea more understandably than blouses and millinery.

In blouses, we have much color, in the pastels, as against the eggshell and cream tints of last year. The "spot of color" expresses its newest intention in the hats and blouses.

A development in silk fashions this year is the dark-colored shantung suit, for street wear and general utility purposes in the late spring, worn with silk blouse printed in gay colors.

Navy, black and brown are favorites in shantung suits, and the blouses may be a washable radium, a crepe plaid or a light-colored polka-dotted crepe, the dots matching the color of the suit.

Whether it is because wool crepe is especially attractive in the delicate pastels, or whether it is because of the wool crepe as a fabric, it is certain that all manner of crepe clothes, whether thin or worsteds or thick tweed-like wools, are frequently noted.

Flannel, after several seasons of more or less retirement, is blossoming out into high style acceptance. Imported and fine domestic flannels, with smooth broadcloth-like finish, are shown in a softer suede-like effect. These are, of course, cut into the yachting type of costume, with navy-blue double-breasted jacket.

Everybody, of course, recognizes the fact that the lace gown for evening has been one of the highlights of the season, and will continue through the summer. One still notes a great deal of black in lace gowns, and white is also a prime favorite.

In colors, it is interesting to observe the presence of such effective shades as brown, beige, lemon, yellow, rosewood, charrreuse and emerald green, with pale pinks and blues.

Lace jackets, costumes for afternoon affairs and skirts are pleated. Jackets are short and youthful.

Still another idea of lace is the wool lace, designed for dressy sports or street wear. Invariably in one-piece frocks, with short sleeves, belts at normal and hemlines flaring, lace appears in the same fancy patterns.

Stripes, flower prints and monotonous are outstanding for the summer active sports frocks. The colored stripe against a white ground, in contrast to the self-color stripe, is becoming increasingly popular. The vogue for narrow solid color stripes is even expressing itself in the jersey frock.

One observes the interest in the way the shirt-waist frock, composed of tuck-in blouse and skirt, is used for golf and general sportswear.

Skirt treatments again become an important consideration, with interesting box pleats continuing to increase. The smartest is the marrow box pleat applied all around and stitched down over the hips to give a smooth line.

The sports skirt is worn shorter than the street garb. Matching or contrasting cardigan jackets are worn with these frocks.

Kid angora is popular in headgear, in addition to the regular fine jersey with the matching beret. To wear a beret and have it becoming, it must fit closely across the front of the head, and then it must be pulled very tight across the back, with the fullness draped at the side. It is very comfortable for all sports.

Shoes are more important than ever. For summer sports, for chiffon afternoon dresses, organdies and evening frocks, among the smartest are the combinations of leather and reptils. The reptiles are heavy for warm weather, but as a trimming they are very good.

The enthusiastic sports women will have two pairs of shoes, one a tan russlan kid oxford, with leather heels and four bands of perforated leather across the toe, giving a sturdy look. The other will be of white buckskin and brown kid, with an all-rubber base.

Moire will hold its place for dressy afternoon. An opera pump in this material is ideal for the party type. It may be dyed to match exactly the shade of the dress.

Linen sandals will go well with the summer beach clothes, and they always look cool. Colored shoes call for colored clocks to match.

Observation made in the exclusive shopping district reveals a variety of heel preference. Fancy clocks and heels are worn with sheer hosiery for dressy occasions.

"CERTIFIED" NOT ALWAYS PROOF OF FEDERAL GOVERNMENT APPROVAL.

The word "certified" upon the label of packaged foodstuffs does not always mean that the product has been examined by a branch of the government, either federal or local, caution officials of the Federal Agricultural Department's food, drug and insecticide administration. This statement is made because many complaints have been made by housewives that "certified" products they bought failed, upon closer examination, to have been approved by the government. The idea that certification and government go hand in hand may have become prevalent because the Federal Government does inspect and certify some food products.

A number of products are now appearing in the market under "certified brand" or as having been inspected, approved or certified by a food institute, a food chemist or by a doctor. Such certification does not mean Federal Government approval for it has nothing to do with the government. It must be taken for what it is worth. By a careful reading of the label, a housewife can determine who is certifying the product which bears the word "certified."

KILLING CLOTHES MOTHS.

There is no repellent for the clothes moth that sometimes, indeed quite often, infects the house. Naphthalene, paradichlorobenzene and other chemicals, advertised as repellents, will be found dismal failures. They are successful, however, if the room is made as nearly as possible airtight and a pound to six or eight cubic feet of one of these materials is left exposed. There are commercial sprays that also will do the work satisfactorily, as will other fumigants, most of which require fire. But any of these employed as a repellent will not produce results.

A BIT O' FARMING

PREPARED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY M. H. ELLIS

IN A DRIVE TO SIGN UP 85 PERCENT OF the entire grape acreage of California in the proposed co-operative marketing organization fostered by the Federal Farm Board, the committee of fifty is waging a fight for the very life of the industry. With so many grape varieties used for two purposes, some for all three—table, juice and raisin—the Federal Farm Board has declared the situation is critical alike for all varieties and declines to aid in financing any part of the crop unless a percentage sufficient to control all is secured.

Unless the growers sign, it is difficult to see what is to become of the crop this year. A yield that will be fully normal, would have to be disposed of on a buyer's market; disastrously low prices probably would prevail. It may be the demand for some varieties would carry them through to a profit, but this is doubtful.

California this year probably will produce more than 2,000,000 tons of grapes. About 300,000 tons of this is surplus on the markets as at present developed. The Federal Farm Board proposes to levy an assessment of $1.50 on every ton sold, to pay for this surplus, which would be left on the vines or turned into by-product channels. That this plan would result in profit to all, is proved, according to claims presented, by the fact that half a crop of fruit last year brought more money than a full crop the year before, by a wide margin.

Yet there is a desperate fight being waged to get the needed acreage. Juice-grape growers see in the plan merely an effort to aid raisin grapes. Raisin-grape growers see no surplus on hand to depress prices. Table-grape growers think the market may be good. Those who have reasoned out the whole situation carefully know that unless the sign-up is successful, this year's crop is going to be sold at a loss. The campaign is apparently the last stand for the grape growers; it is a supreme test of the co-operative movement in this state.

WATCH HENS IN HEAT.

Hot weather is approaching and in many parts of the state there will be danger of losing fowls through heat unless steps are taken to prevent it. Whenever the thermometer gets above 105, there is danger; this temperature being that in the shade, of course. The hen does not perspire; evaporation is the best means of cooling her, so she must be wet. Feed plenty of greens and see that the hens are not too fat. See that there is plenty of fresh water. Get plenty of air through the houses, using fans if necessary. There is no need to lose hens even at a temperature of 110 or 112, but unless precautions are taken there is likely to be severe mortality on such days.

SUMMER PRUNING OF VINES.

Summer pruning, or pinching back, of fruit trees is a commendable practice; where vines are concerned, it is not so good. The theory that vines must be pruned to permit sunshine to reach and color the grapes is not well founded. Even in shape they will ripen and color well, if there is plant food of the right kind to supply them through the roots and vine. Phosphorus, potash and nitrates will care for the color, if they are available in the soil. A well-balanced plant food solution obviates the trouble and expense of summer pruning.

SCOURS IN DAIRY COWS.

Occasionally a cow will develop scours before calving, losing weight and vitality and getting into a general run-down condition that precludes good results at freshening. Two ounces each of iron sulphate and powdered gentian, mixed with an ounce and a half of nuxvomica, is a good remedy. Put a tablespoonful of the mixture on the cow's tongue just before feeding. See that the ration is well balanced and that the cow has plenty of good, fresh water.

ANOTHER FARM RELIEF.

Often, indeed, the selling price of a farm commodity is beyond the control of the farmer. He may be producing all the land will yield. There is always, however, a possibility that profits can be realized through more economical production. Watch the costs. Perhaps more efficient machinery is needed; it may well be that a machine will replace two or three men and not only pay for itself but return a yield for the whole farm enterprise. The farmer who can produce the best crops of highest quality, at low costs, quite evidently has a large margin over the man who is producing inefficiently with poor machinery, too much labor, or unwise and unnecessary practices.

JUNE DROP OF PEACHES.

Usually June drop in peaches occurs during late May and the first days of June. Hot weather causing excessive transpiration through the leaves, trees in poor vigor, lack of moisture in the soil and too heavy a load of fruit are among the most important causes. A summer cover crop, where there is moisture to keep it wet enough for good development without robbing the trees, is as effective as anything tried. Thinning, of course, should have been done while the fruit was small, not only to aid in preventing drop but also in producing quality.

RED SPIDER CONTROL.

Red spider thrives best in hot, dry orchards. If there is ample moisture in the soil, and a humid atmosphere, red spider will not do much damage. So, of course, plenty of irrigation, the summer cover crop and healthy, vigorous trees, are the preventives. A highly refined foliage oil spray, mixed carefully according to directions, apparently is the most satisfactory remedy. But prevention is more satisfactory than the cure.

GRAPE LEAF HOPPERS.

Before the grape leaf hoppers mature, say up until the middle of June, spray for them in the nymph stage with nicotine-soap sprays. After that time, use calcium cyanide. For the nicot-tine spray use a pint of nicotine sulphate with five pounds of whale-oil soap, to 200 gallons of water. Calcium sulphate, which kills the hopper in all stages, should be dusted on; or a 10 percent nicotine sulphate dust may be used; or a 6 percent nicotine sulphur dust may be tried. The last named aids also in controlling mildew, through its sulphur content. But when the hopper gets his wings, there is nothing anywhere nearly as effective as the calcium cyanide.

EAR WORM IN CORN.

The ear worm in corn, particularly sweet corn, is a major pest and one to be reckoned with. Dusting with any one of a number of materials may give good results. Use sodium fluosilicate, pyrethrum or even red pepper. Perhaps the best material is a dust made of about one-fifth dry basic arsenate of lead, mixed with four-fifths of lime or gypsum filler. Keep the dusting operation up during the green-ear stage, the object being to poison the little worm as it enters at the silk end. Use a knapsack duster weekly in the control.

CULL DAIRY COWS NOW.

Beef prices apparently have reached or even passed the peak. The trend is likely to be somewhat downward. This makes it a wise move for the dairyman to get rid of his poor producers for beef right away. With a lower level for dairy products than in years, it is less profitable than ever before to keep the boarder cow on the farm. Every cow producing at a loss is quite evidently not an asset. There never has been a time when it has been of such great advantage to the dairyman to rid his herd of its poor producers.

UNWELCOME BEES.

Bees are a valuable adjunct to the farm, but often it happens that they get into places where they become pests. Sometimes they get into the walls of houses. In that case destruction is the only remedy; gas them with calcium cyanide pumped into a hole with a duster with a good bellows. If the bees get into boxes or some other accessible place where they are not desired, they may be slipped into a sack at night and carried away. Move them two or three miles, leave them a few days and then, after they have forgotten their old home, relocate them in a more desirable place. If it is impossible to sack them—and they must be handled gently in this process—the bees may be stupefied by a charcoal burner upon which tobacco is placed.

STOP ROOF LEAKS NOW.

The old story of the Arkansas farmer who didn't patch his roof when it wasn't raining because it didn't need it and because he couldn't when it did rain, is too often brought into real life on the farm. But there are days in the summer, between various operations, when time can be taken to mend roofs. The leaks are still fresh in the memory from the winter and spring rains; shingles or other roofing materials have not settled back into place after being dislodged by the winter storms. Knowing the places that need repair, see that they get it before the fall rains slip up and catch the roof still unrepaired.

WORMS IN DRIED FRUIT.

Worms get in dried fruit because insects lay their eggs there; the eggs hatch and the worms result. Keep the insects away, and there will be no worms in the fruit. However, if there is danger that the fruit may be carrying eggs, dip it in boiling water for two or three minutes, dry and pack in insect-proof containers. Heating in the oven also will kill the eggs.

LATE HATCHED CHICKS.

Don't buy chicks now because they are cheap; they may prove to be a very unprofitable investment. Chicks hatched now will not come into laying while egg prices are high; they should be laying by the first of October, but hatched now they will be well into November or December before they begin dropping eggs. Chicks hatched after the first of May are not likely to return a profit on the investment.

GET THE APHIS.

Aphis appear every year on a number of plants, particularly roses and some varieties of shrubs. The remedy is simple, but it must be promptly and thoroughly applied. Nicotine sulphate is the remedy, and it is easily secured at any garden supply store. Get a hand spray gun, if the garden is small, or a larger outfit as necessity demands, and spray the leaves thoroughly. Two or three good sprayings will effectually remove the pest and prevent further damage. The aphis is a sucking insect, and can be controlled only by a contact spray. Caterpillars and other insects that eat leaves must be reached through a spray that will deposit poison on the leaves they are eating.

PRUNE WALNUTS IN SUMMER.

For the first four years the walnut tree must be pruned only in the summer. This pruning should not be done at one operation, but rather should be in the nature of control of growth and continual training along the lines desired by the grower. Young walnut trees grow very rapidly and their training should begin the first year. The grower should determine the type of tree he wants, and remembering that a strong framework is necessary for a tree that may live to be fifty or even a hundred years old, shape the tree as it grows to meet his ideas. The limbs should be spaced carefully up and down the trunk and around the circumference, for the walnut tree carries a heavy load when it is mature.

WATERING YOUNG ALFALFA.

Just when and how often the young alfalfa field should be irrigated is a question that has led to much discussion. Many growers believe the irrigations should be few and withheld until the plants are near the wilting point, the theory being that this forces deeper root development. There are, of course, extremes at both ends of the question. Saturation of the soil with water probably does prevent root penetration; withholding water to the wilting point unquestionably does the plant some injury. The field should be irrigated early, and often enough to maintain a normal rate of growth to secure the best crop the first season. At best the alfalfa stands are not long lived, and it seems the most should be made of them while they are vigorous.

PROCEEDINGS FIFTY-THIRD N. S. GRAND PARLOR

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

JOHAN T. NEWELL OF LOS ANGELES CITY, affiliated with Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, is now the Grand President of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, having been installed as such just preceding the close of the Fifty-third Grand Parlor. Following his induction into office he addressed the assemblage as follows:

"In assuming the office of Grand President of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, I want to thank the members of our beloved Order who have advanced me, step by step, until at this time I have had conferred upon me the greatest honor to which any Californian could aspire—Grand President of our fraternity.

"I fully realize the duties and the responsibilities I am about to assume in accepting this stewardship, and ask your co-operation in the future, as in the past, in carrying out the principles of Friendship, Loyalty and Charity, the cardinal virtues which we cherish.

"How well I remember the first Grand Parlor, April 1905, which I attended. Past Grand President Judge Charles E. McLaughlin presided. There I found, gathered under one roof in the famous Custom House in the historic little City of Monterey, busy men, prominent in the professional, the political, the financial and the business world, exemplifying, by their labors and activities, the principles involved in the institution of our Order. I was inspired by the oratory and the sincerity there displayed, and resolved at that time to be more loyal to the state of my birth, more active in and of some benefit to our Order. A quarter of a century has passed since then, during which period I have attended many Grand Parlor sessions, each proving more interesting and inspiring.

"Assuming additional purposes and responsibilities, the Order has branched out into various channels of activity until, I believe I can safely say, today it stands alone as a state fraternal organization,—placing thousands of homeless children, regardless of creed, color or nativity in wholesome homes; financing traveling history fellows of the University of California, who are compiling the early and romantic history of our state; erecting monuments in memory of our beloved Pioneers; assisting in the restoration of our missions; active in the conservation of our natural resources; marking historic spots, and engaged in various other activities too numerous to mention.

"Seated in this auditorium today are brothers who were in attendance, and active, at my first Grand Parlor twenty-five years ago, all imbued with patriotism, and loyal to the principles embodied in our constitution at that time and to the various aims and purposes we have since adopted—men who have helped to lay the foundation of our Order and have contributed largely to its success. I also note the absence of many of our honored members, who have passed to the great beyond, and also that few remain who were members of the Order at the time of its founding. This brings to us the full realization that our time here is short and fleeting, and that we should improve every moment of our lives—live up to the principles we teach, and be active in the affairs of our Order.

"I congratulate you upon the Order's continued progress and prosperity, and the success we have attained. The greatest problem that confronts all fraternal orders, and the one most essential to their success, is membership. I desire to devote my time to building up our membership with eligible Californians who are willing to share with us the burden of bringing to successful conclusion the problems which confront us, who will become interested in our affairs and be willing to give time and thought to state and to nation; men, whom we can truly call brothers, who will work hand in hand with us in keeping California what it is today, the beauty spot of all the world. This cannot be accomplished by my individual efforts. I must have the co-operation of the members of this Grand Parlor and of the Order's entire membership in my endeavors.

"Seated in this Grand Parlor, each with an important duty to perform, are representative men of our Order from San Diego in the south to Eureka in the north, from the shores of the Pacific to the High Sierra, who have been honored by being delegated to represent their various Parlors in our deliberations. I am going to ask them, when called upon, to assist me in contributing to our success. Also our honored Past Grand Presidents, ever present among us, guiding our destiny with watchful eyes; I am looking to them for sound advice and counsel.

"This message would not be complete without mentioning the grand officers, past and present,

JOHN T. NEWELL OF LOS ANGELES,
GRAND PRESIDENT OF THE ORDER OF NATIVE SONS OF THE GOLDEN WEST.

with whom I have been closely affiliated since my election as a Grand Trustee, May 1924, in the Capital City of Sacramento. The pleasure of their associations has more than compensated for all my efforts in behalf of our Order in the past, or what I may be able to do in the future. Men of sterling quality, sacrificing their individual interests in behalf of the Order they love; real Californians whom you feel proud to call friends, ever ready with kind words of encouragement and deeds of kindness and forbearance, they are men whose friendship I shall cherish through life. Of you brothers, I ask your continued good-will, so that we may maintain our place among the leading fraternal orders of the state, and continue to make our deeds famous throughout the nation.

"No mortal can foretell the results of his efforts. I can only pledge my time and what ability I possess. But, with your combined assistance, I hope to make myself worthy of the great honor you have bestowed upon me."

WHAT TRANSPIRED

Grand President Charles L. Dodge, now the Junior Past Grand President of the Order, presided throughout the deliberations of the Fifty-third Grand Parlor. The sessions May 19, 20, 21, 22, and 23, were held in the American Legion Auditorium at Merced City.

Matters of importance embodied in the report of the grand officers and the several committees have heretofore been referred to in The Grizzly Bear. A synopsis of what transpired at the Fifty-third Grand Parlor follows:

LEGISLATION ENACTED.

Article III, Section 4½, Grand Parlor Constitution, amended by adding a prescribed form of registration card.

Article V, Section 3, Grand Parlor Constitution, amended by providing for two clerks and four tellers on election board, "no two of whom shall be members of the same Subordinate Parlor." Also, by adding the following: "The poll shall be located in the structure in which the Grand Parlor sessions are held and in close proximity to the meeting room as is possible and convenient." "When the deposit of ballots is completed and the poll is closed, the Election Committee shall, thereat, canvass the ballots and report the result of the canvass to the Grand Parlor without recess or unnecessary delay. The ballots so canvassed must accompany the report of the Election Committee to be preserved by the Grand Secretary until the Grand Parlor Proceedings have been published and distributed."

Article VI, Section 6, Grand Parlor Constitution, amended by specifying that the Grand Marshal shall "have charge of all parades."

Article VIII, Section 1, Grand Parlor Constitution, amended by adding to the committees: "Thirteen and one-half, a Committee on Athletics of five members."

Article IX, Grand Parlor Constitution, amended by adding: "Section 19. The Committee on Athletics shall encourage the activities of Subordinate Parlors in the participation of athletic events."

Article XI, Section 5, Grand Parlor Constitution, relating to merging of Subordinate Parlors, amended by adding: "Provided, however, that cities having five or more Parlors, 25 votes shall be necessary to defeat such application."

Article VI, Section 5, Constitution Subordinate Parlor, amended by adding: "A Parlor may substitute for the form of check specified in this section a check comply with the substantial provisions hereof, provided that such check shall first be approved by the Board of Grand Officers."

Article VII, Section 1, Constitution Subordinate Parlor, amended by adding: "The names of all members to whom such honorary life membership certificates are issued shall be reported by the secretary of the Parlor to the Grand Secretary and no per capita tax shall be levied upon members to whom said certificates are so regularly issued."

Article XV, Constitution Subordinate Parlor, amended by adding: "Section 10. The president, immediately upon his installation, shall appoint a committee of five to be known as the Athletic Committee, whose duty it shall be to arrange for the participation of the Parlor in the various athletic events which might be sponsored by the Parlor or joint Parlors, or the Grand Parlor Committee on Athletics."

The Ritual was amended to specify a uniform salute to The Flag in the Grand Parlor and in Subordinate Parlors, carrying out a form in general use in fraternal organizations.

BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS.

San Francisco was awarded the Admission Day, September 9, celebration.

Monterey City was named as the meeting place of the Fifty-fourth (1931) Grand Parlor.

A committee of five was authorized, "to go into the matter of proposed memorials for deceased members and report back to the next Grand Parlor."

A committee was authorized, "to ascertain the cost and advisability of erecting such [proposed Lone Grave] monument [in Nevada County], and report back at the next session of the Grand Parlor."

Five thousand dollars was subscribed toward the erection of a proposed monument on Telegraph Hill, San Francisco, in commemoration of the Pioneers of California.

It was declared to "be the sense of the Grand Parlor that no committee handling a Grand Parlor session or Admission Day celebration shall allow to be sold a concession granting permission to sell ribbons or other merchandise during such Grand Parlor or Admission Day celebration, under the guise of a benefit to the Order or any of its activities."

A proposal, to "permit the organization by Subordinate Parlors of local assemblies of an adjunctive body to be known as a Junior Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West," was referred to the incoming Board of Grand Officers.

A proposal, "That the California representatives at Washington be requested to ask the proper authorities to fly the State Flag of California on Admission Day, September 9, in honor of California's first President," was referred to the incoming Board of Grand Officers.

The Grand Secretary was "directed to issue notice of dedications, etc., which will be sufficient in character to attract the membership of our Order to such events." And the Grand Parlor Publicity Committee was "directed to give state-wide publicity to such events through the public press and in conjunction with the notices of the Grand Secretary."

A committee of five was authorized, to prepare resolutions in memory of Grand Treasurer John E. McDougald and Past Grand President Judge John F. Davis, lately deceased. Adjournment at noon of May 19 was out of respect to the deceased.

In accordance with the suggestion of the history department of the University of California, Vernon Tate and Miss Helen Carr were named as Native Sons traveling history fellows in California and Pacific Coast history for the year 1930-31.

Messages of good-will were ordered sent to Past Grand President Frank L. Coombs and to Senator James D. Phelan (Pacific No. 10).

Monrovia Parlor No. 266 was ordered dissolved, and it was ordered that "the incoming Grand President make an effort to consolidate Kelseyville [No. 219] Parlor with Lower Lake [No. 159] Parlor and Vaquero [No. 262] Parlor with some other Parlor in Los Angeles, and unless these are effected that the charter or charters be taken and the Parlor or Parlors dissolved."

The incoming Board of Grand Officers was authorized to prepare a resolution endorsing a proposed state highway through Weaverville, Trinity County.

The printing of 60,000 auto stickers, calling attention to the necessity of forest fire prevention, was authorized; 50,000 of them are to be turned over to the State Forester, and the remainder are to be distributed through other sources by the Grand Parlor Forestry Committee. The stickers are to be worded:

BUDGET AND PERCAPITA TAX.

A budget of $38,050 was approved. The amount includes $3,000 for history fellowships, $5,500 for organization work, $1,000 for landmarks, $1,500 for dedications, etc., and $4,000 for mileage of Merced session.

The percapita tax was fixed at $1.30, payable in quarterly installments. Five cents percapita will go toward financing the official Admission Day, September 9, celebration.

IMMIGRATION PETITION.

The following petition, directed to the Federal Congress, was unanimously adopted:

"The Grand Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West, at its Fifty-third Annual Session at Merced, California, May, 1930, respectfully renews to Congress the urgent plea made by it at the preceding session for passage of such legislation as is necessary to secure enforcements of the immigration restriction act, and also to exclude such elements of immigration from Mexico and the Philippine Islands as are ineligible for American citizenship.

"It is pointed out that the situation today is even more serious than when that plea was originally offered. Present unemployment in this country is estimated at 4,000,000 or more, and yet 450,000 aliens are permitted to enter the country for permanent residence each year, most of them looking for employment, displacing American citizens, lowering standards, and creating grave economic and social problems for the present and threatening graver ones for the future.

"Of the 450,000, one-third or more come or stay illegally; and, there are already in this country two millions of such deportable aliens who entered since 1921, most of them undesirable as residents or citizens, many vicious and criminal, and a great number ineligible to American citizenship.

"This annual increase of deportable aliens cannot be stopped, nor decrease made in the two million already here (many of whom are already immune to deportation) unless Congress pass legislation for apprehension, punishment and deportation of violators of the immigration act, with the necessary appropriations.

"The facts were fully covered by the California Joint Immigration Committee in statements received by the Senate Committee on Commerce at its hearing on unemployment, March 18, April 21, 1930 (pages 89 to 94 of the printed transcript), in statements by its representatives before the House Immigration Committee, April 10 and 11, 1930, and in letters to the Senate and House Appropriation Committee, May 6, 1930.

"It is hoped that these documents in conjunction with others of similar import presented by other interests will receive careful consideration by Congress at its present session and induce the necessary legislation."

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

Favoring legislation designed to eliminate or protect dangerous grade crossings.

Petitioning the California State Park Commission, "to take immediate steps to complete the Donner State Park as originally planned in order that the historic events that it is to commemorate may be fully brought to the attention of the people of this state and to those who follow the trail of the Pioneer into our great commonwealth."

Endorsing, "the project to preserve a forest of sequoia sempervirens, or California redwoods, situated in southern San Mateo County, from destruction, to be reserved forever as a public park and recreation ground for the use and benefit of the people of the State of California."

Expressing to Professor Herbert E. Bolton of the University of California, "appreciation for the splendid service he has given to our State and to our Order," and requesting him, "to accept the appointment as representative of the Native Sons of the Golden West for the year 1931-

1932, and that our annual appropriation for the traveling fellowships be applied to defraying the expenses of Professor Bolton in conducting research work in California and Pacific Coast history in Spain and in such other European archives as he may determine to visit."

Expressing, "the lasting and deep obligation that the citizens of California are under to Mr. Sidney M. Ehrman of San Francisco," who "has manifested his interest in the State of California by supplying the University of California with the funds required for the publication in four volumes of the diaries of Fra. Francisco Palon, the companion and historian of Junipero Serra, and also the diaries of Father Crespe, who established the Mission and the Presidio of San Francisco"; and "who has also furnished the funds for the publication of a five-volume work on the Anza expeditions and the founding of San Francisco now in preparation by Professor Bolton, and has defrayed the expenses entailed in exploring the Anza trail and has contributed generously to the support of the California Historical Society."

Endorsing the measure that will appear on the November ballot, "providing for the issuance of twenty million dollars in bonds for the purpose of completing the veterans farm and home loan requirements."

Commending Eugene W. Biscailuz (Santa Monica Bay No. 267), superintendent of the California State Motor Patrol, and his motorcycle officers for the remarkable and courteous manner in which they handled the auto tour through history-land, May 20.

Extending thanks to all those who "contributed to make our stay in Merced a pleasant one."

NEW GRAND OFFICERS.

A new corps of grand officers were selected May 23, the total vote cast being 402. The following were chosen:

Grand President—John T. Newell (Los Angeles No. 45).

Grand First Vice-president—Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez (Pacific No. 10).

Grand Second Vice-president—Seth Millington (Colusa No. 69).

Grand Third Vice-president—Justice Emmet Seawell (Santa Rosa No. 28).

Grand Secretary—John T. Regan (South San Francisco No. 157).

Grand Treasurer—John A. Corotto (San Jose No. 22).

Grand Marshal—Joseph Clavo (Vallejo No. 77).

Grand Inside Sentinel—Horace J. Leavitt (Mount Bally No. 87).

Grand Outside Sentinel—W. B. O'Brien (Alameda No. 47).

Grand Trustees (in order of vote received)—

Irving D. Gibson (Sacramento No. 3), Ben Harrison (Arrowhead No. 110), Charles A. Koenig (Golden Gate No. 29), Samuel M. Shortridge Jr. (Menlo No. 185), Joseph McShane (Twin Peaks No. 214), A. W. Garcelon (Arcata No. 20), George F. McNoble (Stockton No. 7).

These, together with Charles L. Dodge (Carquinez No. 205), who automatically became the Junior Past Grand President, were installed by Past Grand President James A. Wilson, assisted by Jesse Miller (California No. 1) as acting junior past grand president, Clarence M. Hunt (Sacramento No. 3) as acting grand secretary, and Arthur J. Cleu (Fruitvale No. 252) as acting grand marshal.

To complete the official family, Grand President Newell announced the appointment of:

Colonel Henry G. W. Dinkelspiel (Bay City No. 104) as Grand Organist.

W. Joseph Ford (Glendale No. 264) as Historiographer.

He also appointed the following ex-officio members of the Grand Parlor:

Finance Committeeman—Harry W. Gaetjen (Golden Gate No. 29).

Members Board Appeals—Edwin A. Meserve (Ramona No. 109), Jesse Miller (California No. 1), Henry G. Bodkin (Hollywood No. 196), Harmon D. Skillin (Castro No. 232), John Andreson Jr. (Arrowhead No. 110).

Member Board Control—William C. Neumiller (Stockton No. 7).

Transportation and Mileage Committeeman—James L. Foley (Twin Peaks No. 214), Richard M. Hamb (Piedmont No. 120), R. R. Veale (General Winn No. 32).

NOTES OF THE SESSION.

The Los Angeles Parlors announced abandonment of their plan to ask for the 1931 Admission Day celebration, owing to the Olympiad to be held in that city at that time.

Professor Dufour, former Native Sons traveling history fellow and now dean of the San Francisco State Teachers College, addressed the Grand Parlor May 19 on the life and achievements of General John A. Sutter, noted California Pioneer.

At the memorial services in honor of all deceased members of the Order, May 19, Past Grand President Hubert R. McNoble presided, and eulogies were delivered by Past Grand President Dr. Charles W. Decker, Past Grand President Lewis F. Byington, Past Grand President Judge Charles E. McLaughlin, and T. Dwight Crittenden (Ramona No. 109).

Oroville, Butte County, through its Chamber of Commerce and Argonaut Parlor No. 8, put in advance bids for the Fifty-fifth (1932) Grand Parlor. No action, however, was taken.

Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler and Grand Trustee May F. Givens addressed the Grand Parlor May 21 and extended greetings on behalf of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West. They were accompanied by a delegation of Veritas Parlor No. 75 (Merced) members.

Grand Organist Henry G. W. Dinkelspiel, chairman Native Sons and Native Daughters Central Committee on Homeless Children, addressed the Grand Parlor on the splendid accomplishments of that committee.

Albert V. Mayrhofer (San Diego No. 108) addressed the Grand Parlor regarding the restoration of San Diego Mission, and at the conclusion of his remarks was given a rising vote of thanks for his untiring efforts in behalf of that historic landmark.

Past Grand President Hubert R. McNoble called attention to the dedication, June 8, by the grand officers, of a historic site in Calaveras County, known as Double Springs, where the county was organized.

John T. Newell, following his installation as Grand President, was the recipient of these remembrances: Basket of flowers from Veritas Parlor No. 75 N.D.G.W. (Merced), through Junior Past Grand President Charles L. Dodge; basket of flowers from California South Parlors, through Eugene W. Biscailuz (Santa Monica Bay No. 267); framed picture from Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 (Ocean Park), through Eldred L. Meyer.

The Past Grand Presidents had their annual reunion dinner May 20, Judge William M. Conley being the host. James A. Wilson, having retired from Grand Parlor office, was admitted as a member of the P.G.P. Association.

Many womenfolks accompanied the Grand Parlor members to Merced, and while there they were royally entertained by Veritas Parlor No. 75 N.D.G.W. The Parlor's general committee directing the several social functions included: Hazel Laverty (chairman), President Mildred Heinzen, Hanna Maddux, Margaret Thornton, District Deputy Eugenia Kahl, Margaret Gambini, Alma Fowler, Alice Bickmore, Mayme Reuter, Josie Lagomarsino and Mrs. J. Winter Smith. Just following the opening of the Grand Parlor, District Deputy Eugenia Kahl, on behalf of Veritas Parlor, presented Grand President Charles L. Dodge with a basket of California poppies.

Librarians To Gather—The American Library Association and other associated organizations will meet in Los Angeles City, June 23 to 28.

SAN DIEGO and Tributary Sections Opportunity's Gateway Extends A Welcome To All —

SAN DIEGO MAINTAINS REVERENCE FOR GLAMOROUS HISTORY

George H. White

(SAN DIEGO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.)

PROGRESSING MODERNLY, WHILE maintaining reverence for glamorous history and preserving characteristic individualities, presents problems to every old California city. Perhaps the oldest of these cities, San Diego, has the most of such problems.

Just now, the populace is torn with trying to decide where and how to build a highway that would least mar, or more enhance, the only Torrey pine preserve on earth. For a great many years an old road through this Torrey Pines park at the northern limits of the city has been allowed to serve as the main gateway to San Diego from the north. A twisted grade that makes for traffic congestion by forcing trucks into slow gears has caused many uncomplimentary comments by motorists.

It won't be long now, however, before there will be a better highway, and possibly two of the present one will also be improved, maintaining a thoroughfare into the heart of the famous Torrey pines reserve for the edification of naturalists and anyone else with a yen for the unusual. Meanwhile, visiting motorists traveling the old grade should know that San Diegans don't think it a fair sample of the boulevard system inside the city and out through other gateways into San Diego County.

HISTORIC PLAY PRESENTED.

Recalling a bit of California history in a dramatic way, the annual presentation of "Felicitia," an epic of the battle of San Pasqual, at Escondido, may be seen as late as June 8 this year. The dates include the last two days of May and June 1, 7 and 8.

When first the courageous Padre Junipero Serra and his followers came into the valleys of California to christianize the lowly Indian, they found peaceful tribes making their homes among them, to quicken arrivals in San Diego. Yet, the precise location is at this writing undecided. The City Council chose to go around the cliffs, up which the present gateway climbs, although to do so would entail slicing down the cliffs to make a roadway along the ocean beach. The Board of Park Commissioners opposed that plan, advocating a speed highway along Sorrento Canyon inland and outside the park. They did not want the natural beauty of the cliffs defaced, and thereby hangs a court decision that they have the right to govern improvements, or defacements, in the park. Advocates of the cliff-side cut, of course, contend that their plan would be a benefit to the park and to all the city, and a higher California court may pass upon the councilmanic claim of jurisdiction.

Regardless of whichever of the two new highways planned and surveyed will be constructed, the hills and valleys that skirt the vale or line the picturesque San Pasqual. In 1846, through the narrow opening to the east, came General Kearney and his men, passing down the slopes and on through the Indian village on the last part of his long trek from Santa Fé, New Mexico, to San Diego to aid the American acquisition of California.

The Indians of the San Pasqual were glad to see them come, for they had been sorely pressed by the Mexicans since the secularization of the missions. It was here in the San Pasqual, at the very door of the little town of Escondido, was fought the fiercest battle of the conquest between General Kearney and his American Dragoons, and Captain Andres Pico and his California Lancers. It was here that Felicitia, the lovely daughter of old Chief Pontho, found "Mr. Richard" wounded, bleeding and dying upon the

FUND FOR RESTORING STATE'S FIRST MISSION NEAR COMPLETION.

Less than $5,000 of the $60,000 total necessary to restore San Diego Mission remains to be subscribed, according to a May 11 announcement of Deputy Grand President Albert V. Mayrhofer of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, chairman of the restoration committee. From California cities other than San Diego has come most of the money thus far subscribed, he says.

Chairman Mayrhofer has labored unceasingly for several months to raise the funds necessary to restore the mission. Not one cent of the subscription fund has gone, or will go, for promotion or for any other purpose than that for which subscribed. So thorough has been the work of the restoration committee, actual work may be started within forty-eight hours after the last dollar of the fund is subscribed. In a recent brochure, appealing for funds, Mayrhofer says: "It is your dream, as it is the dream of everyone who knows and loves the history of California, to see the restoration of the missions which run along El Camino Real from the Harbor of the Sun to the Golden Gate—from San Diego de Alcalá, where Fra Junipero Serra first visioned the chain of stately structures, to Dolores, where lonely padres raised a church to their own St. Francis, the beloved Poverello of Assisi. In one or two instances, notably at Santa Barbara, parts of this dream have been realized.
Certainly the restoration of all the twenty-one old missions one day will be a fact, but until the consummation of this ideal, Californians must proceed, as is always the case in this world, from a modest beginning to a splendid victory.

"First in time and first in historical importance is Mission San Diego de Alcalá. For years attempts to rebuild this mission have been frustrated by one cause or another—principally because no adequate plans to maintain the mission after its restoration were evolved. Now, however, this difficulty has been removed, and—what is of even greater moment—nearly all the money needed for the restoration is on hand. If the first of the missions is restored, we may look forward confidently to the restoration of them all.

"No finer task than this can be the task of the Californian, and no more lasting or beautiful endeavor may be visioned than participation in the restoration of the first of California's unique missions—the very names of which are part and parcel of the state and which, even in alien lands, typify more than anything else the unmatched splendors of California's history.

"With this consideration in mind, then, I present the matter of the restoration of Mission San Diego de Alcalá to you, and solicit your assistance in a splendid endeavor." Contributions addressed to Albert V. Mayrhofer, California Savings Bank, Fifth and B streets, San Diego, will be promptly acknowledged and go toward the consummation of a worthy project.—C.M.H.

A. Heilbron, president; Mrs. Jane Florentine, vice-president; Miss Marion S. Stough, secretary; Miss Elsie Frank, treasurer. Meetings are held monthly at the homes of the members and, in turn, the association has been entertained by President Heilbron, Vice-president Florentine, Treasurer Frank, Mrs. Virginia Burke and Mrs.

meetings afford opportunity to discuss and plan many matters of interest and benefit to the Parlor. The association was hostess to No. 208 on the occasion of its recent fifteenth institution anniversary, and sponsored a card party April 26.

ANNUAL PICNIC OUTING.

San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. initiated a class of candidates May 14. President Fred Kaland presided, and Henry P. Stelling was the master of ceremonies. Entertainment was provided and refreshments were served.

The Parlor's annual picnic outing, postponed on account of inclement weather, is billed for June 8, in El Monte Park.

MOTHER'S DAY OBSERVED.

Mother's Day was fittingly observed by San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W. May 13. Miss Marcia Parsons and Miss Margaret Held favored with vocal selections, Mrs. Pearl Simpson accompanying. Mrs. Elde, an honored guest, gave palm and teacup readings.

Mrs. Virginia Burke entertained the Past Presidents Club at the April meeting, and Miss Adele Koop was the hostess May 28. The beautiful occupies a prominent place in California's early history. Mrs. Edwina Stough, chairman No. 108's landmarks committee, is in charge of arrangements.

The place is located at the eastern end of Warner ranch, originally known as the Valle de San Jose, about three miles from Warner Hot Springs, and was erected about 1842 or 1843 by Juan Jose Warner, a Connecticut Yankee who came to California as a trapper in the early '30s. His name was John Trumbull Warner.

He settled in Los Angeles, married a Spanish woman, changed his name, and in the '40s applied to the Mexican government for grant of the land in the Valle de San Jose through which he had passed when he came to California. The grant, totaling 23,000 acres, was later confirmed to Warner by the Mexican government.

Here Warner lived with his wife and family until 1851, when he was driven out by an Indian uprising, for which Bill Marshall, owner of Marshall's store, about half a mile from the Warner ranch house, and several Indians were later convicted and executed. By 1861 all of Warner's holdings had passed out of his hands.

The Warner ranch house was on the main in few instances will be thrifty. No orchardist thinks of planting a tree on its own root; he gets a hardier stock, one that will resist disease. The same should be true with the roses. The ambitious propagator should start his slips from wild rose or some other hardy, well-known stock, and graft to them as they develop. In that way he will have the varieties he desires on a root that will insure proper development and healthy bushes.

ALFALFA HAY FOR RABBITS.

In feeding alfalfa hay to rabbits, be sure that it is of high grade, with not too much fiber in the straw. Otherwise, there may be loss from diarrhoea. Too much water after eating also causes the same trouble; it is well to be sure of the cause before trying to apply a remedy. If diarrhoea persists, strip the alfalfa leaves from the stems for feeding, and add some other food, such as carrots, to the diet. The best rabbit hay is that cut at the early bud stage, or some time before the plants begin to bloom. At this time the stems are soft, immature and pliable and the plants are leafy. When properly cured, an excellent, fine stemmed, leafy product is secured.

During the month of May, California State (Bear) Flags were presented the John Adams and the Sherman schools jointly by San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. and San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W.

NATIVE SONS AND DAUGHTERS PLAN MARKER FOR HISTORIC SITE.

Some time around Independence Day, July 4, San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W. and San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. plan to place a marker upon the Warner ranch house, which road from Yuma to Los Angeles leading up from the great American desert, now Imperial Valley, through San Felipe Wash and Borego Valley. Through Warner's rattled the Butterfield stages in the doubtful '60s, and until the railroad came heavily-laden freight wagons periodically creaked past the settlement on their way to Los Angeles and San Diego.

ROSES FROM CUTTINGS.

Roses may be started from cuttings at almost any time of the year, if the heat is not excessive and the slips are kept moist in sand or light soil. December is probably the best month; many amateur gardeners make it a practice to cut up the winter prunings into slips for propagation. While it is doubtless true that roses may be propagated in this manner, the bushes

PIGS NEED EXERCISE.

Growing pigs need exercise and if there is anything for them to eat in the pasture they will feed themselves more cheaply than the farmer can do it in the pen. If the pig is to stand up under heavy feeding for conditioning for market, it must have exercise and grain feed in preparation. The pigs will not run enough to lose weight if they are getting plenty of feed; his, of course, must be watched.

THE SOCIAL LIFE OF CALIFORNIA 1840 to 1860

Dale Dargitz

THE PURPOSE IN WRITING THIS PAPER is to give a rather connected and condensed story of the extremely interesting social life of the State of California in the periods between 1810 and 1860. These were very unique times as far as a social history goes. In this short twenty years there were three distinct kinds of living: Spanish, rural American, and mining, arranged so that in looking at California in general during those years it is hard to see where one period ended and where another began. In fact, during a more or less central time these three types were all more or less contemporaneous. It is hard to believe that, unless we remember that the State of California is spread over a considerable area. While the Spanish influence was still being felt in the south, the people who were farming in the hills had already been coming from the Eastern States, and the miners were just starting to come. Therefore this paper is written with a view to the social life of the different types of people, but not strictly chronologically, although the sectional titles are chronological in that, in general, the Spanish people came first, then came the farmers from the East who settled in the rural and hill sections, and still later came the miners. In this period there were practically no women in the cities, but the rural sections were made up of whole families. The social conditions described are all the conditions which resulted in the people living together.

LATE SPANISH PERIOD.

The people living in California in the late Spanish period have been called the Arcadians of the Western World. They had brought their chief faults with them in their blood from Mexico, but these had been tempered wonderfully by the glorious climate of the country. Although they were idle, negligent, ignorant, extravagant, improvident and given to drinking and gambling, they were at heart peaceful, friendly, hospitable and generous, and had many amiable qualities even though they were not a people to be admired.

There was universal plenty and enjoyment. The skies were always sunny, and there was no labor or anxiety. It was one long, unbroken, uninterrupted holiday. The fields produced their fruits spontaneously. Every mission had its anniversary, every family its reunion, every individual his saint's day, every wedding its festival and even every funeral a time for amusement.

The people were much noted for their elaborate dress. On special occasions the gentlemen wore a short jacket of silk or figured calico over a white linen shirt open at the neck. He tied a black silk kerchief loosely about his neck as a cravat. Occasionally he wore a rich waistcoat or vest. He used trousers of velveteen or broadcloth open on the outside below the knee and ornamented along the seams with buttons and gold braid. Sometimes he wore short breeches and white stockings. Around the waist he tied a bright silken sash. He wore shoes which were of highly ornamented buckskin. The hat had a broad, stiff brim, a low crown and was generally black or light in color. He generally wore his hair long and sometimes braided it behind with ribbons.

It was an unheard-of thing among the early Californians for boys to have their hair cut, but when Alvarado, an early Spanish leader, was seven years old, through the influence of a sailor he had his hair cut off. Finally, through Alvarado's influence short hair came into style among the boys. This was the changing of a custom age-long.

Other things that the men wore were a black silk handkerchief under the hat; a serape or poncho, made of elaborately embroidered broadcloth; leggings, knives and huge spurs. The ordinary clothing was of cotton stuffs, coarse wool and leather. Very soon, though, American clothing was introduced.

The women of early California were very racefully attired. They usually wore a bodice of silk or calico, short embroidered sleeves, a loose waist and bright sash. Their skirts were elaborately flounced. Their stockings were of silk, and their slippers of satin or velvet. Much race was acquired with scarfs. Very rarely even a Spanish mantilla was seen. Their hair was worn in two queues, sometimes flowing and sometimes with a comb. The women were plain-

Lodi Parlor No. 18 N.S.G.W. annually sponsors a California history essay contest among the students of the Lodi union high school. The papers submitted this year were judged by Harold Bradley, professor of history at the State Teachers College in Santa Barbara, and he awarded the first prize to Dale Dargitz of Acampo for his "The Social Life of California From 1810 to 1860," here presented. On behalf of the Parlor, Law T. Freitas presented Dargitz with a silver cup.

This essay is excellently prepared. As to the contents, Dargitz specifies numerous California history works whence he obtained his information. The references, however, are not here presented. The essay is most interesting, and The Grizzly Bear is glad to comply with the request to have it preserved by publication in these columns.—Editor.

ly and becomingly attired, but were not such devotees of fashion as at the present day, and did not indulge in jewelry to excess.

There was much love of show among the California women, but it has been said that there were "fewer places in the world where . . . there were to be found more chastity, industrious habits and correct deportment than among the women of California."

On the other hand the men, especially the young men, lacked moral fiber in such life as lay outside domestic relations. Some of the ablest of them fell a prey to drunkenness or to worse vices. Even at that, our trappers and other like homeless wanderers in California from the East were commonly a very far worse set than the Californians. As a people, the Californians were sober. The men were good husbands, and the women good wives. Davis said that the California women, married or unmarried, of all classes were the most virtuous he had ever seen.

Most of the early Californians lived in one story adobe houses with clay floors and tile roofs. The walls were two or three feet thick. The roofs had a very slight slope and were sometimes of thatch. The houses were generally untidy and overrun with fleas. There was generally little furniture and, although the houses were bare, they were picturesque.

On the other hand, the aristocratic women were exceedingly clean and neat in their houses, which were placed by a spring in a bare, open plain as a protection against Indians. One of their peculiarities was the excellence and neatness of their beds and bedding, which were often elegant in appearance, highly and tastefully ornamented, the covering and pillowcases being sometimes of satin, trimmed with beautiful and costly lace. The food of these people was fresh beef, frijoles, tortillas, cabbages, turnips, potatoes, onions and red peppers. They also imported chocolate and sugar from Mexico, and rice and tea from other countries.

The best of feelings always existed between the traders in these early days in California. Once a ranchero promised to deliver a quantity of hides and tallow to a trader on a certain day. The trader came to find that someone else had come the day before to get nearly the entire stock. There was no ill feeling, as it was considered perfectly fair. This cutting under and getting the first grab was common and well understood among the merchants. It was conceded that the quickest, most industrious, most enterprising should be the winners.

Most of the early Californians were rancheros. They had a great many cattle which were wild, but which were kept in subjection by the rodeos. At stated times the vaqueros drove the cattle to a place called the rodeo ground. They were kept there for a while and then allowed to disperse. After a while they came to know this place. As soon as twenty-five or thirty vaqueros would rush into the hills, screaming, the cattle would all gather in the rodeo ground.

The people had no fences on their ranchos, and the cattle were allowed to run wild. After a while the cattle from the various ranches became mixed. To separate these mixed cattle was the purpose of the rodeo. At these the neighbors all came to see if any of their cattle were mixed. These were driven back to their separate ranchos.

When a vaquero recognized any of his cattle, he would rush into the herd and drive them out. If a steer tried to run away, the vaquero used the "coller" movement. By this is meant that he would ride up on his horse beside the steer at about the same speed the steer was going.

Then he would grab the steer's tail and speed up. As a result, the steer would roll over and over. After one or two such treatments, the steer would usually be sufficiently tamed down so that the vaqueros could handle him.

In the wealthy families there was more or less education, but there were no established schools outside the missions, and as a rule the young people picked up their education in the family and among themselves. The Californians had great talent and taste for music. Violins and guitars abounded. Although they had no scientific musical instruction, the sound of beautiful music was everywhere a familiar one.

The fathers of the missions and the rancheros always welcomed people and furnished them with fresh horses, free of charge. They were so polite and courteous that continuing the journey on the horses ridden the day before was not to be thought of. It was considered impolite for the guest to express any concern about how his horses would get home or what was to become of them after he had gone. After 1844 the small ranchos gave much more attention to horses than cattle. It was a specialty to have several fine "caponeras"—a string of ten or twelve horses with a hell mare and a vaquero to guide the travelers. Even another change of horses was sometimes included in a caponera. The accommodation of travelers was of prime importance with the early Californians.

The early Californians had many customs handed down to them from Spain. One of the most noticeable of these was the Spanish custom of courting. Most of the marriages were planned and arranged for through the parents. It was considered very ill-mannered for a young man to converse with a young woman alone. A certain early Californian said that during his wooing of over two years, he did not remember of having spoken a hundred words to the young woman alone, but he was permitted to converse freely with her in the presence of her parents, especially in the presence of her mother.

Some of the weddings were grand affairs. The ceremony took place before daylight. After this an elaborate breakfast was served. This was followed by a long parade through the town. There was a great band followed by a long parade of people according to social precedence. Guns were fired repeatedly while the march lasted. In the evening everyone came to a hoot to dance to the tune of violins and guitars. Sometimes the poorer class of people attained much grace in dancing. While they danced the richer people threw dollars at their feet. On the next day there was an elaborate dinner to which everyone came. At night the fandango at the booth was repeated, and for several successive days and nights the celebration continued with little intermission or cessation.

PROCEEDINGS FORTY-FOURTH N. D. GRAND PARLOR

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

MRS. ESTELLE M. EVANS OF PITTSBURG, Contra Costa County, affiliated with Antioch Parlor No. 223, is now the Grand President of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West, having been installed as such just preceding the close of the Forty-fourth Grand Parlor, in session at Oakland June 16, 17, 18 and 19. Following her induction into office she addressed the assemblage as follows:

"Worthy grand officers, past grand officers, members of the Grand Parlor and all sisters: I gratefully appreciate the honor you have conferred upon me in electing me to the office of Grand President, and extend to you my cordial greetings and best wishes for further progress and harmony during the coming year.

"Fully realizing the responsibilities attached to this great honor, I shall endeavor faithfully and to the best of my ability to continue the work so ably mapped out by my predecessors; to initiate from time to time such measures and procedures as may seem necessary or desirable to advance the Order and to promote its welfare.

"I like to think of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West, with its 166 Subordinate Parlors, as a great symphony, with the Worthy Founder as the composer, the Grand President as the director, the Parlors as the various instruments which must be kept in perfect tune, and the entire membership the personnel, each co-operating by playing her part well. One instrument is no more important than the others; the object is to play your particular part in harmony.

"In every great orchestral production there are moments when the strings carry the full burden, but immediately this is followed by the wind instruments taking up the motive. The flute, the piccolo, the harp, each in its own turn helps to build a great structure of beauty, which is the highest expression of musical composition.

"It is always possible to multiply the number of strings, increase the size of the orchestra, but we can never cut out or lose a single instrument without the entire production being weakened. This is where ensemble work comes to its highest efficiency and value.

"As every symphonic composition has its motive, in which every instrument has a part, our organization has as its motive the Principles of our Order—Love of Home, Devotion to Flag, Veneration for the Pioneers—all leading to the great climax, which is our last and greatest principle—an abiding faith in the existence of God.

"In an orchestra, frequently, the individual and difficult parts are placed in the hands of those specially fitted to accomplish the more intricate pieces of work. So our Grand Officers and Past Presidents stand out as special servants to the Order, carrying a particular responsibility that is given them to enhance the work of operation.

"Regardless of how idealistic an overture may be, the effect is limited by the quality of the instruments through which it functions. You cannot get exquisite music out of a poor violin; on the structure and quality of wood depend the sweetness of tone. Just so do the emanations of our Order depend on the quality of each individual Parlor. If it be enthusiastic, if it be sincere, if it has respect and reverence for its reason for being, then the influence that flows from it will be sweet and harmonious and will enrich the entire organization until it becomes truly a tribute to the Golden West.

"Our organization was built out of gratitude, reverence, and loyalty for the early Pioneers, since without them, without the supreme sacrifice they made, we perhaps would not be enjoying the beauties and comforts we have today. Out of this gratitude we reach toward the future, pledging ourselves to pass the torch of inspiration on to future daughters of California.

"Your Grand President's thought for the year is not a new one, but one that is of vital importance to our organization. Let us make our goal increased membership. Sustained and increased membership cannot be hoped for without an inducement that means constructive opportunity for service. We cannot increase unless we make others see that the Order is worth their time and effort. It is not a question of just keeping busy, but of doing work that is rich in results. While serving the Order, we serve ourselves. It affords an opportunity for growth and development, for education, for knowing our state and its history better, and for stimulating loyalty, which is one of the finest qualities of man.

"Webster defines progress as a moving or going forward; a proceeding onward, as from one point or degree to one farther advanced. Real progress is in no sense associated with standing still or going backward. Any organization that desires to be identified with progress must move onward and upward, always. Let progress be our watchword—but without whole-hearted co-operation and determination it can lead us nowhere. Think progress, and then contribute generously of your energy, and our course will be onward and upward.

"Women are organized today as never before in the history of the world, not only in small social clubs, but in larger clubs with memberships of seven and nine thousand in just one community. These are splendid clubs, but they were organized primarily for educational purposes and for self-improvement. Our purpose is somewhat different. Ours is a sacred charge—preserving the traditions of our Pioneer Fathers and Mothers, reverence for the past and loyalty to the future development of our state. In addition, we have an educational feature, not devoted to our own education, but by which girls who are worthy but unable to further their education may continue through our help, and so those who might be deprived of a college education become equipped for higher service in the educational world.

MRS. ESTELLE M. EVANS,
GRAND PRESIDENT N.D.G.W.

"Our charitable activities alone make our organization unique. We are doing many worthwhile things. Two of the most worthy causes to which we are devoting our time and energy are caring for the orphaned children, and providing a home for our dependent members. In the past year, jointly with the Native Sons, $36,000 was expended in caring for the children. We should all be very proud of this part of our service to society.

"I am afraid we do not fully appreciate our new Home in San Francisco, built at an expense of $115,000, for the noble purpose of caring for our dependent members and providing a home for girls who may be in San Francisco to work or receive an education. Sisters, this is your home and my home, your responsibility and my responsibility. It will serve us as a center of friendly sociability. Its doors are always open. Let us take advantage of its hospitality and become better acquainted with our Home.

"In our obligation, taken at initiation, we promise to perpetuate and revere the memory of the Pioneers. This we are doing, in arranging to purchase the Redwood Memorial Grove in Humboldt County. We shall soon be able to point with pride to a living memorial to the brave men and women who suffered the trials of pioneering in the early days of our state.

"These activities which I have mentioned should call to our Order every loyal daughter of California, regardless of how many other affiliations she may have. Let us make this a year of membership increase, and may the time soon come when every woman honored with California as her birthplace shall have joined the ranks of the Native Daughters of the Golden West. This highly desired goal would soon become a reality if every member put forth an enthusiastic effort, for, as Emerson has said, 'Nothing great was ever accomplished without enthusiasm.'

"As the symphony does not exist for the symphony alone, but for the purpose of interpreting beauty and harmony, so the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West does not exist for individual glory but, through co-operation and service, it reaches an expression of truth and beauty. As John Keats said in his famous poem, 'Truth is beauty and beauty is truth, that is all we know on earth and all we need to know.'

"The director of the symphony cannot accomplish his purpose without the co-operation of every musician, and your Grand President is dependent upon every member of our Order for a year of service, progress and harmony. She is starting her year with the prayer:

"That she may not in blindness grope,
But that she may with vision clear
Know when to speak a word of hope,
Or add a little wholesome cheer.

"That through the year that lies ahead,
No heart shall ache or cheek be wet,
For any word that she has said,
Or profit she has tried to get.

"I wish to express my appreciation to my mother, for thirty-five years of loyal service to our Order, to my very good friend, Past Grand President Amy McAvoy, for years of true friendship, and last, but not least, to the members of my own Parlor, Antioch No. 223, for their years of co-operation."

WHAT TRANSPIRED

Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, affiliated with Marysville Parlor No. 162, presided throughout the deliberations of the Forty-fourth Grand Parlor. Her report, dealing at length with the affairs of the Order, opened with the following, entitled "Founders," written for her by Henry Meade Bland, poet laureate of California:

Of all the gold that came those wonder days
To man in these rich California hills,
I know not anything with such a blaze
In the rich ledges, or Sierran rills
That counts, or can half-count, in worth so much
As friendliness between the man and man
The while he worked his claim; the gentle touch
Of soul with soul; the sure unfolding plan
At night around the fire, in friendly talk;
How each was brother, in the toil, to brother;
And how achievement in the human walk
Should build the happy life-way for each other
Down the long years of fast advancing Time—
Communion till the picture seemed sublime.

And so a space of heaven came down to earth
In the wild rush to find elusive gold;
For here a comrade needed help. His worth
Was not forgot. If one grew sudden-old Because his name was far away and lost
In Eastern hills, he, too, was counted one Within the glowing circle. Out of the host Emerged the state. The magic deed was done.
And these our great Forefathers having founded Cried out to us, their scions, "Carry On!"
How have we answered? Complete and rounded
Have we builded? Built for the Happier Dawn?
Now let us prove ourselves of their great line!
Shall we not strive to make our work divine?

Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler reported the total receipts of the Grand Parlor year $17,491.18 and the total disbursements $15,672.53 leaving a balance in the general fund June 1 of $18,715.25.

From September 1928 to June 11, 1930 Loyalty Pledge receipts from the Subordinate Parlors totaled $17,443.53. The following Parlors paid in full: Golden State No. 50 (San Francisco), $530; El Pescadero No. 82 (Tracy), $700; Piedmont No. 87 (Oakland), $1,080; Reina del Mar No. 126 (Santa Barbara), $525; Imogen No. 134 (Sierraville), $100; Marysville No. 162 (Marysville), $385; Annie K. Bidwell No. 168 (Chico), $530; Mary E. Bell No. 224 (Dixon), $332.50; Palo Alto No. 229 (Palo Alto), $170; Californiana No. 247 (Los Angeles), $620.

Article II, Section 4, Subordinate Parlors Constitution, amended to permit Subordinate Parlors to receive applications for membership at special meetings.

The order of business in Subordinate Parlors was amended to provide that "the first order of business, after the taking of the password, be the Flag salute."

Several changes of a minor nature were authorized to be made in the Ritual, mostly pertaining to escorting and seating. The words "California poppy" were ordered substituted for the word "eschscholtzia."

The memorial charter service as used by Woodland Parlor No. 90 was adopted for use in all Subordinate Parlors.

BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

Santa Rosa, Sonoma County, was selected as the meeting place of the Forty-fifth (1931) Grand Parlor.

A budget of $13,945 was approved, and the percapita tax was fixed at $1, plus 50 cents for support of the Home.

Granting of a charter to Eldora Parlor No. 248, instituted at Turlock, Stanislaus County, May 28, was ratified.

Toward the restoration of Mission San Miguel, in San Luis Obispo County, $50 was appropriated.

The Grizzly Bear was re-endorsed as the official organ of the Order, and provision was made for publication therein of the official directory.

The Loyalty Pledge was ordered continued for another year, so that all members may contribute to the fund for liquidating the Home debt.

Flowers were ordered sent Founder Lily O.

MUCH CAN AND MUST BE DONE

PAST GRAND PRESIDENT BERTHA A. Briggs, affiliated with Copa de Oro Parlor No. 105, Hollister, San Benito County, as chairman of the Grand Parlor Publicity Committee submitted the following report at the Forty-fourth Session. Incidentally, she is the secretary of the San Benito County Chamber of Commerce:

"In rendering an account of results accomplished during the twelve months just closing, it is not the purpose of the Publicity Committee to place price tag labels upon our personal activities. We do feel, however, that a candid appraisal of these activities, from an unbiased viewpoint, does reveal tangible values accruing to the Order in general and to the individual Parlors in particular through constant efforts expended in bringing about a more comprehensive interpretation of the worth of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West.

"Recognizing the necessity of organized action, immediately following the close of the 1929 Grand Parlor session the group, chosen by our Worthy Grand President to carry on publicity work, set about the charting of a safe course for guidance. The committeewomen plunged with great zest into the effort to acquaint the rank and file of our own members, as well as non-members of our Order, with a clearer and more accurate understanding of our projects, our practices and our basic principles. To all requests made, splendid co-operation has been evinced by the committee workers, each rendering service in the desired manner, with exceptional willingness, earnestness and loyalty, and seemingly deeply impressed with the responsibility of the undertaking. As a result, much convincing information has been broadcasted over the air and through appropriate press notices. Thus has a more effective realization of our purposes and our achievements been brought to the attention of an ever-enlarging circle. Naturally, this has been followed by a most favorable reaction toward our worthwhile accomplishments and our unselfish attitude as an organization.

"Publicity as practiced today consists of something more than mere releases to the newspapers. It consists mainly in creating favorable sentiment in the minds of the public—in establishing good public relations and goodwill. To create good relations with non-members, it is necessary to follow a course of action that will create and control favorable sentiment before it actually becomes sentiment.

"Nothing can be so utterly misleading as isolated thoughts considered apart from attendant circumstances and related facts. Therefore, it should be of great concern to us that the world, as well as our own membership, has a clear-cut appreciation and understanding of the related facts regarding our problems and our purposes. It should be the duty of every member to spotlight those enterprises in which we serve our greatest purposes. We are all partners in these undertakings, and only by working shoulder to shoulder as partners can we fulfill our obligations and our ultimate destiny.

"In a manner especially helpful to our cause, our official organ, The Grizzly Bear, has presented articles of outstanding interest and significance. One of its most important avenues of influence has been to acquaint the citizenry of the state with facts regarding the broad scope of our activities. But this valuable publication must not be considered simply as the annals of our kindred organizations of Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West, but rather as a magazine of service, spreading doctrines of state-wide interest and worth. By subscribing to and reading every issue of this valuable publication, we are helping the obliging and capable editor to make it a greater power each year. But may we suggest that, in addition, we encourage a continuance of suitable contributions from those who are capable of preparing acceptable material for its columns? The magazine and its editor merit our encouragement, and we should manifest our appreciation by our cordial support.

Much CAN be done and MUST be done within our own ranks to enlarge the vision of those enrolled upon our membership lists, for many of us are not fully aware of the necessity of broadening our horizon by the simple expedient of looking over our own housetops that we may recognize our important part in the general scheme of things.

"Let us pause and ask ourselves, 'What's ahead for our Order?' The answer must be, 'There is much ahead for us, provided each and every one does her part in establishing favorable contacts with those whom we desire to impress with our spirit of service—those whom we wish to render Native Daughter-minded.'

"Ralph Waldo Emerson has said, 'Every great movement in all time has been due to enthusiasm.' Verily, enthusiasm is the power that keeps our Order going—it is truly the basis of our every activity. As enthusiasm is measured by the horizon of understanding, to develop enthusiasm it is necessary to develop knowledge of the things about which we should be enthusiastic. Education is the basis of usefulness, but we cannot separate service from usefulness. An idea that remains simply an idea is absolutely useless; until that idea is put into effective service, it amounts to nothing at all.

"This great assemblage of representatives of our Order, drawn from every section of California, is a living testimonial to the fact that this organization is erected upon a living, effectively-working idea, else it would not continue to exist. It is not the custom of women of affairs to give their allegiance continuously and enthusiastically to any movement which does not give them something tangible and worthwhile in return. Truly, it is because this organization has given to us such wonderful objectives that we continue to yield our hearty allegiance to this movement.

"Our Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West has a fascinating story to tell—a story not only of past achievements, but also a story of hope and of confidence for the future. In the words of Dr. Crane, 'Yesterday is beyond recall; you can make something of tomorrow. Tomorrow's alive with beauty, radiant with power, bulging with conceivable possibilities. Turn to it.'

"Yes, yesterday has gone—let us turn to tomorrow with the firm resolution to give our best efforts to the continued advancement of the ideals and principles of the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

"Great opportunities come to all, and our success in carrying on our chosen work is the spirit of readiness to grasp them when they arrive. Be vigilant in watching, tactful and daring in seizing these opportunities, and forceful and persistent in crowding them to the utmost of possible achievement."

Reichling-Dyer, Treasurer Jennie Greene of the Home Committee, and all Past Grand Presidents detained, by illness, from attending the Grand Parlor.

A new Ritual was authorized to "be written with shorter charges, but each charge to convey the same inspiration as the present charge."

The regalia of the grand officers was ordered "changed to a card with an appropriate emblem." The Past Grand Presidents are also to be supplied with similar regalia, the emblem to bear the year of service.

All changes in the Constitutions and Ritual were ordered printed and sent to supervising district deputies and district deputies.

On recommendation of the Board of Grand Trustees, $500 was ordered taken from the general fund and placed in the Loyalty Pledge fund, and it was also ordered that the lounge in the Home be dedicated to Past Grand President Dr. Mariana Bertola.

The following California pledge was endorsed: "I am a Californian, I love my Native state, its mountains high, its valleys wide, its people good and great. I love the dear old Pioneers, who made us what we are, and gave to us our Golden State, the Nation's brightest star."

A resolution was adopted, permitting the use, by Subordinate Parlors, of "loose-leaf ledgers in the keeping of their membership accounts."

A resolution prevailed, that the Native Daughters "honor our American Flag with some form of salutation, during the opening ceremonies of the Subordinate Parlors."

A resolution was adopted, declaring that the Order "is opposed to any change in the design of, or a substitute for, the Bear Flag as a state emblem."

A resolution was adopted, "urging the protection of our trees and wild flowers."

It was ordered that the songs of the days of '49 be copyrighted and sold by the Grand Parlor.

Thanks were extended, by resolution, to all those who, in any way, contributed to the success of the Grand Parlor and to the enjoyment of the members thereof.

Endorsement was given the proposal to preserve the Luther Burbank estate in Sonoma County.

Adjournment was in memory of Mrs. Leana

Senator Lyon, affiliated with Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 N.S.G.W. has served in the Legislature for the past sixteen years and has an enviable record. Los Angeles County is to have hut one senator so it should have the benefit of Senator Lyon's wide experience. The Senator's record shows that he passed all measures for the establishment and maintenance of the university at Los Angeles; that he is the author of the bill for the construction of a state building in Los Angeles; that he is the author of concurrent resolution memorializing Congress to reduce tax on smaller incomes; that he supported the old-age pension law, the eight-hour law for women and other humanitarian measures and that he was the author of the measure providing State aid for Olympic games in Los Angeles. A vote to return Senator Lyon to the State Senate is a vote for good, economical government.

 CANDIDATE for RE-ELECTION
 GOVERNOR of CALIFORNIA

Governor Young has kept the faith!

There is no element of doubt in his candidacy, no question whether he can measure up to the tremendous responsibilities of the office.

Governor Young's campaign pledges of four years ago are California's outstanding governmental accomplishments of today—adequate highways, schools freed from political influence, business-like coordination of departments, sound economy and truthful budgets, a remedial prison program, conservation of natural resources, human handling of human problems, and an improved labor and industrial program.

His platform is his record!

CALIFORNIA'S WONDERLAND

CITY AND COUNTY

HERNANDO CORTEZ

Olive Lopez

TO HERNANDO CORTEZ, A SPANISH Hidalgo born of noble parents, intrepid and dauntless explorer and conqueror of Mexico, many historians give well-authenticated credit for naming the territory now known as Lower California. However, other authorities whose accounts tell of Cortez' unfortunate trips to the north from Mexico, state that the country was called California before Cortez' crude little ships traversed the stormy waters and found that California was not an island, as had been supposed, but was attached to the mainland.

As he stayed in the vicinity of Santa Cruz, which he named, for more than a year, he accomplished probably more than we know, and if it had not been for obstacles placed in his way by jealous countrymen at home, perhaps he would have had the honor of exploring the whole coast, at least as far north as the California State limits, and of discovering all of the harbors, including wonderful San Francisco. He could have surmounted Nature's obstacles to his progress, although his ships, paid for from his own funds,—mere sloops without decks, clumsily designed and badly constructed,—were poor sailors and difficult to manage; the instruments, also, were very crude. Cortez said later in life that he had experienced more trouble and difficulty from menaces and affronts by those in authority than it cost to conquer Mexico. No words, however inspiring, can picture what Cortez and his followers, faithful and unfaithful, suffered in their peregrinations to the north.

Captain Bernal Diaz del Castillo, one of Cortez' close companions who visited the Pacific Coast twice before he came with the conqueror, says of him, in his history of the conquest written in the year 1568. "Cortez went to discover other lands and came to California, which is a bay." Evidence, therefore, as to the bestowal of the name is very confusing. Cortez, in his letters and writings, never mentioned the name California. He spoke always of Santa Cruz.

There is an earlier mention of the name in Preciado's record of the voyage of Ulloa, but invariably as a name previously applied and well known. Writing November 10, 1539, four years after Cortez had made the trip, he says, "We found ourselves 54 leagues distant from California, little more or less, seeing in the night three or four fires." He also mentions the name of an Indian interpreter as born in California. The name, however, was more or less spontaneously applied by those knowing the story of "Las Sergas de Esplandian," describing the magical island, fabulously rich in gold and precious stones, and it would have been forgotten, probably, had a region better suited to the description of the island of the fabled Amazons than our own present California been discovered.

Cortez was born of noble, but poor, parents in 1485 in Medellin, village of Entremadura, Spain, and died at Castillejo, December 2, 1547, and there is no doubt but that he crowded more thrilling history into his three-score years than any of those marvelous Spanish explorers to whom the world owes so much. All historians grant that he was one of the world's greatest explorers and conquerors, and that he rendered valiant service to California, his connection with the Gulf of California and Lower California being a thrilling story. Mutiny, dishonesty, Indian massacres, sickness, starvation, death, and wanderings through hot and desert country were his reward, instead of the fabulous riches and beautiful lands for which he staked so much.

After conquering the land of the Mayas, taking for his king, himself and his followers the treasures of Ulua, and converting many from paganism and from the awful custom of human sacrifice, Cortez began to hear strange stories of northern lands, with tales of unlimited wealth and treasure. He was not slow to make ready to explore these unknown regions. The most powerful motive, as Cortez expressed it, was: "We Spaniards are troubled with a disease of the heart, for which we find gold, and gold only, a specific remedy." While the discovery and acquirement of new lands for their king entered also into their plans, first of all they hoped to find, as they had found in Mexico, gold and precious stones lying about as common as pebbles. The lure of wealth led Cortez, and many another Spaniard, into enterprises necessitating incredible hardships, and leading a fortunate few to lasting fame, but many more to defeat and unknown graves.

At his own expense, Cortez built at Zacatula four ships, but fire destroyed them. He was not discouraged, but five years went by before four others were constructed, as materials had to be borne upon human backs across the country from the eastern coast, and then, by order of the emperor, only one, the smallest, was permitted to sail. In 1528 Cortez sent it forth under the command of Pedro Nunez de Maldonado, who was his superintendent of ships. Maldonado explored for six months, proceeding slowly along the coast and making careful survey of its shores. He only reached the Santiago River, many leagues south of Lower California, but brought back glowing accounts of fertile soil and precious metals.

Two new ships were completed and sent out, under command of Diego de Mendoza and Juan de Mazuela. They left Acapulco in June 1532. Failure and disaster were the lot of those in charge, as there was a terrible mutiny, also an Indian massacre and fierce gales. The intrepid Cortez dispatched two more ships as hastily as possible, which was the next year, from Tehuantepec, under Captains Mendoza and Grijalva. The second night out Grijalva was driven to sea in a terrible storm, and the two boats were never reunited. Grijalva sailed about 300 leagues and discovered a desert island, Santo Tomas. Mendoza's ship, "La Concepcion," should be remembered especially, as it carried the discoverers of California. The commanders were killed by mutineers, but the chief pilot, Fortuna Jimenez, directed the ship away from the coast, across the unknown waters of the Gulf of California, and discovered the interior coast of Lower California in 1534 or late in 1533.

It is possible that an earlier expedition had a sight of the land, but California, thought to be an island, was made known through the expedition of Jimenez, in the good ship "La Concepcion," belonging to Hernan, or Hernando, Cortez. Cortez rendered still further service by personally discovering Santa Cruz Bay, by a careful survey, named the peninsula of California and breasted the waters of the North Pacific. He was a brave soldier, a fearless sailor, patient explorer and enterprising conquerer, and for this reason, fearing that he might aspire to too many honors and acquire too great power, aspersions were cast on his character at court and his usefulness was cut short, not, however, until Charles V had granted him the title of Marquis del Valle (Valley) of Oaxaca. Some historians, in expressing themselves concerning Cortez, use the following words: "So all the more sad that he at last failed to find gold which he had spent a fortune in seeking and that his moral weakness brought him ruin after his heroic sacrifices and splendid conquests."

Professor George Davidson, in his "An Examination of Some of the Early Voyages of Discovery and Exploration on the Northwest Coast of America, 1539-1603,"—report of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey 1886—says there might be a basis for the story of Cortez naming California, according to the ancient mythical story. The report says: "As they came in sight of steep cliffs and rocky shores, rising 410 feet, an island was suggested. This is Cape Pulmo. Within a mile the hill rises 850 feet with low neck or valley behind it, a notable feature. Inside of this the mountains 8 miles westward rise to 2885 feet, while Miraflores of the Sierra Victoria 27 miles from the gulf shore rises 6200 feet. The former is visible at 62 miles and the latter at 91."

Another object of Cortez' voyages to the northward was the hope of discovering the Straits of Anian, the fabled passage from the Atlantic to the South Sea, which was never found. The search went on year after year, at the cost of many expeditions and the sacrifice of untold lives. Yet, their labors were not in vain, as they succeeded in laying open vast regions of hitherto unknown country for occupation and settlement, and they greatly extended man's knowledge of the earth. They huddled for later generations and wrought well for advancing civilization, and California and the other great states along the Pacific have long since been fully explored throughout their length and breadth. A wonderful network of railroads and telegraph wires binds all closely together, and now the marvelous Panama Canal connects the Pacific with the Atlantic, brings the Orient almost face to face with the Occident, and plays splendidly the part which was to have been taken by the mysterious passage.

The story of the Amazons of California, a thrilling romance, the most fictitious of fiction, was the novel of Cortez' day. Probably no one

CALIFORNIA HAPPENINGS OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

INDPENDENCE DAY, JULY 4, OF 1880 coming on a Sunday, the one hundred and fourth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence was celebrated the 5th. California being in a prosperous and optimistic condition, every city and town had a glorious observance of the day with parades, literary exercises and evening exhibitions of fireworks. Governor George C. Perkins was the orator at Sacramento City, and a future governor, James H. Budd, delivered the chief address of the day at Stockton, San Joaquin County.

Distressing accidents marred the celebrations in some places. Company G of the National Guard went from San Francisco to Del Monte, Monterey County, to camp. B. F. Hastings, making cartridges for a salute, attempted to open a can of powder with a hatchet. The powder exploded, and W. C. Burke was instantly killed. Hastings was horribly mangled and Spencer Buckbee was badly injured.

Balconies, crowded mostly with women and children viewing passing parades, collapsed at Colusa and Sacramento Cities, and scores of people were injured. Firing a toy pistol, the cap entered the hand of Monerief Randolph, a San Francisco lad, and he died of lockjaw. The Union Garden Hotel at Napa City burned, with a loss of $8,000.

A feature of the Oroville, Butte County, celebration was the presence of "Grizzly Dan"—J. C. Williamson, born in Massachusetts and 64 years of age. He first came West in 1838, had been a companion of Kit Carson, a member of General John C. Fremont's "Pathfinders," and a scout with General Custer before the memorable massacre. During his career he had killed eleven grizzly bears, hence the sobriquet, and laid claim to having sent 130 Indians to the happy hunting grounds. He justified his killing of the Red men by claiming Indians had massacred his wife and two children while crossing the plains in a covered wagon in the '40s.

A blast of 40,000 pounds of powder was exploded at the Blue Tent hydraulic mine in Nevada County, and a bank 238 feet high was shattered for 150 feet back.

Con Virginia of the Comstock Lode, Nevada State, paid its first dividend of the year, $270,000. The Comstock mines were rapidly becoming "has beans" as wealth producers.

A rich silver ledge was found at the summit of Bald Mountain, in Calaveras County.

A silver ledge 14 feet wide and 4,000 feet long was found near Camptonville, Yuba County, by Charles Biter and James McBudeder.

The Idaho mine at Grass Valley, Nevada County, paid its one hundred and thirty-first dividend this month. Its yield for July was $41,400.

CENSUS RETURNS DISAPPOINT.

The Mammoth Blue Gravel mine at Dutch Flat, Placer County, had yielded to date $17,000,000.

At French Gulch, Shasta County, a quartz vein was discovered that yielded 63 ounces of gold, worth $1,077, from five tons of rock.

A quartz vein was found along Six Mile Creek in Siskiyou County that yielded $152 worth of gold from twenty-five pounds of rock.

Returns of the 1880 census now began to be published, and were disappointing to every ambitious town.

Los Angeles City was given a population of 11,183, including 804 Chinamen. The county had a population of 38,392, of whom 1,155 were Chinamen. The oldest resident found was Jose A. Lucero, aged 117; he came to Los Angeles in 1790.

Oakland, Alameda County, had a population of 35,000, and Berkeley, Alameda County, 2,023. A census taker found in the former city a woman, aged 36, who had a married son, aged 28, residing next door.

Marysville, Yuba County, had a population of 4,340, of whom 1,030 were Chinamen. Its Chinatown, a beehive of humans, was the liveliest part of the city.

The army worm appeared in disastrous numbers on the river farms west of Sacramento City, and flocks of turkeys were being obtained to aid in exterminating the pests.

Merced City citizens organized a committee of safety, owing to the crimes committed by its reckless element, which cleared the community of gamblers, harlots and vagrants.

Bodie, Mono County, was claimed to be the most wicked town on the Pacific Coast. About every other house was either a saloon or a vice den, six faro banks were running night and day, and there was not a church. One thing it boasted of was that no man had ever committed wife murder there.

The Greenback party had a convention in San Francisco July 21 and nominated six electors and four congressmen. Singular to say, no county other than San Francisco sent delegates.

July 14 began a hot spell, which lasted for ten days. In the interior valleys thermometers in many places registered above 110 degrees.

Carp were brought from the Danube River of Europe and planted in the navy yard reservoir at Vallejo, Solano County, this month.

A party of six anglers, fishing in Lake Independence July 4, caught 625 trout in six hours.

Samuel Walbridge came to California in the '50s, leaving a wife and two daughters in Michigan. During flush times he sent his wife $1,700 in gold dust. She invested in real estate, and became wealthy. Meeting with reverses, Walbridge in the '60s ceased writing his family and they lost trace of him. This month, however, the wife came West to find out what had become of him and, through the Society of California Pioneers in Sacramento, located him at Antioch, Contra Costa County. July 26 the reunited couple left for Michigan.

UNIQUE STAGE ROBBERY.

Captain Thomas Phillips, a '49er from Maryland who kept the Peoria House in Browns Valley, Yuba County, for many years and was well known in California North, died July 25.

James Dixon, who came to California with Stevenson's famous regiment in 1847, was fishing from an ice floe in Gold Lake, Sierra County.

E. L. Bradley, a Pioneer of Placer County who made a fortune mining at Dutch Flat, died at San Jose, Santa Clara County, July 17 from the effects of a cat bite. He represented Placer County in the State Legislature of the '60s.

Dr. Glenn, Colusa County's wheat baron, was harvesting a 47,000-acre grain field.

Ventura claimed to be the ideal oil county. It was producing coal, castor, linseed and olive oil in marketable quantities.

A strawberry was exhibited in Petaluma, Sonoma County, that was 9 3/4 inches in circumference.

Professor Clement, ex-superintendent Oakland, Alameda County, schools, July 4 was viewing the scenery from the top of a cliff in Hull's Valley, fourteen miles west of San Jose, Santa Clara County, when attacked from the rear by a buck. A tussle began, and both went over the cliff. When the professor regained consciousness he found he had a broken shoulder and that the buck was dead.

Three men stopped the stage from Fort Ross, Sonoma County, July 22, taking six mail sacks, but molesting neither the express box nor the passengers. It was considered a unique robbery.

Two masked men stopped the stage from Smartsville, Yuba County, July 26. Finding the express box could not be moved because fastened to the floor of the stage, they robbed a passenger of $50.

Sam Graves' stable and twelve valuable horses were burned at Santa Clara City July 17; loss, $10,000.

Fire at San Mateo City July 30 burned the Byrne block, causing a $20,000 loss.

Fire burned over a portion of the ranch of Peter Bain, near Roseville, Placer County. While Bain and his children were walking over the burned ground, the dress of a 4-year-old daughter caught fire and she was burned to death.

The engine of a thresher exploded near Modesto, Stanislaus County, July 24, killing the engineer, J. S. Dooly, and injuring eight other men.

Thomas Cuff was fatally crushed while descending, in a bucket, the shaft of the Washington mine at Hornitos, Mariposa County.

John Gibbons, popular stage driver, at Milton, Calaveras County, July 28, borrowed a revolver to shoot a dog that had bitten him. While loading the weapon he accidentally discharged it and was killed.

LAND DISPUTE ENDS IN MURDER.

A justice of the peace at Auburn, Placer County, sentencing an acquaintance convicted of battery, pertinently remarked: "Thompson, you are a damfool. If you ever get into a fight again I hope you will get your damned head knocked off and not come before me."

A dispute over land ownership on Eel River in Humboldt County led to the killing, July 3, of Frank Southard and John McCoy by Marsh Howard.

Two 12-year-old lads, Gardner and Fitch, were found dead along the roadside in Meudocino County July 12, having been shot through their heads. No cause for or the perpetrator of the crime could be found.

The Spring Valley hydraulic mine at Cherokee, Butte County, hired two boys, 12 and 15, to watch its flume line at night and prevent sluice robbing. July 19 they caught a recently arrived Portuguese in the act of robbing a sluice and killed him.

G. W. Smith, an ex-sheriff of Nevada County, had his property taken from him on a mortgage by T. W. Sigourney, a wealthy resident. July 26 they met, and after a wordy wrangle Smith shot and killed Sigourney.

Charging unprofessional conduct on the part of Dr. H. A. Summers, B. Beckley shot him to death at Walnut Grove, Sacramento County, July 17.

Edward Schroeder, teller of a San Francisco bank and son-in-law of Rev. Horatio Stebbins, July 24 went to the Oakland, Alameda County, office of Alfred LeFevre, a dentist, and shot him dead. Family troubles were said to be the cause of the tragedy. Owing to the social prominence of those involved, there was great excitement in the two cities.

Hiking to the Marysville Buttes was a popular pastime with the young men and women of Marysville, Yuba County.

Captain James B. Eads, prominent Federal Government engineer, came to California this month to survey the state's navigable rivers and to study flood conditions.

Andrew Harrington, fishing on San Lorenzo Creek, Alameda County, heard a racket on the hill above him. He arose and turned in time to have a fawn, being chased by two coyotes, jump into his arms for safety.

"Eighty Years of Progress" will be the theme for the annual California State Fair, to be held at Sacramento City during August and September.

Airport Bonds Sacramento City has voted $150,000 bonds for an airport.

INDIVIDUAL'S WEALTH SPENT FOR PLEASURE ALL THE PEOPLE.

Through the generosity of John D. Rockefeller Jr., Yosemite has been enriched by the addition of several thousand acres of privately-owned timber land both within and adjoining the park reserve.

The purchase price of the property, embracing some of the finest sugar and yellow pine stands of the region, was approximately $3,300,000 and was shared equally by Rockefeller and the Federal Government.

A teacher, giving the class a lecture on gravity, said: "Now children, it is the law of gravity that keeps us on this earth." "But," one small child inquired, "how did we stick on before that law was passed?"—Exchange.

"PLYMOUTH OF THE PACIFIC" TO MARK HISTORIC SPOTS

George H. White

(SAN DIEGO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.)

MARKING OF HISTORICAL SPOTS IN and around San Diego, sometimes referred to as the "Plymouth of the Pacific," will soon be accomplished through co-operative efforts of the historical landmarks section of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce and the San Diego Historical Society. San Diego, and California in general, has been derelict as compared to Atlantic Coast communities in thus commemorating early history. "Better late than never" is a motto back of the belated movement, however, and it may serve to correct in a measure the more-or-less common out-of-state assumption that California began with the gold rush.

The markers, for instance, in their story of "on this spot" will go back to 1542 at Ballast Point as a Pacific Plymouth Rock and antedates the Chronologically, the landmarking will begin with that of Cabrillo's landing-place on the bay shore of Point Loma when he discovered San Diego Bay in 1542; the place is now known as Ballast Point. The spot where Viscaino disembarked in 1602 to make a survey of San Diego for Spanish settlement is second in point of time. Other points record highlights in mission days, establishment of the Mexican governor's capital, early American activities and United States Governmental succession represented chiefly by the Mexican War engagements at Fort Stockton and San Pasqual.

"THE SAN DIEGANS" ORGANIZE.

Recognizing the value of the recreational activities in the present scheme of living and the possibilities of building a greater and larger city through the use of these activities, a new organilatter three-quarters of a century. Twenty-seven locations, in addition to others already marked, have been determined upon for erection of monuments as soon as bronze plaques can be obtained for placement in concrete pedestals. This uniform style of marker has been adopted for the immediate purpose.

Restoration of old structures is intended to follow, in many instances. First and most important of the restorations is that of Mission San Diego de Alcalá, the first founded in California by the Franciscans, July 16, 1769, at the time of Spanish occupation. Restoration of the mission is mainly under direction of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West. Partial restorations have been made from time to time, and now a fund of $60,000 is practically completed for total restoration.

zation has been formed to specialize in this work as one of the major activities of the Chamber of Commerce. "The San Diegans" has been chosen as the designation of the group. While recreation will be stressed in the early part of their work, this will by no means be the sole objective of the organization. Among other early purposes it will foster also cultural, educational and social activities.

While some may believe that all this work is prejudicial to the industrial growth of a city, it only takes a little serious thinking to make one realize that the adding of recreational facilities will help rather than hinder our industries. A number of instances may be cited where factories were moved to new locations or branches established in cities principally because the employer saw that the employe would have plenty of opportunity of using his leisure time in healthful competitive recreation. Industry and recreation go hand in hand today and they will be more closely allied in the future as the five-day week becomes more popular.

Present manufacturing plants will benefit to a large degree through attracting and keeping larger numbers of visitors both during the summer and winter. The additional market that these visitors will provide is a factor that will help in the industrial future.

The main advantage of having industries in a community is that they give employment to the residents of that community. It is possible through recreation to give employment out of doors in the sunshine to large numbers of people. In addition, many more will be employed in satisfying the wants of those who play.

In and around San Diego lies one of the greatest recreational areas in the world. Nature has provided a marvelous variety of features, all of which combine to set apart this spot as the pleasure seekers' paradise. The blue Pacific, the matchless bays, the picturesque shoreline with its variety of sands and flats, rocks and cliffs, coves and caves, the mesa lands extending back a few miles to the foothills, the lakes, the mountains, the valleys, the desert, all present a natural setting without equal. The even-tempered climate, the sunshine, the cool breezes make this the land where man can really live.

Continuous variety is offered throughout the year. The boatman has the ocean, the bays and the lakes for his use, together with a wide variety of craft. The swimmer can indulge in his daily plunge the year 'round. The fisherman is likewise unhandicapped by the seasons. The hunter has plenty of opportunity to enjoy his sport by the lakes and in the mountains.

The outdoor enthusiast has a wealth of sports at hand. Facilities now exist for enjoying aquaplaning, archery, badminton, baseball, boating, fishing, croquet, football, flying, gliding, golf, hiking, horseback riding, horse shoe pitching, hunting, roque, rowing, sailing, soccer, shuffleboard, swimming, tennis, trap shooting, volley ball and all the so-called field sports. Bowling greens will soon be constructed at several locations, and a polo field is being built so these sports can be added to the list. While perfect courts, or a sufficient quantity of them, are not available at present in all these activities, the plans now being carried out will rectify that situation in a very few months.

The surroundings of these play areas are being studied with a view toward beautifying them. The spectator is also being given a great deal of consideration, and those things that add to his comfort and convenience will soon be provided. The professional sports are being developed very rapidly, giving their followers finer matches and better plants. The service men have at their stations recreational areas of all kinds, with a wide variety of entertainment.

NATIVES SPONSOR FOUR-FLAG PROGRAM AT HISTORIC OLD TOWN.

Old Town of San Diego was alive with memories June 14, when Flag Day was observed at a pretentious demonstration in the plaza. Under the auspices of San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. and San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W., a four-flag program was carried out. Deputy Grand President Albert V. Mayrhofer of the Native Sons directed the ceremonies, which were largely attended.

Tribute was paid the flags of Spain and of Mexico; the Bear Flag of the California Republic, now the official flag of the State of California; and then the Stars and Stripes, the Flag of the United States of America. As each emblem was hoisted to the flagpole top, the marine band played appropriate anthems.

Following an address of welcome by Deputy Grand President Mayrhofer, Mayor Harry C. Clark praised the people of Old Town and those interested in Flag Day. Councilman Edward H. Dowell was the main speaker, and he paid tribute to the Pioneers. Other speakers were Juan Bantista Campbell and Cave J. Coutts; the latter's mother made the first American Flag ever flown in Old Town. Louis Serrano, the oldest native San Diegan, was among those present. Following the ceremonies the many historic places of Old Town, "where California began," were visited.

San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. and San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W. presented California State (Bear) Flags to the Point Loma high school, the John Adams school, the Sherman school and the Logan Heights school, the presentations being made by Mabel Burgert and Deputy Grand President Albert V. Mayrhofer.

HOLLYHOCKS AND CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

Hollyhock rust is best controlled by watching carefully for appearance of the disease, and then pick off and burn the lower leaves as soon as they show signs of being affected.

Chrysanthemums should be pruned at once, if they already have not been pinched back. Otherwise, they will bloom before blossoms are wanted. This pinching out should not continue later than the middle of July, or blossoming may be delayed too long.

Nurserymen to Meet—The Pacific Coast Association of Nurserymen will have its twenty-eighth annual convention at San Francisco, July 8 to 11.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

NOW THAT SUMMER FASHIONS FOR beach and sea have been launched, it is interesting to observe the popularity of a great many different models. This season the same types appear up and down the avenue. Included among the favorites, one finds the beach coat of polka-dot pique lined with terry cloth. The robe of terry cloth endorses sectional stripes, exceptionally wide sleeves and a casual belted full-cut monotone jersey cape.

Beach lounging suits are most prevalent in tailored boyish styles. Two-piece tuck-in pajama suits are made of linen, and the short-sleeved, mannish, collared tuck-in blouse contrasts in color with the wide trousers.

Striped linen sailor trousers are worn with sleeveless sweaters in white, with horizontal stripes of bright colors. One model is coupled with white trousers in jersey, flannel or duck.

A colorless one-piece mechanic suit is backless and has overalls in shantung or linen. Pajama suits have jackets hand blocked in eastern designs. The pique suits are seen most often in white and black, and are accompanied by a parasol with radiating stripes. Bathing suits are important in the one-piece shorts version.

Two-piece suits have contrasting piping on the top, to suggest a bolero line at the front. Silk crepe two-piece suits are copied from tennis frocks, with wide tucks, high at each side. The suits are composed of one piece and shorts. The latter is finished with a sash, instead of a belt. A jersey bow-trimmed shirt has contrasting colored moire shorts. The shirt is the backless, bracelet strap model.

In choosing clothes for traveling comfort, practicability and smartness are of equal importance. One must look dressed for the occasion, with close-fitting hats, shoes of the walking type and long coats.

Longer coats for travel have come into their own, a necessity for keeping off dust and dirt and for extra warmth in changing climates. Beige tweed is most favored.

Comfortable slip-on types of washable gloves are worn, and the absence of any jewelry is noticed, since travel by air has become so popular that some people think nothing at all of trips when occasion demands, either for business or pleasure.

Clothes for these occasions have come to be as important as those for other occasions. One needs to remember only the points mentioned for traveling anywhere by train, motor or steamer, for, after all, every woman of taste wants to look smart and feel comfortable.

Do not take too many things when traveling. After deciding where and when you are going, make a list of the things you will need. For the steamer, include deck clothes, which means sports clothes and evening things. If by train, a suit is the thing. If by motor, a coat and dress. Include, of course, the right accessories.

The new sports clothes, like the mode itself, show a change. They are less severe. Skirts are longer and waist lines are at normal. There are some circular and bias cuts in sports frocks and skirts, but usually they are straight with plaits.

The beret is very comfortable for sports, and when worn in a perky manner is really youthful in effect.

Mesh hosiery has completely captured the sports hose field, but if the colorful patterns have been deserted, this loss is amply made up with the new shades provided. Tweed and heather mixtures are chiefly featured in the new lines. Mesh constructions have also entered the angora styles. The clock offers some variations to plain tweeds in lisle silk and wool.

Everyone has talked about the fabric handbag being the popular type for summer resort and town use, yet the tailored leather bag in calf or pinseal has remained a great favorite when the medium-size bag is to be selected. This is usually a back-strap version, and includes both the envelope shape and the supple pouche. Often two colors of leather are combined with a metal chain handle or gilt ornament of some sort.

There is some difference of opinion as to the status of the black patent leather bag the younger set has carried, but nevertheless this bag does not represent the height of fashion. Calf and pinseal, in brown, navy and black, are high lights of what is being most used.

We are now style conscious of our intimate apparel. We have types for sportswear, daytime and formal evening wear. Previously the average woman bought either tailored or lacy lingerie and wore this morning, noon and night.

The suit petticoats are being offered, among them the wrap-around with fitted waist-band. What could be cooler for summer lingerie than the flowered patterns on water green or white?

Pastel shades will dominate knitted fashions at all smart events this summer. Natural straws will be worn with the smartest clothes at the most exclusive resorts.

Unlined coats come in yellow tweed, to slip on

DIET FOR YOUR DOG.

Dr. W. J. Ross, one of America's leading veterinarians, points out that foods for dogs and cats should be prepared by a qualified, experienced veterinarian who knows just what a dog or cat should and should not eat, and how much it should eat. As good health in humans depends so much on diet, it is even more important with dogs and cats. They really require greater care in the matter of diet than do humans. That is why the day of feeding scraps from the table, etc., is gone.

All owners and lovers of dogs and cats like to see them with a shiny, glossy coat, bright eyes, and in fine, vigorous health. Care in feeding does just this, and no food that contains starchy, gummy rice or barley, or harmful meat bleaches should ever be fed. Whenever you see light, pinky meat in cans, rest assured that it has been treated with saltpetre or other harmful bleaches. Would you continue for yourself a regular meat diet treated in this way? Of course you wouldn't. Then do not feed such food to your pets.

Food, in sterilized vacuum-filled cans, made of choice lean meat, shredded wheat, bran, polenta, all the vitamins, all the necessary natural organic salts, pure Norwegian cod liver oil, vegetables, Manamar, can now be purchased at so reasonable a price that it is by far the most economical and satisfactory form of feeding. Such a food can be obtained on the market, and in one can of good dog food you get, for a small price, all the necessary foods, etc., in a highly concentrated form.

JUST FOR ME

(JEANETTE NORLAND.)

I like to think that all the beautiful sights,
Revealed in flowering field and budding tree;
The far-flung vista of the countryside,
With all its charms, was made—for me to see.

The glowing colors in the blushing rose—
The modest violet blooming in the lea;
The gorgeous tulips, and the lilacs sweet,
All fill the air with fragrance—just for me.

The solemn beauty of the midnight skies,
Studded with lights from worlds one cannot see
And the daylight castles in the azure blue,
The Master Artist painted—just for me.

God makes His world bloom with beauties rare,
In field and forest, mountain, plain and sea.
No one can rob me of these precious gifts;
They're presents which my Master—GIVES to me!

FEED THE GARDEN.

Many persons depend upon their gardens for a considerable portion of their vegetables, and in some cases fruit. Consequently, when yields decrease they are greatly disappointed and lay the blame at the door of almost any or all causes that can be imagined. Usually, it is the depletion of plant food in the soil. Cropped year after year with nothing returned, any soil must be exhausted; the garden is no exception.

The remedy, of course, is fertilization. Commercial fertilizers, applied to remedy some particular deficiency where it is known, or the so-called complete fertilizers where it is not, may save the crop and restore the vigor of growing plants. Then, next winter, see that some organic fertilizer is turned under. This may be barnyard or poultry manure, or from a compost pit or pile that is accumulated during the growing season. The cost or fertilization is small, compared to the increase in returns that results.

Fruit Crop—California's 1930 crop of exceptionally fine deciduous fruit is expected to reach 1,585,000 tons, according to the June 10 estimate of the California Co-operative Crop Reporting Service.

SAN PEDRO THE GREAT

HARBOR of the GRE AT SOUTHWEST

NATIVES PLAN NEW HOME

THE ARCHITECTURE OF CALIFORNIA'S missions is suggested in plans for a proposed new home for Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W. at San Pedro. Finance and building committees of the Parlor are now at work, with hopes for erecting the structure in the near future.

Two large adjoining lots, facing the Pacific Ocean and Santa Catalina Island, were recently presented to San Pedro Native Sons by Ramon pared the plans for the proposed building. The tower is styled after Santa Barbara Mission, while the roof and colonnade suggest San Juan Capistrano. Within the building will be a large lodge room, a secretary's office, a committee room, an archive for the safekeeping of historic records and articles, and a kitchen. A tiled patio, with set-in palms and a large space for barbecues, will be in the rear.

James W. Mee heads the finance committee of Sepulveda Parlor, while C. Roy Butterfield is PROPOSED NEW HOME FOR SAN PEDRO NATIVE SONS.

D. Sepulveda, first senior past president and the man for whom the Parlor was named. They are located on a broad highway extending from historic Point Fermin to White Point.

William F. Durr, San Pedro architect and a past president of Sepulveda Parlor, has prepared the plans for the proposed building. The tower is styled after Santa Barbara Mission, while the roof and colonnade suggest San Juan Capistrano. Within the building will be a large lodge room, a secretary's office, a committee room, an archive for the safekeeping of historic records and articles, and a kitchen. A tiled patio, with set-in palms and a large space for barbecues, will be in the rear.

NATIVE DAUGHTER HONORED.

Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W. elected officers June 6, Mary A. Dever being re-elected as president. The weekly card parties being given by Mrs. E. J. Kreider at her home for the benefit of the Loyalty Pledge are proving great successes, both socially and financially. Bridge is the attraction, trophies are awarded and refreshments are served.

Because of the americanization work she is doing in the San Pedro public schools, Mrs. Mildred Obarr Walizer, principal of the East San Pedro school and a member of Rudecinda Parlor, was honored by the community with a trip to the Orient. Her two months' itinerary includes all the scenic spots of Japan and Korea. She will return late in July.

Judge William H. Savage, who passed away May 25, was the father of Past Presidents Katherine A. Dodson and Margaret Dever, and the grandfather of President Mary A. Dever of Rudecinda. He came to California in 1866 to fight Indians, and claimed the distinction of being the oldest surviving veteran of the United States Marine Corps as well as the oldest member of the California Bar Association.

CALIFORNIA'S N. S. SENATOR ASKS RESTRICTION MEXI IMMIGRATION.

Urging restriction of Mexican immigration, Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California addressed the United States Senate, in part as follows:

"In order that senators may understand something of the seriousness of the situation, let me say to them that the vital statistics of the State of California, which have been released but a short time ago, show that one-sixth of the births in California are Mexicans. It seems incredible, because there is no such proportion of Mexicans to the whole population in that state, and there is no such proportion in any of the states, I take it, of Mexican population.

"The controversy has grown acute in the West between those who insist upon the necessity for Mexican labor and those who deny that necessity and desire restriction of immigration. On the one side are the big interests, the farming and agricultural organizations, the chambers of commerce and the like begging and pleading that we pass no bill at all. On the other side are the representatives of labor, social workers and others asking that we enact legislation controlling and restricting Mexican immigration.

"The Mexican penetration, in regard to its inroads on labor, can be best demonstrated by saying to you that on the railroads that run into Chicago—I am not speaking now of those that are out at the coast—on the railroads running into Chicago, more than 50 percent of the labor is Mexican. I mean by that actual labor on the track and the like. That indicates to you the penetration of Mexican labor. They have penetrated into the mills in Indiana; they have penetrated into the mills in all of the territory in the North at the present time."

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR CANDIDATE HAS ONE GROUP VOTES "SEWED UP."

Influential men and women throughout the state have pledged their support to the campaign of former Senator Harry A. Chamberlin for Lieutenant-Governor, but most loyal of all, perhaps, is that of the three generations of native Californians from his own family circle who will be boosting for him when campaign days are forgotten.

They are his mother, Mrs. Emma M. Chamberlin, born in San Francisco; his wife, the former Miss Gertrude Robertson, born in Ventura; his brother, Floyd, born in Fresno; his mother-in-law, Mrs. Emeline Robertson, born in San Bernardino; his daughter, Anne, born in Los Angeles, and his son, Harry A. Chamberlin Jr., born in Los Angeles.

Senator Chamberlin himself is a native Californian, having been born in Fresno, and he is a member of Ramona Parlor No. 109 Native Sons of the Golden West. Senator Chamberlin is a Republican and has served his mother state for fourteen consecutive years as a member of the Legislature. He was in the Assembly for two years and was a member of the Senate for twelve consecutive years.

But whether he be campaigning for the Senate or the Lieutenant-Governorship, Senator Chamberlin finds warm satisfaction in one unalterable fact. It is the knowledge that, in the parlance of the world of politics, he has one group of votes "all sewed up," and that no other candidate, however worthy, can ever take them from him. They are the votes of his mother, brother, wife, son and daughter—when the two latter reach the voting age.

PILGRIMAGE PLAY HAS SUPPORT ART LOVERS

(RAY DAVIDSON.)
THE PILGRIMAGE PLAY, HOUSED IN A reconstructed amphitheater in the Hollywood hills, again this summer will turn the eyes of drama and art lovers of the nation to Los Angeles, the American Oberammergau. Visitors from many distant places are expected to attend the performances of this famous biblical play, the eleventh annual season of which will open about August 1.

A more beautiful play than ever, both in respect to stage setting and presentation of characters, is promised this year. The open-air theater, built on larger and improved lines on the site that was swept by a brush fire last October, combines all that modern art has achieved with the beauty and realism of the architecture of 2,000 years ago. Expert landscaping, too, has increased the color effects of the slopes that form the background to the natural stage. The more than 100 players, who are being selected from approximately 1,000 professional and amateur actors, will form a cast which, as a whole, will be stronger than any of the notable casts that heretofore have presented the story of the Savior's life on earth, the sponsors declare.

How determined were the art lovers of Los Angeles and other California South communities that there should be no interruption in the seasonal productions of the Pilgrimage Play is seen in the fact that approximately $200,000 was raised in a short time by popular subscription to rebuild the destroyed theater. At the present time, about eight months after the playhouse fell victim of the flames that swept the hillside canyon, the new amphitheater is nearing completion and the regular opening of the annual season will be but little delayed.

Designed by William Lee Woollett, Los Angeles architect, who has been responsible for a number of the southland's outstanding buildings, the new Pilgrimage Play theater is of fire-proof concrete construction, planned to endure as long as the hills on which it is built. Certain minor objections in the old theater have been corrected, and sounds of music from Hollywood Bowl and noises from streets below are eliminated by a high back wall and the planting of trees. The structure is palestinian in design, and biblical and historical features are combined with the charm of the canyon in which the amphitheater sits. A system of heating has been installed for use on cool evenings, and elevators will carry visitors from the street to the floor of the theater.

The Pilgrimage Play was founded eleven years ago by the late Christine Wetherill Stevenson. Since then it has gained continent-wide fame and by many persons who have witnessed both it and the famous Passion Play is considered superior both as drama and spectacle to the Oberammergau performance. The latter is now being given its decennial production in Bavaria and it will be interesting to learn the comments of Americans who attend and who later see the Pilgrimage Play in Hollywood.

"So far as spectacle is concerned," the writer was told by a critic who saw the Oberammergau play and last year witnessed also the Pilgrimage Play, "the Passion Play, being performed in the daytime and the action extending over eight or nine hours, is necessarily devoid of the wondrous color effects of the Pilgrimage Play. The drama has little to attract visitors but the traditional fame of the play given by the Bavarian villagers. The Pilgrimage Play, moreover, is acted by competent players, men and women trained for the stage, whereas the actors in the Passion Play are amateurs, whose patient sincerity may command admiration, but whose in-expert efforts often fail of dramatic intensity."

Actors of world-wide fame have been numbered in the casts of the several performances of the Pilgrimage Play. For the last three seasons Ian Maclaren, noted English actor, but who for many years has made his home in America, has taken the part of the Christus and it is believed likely he will appear in that role during the approaching season. Mary Forbes, also well-known English actress, but who likewise has become an American, has portrayed the Magdelene for a number of seasons. William Raymond and Mary Worth are other well-known stage figures who have had parts in the play.

So keen has become the desire to be in the Pilgrimage Play cast that each year a thousand or so aspirants for various roles have had interviews with the director. Although there are only about one hundred characters in the drama, selection of the "crowd" figures—women of Jerusalem and Sumatra, wise men, soldiers and townfolk—is regarded as almost as important as choosing for the principal parts. Even if a character has only a few lines to speak, they are lines fraught with a vast significance and if the speaking and the acting are not real, the audience refuses to accept them.

Because of experience gained in the past and the great number of professional and amateur players from whom selections are possible, it is stated that a cast now is being selected that is outstanding above any that has presented the play in previous seasons. A requirement made of all who have prominent parts in the Pilgrimage Play is that they make exhaustive study of the characters in the Bible story whom they portray on the stage. Few even among the deepest Bible students, it is said, give to this study of individuals the time and research required of the Pilgrimage Play actors. Bible students, concerned mostly with the spiritual appeal, pay small attention to the physical attributes of Christ, of the Mary Mother and of the disciples. Yet the players in the Pilgrimage Play must depict the characters they play in a physical way. To be able to do so they not only have to read closely the Bible narrative—which tells not a great deal about what these figures were like physically—but also a vast mass of old legends and other contemporary writings.

A result of this study, it is pointed out, is that persons who attend performances of the Pilgrimage Play obtain a better idea of the Bible characters and of Bible times than could be gained by them in long months of reading. Costuming of the play has been given the same thorough attention and all of the garments worn by the players on the stage are either direct importations from Palestine or are exact copies of imported originals.

FOREST FIRE ESSAY WINNER.

Miss California Young, a 17-year-old San Francisco high school student, has been adjudged the winner of the forest fire essay contest conducted throughout the state to further the saving of California's national timber resources and watersheds.

More than 11,000 essays on the subject "What Will I Do To Help Prevent Forest Fires," written by California school children, were submitted.

FAITH KEPT WITH THE WAR SACRIFICERS

(CHARLES R. BODEN, Pacific Parlor N.S.G.W.)

"If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields."

THE NATIVE SONS AND THE NATIVE Daughters of San Francisco have kept the faith with the thirty-nine Native Sons of the San Francisco Bay metropolis who did not come home from the world war.

Commemorating the sacrifice of these natives of California who gave "the last full measure of devotion," the grand officers and the members of both Orders joined with thousands of other citizens the afternoon of Sunday, June 1, to dedicate the Gold Star Doughboy monument in Redwood Memorial Grove, Golden Gate Park.

THE DOUGHBOY MONUMENT

After the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," the pledge of allegiance by the Boy Scouts of America, and an invocation by Chaplain George F. Rixey of the Thirtieth Infantry, Mrs. William H. Army, president of the N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Grove of Memory Association, thanked M. Earl Cummings, the sculptor and a member of the Park Commission, for his fine work, and also felicitated the veteran John Laren, superintendent of San Francisco's park system, for his co-operation. Congratulations were also extended Bertha Mauser of the Native Daughters, treasurer of the association, for conceiving the idea of the Doughboy monument in the Grove of Memory.

Splendid eulogies were delivered by Miss Esther R. Sullivan, Grand President N.D.G.W., and John T. Newell, Grand President N.S.G.W. This was the first public appearance of the latter following his installation at the Merced Grand Parlor, and he was warmly congratulated on all sides after his fine address.

Prior to the unveiling, the monument was dedicated with a beautiful Native Son ritual prepared especially for the occasion and rendered by Grand President Newell, Grand First Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Secretary John T. Regan and Grand Third Vice-president Justice Emmet Seawell. Present also were Grand Treasurer John M. Corotto, Grand Marshal Joseph Clavo, Grand Outside Sentinel Bernard O'Brien, Past Grand Presidents Charles L. Dodge, Fletcher A. Cutler and Lewis F. Byington, Grand Trustees Charles A. Koenig, Samuel M. Shortridge Jr. and Joseph J. McShane.

After the calling of the roll of the thirty-nine San Francisco members of the Order of Native Sons who died in the late war, the monument was unveiled by Mrs. Army's young son, Billy. The presentation of the statue was made by Mrs. Army and officially accepted for the City and County of San Francisco by Mayor James Rolph Jr., who lauded the patriotism of California during the late war and praised the Native Sons for their steadfast devotion to country.

Following tributes by speakers from the Boy Scouts and the American Legion, the address of the day was delivered by Lewis F. Byington, Past Grand President N.S.G.W. Recognized as one of the outstanding orators of the Order, he excelled himself on this occasion, and his tribute to the boys of the Order and to all the hero dead of the nation was touching in the extreme. As he concluded, a firing squad from the Thirtieth Infantry fired three rounds over the Doughboy monument. From three distant parts of the grove, in rotation, came the sweet sound of "Taps," and one could almost hear the words of Sergeant Joyce Kilmer, himself killed in France, keeping time with the bugle calls:

"Go to sleep!
Go to sleep!
Slumber well where the shell screamed and fell.
Let your rifles rest on the muddy floor,
You will not need them any more.
Danger's past;
Now at last,
Go to sleep!"

COMMITTEES NAMED TO ARRANGE FOR ADMISSION DAY CELEBRATION.

At a meeting of the San Francisco N.S.G.W. Extension of the Order Committee June 6, the following officers were elected: Caspar P. Hare (Niantic No. 105), chairman; P. L. Schlesinger (Balhoa No. 234), vice-chairman; Harold J. Regan (South San Francisco No. 157), secretary; Grand Trustee Charles A. Koenig (Golden Gate No. 29), treasurer; Fred Kracke (Golden Gate No. 29), sergeant-at-arms. Chairman Hare appointed the following standing committees:

Finance—Joseph Rose (Marshall No. 202), Harry W. Gaetjen (Golden Gate No. 29), Grand Secretary John T. Regan (South San Francisco

AT NATIVE DAUGHTER BREAKFAST.

The Sunday morning breakfast at the Native Daughter Home June 15 was largely attended, chiefly by out-of-town members of the Order enroute to the Oakland Grand Parlor. Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer presided, Past Grand President Dr. Louise C. Heilbron delivered the invocation, Past Grand President Dr. Mariana Bertola told of the progress made by the Home Committee, and Past Grand President Sue J. Irwin assisted in the arrangement of the program. Musical numbers were furnished by a group from Berkeley Parlor No. 150.

A room was dedicated by San Diego Parlor No. 208, and Californiana Parlor No. 247 (Los Angeles) followed with the dedication of a room in honor of Past Grand President Stoermer. Berkeley Parlor presented a handsome candelabra in honor of Past Grand President Irwin, and Annie K. Bidwell Parlor No. 168 (Chico) presented a framed picture of the famous Hooker oak. Mrs. Amanda Schneidewind of Palo Alto gave a personal donation of $300 with which to purchase needed articles for the Home, and Hazel Heyl of Marysville Parlor No. 162 pledged a grand piano in memory of her sister, Viola Heyl, organizer of that Parlor. R. Thaler, Zita Ferris of Aloha Parlor No. 106 (Oakland) pledged a coffee urn.

On this occasion, too, Alturas Parlor No. 159 presented and dedicated an electric grato. In tendering the "gift of fire" a delegation from the Parlor, in Indian costumes, carried out an ancient Modoc tribal ceremonial, and Fanny Laird sang an Indian love song. The following legendary poem, written especially for the occasion and entitled "Modoc's Gift of Fire," was Grand Trustee Irma Laird's dedicatory address:

In the Land of the warlike Modocs
When our sturdy Pioneer sires
Enriched the soil with their life blood
Bound to savage funeral pyres,

The Sun God rebuked the Modocs
For this use of a sacred light,
And forth from the distant heavens
Shot a bolt of lightning bright.

It lit up the mighty forest
With a roar of angry flame,
And swept from the Land of the Modocs
The harvests and the game.

And lo! from the lofty mountains
Poured a molten lava flow,
'Till all the land was radiant
With a gleaming deadly glow.

To appease the Sun God's anger
The tawny chieftains swore,
No more would savage war-cry
Resound as in days of yore.

In answer to their pleading
There fell the gentle rain,
Subduing the roaring fires
On mountain, vale and plain.

And the Sun God spoke, "Oh chieftains,
If you'd use my gift aright,
Your torch would light but the wigwam
To guide there the stranger at night."

Here's a home for the White and the Red Man
And each I would put to the test,
To cultivate Faith, Love and Friendship
In this Land of the Golden West."

So now, in the "Land of the Strangers"
The beat of the tom-toms cease,
And the Indians and the White Men
'Round the lodge fires smoke in peace.

Once more the land is fruitful,
Great forests abound in game,
And the fires of eternal friendship
Burn on with a golden flame.

We have brought from our Modoc teepees
This Gift of Fire to you,
May it light your Council Chambers
With the warmth of its flaming hue.

May only the light of Friendship,
Faith and Love 'round these Lodge Rooms play,
To brighten the heart of each Native
Who through these portals may stray.

FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED.

South San Francisco Parlor No. 157 N.S.G.W. celebrated the fortieth anniversary of its institution with a banquet June 14, attended by three hundred. In addition to an appetizing feast, a splendid program was enjoyed. President Lloyd J. Doering extended the Parlor's welcome and then presented the toastmaster of the evening, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, who introduced the guests, grand officers, charter members of No. 157 and others. Addresses were delivered by the following:

"The Order Forty Years Ago," Past Grand President William H. Miller, who instituted South San Francisco; "The Order Today," Grand President John T. Newell; "Reminiscences," Daniel D. Harrington, the first recording secretary of the Parlor and filled the position for seventeen years; "The Flag," Past Grand President Lewis F. Byington; "South San Francisco Parlor No. 157, Its Accomplishments and Future Prospects," Past Grand President William P. Cauhu; "My Advancement from a Vaquero," Past Grand President Clarence E. Jarvis, originally a charter member of No. 157 hut now affiliated with Amador Parlor No. 17 (Sutter Creek). Through the generosity of Charter Members Louis Nonnenmann and Fred Equires Sr., entertainment was furnished by Earl Eher.

MRS. LEANA CHARITY DONNER-APP, native of Illinois, 95; as a member of the Reed-Donner Party overtaken by tragedy on the shores of Donner Lake, Nevada County, came across the plain to California in 1846; died at Jamestown, Tuolumne County, survived by three children. She was a daughter of George Donner, elected captain of the party enroute to the Land of Gold, and for seventy-eight years had resided in Tuolumne County. She was an honorary member of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West and her remains were escorted to their final resting place by delegations from Dardanelle No. 66 (Sonora) Oakdale No. 125 (Oakdale) and Anona No. 164 (Jamestown) Parlor N.D.G.W.

Mrs. Mary E. Dixon, native of Missouri, 91; came across the plains with her parents, the late John and Rebecca McCracken, in 1846 and most of the time since resided in Sonoma County; died at Cloverdale, survived by three children. The McCracken family were originally members of the Reed-Donner Party, but took the Hastings Cutoff and arrived safely at Sutter Fort (Sacramento), where the father enlisted with the Americans against Mexico, the family being cared for at the fort by General John A. Sutter while he was in service.

Mrs. Martha J. Nidever, native of Texas, 80; came in 1850 and settled in Santa Barbara County; died at Serena, survived by eight children.

Mrs. Nancy P. Parlin, native of Illinois, 89; came across the plains in 1852 and for several years resided in San Joaquin County; died at Los Angeles City, survived by three children.

Henry W. Walsh, native of New York, 81; came via the Isthmus of Panama in 1853 and settled in San Joaquin County; died at Stockton, survived by six children.

Mrs. Helen Catherine Supan-Jones, native of Missouri, 76; came across the plains in 1853 and resided in Humboldt and Tehama Counties; died at Red Bluff, survived by three children.

Walter P. Hunt, native of New York, 98; came in 1854; died at Redlands, San Bernardino County, survived by a wife.

Mrs. Emily W. Davis, native of Illinois, 80; came in 1854; died at Pasadena, Los Angeles County, survived by three daughters.

Jesus Feliz, native of Spain, 85; came in 1855; died at Willows, Glenn County, survived by two daughters.

Mrs. Emma Triplett, native of Utah; came across the plains in 1856 and resided in El Dorado and Sacramento Counties; died at Sacramento City, survived by three children.

Millard Fillmore Black, native of Missouri, 73; since 1857 a resident of Tehama County; died at Red Bluff, survived by a son.

Mrs. Adeline Siehe, native of Germany, 90; came in 1858; died at Oakland, Alameda County, survived by two daughters.

Daniel Penman, native of Scotland; since 1859 a resident of Los Angeles County; died at Beverly Hills, survived by a wife and a daughter.

Mrs. Johanna Demartini, native of Italy, 103; since 1859 a resident of Calaveras County; died at Angels camp, survived by five children.

Charles G. Strong, native of Michigan, 90; came in 1852 and resided in San Mateo and Humboldt Counties; died at Eureka, survived by a daughter.

Mrs. Mary J. Sammons, native of France, 81; came in 1855 and resided in Trinity and Humboldt Counties; died at Arcata, her home since 1866, survived by five children.

Henry L. L. Knight, native of Missouri, 80; came in 1859; died at Nevada City, Nevada County.

Dwight Horton, native of Michigan, 80; came in 1859; died at Gridley, Butte County, survived by a wife and two daughters.

ENTERTAINS MOTHERS.

Castro Parlor No. 178 N.D.G.W. entertained forty mothers in honor of Mother's Day. President Vera Glander welcomed the guests with a fitting recitation and presented each with a beautiful corsage. A program of songs, specialty dancing and recitations followed, the hit of the evening being a playette, "Echoes of School Days," by the Parlor's drill team. Delicious refreshments, served at heartily decorated tables, concluded the delightful evening.

Decoration Day a committee headed by Margaret Griffith visited the graves of twelve departed members of the Parlor and decorated them with flags and flowers.

A BIT O' FARMING

PREPARED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY M. H. ELLIS

FARMING NO LONGER IS THE SIMPLE operation it used to be in the early days of the nation. Then the farmer planted, cultivated and harvested. He raised most of his living, and sold his surplus to make the rest of it. When his land showed signs of wear, he sold out, taking a profit on his land. He moved West, got more land for nothing, and repeated the process. Now he is as far West as he can go. There is no more free land. The farming operations have become complicated. Competition within and without has made for small profits. Increasing numbers of pests and diseases have been introduced. Fertilization is an indispensable part of the agricultural program.

So now the farmer must be a specialist in the crops he grows; he must know something of the diseases and insects against which he must contend; he must be an engineer to run and repair his tractors, implements and electrical equipment; he must study his production and marketing problems with a knowledge of the economics involved.

Indeed, the latest step in agricultural development is the economic phase. And now, in California at least, increasing numbers of farmers are studying their costs and keeping close figures on their production expenses. They must know where they are spending money and which crops are not paying; further, they must know which crops are not likely to pay in the future. Thus armed, they must next arrange to supplant these with some which are likely to pay.

And until the consumption of agricultural products, through increasing population of the world, outstrips production, the farmer is going to have to be more and more alert to these economic phases of his problem.

SUBSTITUTE FOR ALFALFA.

In many districts alfalfa has been rendered an unprofitable hay crop through the attacks of disease, rising water table, or some other cause. Farmers, particularly dairymen, who are depending upon their fields to produce hay crops, have been sorely vexed at the diminishing yields. Apparently, the answer is vetch and oats, the variety of vetch depending upon the locality.

In nearly every instance where the substitute has been tried, the yield has been as good or perhaps better. Of course there are disadvantages; the vetch and hay must be planted every year and must be augmented by cottonseed meal for protein. On the other hand, one haying operation supplants three or four, and the land is available for a summer crop after the hay has been taken off; a silage annual if more feed is desired. Many who have tried the substitute say they would not go back to alfalfa even if their fields would produce it.

TO TELL SEX OF CHICKS.

Determined to obviate the cost of raising chicks to six weeks of age to tell their sex, a Yuba County high school boy, Harold Shingle, has solved the problem by crossing White Leghorns with Australorps. When hatched, the male chicks are solid white; the females are speckled. If both Leghorns and Australorps are from high producing strains, there is little reason why the resulting pullets should not be profitable. It is a plan that has proved profitable, and should be worth a trial, at least on a small scale.

FEED AND FLEECE.

Sheep well fed will have longer, heavier fleeces of better quality than those on a deficiency ration. This has long been held by many progressive wool growers of the state, and now Prof. J. F. Wilson of the University of California announces results of an experiment that prove the theory conclusively. The same sheep were fed with different rations under the same conditions and in the same seasons of the year. In one pen, 343 pounds more of wool was produced on a fattening ration than on one that barely maintained the animals. It appears that money spent for feed is returned with interest when the wool is harvested.

PUNCTURE VINE AS FEED.

Puncture vine in hay adds nothing to its quality as feed; on the other hand, the presence of this pest in hay does not make it unfit for feed. Tests have shown it does not harm the animals to which it is fed. Consequently, while it is not to be recommended as a feed, it may be safely fed. This must not be taken to mean that the puncture vine is any less of a pest than ever before, or that less diligence should be used in its eradication. It is one of the most dangerous weeds in the state and efforts toward extermination should not be abated.

GET GROUND SQUIRRELS.

With the drying up of vegetation throughout the state as summer advances, the ground squirrels must turn to other sources for their subsistence. Usually it is a field crop, orchard or other cultivated crop. A little help to them in obtaining their feed will hasten eradication, provided the feed is properly poisoned. Poisoned barley may be obtained already prepared from local dealers. Scatter it along their runs and the squirrel population will be materially decreased. No use to try to fight them with gas when the ground is as dry as now. The present remedy is poison; augment it this winter with carbon bisulphide, if any are missed in the poison campaign.

CONCRETE POULTRY RUNS.

With land in some poultry sections becoming more valuable, and the necessity of two runs for each pen because of the contamination of the soil, more and more poultrymen are turning to concrete yards. These should be of at least the same size as the area within the house, should be finished with a smooth surface to allow of easier cleaning, should have enough slope to permit good drainage and easy cleaning, and should be as much in the sunlight as possible. Disease can be more easily prevented and in the winter time the yards can be used more freely by the hens, with consequent improvement to the health of the birds.

CONTROLLING CABBAGE WORM.

While young cabbage plants may be protected against the cabbage worm by the use of one pound of arsenate of lead in 50 gallons of water, used as a spray, danger of poisoning precludes its use after the heads are formed. If the worms persist after the heads are well shaped, use a pint of Blackleaf 40, five pounds of whale oil soap and 100 gallons of water for spraying. Nicodust, liberally applied, also is likely to give good control. The cabbage worm is the larva of a white butterfly with dark spotted wings; it is about an inch long; a green, velvety worm.

CLEAN UP TUBERCULOSIS.

There never was a better time than right now to clean up a dairy herd. Cows that react when tested, should be sent to the butcher at once. Some dairymen are waiting until the next Legislature acts to appropriate money for condemned cows. If it does, the dairyman gets but three-fourths the appraised value of the cow, less the salvage received for the animal when it is sold for slaughter. Grades cannot bring more than $100 or purebreds $200. By the time those funds are made available, the market may be broken; it is showing a downward tendency now. Consequently the dairyman is likely to get more money now than if he waits.

TO KILL TENT CATERPILLARS.

The standard control for tent caterpillars is powdered arsenate of lead, two pounds to 100 gallons of water, sprayed thoroughly on the trees infested. If the caterpillars are a third or half grown, double the strength of the spray. Indications are that the infestation this year may be heavy, and action should be prompt when the appearance of the pest is noted in fruit or shade trees. Apple and pear trees, sprayed with arsenate of lead for codling moth, are not likely to be attacked, but prunes, cherries and peaches may not escape so easily.

TO GET THE CHERRY SLUG.

The cherry slug is an orchard visitor that seldom fails to make appearance each year, unless control measures are strict. Where arsenate of lead, four pounds to 100 gallons of water, is used as a preventive, there is little likelihood of the cherry slug appearing. This also is a pretty effective cure after the slug appears. A cheaper and just as effective a method is dusting the trees with any sort of dust, hydrated lime, gypsum or nicotine. The last named will control aphids as well. Wood ashes or dry, dusty soil would do the trick if the trees can be reached effectively; it is very efficacious in the case of young trees. The cherry slug is a small, slimy, worm-like pest that eats the green tissue from the leaves, leaving only skeletons. It also is known as the pear slug, as it works on pears as well as cherries. Usually the arsenate sprays for codling moths on pears prevent a serious infestation of slugs.

PINCHING BACK GRAPE VINES.

It is a mistaken idea to think that the size of the trunk of a grape vine, or its root system, can be increased by pinching back the shoots during the growing season. Any wholesale removal of foliage must weaken the vine, as the leaves manufacture food from the raw materials sent up from the roots. So curtailing the growth of the shoots must of necessity impair the vigor of the vine. Don't pinch back, save to permit the passage of cultivation tools.

THE SQUASH BUG.

On squashes, cantaloupes, cucumbers and other similar vines there often appear numbers of shield shaped hugs of rather good size. They are squash bugs, and they are capable of doing a lot of damage. Cyanide dust, 50 percent or even stronger, is the best means of ridding the vines of this pest. Blackleaf 40 and whale oil soap, used until recently to combat this insect, will not give as good a kill as the cyanide. Be sure the dust is applied when the plants are entirely dry.

NICOTINE FOR POULTRY LICE.

Blackleaf 40 is a dependable control of lice on fowls. It is applied to the roosts and does its killing while the fowls sleep. The method of application is a matter of choice, but as the material is fairly expensive, the less waste the better. A small brush to line a thin streak along the roost is enough. Apply enough often rather than too much occasionally. And don't fail to keep the can covered tightly after it has been used, as the strength of the material is liable to lessen materially through exposure.

CULL FRUIT CLOSELY.

With the talk of culling poultry and livestock, the culling of the fruit crop is not to be overlooked. Culls bring little when sold; shipped to the Eastern markets they are likely to show a loss. Mixed with good fruit, they lower the value of the entire pack. The produce from the farm, be it what it may, will be graded before it reaches the consumer. If a crop is shipped poorly packed, poor prices result; at the other end of the line some one will grade the product carefully, and sell the best of it at high prices, the poorer stuff on the basis of the price that was paid the grower.

VACCINATE PULLETS.

Unless the poultryman is pretty well isolated and never has had smallpox in his flock, it will not pay to take a chance on this disease. Vaccinate the pullets before they start laying; vaccination is a preventive rather than a cure.

Native Sons of the Golden West

Much business of a routine nature was transacted and several communications were ordered filed.

Joseph B. Keenan (Niantic No. 105) and Grand Trustee Charles A. Koenig (Golden Gate No. 29) were nominated to represent the Grand Parlor, a stockholder, as directors of the San Francisco N.S.G.W. Hall Association.

Two resolutions, Nos. 10 and 40, referred by the Merced Grand Parlor to the board for action, were given consideration.

No. 10—flying the California State (Bear) Flag at the National Capitol grounds Admission Day—was adapted and California's representatives at Washington will be requested to have the provisions of the resolution complied with.

No. 40—organization of a junior order of native sons—was made a special order of business for the board's first meeting in 1931.

Manteca No. 271, recently instituted with more than fifty charter members, was voted a supplies credit of $150.

Grand Trustee Shortridge was authorized to work with William F. Knowland of the Grand Parlor Publicity Committee on a suggested method of obtaining publicity, and $100 was appropriated for expenses.

Grand President Newell outlined his policy for the year, particularly with reference to fieldmen engaged in organization work, and said that he would authorize the fieldmen to work in different districts under the direction of the visiting grand officers.

Opposition was voiced to any change in the federal immigration laws which would permit the entry of any aliens ineligible to citizenship.

The Grand President and the Grand Secretary were authorized to send telegrams to Washington urging passage of the Mexican immigration bill by the Federal Congress.

Subordinate Parlors were ordered assigned to visiting districts as follows:

No. 1, Grand First Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez—Los Angeles No. 45, San Diego No. 108, Ramona No. 109, Arrowhead No. 110, Santa Barbara No. 116, Hollywood No. 196, Long Beach No. 239, Vaquero No. 262, Sepulveda No. 263, Glendale No. 264, Santa Ana No. 265, Santa Monica Bay No. 267, Cahuenga No. 268.

No. 2, Grand Trustee Ben Harrison—San Jose No. 22, Fremont No. 44, Watsonville No. 65, Redwood No. 66, Monterey No. 75, Santa Cruz No. 90, Santa Lucia No. 97, Santa Clara No. 100, Gahilan No. 132, San Miguel No. 150, Cambria No. 152, Observatory No. 177, Menlo No. 185, Mountain View No. 215, Palo Alto No. 216.

No. 3, Grand Trustee Irving D. Gibson—California No. 1, Mission No. 38, Solano No. 39, Elk Grove No. 41, Alameda No. 47, San Francisco No. 49, El Dorado No. 52, Stanford No. 76, Bay City No. 104, Niantic No. 105, National No. 118, Hesperian No. 137, South San Francisco No. 157, Sequoia No. 160, Precita No. 187, Berkeley No. 210, Galt No. 243, El Carmelo No. 256.

Special—Cahrillo No. 114, Donner No. 162, Golden Anchor No. 182, Liberty No. 193, Concord No. 245.

The Grand Trustees met and organized by the selection of Irving D. Gibson as chairman and Charles A. Koenig as secretary.

At 6 p.m. the board adjourned, to the call of Grand President Newell.

County Presented State Flag.

San Rafael—At a Flag Day celebration June 14, Mount Tamalpais No. 64 presented a California State (Bear) Flag to Marin County. The presentation followed a big street parade headed by the Parlor's drum and bugle corps and participated in by Marinita No. 198 N.D.G.W. and other local organizations. Charles Redding (Nicasio No. 183), master of ceremonies, introduced B. J. Brusatori, junior past president of No. 64, who made the presentation address.

He reviewed the history of the Bear Flag and paid a wonderful tribute to those hardy Pioneers who flung it to the breeze eighty-four years ago in the pioneer town of Sonoma. He also praised the Marin County supervisors for providing a seventy-five-foot pole from which the State Flag will be flown daily, along with the Flag of the United States of America. In accepting the flag for the county, Supervisor Wm. Deysher lauded the local Natives for their generosity and patriotism.

July 7, Mount Tamalpais will feature a "Kelly night," in honor of President Frank Kelly, about to retire from office. Of the entire staff of officers he alone is of Irish origin. Most of the officers are of Latin ancestry, but they have given him wonderful co-operation. A big class initiation will be followed by a banquet. The social committee promises to make the event one long to be remembered.

Mount Tamalpais will celebrate with an appropriate program July 19, its forty-fifth institution anniversary. The Parlor, instituted by Dr. Charles W. Decker when he was Grand President, has numbered among its members many men prominent in affairs of the state and Marin County, and is today recognized as the most active and progressive fraternal society in the north-of-the-bay district.

Monument Marks Historic Site.

Double Springs—At a largely attended Calaveras County home-coming celebration here June 8, the grand officers dedicated a monument, erected by the Calaveras County Chamber of Commerce, marking the site of the county's first court house. D. Fricot was chairman of the day, and in addition to vocal and instrumental selections, there were addresses by Grand President John T. Newell and Past Grand President Hubert R. McNoble, the latter giving a historical review.

Other grand officers in attendance were Junior Past Grand President Charles L. Dodge, Grand First Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Second Vice-president Seth Millington, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Trustees Irving D. Gibson, Samuel M. Shortridge Jr. and George F. McNoble, and District Deputy Dr. George F. Pache. The grand officers were luncheon guests of Stockton No. 7 at Valley Springs.

The monument bears a plaque inscribed as follows: "Double Springs. First County Seat of Calaveras County. Feb. 18, 1850. Land located in 1847 by Charles L. Peck. Claimed under pre-emption notice to the Alcalde of San Francisco, recorded Sept. 19, 1850, at page 69, in record B, 3rd archives of San Francisco. Surveyed and platted as Double Springs Townsite in 1850. First County Court House of imported Chinese panels, erected 100 feet southwest of this monument. Hon. W. Fowle Smith, first County Judge, and L. A. Collier first County Clerk. Erected by Calaveras County Chamber of Commerce June 8, 1930."

Originally, Calaveras County embraced practically all of the area now included in four counties—Calaveras, Amador, Mono and Alpine. From Double Springs, the county seat was first moved to Jackson, now in Amador County, and when that county was in 1852 set apart from Calaveras it was transferred to Mokelumne Hill, where it remained until moved to its present location, San Andreas.

Want Fire Prevention Stickers?

All Subordinate Parlors desiring fire prevention automobile stickers provided for at the Merced Grand Parlor should have their secretaries communicate with Southard M. Modry, secretary Grand Parlor Forestry and Reforestation Committee, 995 Market street, San Francisco, setting forth the number of stickers that can be used to good advantage.

Memorial Day Observance.

Ferndale—Ferndale No. 93 again had charge of the arrangements for the observance of Memorial Day in this community. The ceremonies opened with a parade headed by George E. Corbett, Ferndale's sole surviving G.A.R. veteran, and participated in by the Parlor, Boy Scouts of America, Campfire Girls, school children, etc. O. R. Frame was the marshal and was assisted by Cbris. Rasmussen.

The marchers proceeded to the theater, where the following program was enjoyed: Invocation, Rev. David Miller; address, Henry E. Giacomini, president of the day; song, Ferndale union high school glee club; vocal solo, Mrs. B. A. Rusk; oration, Superior Judge Harry W. Falk; song, "America," audience, led by C. M. Turner.

The procession then re-formed and proceeded to the cemetery where, at the grave of the "Unknown," the program was continued: Song, "The Star Spangled Banner," assemblage; recitation, Ivan Redden; reading, Harlan Diedricksen; firing of salute by firing squad, John Enos, Ambrose Farley, Luther Steeves, Lloyd Kausen, John Ferguson, Meredith Ring, S. E. Olsen; taps, John Blackburn; benediction, Rev. Miller.

Family Outing.

San Jose—Observatory No. 177 had its annual family picnic and barbecue June 22 at the mountain retreat of Bert Barrett, a member of the Parlor. He not only donated this fine mountain spot for the day, but furnished the children of the members of the Parlor with horseback rides on some of the hooded stock which he raises.

Native Daughters of the Golden West

THE FIRST OFFICIAL ACT OF MRS. Estelle M. Evans, installed as Grand President at Oakland, June 19, was to send the following letter of greetings, dated Pittsburg, June 21, to the officers and members of all Subordinate Parlors of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West:

"I gratefully appreciate the honor you have conferred upon me, in electing me to the office of Grand President, and extend to you my cordial greetings and best wishes for further progress during the coming year.

"Fully realizing the responsibilities attached to this great honor, I shall endeavor faithfully and to the best of my ability to continue the work so ably mapped out by my predecessors, and to initiate from time to time such measures and procedures as may seem necessary or advisable to advance our Order and promote its interests.

"Your Grand President's thought for the year is not a new one, but one that is of vital importance to our organization. Let us make our goal increased membership. This highly desired goal would soon become a reality if every member would put forth an enthusiastic effort; for, as Emerson has said, 'nothing great was ever accomplished without enthusiasm.'

"I shall strive, throughout my term of office, to enlist every Subordinate Parlor and every member of our Order in the active and aggressive work of the Native Daughters of the Golden West; and my highest ambition and purpose will be to render a successful report of my stewardship to the Grand Parlor, one year hence.

"In the fraternal world of today publicity is a mighty factor. Every Parlor should keep the press informed of its activities, invite the representatives to its open meetings, and send them a story each month featuring some special project.

CO-OPERATE!

News material for all departments of The Grizzly Bear MUST BE SENT DIRECT to the publication office, 509-15 Wilcox Building, Los Angeles, not later than the 19th of the month, as forms close the 20th.

Don't wait until about the 18th and then send in your news, that might just as well have been forwarded much earlier, for The Grizzly Bear force cannot do the impossible.

Send in your news promptly, when it is "alive," and it will be given due attention. Otherwise, otherwise.—Editor.

"May we cheerfully lend our energies to all the activities of our Order, and so exemplify the principles upon which we were founded.

"We are all enlisted in a great cause—one that is worthy of the very best that is in us. United co-operation will achieve results that will make us proud and happy.

"God grant that I may wiser be
And kinder when the year shall end;
That all I learn shall make of me
A better and a truer friend."

Grand President Given State Flag.

Oakland—Aloha No. 106 was officially visited by Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, May 27. The hall was decorated with green and yellow hanging lanterns, ferns and palms, and in front of the station of President Alice Roberts was a large basket of old-fashioned flowers. In the center of the stage, which was concealed by strips of yellow and green crepe paper, was a large painting of the sun setting beyond the Golden Gate. Representatives of thirty-six Parlors, and the following grand officers were in attendance: Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Marshal Evelyn I. Carlson, Grand Inside Sentinel Millie Rock, Grand Outside Sentinel Edna Briggs, Past Grand Presidents Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, Mae Himes Noonan, Sue J. Irwin, Margaret G. Hill, Mae C. Boldeman and Dr. Victoria A. Derrick.

Following exemplification of the ritual a most inspiring address on the Order's projects was given by Grand President Sullivan, at the conclusion of which Felice Burgess, Thelma Dobyne, Irma Murray and Gladys Farley sang "When the Sun Goes Down." On Aloha's behalf, Grand Secretary Thaler presented Miss Sullivan with a large California State (Bear) Flag, and gifts were also presented Past Grand Presidents Derrick and Irwin, District Deputy Mildred Brant, Supervising Deputy Gertrude Morrison and Grand Secretary Thaler. Interesting short talks were given by all the present and former grand officers.

Just before the meeting's close the quartet rendered "End of a Perfect Day." Refreshments were served to 250 members in the dining room, decorated in ferns and baskets of flowers. The placecards were in the shape of pond lilies. Here District Deputy Brant and Supervising Deputy Morrison delivered addresses.

Past Presidents Elect.

Oroville—Butte County Past Presidents Association No. 5 was entertained June 6 by Mms. Emma Logan, Lila Marcus and Ruth Brown at the home of the former. Pink and white were used in the decorations. Following election of officers, at which Mattie Lund was chosen president, bridge was played.

Birthday Anniversary.

Fullerton—Grace No. 242 celebrated its third institution anniversary with a spanish supper June 5 at which Mrs. Nellie Cline, first president, was the toastmistress and recounted the Parlor's history. Miss Gladys Edwards and an efficient committee transformed the dining-room into a bower of beauty by a generous use of California popples. Among the guests were Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, Mrs. Bertha Hitt, who organized the Parlor, Kathryn Rowan, Marvel Thomas, Mary Thomas, Jennie Raymond, President Genevieve Hiskey of Santa Ana No. 235 and the families of the Parlor members.

Following the sumptuous repast a splendid americanization program was presented under the supervision of Miss Druzilla Mackey, americanization director for Fullerton union high school. Miss Carrie Sheppard, chairman of the Parlor's history and landmarks committee, arranged for the program, which consisted of vocal and instrumental musical numbers and a short skit, "Macaroni and Cheese," all given by adult members of the americanization class of the Fullerton union high school district.

The occasion was unanimously voted one of the most enjoyable ever sponsored by Grace Parlor. Mrs. Carrie Ford has been chosen president for the July-December term.

Tree Dedicated to Pioneer Mothers.

Pescadero—Ano Nuevo No. 130 observed Decoration Day, May 30, by dedicating a living Christmas tree to the memory of the Pioneer Mothers. Past Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derrick delivered the address, Flora Steele sang "I Love You, California," and music was furnished by the high school orchestra. All organizations of the town were well represented in the gathering.

School Gets State Flag.

Standish—Nataqua No. 152, Susanville No. 243 and Honey Lake No. 198 N.S.G.W. presented a California State (Bear) Flag to the student body and the faculty of the Lassen union high school. Frank Cady made the presentation, relating the flag's history in an impressive manner, and Principal Fulton thanked the Parlors for the gift. Students of the school sang "California" and "California, Here I Come."

Planning Memory Garden.

Santa Ana—The history and landmarks committee of Santa Ana No. 235 sponsored a turkey dinner June 8 for the benefit of the fund the Parlor is raising to pay for rebuilding the baptistry at San Juan Capistrano Mission. The affair was held at the ranch home of Mrs. J. E. Pleasants, chairman of the committee, in Santlago Canyon. Long tables, decorated with lovely flowers, were laden with a delicious repast which was thoroughly enjoyed. Dr. C. D. Ball and Terry E. Stephenson delighted with interesting and humorous remarks, and Fr. St. John O'Sullivan spoke of the memory garden which the Parlor is considering planting at San Juan Capistrano Mission.

Mrs. Marguerite Dickinson has been elected president of No. 235 for the July-December term. Mrs. Florence Watson entertained the thimble club of the Parlor at her home June 12. Miss Hazel Greenleaf, a member of Santa Ana, recently became the bride of Leo P. Flaherty at Phoenix, Arizona. The honeymoon was spent in San Francisco.

Mock Wedding Humorous Feature.

Hayward—Mrs. Kathryn Walde was re-elected president of Hayward No. 122 June 3. At a surprise party in honor of the birthday anniversary of Secretary Ruth Gansberger a mock wedding was the humorous feature. Those participating were Maizie Moura, Miss Gansberger, Mrs. W. D. McLeod, Emma Hauber, Ruth Stromberg and Beryl May.

The banquet table, charmingly arranged in a pink and white color scheme, had as a center-

Memory Garden Dedicated.

Madera—In the presence of a large gathering, Madera No. 244 dedicated n memory garden in Court House Park May 25. The program included: Selections, grammar school band; oration, Judge William M. Conley, Pnst Grand President N.S.G.W.; dedicatory address, President Elvn Van Sant; vocal solos, Helen Lanningham; planting of tree in memory of William Heiskell, Carolyn Christiana; reading, Sue Pell; songs, Pershing school students; address, Pnst Grand President Dr. Louise C. Hellbron.

Several Sociables Planned.

San Bernardino—Lugonia No. 241 elected officers June 11, Miss Eva Bemis being chosen president. Refreshments were served at the meeting's conclusion. Installation will be held during July. Miss Lois Poling has departed for Portland, Oregon.

Plans of the Parlor for the next few weeks include card parties, a dinner and an entertainment.

Neighboring Parlor Entertained.

Chico—Annie K. Bidwell No. 168 entertained Gold of Ophir No. 190 (Oroville) June 26. A program was presented under the supervision of Mrs. Cora Hintz, and Mrs. Lois Heberle headed the refreshments committee. Several members attended the district meeting at Marysville June 9.

The Parlor was represented at the June 15 breakfast at the Native Daughter Home in San Francisco by a delegation of five members. On behalf of No. 168 they presented a picture of historic Hooker oak, which will hang in the main hall of the building.

Two Surprises.

Palo Alto—Palo Alto No. 229 had a delightful social evening June 2, Genevieve Commerford and the glee club supplying a fine program of songs and dances, and Amanda Schneidewind furnishing delicious refreshments. Guests were District Deputy Anna Leu and members of El Monte No. 205 (Mountain View) and members of Palo Alto No. 216 N.S.G.W.

Two surprises were on the evening's program: A. A. Quinn, for many years secretary No. 216, and his wife, a member of No. 229, were presented with a cake in recognition of their twenty-second wedding anniversary. As a token of the esteem in which she is held, Secretary Helena G. Hansen received a huge birthday cake. Grand Trustee Eldora McCarty was a speaker of the evening.

Through the efforts of Amanda Schneidewind the Parlor has paid its Loyalty Pledge, and during the past six months the membership has been increased fifty percent. A recent card party netted a neat sum for the homeless children.

Receive Deserved Praise.

Modesto—Morada No. 199 had an important part in the institution of Eldora No. 248 at Turlock, the ritual being exemplified by the officers of the Parlor and the officers of the new Parlor being installed by District Deputy Katherine Kopf. The work was beautifully done, and the district deputy and officers deserve the praise they received from the visitors present.

The series of card parties sponsored by the Parlor and Modesto No. 11 N.S.G.W. have been concluded. The Parlors are now planning a joint installation of officers, which will be a delightful social occasion.

Successful Luncheon-Whist.

Oakland—Past Presidents Association No. 2 had a birthday social with Emily Lawson as chairwoman. Guests of the occasion were Emma Flood, Elizabeth Ward, Marie Broderick and Emma Sweeney. A sketch was presented and refreshments were served. At election of officers June 9 May C. Ward was selected for president. A successful luncheon-whist was held June 11. Winifred Buckingham, the chairwoman, was assisted by Jennie Jordan and several members.

The association served refreshments at the Thursday afternoon recess of the Grand Parlor, Jennie Jordan being in charge. Harriett Emerson, on behalf of the association, presented Secretary Mary E. Brusie of the Central Homeless Children Committee with a chest filled with a large assortment of wearing apparel for the kiddies.

Salinas Rodeo—Salinas, Monterey County, will feature its annual rodeo, July 16 to 20 inclusive.

In Memoriam

MILTON GILL.

To the Officers and Members of Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W.—We, the committee appointed to draft resolutions to the memory of our departed brother, Milton Gill, beg to submit the following: We, the officers of our Parlor, and in His infinite wisdom, has called from our midst our worthy Brother Gill;

Resolved, That we extend our sincere sympathy to the bereaved family; that our charter be draped for a period of thirty days; that copies of this resolution be sent to the family and spread upon the minutes of our Parlor, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine.

Respectfully and fraternally yours, HENRY G. BODKIN, EDWARD J. REILLY, EDGAR BLACK, Committee.

Los Angeles, May 31, 1930.

CHARLES F. DOYLE.

To the Members of Fresno Parlor No. 25 Native Sons of the Golden West—We, the committee appointed to draft resolutions to the death of our worthy junior past president, Brother Charles F. Doyle, respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, it has pleased our Heavenly Father to take from our midst at the meridian of his life, Charles F. Doyle; and whereas, Brother Doyle was one of the first members of our Parlor, and an earnest worker in its service, holding at the time of his death the chair of junior past president, and was to all of the members of the Parlor a true and loyal friend, respected and admired for his many fine qualities as a man and a citizen, and loved for his kindly and genial personality; now therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of Fresno Parlor No. 25 Native Sons of the Golden West, in open Parlor assembled, do hereby express our deep sense of loss in the passing of our brother, and extend to the members of his family our sincerest sympathy in their bereavement; and be it resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor and published in The Grizzly Bear, and that a copy thereof be sent to the family of our deceased brother.

Respectfully submitted, F. M. LANE, J. W. CAPPLEMAN, L. N. BARBER, Committee.

Fresno, June 9, 1930.

SLAUGHTER WASTE ON FARMS.

When animals are slaughtered in the large packing plants, nothing is wasted. This is not, however, the case on farms, where the blood and offal, a valuable by-product of the packing plant, are usually thrown away. Federal chemists have been endeavoring to find a method of making offal and shed-blood into tankage and other products on the farm. They have found that ordinarily open-kettle rendering of the refuse is feasible. This produces moist tankage which can be converted into a product suitable for use as fertilizer and capable of being stored by mixing it with freshly-burned quicklime and 16 percent superphosphates.

JOAQUIN N.D. PARLOR ONE OF FIRST RED CROSS CHAPTERS.

Stockton—Joaquin Parlor No. 5 N.D.G.W. celebrated its forty-third institution anniversary recently, and on that occasion the charter president, Hannah Gray, in the course of the following address related history which should be recorded:

"As I rise tonight I can truly say I am very proud of my Parlor. It's a fact, I love it! Do you realize that to make a success of anything in this life we must deal with that magic word love?—that feeling that creeps around our hearts to such an extent that, to realize its full value, we must work for the object it represents. In fact, it must become a part of our very being. Dear old Joaquin, forty-three years tonight since you responded to that name and took your place as No. 5 at the tap of my gavel and claimed your sisterhood in this state. Yes, indeed, you are my Parlor. Did you notice I said MY? Oh, that pronoun my! Doesn't it make things seem dearer to you to use it, just in front of something you possess. Yet, when I look into these smiling faces and am asked to participate in this wonderful reception, I realize I must relinquish that 'my' and say 'our' to the younger members of our Order and to this committee that has done this work with love and veneration for these four charter members. Forty-three times are many times to listen to the voice of one person, but I really think I have something new to tell you; not exactly new, but just forgotten in the march of time.

"Well, I drop down the vista of years from April 8, 1887, to May 17, 1898, when all Native Daughter hearts were attuned to honoring the flag that was soon to float out over the Pacific Ocean, guarded by our boys—our sweethearts and, nearer yet, some of our fathers. I know many of you can recall the parade on Weber avenue of Companies A and B of the Sixth Regiment to the Stockton steamer, on their way to the Presidio. Our hearts were overflowing with patriotism for, were they not to carry the Stars and Stripes to protect an oppressed nation? Sectional differences were all forgotten. Everyone saluted Old Glory.

"So it was natural, under the circumstances, that many hearts in this Parlor should conceive the idea of forming a society, calling themselves 'The Red Cross League.' At this time the American Red Cross of California had not been permanently instituted. At a meeting of this Parlor the following committee was appointed: Hannah Gray, Susie Kohlberg, Bell Stockwell, Susie Forrest, Minnie Manthey, Clara Stier, Minnie Hilke, Amelia Snyder, Lena Mills. An appropriation of $10 was given from the Parlor to Hannah Gray, who was selected as president, and Bell Stockwell as secretary. The next morning Hannah

Gray received from Stockton Parlor No. 7 N.S.G.W. a donation of $50. So, with this $60 we started out to aid and follow that cross of red on its field of white, and tonight I am pleased to challenge any Parlor of Native Daughters for the honor conferred by the National Red Cross of California on Joaquin Parlor No. 5 as being one of the first chapters of Red Cross organized in this state—so recorded in the statistics of the American National Red Cross in the Congressional Library at Washington, D. C.

"To whom shall I attribute some of this honor? To my faithful secretary and helper, Bell Stockwell, for her accurate minutes in placing the honor where it belonged. She loves the Parlor desperately, and could never help writing the full title, Joaquin No. 5 N.D.G.W., thus aiding in preserving this name in the babyhood of the Red Cross. To the other charter members I will say, we know we had their hearts' best wishes, but schools had to go on. For myself, I was much surprised when I was summoned last month to a celebration of Jane Delano Post and it was announced I was one of the first presidents of the Red Cross of California—for eight successive years—and that Stockton Chapter was one of the very few in the state able to present their first president and secretary. You will pardon me for my personal reminiscences. I certainly do not mean to be egotistical, but thought this a great honor for our Parlor. I had forgotten it myself, but regard it as fitting to present it to you on our anniversary night. Something not to be forgotten or overlooked, and yet not found in the minutes and the wonderful history of the forty-three years of this Parlor, and I can truthfully say you never heard me make this declaration before tonight.

"Our beloved Parlor, the great Joaquin No. 5 N.D.G.W., one of the guardians of this state! You will find our name registered beneath the dome of the American Capitol. Now what Parlor has a better or more enviable record than this? Let any such hasten forward and present its credentials to the pioneers of this Parlor, while we four are here ready for its defense. Officers and members, I congratulate you on the honors I have tried to present. Treasure them, and guard this venerable charter, for it is the same one handed on to you by the passing of time.

"Charter of Joaquin No. 5 N.D.G.W., located at the City of Stockton, State of California, as charter president I salute thee, as being the first to ally the membership of our Order to one of the greatest organizations in this republic, known to all nations and peoples of this earth as the National Red Cross of America."

"This distance lends enchantment to the view."—Thomas Campbell.

LONG BEACH SOON WILL ASSUME PLACE IN SEA TRADE

A. A. Miller

(Manager Publicity Bureau
LONG BEACH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.)

ONE OF THE COMING PORTS OF THE world, satisfying all essential requirements for a modern ocean gateway and comparable to any on either the Pacific or the Atlantic Coasts, is the golden dream to be realized by citizens of Long Beach, California.

Largely because of its port development, Long Beach has become a great city, and its economic growth has been predicated to a considerable extent on facilities for deep-water shipping and complete co-ordination of transportation factors now being developed under a $15,000,000 program.

By January 1, 1931, Long Beach will be ready to issue her most pertinent challenge as a contender for world trade with the finest water terminal facilities in America, for, with pier and transit shed construction now in progress costing $2,750,000 completed by that date behind the protection of a monster $6,500,000 rock breakwater over 7,000 feet in length, the city will be lifted out of the lethargy of tourist resorts into the category of important seaports on the Pacific Coast.

Following the completion of a mile of stone breakwater to protect its shipping and contemplated improvements more than a year ago, the city voted $2,700,000 for development of adequate dockage facilities, consisting of two piers, one extending 1,616 feet seaward and parallel with the breakwater, a second pier 500 feet long, together with a bulkhead system behind which a fill of more than a million cubic yards of dredge material provides 40.8 acres of tide flats. There will be passenger and freight terminals, rail facilities, classification yard, passenger walkways and connecting tunnels to car lines.

In the preliminary units will be a rectangular fill of 24.5 acres in the outer harbor area. Along the recently completed breakwater will be a fill of 1,616 feet seaward and 350 feet wide. Upon the fill will be constructed transit sheds, one story, except on the ends, where passenger waiting rooms will be erected on the second floor. Foundations for the buildings, however, will be of sufficient strength to support the addition of one story on each of the three sheds. Two rail lines will be laid on the ship side of the pier and five or seven for switching purposes and storage on the shore side.

Across a slip 400 feet wide there will be a stub wharf fill of 500 x 500 feet to accommodate two ships. On the westerly side of the stub fill will be a navy small-boat landing. The terminals now under way and those contemplated will be within five minutes' car ride from the center of Long Beach's industrial and business sections.

Prior to the commencement of harbor improvements, the commerce of Long Beach port was limited to small quantities of fish and an occasional shipment of lumber. During the first calendar year following the opening of the inner harbor, or from January 1 to December 31, 1926, the commerce of the port exceeded that of a large number of older ports of the United States, both as to foreign and domestic tonnage. A statement of the yearly tonnage for the four years of operation is as follows:

Total water borne commerce—1926, 1,072,907 tons, value $10,980,903; 1927, 1,472,524 tons, value $20,335,962; 1928, 1,961,675 tons, value $33,794,919; 1929, 2,512,092 tons, value $45,497,920.

Water borne foreign commerce—1926, exports 194,131 tons, imports 58,825 tons, total 262,956; 1927, exports 302,664 tons, imports 80,779 tons, total 383,443 tons; 1928, exports 534,015 tons, imports 89,654 tons, total 623,669 tons; 1929, exports 466,020 tons, imports 97,406 tons, total 563,426 tons.

While the volume of commerce handled through the port is gratifying, in view of the short space of time since the opening of the harbor, it is but an indication of what may be expected as development of the harbor proceeds.

When completed this year, the new inner harbor terminal will provide dockage for three vessels of 32-foot draft, adjacent to 42,000 square feet of covered storage. Two piers in the outer harbor are rapidly nearing completion, and when in operation will provide 3,600 feet of dockage for vessels of 35-foot draft. Indications are that this year will show a substantial increase in volume and value of commerce. Industry in various forms has begun to assert itself in large proportions under the influence of this transition.

Large factory enterprises are pending in connection with plans for an industrial subdivision on a 11,000-acre tract northwest of Long Beach. Negotiations are being conducted with large manufacturing organizations of national reputation, and announcement that one or more of these has decided to locate here may be expected within a short time. The building of a belt line railroad to link Long Beach Harbor with this district, together with the establishment of a model manufacturing center there, will involve an expenditure of $5,000,000 it is announced. Construction of a $1,700,000 produce and storage plant in the harbor is expected to begin soon.

These significant happenings are only now beginning to take definite form and may be chronicled as having a vital bearing on Long Beach's industrial future.

GARDEN PARTY.

Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W. June 5 re-elected its entire corps of officers, Mrs. Lillian Mullen Lasater retaining the presidency. With Mrs. Mary Stultz as chairman, refreshments were enjoyed after the meeting.

One of the main social activities of the month was the garden card party at the home of Mrs. Bessie Brady. The garden was appropriately decorated with lanterns, and banging baskets of California poppies and old-fashioned flowers, carrying out a color scheme of yellow and green. Large umbrellas added an artistic touch. A covered-dish luncheon was served cafeteria style, after which bridge and five-hundred were enjoyed. The arrangements committee included Mrs. Julia Arborn (chairman), Lucretia Coates, Fannie McPherson and Kittie Dillon.

This affair was sponsored by the Parlor's California Thimble Club, which met later in the month at K. P. Hall and after a covered-dish luncheon had a quilting bee. Mrs. Daisy T. Hansen was a visitor last month to Oakland.

"DON PATRICIO"

The most important personage in the County of San Luis Obispo in the early '80s was Patrick W. Murphy, familiarly known as "Pat." By some of his admirers, or amigos, he was referred to as "Don Patricio." His extensive land holdings—the ranchos Santa Margarita, Asuncion and Atascadero, approximately sixty thousand acres,—made him a princely landholder. He certainly deserved the title of "Prince," for he was a prince of goodfellows.

Although it was his habit to make frequent visits to the county-seat, the news of his approaching advent always preceded him, and was heralded abroad. The entire population, metaphorically, turned handsprings for joy. On every side one would hear the excited announcement: "Going to have a barbecue. Pat's coming to town!"

Invariably, at a barbecue, all the guests cast aside serious thoughts with "A fig for care, a fig for woe; let the world slide, let the world go." The provisions usually included enchiladas, tortillas, frijoles, salsa and barbecued beef. Upon this occasion "Pat," as host, furnished most, if not all, of the supplies, including a very liberal quantity of liquid refreshments, customary at such entertainments. In addition, with his usual generosity, he sent from his ranchos several beeves to be skillfully and expertly prepared for the roasting, over beds of hot coals in trenches several feet deep, by men who were unequaled in such preparations.

At one of these festive gatherings, "Don Patricio" told his friends he was soon to entertain a titled foreigner, Baron von Schroeder, who was coming West to kill a grizzly bear. This announcement created considerable amusement and astonishment.

"A bear! A grizzly! There never had been nary such thing known of in these parts, had there?"

"Oh yes," someone recalled. "Bears had once been known to roam the Coast Range. Very doubtful if any now. Probably there had been no grizzly among them."

Some weeks later on public exhibition, very public, a huge animal, a black bear, stated to be a grizzly, lay extended upon the sidewalk in front of a Chorro-street butcher shop, evidence of the Baron's prowess as a mighty huntsman. The stage agent was recipient of some of the bear steaks distributed to "Don Patricio's" friends. Arriving home, he announced: "Just tbnk, tomorrow we shall have the honor of meeting a real live Baron."

When the Baron's visit was noised about, an unusual and sudden activity was manifested by the townspeople. "Driving tandem?" some asked. "What's that? Let's go see." To him the town was indebted for the first and only appearance on its streets of a most fashionable gig, with horses driven tandem. It was even more thrilling than seeing the bear. It was spectacular!

Baron von Schroeder had become owner of what is still known as the Eagle ranch.

(This little story came to the Grizzly Bear from Mrs. S. T. Crittenden of San Diego, with the statement: "Herewith is a little sketch of early California life which, I believe, is fitted for The Grizzly Bear. I am arranging for print incidents that occurred in my early life."—Editor.)

HILL INTERLUDE

(RUTH HARWOOD.)

This last night in the silence and the beauty of my hill. . . .

I must mark it all down in the heart for remembering. . . .

Be drenched completely in this sea of moon-crickets,

Where there is no sound but soft minstrelsy of light.

Which is but an audible interpreting of moon-light,

That I may hold its hush against the rush of days

I must be drenched in the baptism of silence,

This last night in the tenderness and beauty of my hill.

—University California Chronicle.

ROSE MILDEW.

Rose mildew is one of the most troublesome pests that bother the most beautiful of garden plants. Mildew comes with humidity; do not water the roses in the evening, particularly if a sprinkler is used in irrigation. With warm weather, dusting with finely ground sulphur is perhaps the best control, although good results are obtained with semesan, particularly in cooler weather. These materials may be obtained at any garden supply store. Highly refined foliage oils also may help, and will aid in controlling other pests, such as scale, spider, aphid and mealybug. Don't use an oil after sulphur; don't dust once with sulphur and think the job is done; the dustings must be continued weekly well into the summer.

SPEND VACATION DOLLARS

VIEWING HOMELAND WONDERS.

"American tourist dollars to aid American business" was suggested as a slogan for this year's vacation season in a recent address by Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary Federal Commerce Department. Telling of vast sums spent by American tourists in the United States and abroad, he enumerated some of the attractions, such as the national parks, to be found at home, and asked:

"Is it not well to apply such steadying stimuli within our own country, especially at a time like the present, when the money thus expended can do much to aid the business revival that is unquestionably under way?"

The tourist business "stimulates every phase of economic activity," said Dr. Klein, quoting estimates that vacationists spend more than $3,000,000,000 a year in this country, and that the money turnover ranks above that of the lumber, oil or meat-packing industries, and equals that of the iron and steel industry. Roadside stands alone, numbering 110,000 or more, do an annual business of $500,000,000—more than the value of American exports to Germany.

Money spent by tourists is not concentrated, but is "widely spread out over the commercial interests of the community as a whole," he said, and he quoted a division of the tourist's dollar to show that more than a quarter goes to retail stores. "One man's lark is another man's living," he concluded.

NATION'S 1929 MOTOR-CAR ACCIDENT COST PLACED AT 850 MILLIONS.

Motor vehicle accidents in the United States during 1929 resulted in an economic cost of $850,000,000, and a loss of $1,000,000,000 annually will be a reality soon unless something is done to check the trend, according to a report submitted at the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety at Washington, D. C., May 27. The aggregate loss of life due to street and highway accidents in the United States during 1929 totaled 33,060, it was stated, and was an increase of more than 8 percent over the preceding year, and an estimated increase of 94 percent since 1920. Returns for the first four months of 1930 indicated no improvement, it was shown, since the statistics to date showed an even greater rate of increase over 1929 than was shown last year.

HAVE LIGHTS ADJUSTED.

Carry extra globes and have lights adjusted after loading camping equipment upon your car, is the advice given California vacationists in a bulletin issued by the bureau of lights of the California Highway Patrol. Spare globes, it is declared, are essential in case it becomes necessary to replace a burned-out globe in an emergency.

Heavy loads have a tendency to tilt the lights upward, so that an extra tilt of three or four inches is necessary to have the lights in proper adjustment. Otherwise, the lights that normally would be legal are glaring.

MAY REGULATE SIGNBOARDS.

Municipalities of California have the right to prohibit signboards along streets and highways within their corporate limits, according to a superior court decision from San Mateo County. This right was upheld in a suit filed against the city trustees of Burlingame, which has an ordinance prohibiting signs along residential streets.

Avoid Troubles—If the wiring on a car is checked occasionally ignition troubles might be avoided.

CALIFORNIA'S FORESTS CLOSED TO SERIOUS FIRE HAZARD—SMOKING.

Increasing fire hazard, due to hot weather and lack of rain, has resulted in the closing to smoking of the national forests in California. In many parts of the state similar no-smoking county restrictions are also in effect.

Realizing that many who visit the national forests for a vacation often find it a hardship to travel considerable distances without smoking, the forest service is meeting the smoker half-way and is designating special smoking places throughout the government forests which will be posted with a sign "Smoke Here." The boundaries of such smoking areas will be delimited by signs reading "No Smoking Beyond This Sign." In this manner it is hoped to curb the tendency of visitors to take a smoke while traveling.

Forest officers believe this action will lead to greater co-operation on the part of national forest visitors in making effective the efforts of the Federal Forest Service to reduce this most serious fire hazard.

AUTO ACCIDENT DOLLAR LOSSES WOULD SUPPORT LARGE CITY.

Auto accidents result in an annual economic loss to California of $70,000,000, an amount sufficient to cover an annual corporation payroll of 40,000 employees, enough bread winners to support a city of over 125,000 persons. This estimate of monetary loss was submitted at the recent convention of the California Public Safety Committee.

No limit can be placed upon the humanitarian losses involved, it is pointed out, through the anguish and suffering resulting from motor vehicle collisions. These cause the death of 31,000 persons and the injury of over a million others per year in the United States. Loss or impairment of earning powers of wage earners of families is one serious result that cannot be figured in terms of money.

OBSERVE THE RULES.

Motorists planning camping trips to California national forest areas should observe the few simple rules promulgated by the United States Forest Service:

Secure a camp fire permit; carry a shovel and an ax; smoke only in camp; put all fire dead out with water; leave a clean and sanitary camp; observe the state fish and game laws; co-operate with the forest rangers in reporting and suppressing forest fires.

LOST LICENSE PLATES.

Motorists finding lost license plates are urged to turn them in at the nearest state highway patrol office. The reason for this is not so much the value of the plates, as to prevent them from falling into the hands of automobile thieves, who find use for them.

A news story tells of a nonstop auto driver collapsing at the wheel of his car, after driving 201 hours. Our hearty sympathy goes out to the driver—we, too, have tried to find a place to park!—Exchange.

Gasoline Fire—Never pour water upon a gasoline fire, as the gas will float upon the water and spread the flame. Use sand or dust, or an extinguisher.

Use Low Gear—Low gear should always be used in starting a car. The use of any other gear causes the clutch to slip.

Automotive Employment—Four million seven hundred thousand workers are dependent for their livelihood on the automotive industry.

Car Ownership—Fifty-seven percent of the motor cars in the United States are owned in communities of less than 10,000 population.

Innovation—Pneumatic rubber automobile humpers are among the latest auto accessories.

MOTOR-VEHICLE REGISTRATIONS

INDICATE CALIFORNIA "WHITE SPOT."
 Additional evidence that California is the "white spot" of America in business appears in figures released by the Stato Division of Motor Vehicles, showing that motor-vehicle registrations in the stato gained more than 6 percent during the first five months of 1930 over the same period for the previous year.
 The net gain in vehicles was 110,828, the total in fee-paid registrations for the five-month period being 1,937,535, as compared with 1,826,707 for the previous year. The division expects to equal the total for 1929 early in July, when registration of many vehicles, held back for various reasons, will have been made. At the present rate, the percentage of increase for 1930 over 1929 will be far greater than 1929 over 1928. The gain in passenger cars for the five-month period was 95,071.

Registrations for the five-month period ending May 31 were as follows: Passenger cars, 1,804,331; solid-tire trucks, 14,322; pneumatic-tire trucks, 71,781; solid-tire trailers, 8,635; pneumatic-tire trailers, 30,630; motorcycles, 7,836. Registration fees collected by the division for the period totaled $8,620,756.

LIBERAL FUNDS PROVIDED FOR RECREATIONAL AREA ROADS.

California recreational areas reserved by the federal government—four national parks and two national monuments—have been allotted $1,153,531 for construction of new roads during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1931. This is in addition to other funds provided for the maintenance of existing roads.
 The allocation of funds to these national parks and monuments follows: Sequoia National Park $271,300, General Grant National Park $2,000, Yosemite National Park $679,483, Lassen Volcanic National Park $196,248, Pinnacles National Monument $35,000 and Muir Wood National Monument $1,000.

HAND TOOLS THAT SHOULD BE ALWAYS IN RIGHTFUL PLACE.

What features of the tool kit are most essential to the average car owner? Generally speaking, the jack, lug wrench, pliers and hand crank. They may not be used as often as in earlier motoring days, but when they are needed there is no substitute for any of them.
 The forward-looking car owner, then, always will see that these essential hits of equipment are in their rightful places. Service stations are numerous, but the greatest optimist could not expect to have all flat tires occur in front of one of them.

WHY BRAKES BURN.

It is not merely excessive use that burns brake linings when in use to retard a car on a long descent. When called on to do heavy work of this character, the drums become very hot and expand, so the brakes, in effect, are applied beyond what the driver believes is the case.
 It pays to relieve pressure on the pedal from time to time during such a descent, because the driver may not be aware of the fact that the brakes are "applying themselves" under excessive use.

SAFE NIGHT SPEED.

The often-asked question—"What is the proper speed for night driving?"—has been answered by the Mississippi Supreme Court in a decision to the effect that:
 "An automobile driven at night should be able to stop within the range of the headlights of the car."

Battery Tip—If water is spilled upon the top of a battery when the cells are being filled wipe it off immediately, otherwise the water will cause the terminals to corrode.

Scenic Road Opened—Scenic Tioga Pass road, through the high Sierra from Owens Valley into Yosemite National Park, was officially opened June 21.

SANTA BARBARA TREASURE BED RESEARCHWORK DISCLOSES LIFE OF YEARS AGO

DETAILS OF THE WORK BEING DONE by the Santa Barbara Museum in compiling the life story of the region surrounding Santa Barbara were told by David B. Rogers, archaeologist of the museum, to the Kiwanis Club. "Santa Barbara is uniquely situated," he said. "This section lay beneath the waters of the ocean while the gigantic prehistoric animals roamed other sections of America. It has been above and below the sea several times since, and each change has left its traces which we study.

"In the palisades, or cliff, that borders the Campbell ranch you have probably noticed a light stratum filled with shells and bones. That was once the seashore, and bones of animals of that time are imbedded there. We have found there remains of animal life that is found now only in Alaska and Kamchatka, cold regions. Then there are species that are found now only in the tropics along the Atlantic, which means that the Atlantic once broke through to the Pacific. Also, we have found species which are indigenous to this region.

"The museum has the exclusive right to the fossils found in the Higgins asphalt bed at Carpinteria. Following closely after the strokes of the steam shovel taking the asphalt out, we have found bones of the mastodon; of the native horse which existed perhaps 100,000 years ago and became extinct here; of camels, which disappeared from this continent; of the giant bison, which resembles not the buffalo of our plains, but the water buffalo of India. The greatest find there was one lone claw, the front claw of the giant sloth. There are remains of innumerable birds, among them giant condors, and flocks of pea-fowl.

"These are at a depth of twenty-five feet, and ten feet below them we found a log of Douglas fir, twenty feet long and eighteen inches in diameter. It had in it the remains of insects of its time. From these finds we have adduced that this region was once heavily forested with a growth now found only farther north.

"The question is often asked how these animals became imbedded in this tar which is now covered by ten feet of soil. The explanation seems that small pools of tar formed on the surface of the ground and were covered with water by rain. Birds and animals came to drink or bathe and when they stepped into the tar they could not withdraw their feet.

"If we chance to step into this tar now, it is impossible to pull the foot out. The only way to get loose is to cut off the boot. We wrap our feet in burlap, and then, if caught, cut off the hurlap. Two dogs have run into the tar since we have been working it. One we were able to pull out; the other is there yet.

"Children come to the museum and ask surprisingly enlightened questions about our work, and ask to be permitted to accompany us on the field work. We are glad to let them go, when it is possible.

"The children should be taught: Observation, to use their eyes and judgment; and honesty, to accept the truth presented and to avoid the spectacular, instead of selecting the point leading to the result desired." In closing, Rogers stressed the need of conserving the resources stored by Nature.

NATIVE SONS HAVE OUTING TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY.

Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116 N.S.G.W. elected officers June 12, and retained A. C. Dinsmore as president. Installation will be held the first meeting in July. The Parlor endorsed the proposed junior order of native sons, and adopted a resolution urging the purchase, by Santa Barbara County, of Zaca Lake for a county park. Two candidates were initiated, and following the meeting Secretary Harry C. Sweetser and Past President George A. Black, who represented No. 116 at the Merced Grand Parlor, entertained at a tamale dinner.

The Parlor had its annual barbecue June 29 at Tucker's Grove. Congressman Arthur M. Free, a member of Observatory Parlor No. 177 (San Jose), was the speaker of the day. Invitations had been extended to all Native Sons and Daughters of the southland, and many responded. Spanish music was provided, and there were sport events, with prizes, for grownups and children.

The committee in charge of the outing, which was in observance of Santa Barbara's thirtieth institution anniversary, included: C. D. Livermore (chairman), Charlie McCormick, Henry Silva, James Gutierrez, Harry C. Sweetser, Phil Bradley and J. L. Stewart. "Bill" McCaffrey was the head chef.

N. D. GRAND PARLOR

mer as chairman, Irma Laird (Alturas No. 159) and May C. Givens (Mariposa No. 63) as acting grand marshals, Millie Rock (Gabrielle No. 139) as acting grand sentinel, and Clara Gairaud (Vendome No. 100) as acting grand organist.

Following the installation ceremonies numerous gifts were presented. The presentation of the official ring to Past Grand President Sullivan was made by Past Grand President Emma W. Humphrey, on behalf of the Grand Parlor. Grand President Evans was the recipient of a jeweled watch from her home Parlor, and Grand Vice-president received a silver service.

NOTES OF THE SESSION.

Past Grand President Carrie Roesch-Durham, who has attended every Grand Parlor session, was again the chairman of the Credentials Committee.

Past Grand President Dr. Victory A. Derrick, chairman of the committee which made arrangements for the meeting, extended the greetings on behalf of Oakland's Native Daughters.

Grand President Sullivan was presented with a basket of flowers by a delegation from Fruitvale Parlor No. 252 N.S.G.W. headed by President William Dombink.

Monday afternoon the Grand Parlor recessed so that the members might visit the Native Daughter Home in San Francisco. Many availed themselves of the opportunity, and expressed great pleasure at what they saw.

A whistling trio—Shirley Irvine, Beatrice Jost and Helen Jones—delighted with several selections.

Supplementing the report of the committee engaged in securing and preserving songs of the '50s, Mrs. Mildred Maxon Wiley played and sang some of the compositions.

Grand Vice-President Estelle M. Evans, accompanied by Florence Shapiro (Berkeley No. 150), favored with two vocal solos, "The Answer" and "Sweet Mystery of Life."

Refreshments were served during the afternoon sessions by El Cereso Parlor No. 207 (San Leandro), Brooklyn Parlor No. 157 (Oakland), Fruitvale Parlor No. 177 (Oakland) and Past Presidents Association No. 2 (Oakland).

Secretary Mary E. Brusie, in her always-pleasing manner, presented a report of the year's work accomplished by the Native Sons and Native Daughters Central Homeless Children Committee, and expressed to the Subordinate Parlors thanks and appreciation for their co-operation. Several foster parents and their children were introduced, and she had on exhibition many of the garments, etc., contributed to the cause.

Past Grand President Sue J. Irwin, chairman University Scholarships Committee, reported that the Subordinate Parlors would be circularized during July.

Past Grand President Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, originator of the Loyalty Pledge, announced an additional $1,600 had been received from Subordinate Parlors during the Grand Parlor.

Chairman Florence D. Schoneman of the California History and Landmarks Committee reported that Subordinate Parlors had contributed $212 to San Miguel Mission and $57.50 to San Antonio de Padua.

"Outsiders" who addressed the Grand Parlor included Governor C. C. Young and Mayor John L. Davie of Oakland.

The following Native Sons addressed the Grand Parlor: Grand Third Vice-president Justice Emmet Seawell, who extended greetings on behalf of Grand President John T. Newell, prevented by illness from appearing; Grand Secretary John T. Regan, who urged general observance of Admission Day, September 9; Past Grand President Harry G. Williams, who extended greetings on behalf of Alameda County's Native Sons; John M. Burnett of San Jose, who spoke on the history of California; Grand Organist Henry G. W. Dinkelspiel who, as chairman of the N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Central Homeless Children Committee, thanked the Native Daughters for their interest in the homeless children.

Arrangements for the Grand Parlor were in the hands of the following committee, appointed by Grand President Sullivan: Past Grand Presidents Dr. Victory A. Derrick, Sue J. Irwin, Ariana W. Stirling and Addie L. Mosher, and Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler. The program as announced in The Grizzly Bear for June was carried out to the edification of the Grand Parlor members.

PAST GRANDS' ANNUAL DINNER.

The Past Grand Presidents had their annual dinner the evening of June 17, with Olive Bedford-Matlock as the hostess. The happy affair was arranged in the form of a league of nations. A journey was made around the world, with stops at all of the principal countries, and as the roll was called each Past Grand responded with a talk, verse or musical number.

"For our annual get-together dinner," said Mrs. Matlock, "the League of Nations suggests a theme, and we'll try in some degree to carry out the scheme. So a country to each Past Grand President is assigned, its initial letter the same as hers, and her response to it must be confined. Tell of its various customs, curious habits, history old or new, prose, poetry or song, or any toast your fancy prompts. But not too short, nor yet too long, so that every member in our ranks may have a chance at annual pranks." Responses were as follows:

Sweden, Cora B. Sifford and Ariana W. Stirling; Denmark, Carrie Roesch-Durham; Norway, Mae Himes-Noonan; Belgium, Dr. Mariana Bertola and Bertha A. Briggs; Labrador, Pearl Lamb; Switzerland, Grace S. Stoermer and Mattie M. Stein; British Isles, Genevieve Watson-Baker, Mary E. Bell and May C. Boldemann; France, Stella Finkeldey and Emma Gruber-Foley; Hungary, Emma W. Humphrey, Margaret Grote-Hill and Dr. Louise C. Heilbron; Korea, Eliza D. Keith; Russia, Dr. Eva R. Rasmussen; Philippines, Mamie G. Peyton; West Indies, Alison F. Watt; Australia, Dr. Victory A. Derrick; Mexico, Amy V. McAvoy; "The Great Golden West," Catherine E. Gloster.

The table was pleasingly and appropriately decorated with a centerpiece of red, white and blue flowers, and flags of all nations. At each plate was the national emblem of the country represented by the Past Grand seated at that place, also a miniature suitcase, filled with candies and salted nuts.

Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, the latest addition to the ranks of the Senior Past Grand Presidents, was introduced, and greeted with: "Each year to our 'College of Past Grands' is added a chair. Another has taken her degree, and is now eligible to sit in that added chair within our circle, and it is my pleasure to present to you older graduates our newest sister, Dr. Louise C. Heilbron.

"And to you, Dr. Heilbron, I present this diploma, which entitles you to all the privileges and responsibilities of membership in our distinguished college. And that you may not feel too importantly your added dignity, but realize that you are still a baby in our ranks, and that before you use a knife you must first learn the way of the spoon, I also present you with this emblem of your babyhood. It is symbolic of humility, but also the promise of future growth. May you merit the honor we confer and strive to worthily fulfill your position as a P.G.P. of the Order."

The "College of Past Grands" elected officers, retaining Olive Bedford-Matlock as the president and Bertha A. Briggs as the secretary.

RITUAL EXEMPLIFICATION.

The Wednesday evening session of the Grand Parlor was conducted by the district deputy grand presidents of Alameda County under the direction of Supervising Deputy Gertrude Morrison (Aloha Parlor No. 106). This county meeting is usually held earlier in the year, but was delayed until the Grand Parlor session. The meeting opened with the entrance march of the officers, gowned in white evening dresses and carrying arm bouquets of red and yellow roses.

After the opening ceremonies Grand President Esther Sullivan and her full corps of officers, many Past Grand Presidents and supervising district deputies were escorted to seats of honor and presented with bouquets of red, white and yellow roses, representing the colors of the Order. The mothers of Grand Vice-president Estelle M. Evans, Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler and Past Grand President May Himes-Noonan were also present and received bouquets. Mrs. Ann MacDonald (Angelita Parlor No. 32) was seated as the district deputy and Mrs. Gertrude Morrison seated as the supervising deputy of Alameda County. There were many visiting district deputies from all over the state.

The balloting march, a beautiful sight, was exemplified by fifty-eight members from all the Parlors of Alameda County, gowned in red, white and yellow evening dresses with slippers to match. Seven lovely young women were initiated. Under good of the Order, Grand President Sullivan was presented with a complete silver service, the gift coming from the district deputies, the grand officers, the Past Grand Presidents, the delegates and the Parlors of Alameda County.

The Grand President complimented the officers for the excellent and beautiful manner in which the ritualistic work was presented, and expressed her thanks to all the members of the Alameda County Parlors who had in any way helped to make her year a successful and happy one, and also for the beautiful silver service. To the ever-loyal and faithful supervising deputy of Alameda County, Gertrude Morrison, a bracelet was presented by the district deputies under her supervision. Following are the officers who took part in the evening's ceremonial:

GROUP GATHERINGS

Ano Nuevo No. 180 (Pescadero) and El Carmelo No. 181 (Daly City) Parlors were joint hostesses Monday night at a banquet honoring Past Grand President Emma Lou Humphrey who, during her term as Grand President, instituted fourteen Subordinate Parlors. Fifty-four members of the Parlors enjoyed the evening.

The tables were beautifully decorated with favors representing the mission-hell signposts, so popular in 1909. Mrs. Humphrey was the recipient of a gift from the delegates representing the Parlors she instituted

Several other groups had dinner parties, among them the southland Parlors, including San Diego, Riverside, Orange, Los Angeles and Santa Barbara Counties, and the coast counties Parlors, Monterey, San Benito and Santa Cruz.

CANNOT PRAISE TOO HIGHLY.

From J. A. Roberts of Oakland, assistant manager of the Leamington Hotel, where the Grand Parlor had its headquarters, The Grizzly Bear received the following:

"I am taking this privilege of asking you to extend, through the columns of The Grizzly Bear, to the officers and delegates who attended the Forty-fourth annual session of the Grand Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, our greatest appreciation of their patronage.

"I also wish to say that in my more than twenty years in the hotel business in different parts of the United States, during which time I have handled a great many conventions, I have never yet seen assembled a finer, more sociable or higher type group of ladies than were these Native Daughters of our great State of California.

"I cannot praise too highly this wonderful organization and the Grand Secretary, Mrs. Sallie Thaler, and her committee, whose hearty co-operation and untiring efforts changed five days of work for our organization into five days of real pleasure. I wish to thank all for their wonderful co-operation and most esteemed patronage."

TRINITY TO OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY.

Weaverville (Trinity County)—In observance of its eightieth birthday this little mountain city is arranging for a mining congress and pioneer day fete July 7 and 8. The counties of Siskiyou, Shasta and Trinity will be represented at the congress. The celebration will be featured as a home-coming occasion.

CUCUMBER PESTS APPEAR.

There are two major cucumber pests that may appear almost any time now; in fact, they probably have already shown up in many localities. They are cucumber beetles and cucumber thrips. Dust with calcium arsenate or gypsum to repel the beetle; use a five percent nicotine dust on the thrips. If both are present use a combination dust.

will ever find out for certain precisely what the word California means, or why the name was applied to the barren shores of the southern peninsula. Other meaning, "hot oven" and "fiery furnace," derived from the Spanish, are applicable. This much is certain: the beautiful name and the land that bears it so proudly are both our own. The hardy Spanish explorers wrought for another people. They were not permitted to gather the golden harvest of their patient planting. We Americans, their successors, have realized their most alluring dreams. Upon us rests the obligation of guarding well their priceless legacy—California, the Golden.

WILL ROGERS AT FOX CARTHAY.

All the wit, humor and homely philosophy which have made Will Rogers the idol of millions of American newspaper and magazine readers and radio fans are enhanced by the natural acting ability of Will Rogers in his second talking film, "So This Is London," now showing twice daily at Fox Carthay Circle Theatre.

Rogers' first movietone film, "They Had to See Paris," broke records at Carthay a year ago. Reviewers of "So This Is London" say that his satirical sense and Yankee humor, and George M. Cohan's playwriting genius have made the noted wise-cracker's latest film considerably funnier than his first international comedy-drama.

The whimsical merry-maker is seen as a Texan who goes to England to buy a cotton mill, boasting of his abhorrence of anything or anybody British. Arriving in London he finds his son has fallen in love with an English girl. One humorous complication follows another until cupid steps in and calls a peace conference of his own.

Irene Rich is seen as Rogers' screen wife; Maureen O'Sullivan and Frank Albertson have the romantic characters, and Lumsden Hare and Mary Forbes assume the roles of Lord and Lady Worthing.

Abe Lyman and his international band, with Ted Ledford as soloist, continue as an added attraction at Carthay, playing a half-hour musical prologue at each matinee and evening performance.

MEXICAN WAR SOLDIERS HONORED.

For the first time since it was a pueblo, Los Angeles honored the memory of American soldiers of the Mexican war of 1846, Memorial Day. At Avila Adobe, the Historical Society of Southern California and the California History and Landmarks Club unveiled a tablet stating the Adobe was the headquarters of Commodore Stockton at the time of the occupation of Los Angeles in 1847.

Mrs. A. S. C. Forbes and Dr. J. C. Parish were the speakers, representatives of the army and the vided.

JUNE BRIDES SHOWERED.

The shower for the June brides of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W.—Miss Calista De Soto and Miss Louise Crews—June 4 was a very pleasant affair, the mock marriage, enacted by the younger members, being greatly enjoyed. District Deputy Dora Phillips was among the visitors.

The Italian dinner arranged by Hostesses Ruth Ruiz and Flora M. Holy June 11 attracted a large crowd, who were well pleased with the repast. The tables were tastefully decorated, and after the feast cards were played. The dance given by the Parlor's drill team was most enjoyable.

Officers of the Parlor, with Miss Ruth Ruiz as the president, will be publicly installed July 23.

sented by W. O. Gilkey, Earl LeMoine and Andrew M. Stodel, presented on the Parlor's behalf a set of flags to the Metropolitan high school, the latter making the presentation address. Three new members were added to the rolls during the month.

July 15, Los Angeles will have a reception for Grand President John T. Newell, a member of the Parlor. The same evening the officers-elect, with Elmer Engelbracht as the president, will be installed by District Deputy Eldred L. Meyer, and a large class of candidates will be initiated. July 25 will be an open meeting for eligibles.

DONATION TO MEMORIAL GROVE.

Glendale—Verdugo Parlor No. 240 N.D.G.W. elected officers June 10, Mrs. Kathryn Burke becoming president. Ten dollars was donated to the Grand Parlor's Pioneer Memorial Grove fund. Following the meeting refreshments were served at tables decorated with flowers of pastel tints. The centerpiece was a birthday cake, made by Mrs. Pearl Gillet, adorned with candles in honor of those members having June birthday anniversaries. The committee in charge of arrangements for the evening included Mrs. Gussie Anderson and the Misses Florence and Mable Devine.

The auxiliary of the Parlor entertained June 6, with Mrs. Myrtle Tregoe and Kathryn Burke in charge of arrangements. Following cards supper was served, a surprise feature being a birthday cake for President Beulah VanLuven. June 11 the auxiliary held a business meeting at the home of Mrs. Gussie Anderson.

ACTIVITY REWARDED.

Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. initiated twenty-seven candidates at two ceremonies during June. The net gain in membership for the January-June term was 122, bringing the total to 1,176 June 30. Several applications are on file, and following the vacation season the membership committee, headed by Dr. John A. Schwamm, will resume its result-getting efforts.

June 20 several superior court judges were guests of the Parlor. At that time awards were made to Alpha M. Hartman, for having the most candidates initiated, to Elmer D. Doyle, for having the second largest number, and to Captain "Bill" Bright, for having the third largest. Awards were also made to Municipal Judge Louis P. Russell, Marshal Charles R. Thomas, Walter M. Slosson, Ralph J. Harbison, Charles Gassagne and Irving Baxter.

On behalf of the Parlor, Superior Judge William T. Aggeler presented a California State (Bear) Flag in department 24 of the Superior Court, Judge Carlos S. Hardy presiding. The purpose was to commemorate establishment of the first criminal master calendar court in Los Angeles County and to encourage the placing of the State Flag in all courts of justice.

Ramona's officers for the July-December term, with Ray Russell as president, will be installed July 11, and preceding the ceremonies a class of candidates will be initiated. July 25 the good of the order committee will provide entertainment.

RICH FARE OF OPERAS.

The operatic bill-of-fare for Los Angeles this coming fall has just been announced by David T. Babcock, newly-elected president of the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association. It discloses a rich fare of operas and the most intriguing group of singers ever heard on the Pacific Coast. The season opens September 29 and closes October 13, and, as usual, will be held in the Shrine Auditorium.

Leading artists for the season include: Madam Maria Jeritza, Madam Clare Clairbert, Queena Mario, Hope Hampton, Dorothee Manski, Elinor Marlo, Beniamino Gigli, Frederick Jagel, Sidney Rayner, Ezio Pinza, John Charles Thomas, Gaetano Viviani, etc.

The repertoire, which has been more than a year in the planning, covers the widest range of any yet offered by the association and is a well-balanced season of Italian, French and German works, including "La Boheme," "Tannhauser," "La Traviata," double bill of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Haensel Und Gretel," Massenet's "Manon," "Salome," "Mignon," "Girl of the Golden West" and "Lucia." The great interest

ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED.

At a delightful luncheon June 12, Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. celebrated its institution anniversary. Water lilies in pastel shades were used in the decorations. Past Grand President Grace S. Stoerner was a guest of honor. The committee in charge consisted of Mms. Isabella Granz (chairman), Ralph Tuttle, President A. O. Evans, Arthur Wright, Edward H. Anthony and Charles C. Jacobsen.

After the luncheon President Evans presented the following program: Mrs. Marian De Bouilleau, accompanied by Miss Anita Wright, eurythmic dances; Miss Kitty Travis, pianist; Mrs. M. K. Chambers, readings; Mrs. George Steinike, mexican solo dance; Mrs. Marybelle Chapman, spanish songs.

Officers-elect, with Mrs. Clarence E. Noerenberg as the president, will be installed July 8. With Mrs. Arthur Wright as chairman, the Parlor will sponsor an international breakfast in the Hollywood Bowl, July 15.

FIVE HUNDRED THE GOAL.

Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W. has elected officers for the July-December term, William Hortenstine becoming the president. Installation will be held July 7, the ceremonies to be followed by refreshments.

The Parlor has under way a campaign to increase its membership to 500, and wants every member to help reach the goal by signing up one eligible. July 21 has been set aside for the initiation of a class of candidates.

BOY SCOUTS ENTERTAIN.

Ocean Park—Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W. had a rousing good meeting June 9, when Troop 10, Boy Scouts of America, sponsored by the Parlor, and many visiting Native Sons were guests. Following a mity-nice dinner, the scouts entertained, and the Parlor, through Police Chief Clarence E. Webb, presented the troop with a Flag of the United States of America. George Bergstrom, the efficient scoutmaster, was the recipient of a gift from the Parlor. The committee of No. 267 that looks after the welfare of these boys—Chief Webb, Howard Blanchard and Arthur Giroux—plans now to provide a sufficient number of drums for a drum corps.

Later in the evening a class of candidates were initiated, and officers were elected, Harry T. Honn being chosen for president. These officers will be installed jointly with those of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 N.D.G.W. at public ceremonies July 21.

Also on No. 267's calendar for July are a dinner at which State Senator Charles Lyon (Los Angeles Parlor No. 45) will be the honor-guest, a barbecue in Santa Monica Canyon, and a class initiation. The Parlor is growing fast, and President-elect Honn says at least fifty new members must be added to the membership rolls during his term—and they will be.

SOCIAL LIFE OF CALIFORNIA

The religion of early California was, of course, Roman Catholic. No one thought to doubt it. The inquisition was never established in California as an institution, because there was no need for it. At one time a lot of literary and scientific books were burned by the priests, but there was little want of conformity to the requirements of the church. Most of the English and American people who came to California professed Catholicism because it benefited their credit. It was said that those who wished to live in California even as late as 1840 had to leave their consciences at Cape Horn.

Every Sunday was a festival. The people attended church in the morning, and enjoyed themselves in any and every way in the afternoon. As an example of how the church days were connected with their amusements, it was customary for the people to celebrate in a peculiar way in the three days preceding Ash Wednesday. They made very fine holes in eggs and drew the contents out. They then filled these empty shells with some sort of perfumed water. These shells were broken on each others' heads as a form of amusement.

It was in their amusements, more than anything else, that the Californians took an abiding interest. There were many holidays and festivities. Sometimes men and bulls fought together. The horns of the bulls were made blunt for this. It was considered an amusement, even though it was tame. This took the place of the gladiatorial show of Rome.

One of the sports that was essentially Californian was the lassoing of wild bears. At night, after a bullfight, the bears would come to eat the slain bulls. Men would be waiting in the moonlight to lasso and strangle them. As a rule the wealthy rancheros never indulged in gambling, except on special occasions such as the feast days of the saints or at a horse race.

It was in horse racing that the early Californians gloried. The rancheros would sometimes risk hundreds of cattle on the speed of a horse. Often what was made in the daytime on a horse race was lost at night around the monte table.

They did not bet for the sake of making money, however, but for the mere snke of betting. Probably no country had more feasts and celebrations than California, and horse racing and card playing were an integral part of every one of them. Cockfighting and dancing were also great amusements.

Music, singing and dancing, particularly the last, constituted a part of almost every occasion of amusement. There could scarcely be a social gathering without a fandango. The voices of the Californians, as well as their language, were particularly adapted for singing. The dances were of many kinds, and were exceedingly graceful. Some were performed in companies, some by couples and some by individuals. Occasionally the waltz was introduced. Many times, while the people were eating, a lively tune played by violins and guitars invited them to dance, and soon there was a crowd of smiling faces on the floor. The poetry of motion was not only seen, but felt in the bows and glides and whirls of this popular and favorite amusement. Often times Californians would ride many leagues to a fandango. The immoderate use of stimulants, especially the vilo distillation called aguardiente, by the men, constituted the chief objectionable feature of the fandangos.

RURAL AMERICAN CALIFORNIA.

All that has gone before has been about the social life of the people under Spanish influence at the end of the Spanish period in the history of California. Contemporary with the end of the Spanish period was the beginning of another era which we have chosen to call the rural heginning of "American" California. It will be remembered that there were different distinct types of life in California. Perhaps this American beginning was a little later than the Spanish period, but it at least began at a time when the Spanish influence was still flourishing

It was in this rural era of American California that the California of today was rooted. The people that were noticeable in this era had come from the Eastern states, hence the title "American California." The social life of the people of this period showed a marked change from the social life under Spanish influence. We do not know why there should be so marked a change between these periods. Perhaps it is more a matter of patriotism than any other thing that makes this period seem to be the foundation of our present State of California. At any rate we are proud to think of these people as being from our own country, and as being from the same kind of stock that made our country famous in its beginning in the East.

The mothers of this period gathered their children about the table and sat with them by the fireside, instilling into their hearts and souls the homely virtues that are potent builders of character. With such a beginning, no wonder California has risen to heights. Thus this early home life can be laid down as the reason California had such great leaders come from it during this period.

If the only schools we recognize as schools are the finely organized public school systems that we have today, then we would not credit the people of this period with having schools. But to have told those earnest and sincere people such a thing would, we are sure, have been a grave injustice to them. Even though the schools did come late in California, these people certainly did have schools, "after a fashion" at least.

The school life of this period stands out distinctly. The schools were old fashioned. Webster's spelling book, Towne's old fourth reader, McGuffey's old fourth reader and Murray's grammar were familiar possessions. Once a week at night there was a spelling school for all ages. These occasions gave chance for a meeting together of the people of the neighborhood, and were the scenes of many an innocent flirtation by the coy rural maidens.

The country debating society was another of the means of getting together, which is so important to people of any age and time. The young men studied for these debates after a day of hard work at the plow. The fundamental of self-education was here shown at its best. The social relations of the families were established, and a courtesy and polished crudeness of manner were developed also through the debating societies. The kindly but awkward lad was made familiar with the usages of society through this means. Rustic belles gave brightness to the occasion. As a result of these many more or less crude cultural societies there were many people living on the farms in the hill regions of California who were scholars and refined gentlemen, even though they had never been out of their own little circle, to go away after the higher education in the cities.

Another feature of the social life of this period was the weekly singing school. In the winter time, when harvests were over, this singing course was offered. It was a course with a fee within the reach of everyone. This was the winter center of social life. Before the session of the school, the men discussed the weather and markets, and the women talked about the little things that women always talk about. While these neighborly visits were being enjoyed by the older people, the youths of the neighborhood separated two by two until the school started. The music was artistically crude, but it was beautiful to them. This feature of the social life brought the neighbors close together as the other features had done. It also fixed kindly relations, relieved the tedium of everyday life, and made fresh the hearts that had become lonely from country life. The singing master's voice was usually more ambitious than melodious. His chief qualification was that he was fairly good looking and a bachelor of marriageable age. The rural maidens were very cunning in the arts of flirtation and often prodded a favored shy swain along by letting him see her flirt with the teacher in these schools.

We like to think of these people as a reverent people living in the hills; and such they were. Perhaps the very fact that they did live out in the open in the hills tended to make them reverent. At any rate, it was disreputable for a man to do anything but the necessary on the "Lord's Day." This was real reverence that was shown Sunday morning in the district school or the community church. The meetings were beautiful where people gathered, regardless of denomination, with their best appearance to sing hymns and hear the "old, old story." After the services there was a half-hour of social conversation between the preacher and his congregation. Thus by the simplicity of perfect hospitality, and with the sympathy of true and sweet hearts, the lessons of the sermon were enforced by the touch of hearts made warm and genuine.

BOOK REVIEWS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

"DEATH VALLEY: THE FACTS."

By Will Arthur Chalfant; Published by Stanford University Press, Stanford University, California; Price, $3.50

"Writers on Death Valley, the Tomesha (ground afire) of one of the Indian tribes, have drawn heavily on the vocabulary of descriptive terms," says the author. "Each writer has seen there the qualities he anticipated and has found inspiration for his most graphic adjectives . . . There has been much of such description, to the neglect of prosaic details. The matter-of-fact inquirer for knowledge has found it, if at all, in dilute form.

"This volume attempts to supply information, without emulating the prose-facts. Facts and serious conclusions herein are worthy of credence not because of where they are found so much as because they are based on painstaking investigation. Documents and reports and the findings of skilled specialists fortify gleanings from other reliable sources as well as personal observations in trips covering the valley practically from end to end and from side to side."

"Spaniards or Mexicans were undoubtedly the first people other than Indians to visit the Death Valley region," says the chapter devoted to "The Forty-Niners." "The evidence of Fremont is conclusive that the route known as 'the old Spanish trail' was used in travel between Santa Fe and California. Fremont, on the route in 1844, was careful to select the encampments used by Santa Fe caravans, he says . . . The first definite record of Death Valley begins with the emigrants who wandered into it toward the close of the year 1849, on their way to the gold fields of California.

"By common acceptance the term 'Jayhawkers' has been most frequently used to designate that expedition and is so employed in some of the records left by survivors. Their detailed accounts, however, prove that its use was merely for convenience and that the name properly belonged to only a small group. Others, including many whose experiences were the most tragic, were not then recognized as a part of the Jayhawker organization, being connected with it only as fellow-travelers. The expedition included a number of different parties," and a brief account of the trials and tribulations of each party is included in the resume.

Other chapters contain a mass of authentic data on geographical, meteorological and climatological aspects of the Death Valley country. The work is liberally and excellently illustrated, and has a reference index. A map, done by Charles Hamilton Owens, is a valuable feature.

Author Chalfant makes the suggestion that the name of the Funerals' highest peak, called "Nahgl" (Sheep Mountain) by the Piutes, be designated Mount Manly, in honor of the outstanding Pioneer of Death Valley, William Lewis Manly, who probably named the valley. The suggestion should have the attention of the Native Sons, the Native Daughters and others interested in such matters.

PRESIDENT N.S. CLUB RETIRES AFTER MANY YEARS' SERVICE.

San Francisco—The board of directors of the Grizzly Bear Club has adopted the following resolutions, expressing regret at the retirement of Colonel Henry G. W. Dinkelspiel, a member of Bay City Parlor No. 104 N.S.G.W., from the presidency of the club:

Whereas, Brother Henry G. W. Dinkelspiel has, since the organization of the Grizzly Bear Club in 1911, served continuously as the president of its board of directors, and had for more than fifteen years prior thereto served as the president of the board of directors of the Library and Reading Room Association of the N.S.G.W., which association was the predecessor of said Grizzly Bear Club in maintaining a library and reading-room for the use of the Parlors of the N.S.G.W. in San Francisco; and

Whereas, Brother Dinkelspiel has, during all said years, worked faithfully and earnestly for the upbuilding and the maintenance of said organizations, and given freely of his time, his ability and zeal for the advancement of the welfare of the fraternity of the Native Sons of the Golden West; and whereas, after said many years of service, Brother Dinkelspiel has retired as the President of said board of directors of said Grizzly Bear Club, be it

Resolved, That said board of directors of said club, and the members of the fraternity of the N.S.G.W., deeply regret the necessity which compels his retirement, and hereby express toward him their deep sense of obligation for his zealous and patriotic labors, and their warm feeling of friendship and brotherly affection which has grown up in our years of fraternal association, and wish for him prosperity, happiness and enduring friendships through many years to come.

To All Native Born Californians

I, JOHN T. NEWELL, GRAND PRESIDENT OF THE ORDER OF NATIVE SONS OF THE GOLDEN WEST, DO HEREBY APPEAL TO ALL NATIVE BORN CALIFORNIANS OF THE WHITE MALE RACE BORN WITHIN THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OF THE AGE OF EIGHTEEN YEARS AND UPWARD, OF GOOD HEALTH AND CHARACTER, AND WHO BELIEVE IN THE EXISTENCE OF A SUPREME BEING, TO JOIN OUR FRATERNITY AND THEREBY ASSIST IN THE AIMS AND PURPOSES OF THE ORGANIZATION:

- To arouse Loyalty and Patriotism for State and for Nation.
- To elevate and improve the Manhood upon which the destiny of our country depends.
- To encourage interest in all matters and measures relating to the material upbuilding of the State of California.
- To assist in the development of the wonderful natural resources of California.
- To protect the forests, conserve the waters, improve the rivers and the harbors, and beautify the towns and the cities.
- To collect, make known and preserve the romantic history of California.
- To restore and preserve all the historic landmarks of the State.
- To provide homes for California's homeless children, regardless of race, creed or color.
- To keep this State a paradise for the American Citizen by thwarting the organized efforts of all undesirable peoples to control its destiny.

THE ORDER OF NATIVE SONS OF THE GOLDEN WEST IS THE ONLY FRATERNITY IN EXISTENCE WHOSE MEMBERSHIP IS MADE UP EXCLUSIVELY OF WHITE NATIVE BORN AMERICANS.

THE SOCIAL LIFE OF CALIFORNIA 1840 to 1860

THE MOST SERIOUS, EXTENDED AND largely attended of all the functions of the year were the camp meetings. These were held in some popular rural center after the harvest was over. Generally they were great mass meetings held in a grove. The religious bodies that were the most prominent were the Methodists, Baptists and Christians. They generally continued over a period of two weeks, arranged so that three Sundays were contained in them. These were the field days. From dawn until midnight Satan was bombarded with sermons, songs and prayers. These meetings did not do the church justice, because they were just a general rounding up of the resources of the church for its yearly attack upon the stronghold of wickedness. On the other hand, they were of great moral use and force, because once a year, at least, they cleaned up the lives of the people and inspired them with nobler aspirations and greater hopes.

The great day of the country was the Fourth of July. If the nearest town did not have a celebration, a meeting was held in the neighborhood and a committee was appointed to secure an orator and a brass band. Great barbecues were prepared. Volunteers were numerous, and free contributions consisting of whole bullocks, hogs, sheep, fowls, loads of cake, pies, breads and condiments, and gallons of coffee, tea and milk, were brought to make a great feast worthy of the day. The afternoon was spent in simple amusements such as dances, ballgames, wrestling matches, foot races and horse races. It was good-natured, hearty participation that came from simple hearts, and healthy minds and bodies, loving their country.

The Spanish rodeo still held sway in this period, and it was adopted by law to facilitate the separation of cattle. A rodeo often lasted several days, and while it lasted it was an exciting, turbulent and noisy scene. The shouts of the vaqueros, the bellowing of cattle and the tramping of hoofs stirred the pulse of visitors.

The boys of this period had many sports. Among these was riding the "bucking horse." Every boy had to do this or lose his caste and be called a "molly-coddle." On Saturdays or other non-school days the younger boys gathered behind the barn with the older ones to try their skill at this feat. It was a custom that a boy could be thrown twice, but never again without being outlawed from "good society."

THE MINING ERA

Probably the most picturesque type of people to live in California in these twenty years was the mining class. In 1849 the Argonauts came to California and found San Francisco a tented city, largely made up of men. In 1850 the female population was increasing, but women made up only about eight percent of the population in the cities, and less than two percent in the mining districts. These things stamped California as rather peculiar. Most of the miners were young men. The people came from all over the world. Some very noticeable ones were the self-complacent Briton, the methodic and reflective German, the versatile Gaul, the orthodox Negro and the swarthy Moor. Besides these there were Abyssinians, Mongols, Japanese, Malays, Hindoos, Morros, Kanakas, Ottomans and Hebrews; but the American element predominated. The Latin peoples were considered clanish; and as early as 1851 the Chinese had begun to awaken the enmity of their various neighbors.

It must be remembered that all these people who came to California did not go into the mining camps. Many stayed in the cities. The different nationalities in the cities naturally had different customs and peculiarities, and different types of dress; but the miner's garb was prevalent. The miner was usually characterized by his checked woolen shirt, open at the neck and showing the robustness of his chest, shaggy with hair; his wrinkled boots, his waist bristling with a battery of knives and pistols; his dingy hat; and his long hair and beard. A little later the miner dressed on Sunday with a white shirt, diamond studs, gold pins, broad hat and ornaments, and a scarlet sash. Although this did seem like showing off, the miner stood against "dandyism." When the soft-handed city man came garb-ed in formal and varied styles, he found little sympathy with the miner. Surely the horny-handed miner with bronzed and weather-beaten features represented an original type.

The mining class was a motley throng. Besides the ordinary run of people that would be expected to be doing such work, statesmen, lawyers, physicians and clergymen found employment in driving mules, cooking, working for wages, making hay, washing and tailoring. A raggedly dressed, bearded man might be found to be a most refined, highly-educated man. Thus, because of the very fact that the miners as a class contained many of these educated men, they received a goodly share of the praise that has been showered upon the earlier rural class as the foundation of the character of the state.

In 1851 a ragged, greasy man came into a hotel and saw a piano. The others in the room smiled at him, for they thought he had never seen one before. The man went upstairs and cleaned up a bit and then came down again. The people smiled as they saw him look musingly at the piano. Presently he sat down and began to play and sing so that he astounded them all. There were many, also, of the inferior grade who took advantage of this democracy to claim places of which they were unworthy.

The miners were kind, especially to the down and out. Once a boy of sixteen who had had a lot of bad luck came to a camp. One man, observing him, said, "Boys, I'll work an hour for that chap yonder if you will." The others took up the challenge and, at the end of an hour, they turned over to the boy about a hundred dollars in gold dust. They made out a list of tools and

There's just one place in the world I know,—
One spot that I love best,
Where the western glow paints the mountains'
snow
And tips the eagles' nest;
Where the poppies flirt with the redwood tree
And the curling waves entice;
It's Heaven's own dream of a land and sea,— California's Paradise.

California,—California;
California's Par-a-dise: — — — Oh,—

I love that state with its Golden Gate
Out west by the boundless sea,
Where the old bells ring and the orioles sing
Its wondrous tales to me.
Where the poppies grow all the breezes know
I've pledged my life with thine,
And kissed the breast of its mountains' crest,—
California—is mine.

I've roamed the earth from its east to west
And north to its southern pole;
I've dined and wined with its very best
And supped with its poorest soul;
I know each place with its winning grace
And the charms of every clime;—
But none can boast to a truer boast,— California—is mine: — — — For,—

I love that state with its Golden Gate
Out west by the boundless sea,
Where the old bells ring and the orioles sing
Its wondrous tales to me.
Where the poppies grow all the breezes know
I've pledged my life with thine,
And kissed the breast of its mountains' crest,—
California—is mine.

California,—California;
Cal-i-for-ni-a is mine.

This is my effort at words. The score is now being written by a trained orchestral leader at his home in La Jolla. The song will be brought out on September 9 [Admission Day] at San Francisco."—Editor.)

said, "Now go and buy these tools and come back and go to work. We'll have a good claim picked out for you and you will then have to paddle for yourself."

At another time a party arrived at the diggings worn out and with wornout clothes. One approached the owner of the store and explained briefly that he needed supplies and clothing and ten dollars to pay for freighting over the mountains. "Do you know anyone here?" asked the store owner. "Not a soul," he replied. The owner filled out the list, gave him the ten dollars and turned to wait on the next customer. When the man paid the bill later, he asked why he had been trusted. The storekeeper replied that when anyone stated his needs in such a straightforward way, he was satisfied with his honesty.

The exuberance of life in the mining youth, together with the stimulating climate, tended to let these adventurers yield to the tendency to let their spirits run riot. The people were full of vigor in work and in play. This tension of excitement brought out much latent strength. Many launched into the current of speculation. There was a full indulgence in exciting pastimes, and recklessness had its votaries. Some dreamt of getting rich quick and returning home. Through all this there pervaded a sense of wholesome liberality. Half-dollars were the smallest tips, and even traders scorned to haggle. Laborers received one dollar an hour, and artisans received from twelve to twenty dollars a day.

When we consider the daily life of the miner we find that there was much more labor than romance. His claim far up the mountain or down in a narrow canyon did not permit the usual conveniences of home life. Because of the strenuous nature of the miner's labor during the week, he was ready to observe Sunday. The usual duties were laid aside, but it must not be inferred that all spent the day in religious worship.

The forenoon was usually spent in rest and quiet, in reading or writing to friends. The miners seldom attended religious services. Some, for a change in labor, did their laundry or cleaned their sluice boxes. One store exhibited a sign, "All Bills Paid Up Here On Sunday." The afternoon was usually spent in strenuous recreation or in a trip to the nearest town for supplies, or for some extra entertainment. The day was very likely to be noisy. Gambling was in full swing. It was said that there might be a good church congregation in the morning, and in the afternoon they would all be drunk. Of others it was said that they were "affectionately drunk in the forenoon, fighting drunk in the afternoon, and dead drunk at night."

It is true that Sunday was a day more for enjoyment than for devotion, because Puritanical habits had been broken down by the long jour-

RE-ELECT Senator Charles W. LYON

Republican
as SENATOR

Primary Election
Tuesday, August 26th

Senator Lyon, affiliated with Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 N.S.G.W. has served in the Legislature for the past sixteen years and has an enviable record. Los Angeles County is to have but one senator so it should have the benefit of Senator Lyon's wide experience. The Senator's record shows that he passed all measures for the establishment and maintenance of the university at Los Angeles; that he is the author of the bill for the construction of a state building in Los Angeles; that he is the author of concurrent resolution memorializing Congress to reduce tax on smaller incomes; that he supported the old-age pension law, the eight-hour law for women and other humanitarian measures and that he was the author of the measure providing State aid for Olympic games in Los Angeles. A vote to return Senator Lyon to the State Senate is a vote for good, economical government.

SUPERIOR BENCH
Los Angeles County
OFFICE
No. 2

Henry M. Willis, Native Son, graduate University California, admitted to practice in 1894. During 1907 State Senator from 30th Senatorial District, chairman Code Revision Committee of State Senate, personally in charge of all code revision presented by Code Commissioner that session. In 1909 chairman Judiciary Committee, its most important committee, through which all bills involving substantive and procedural law must pass. Author of the Mining Laws in the Code, the Hunters' License Law, and the County Division Law in present form. During parts 1909 and 1910 First Assistant United States Attorney for Southern District of California. Feb. 1, 1926, appointed by the Governor, Judge Municipal Court. Elected first presiding judge of that court, with the duty of conducting it through its organization. In Dec. 1926 appointed member new Judicial Council, reappointed Dec. 1928. Assigned as Superior Judge 2 years in L. A. County. Member Masons, Elks, Native Sons and Knights Pythias.

ney across the plains or around Cape Horn. After a week's work in the pursuit of gold, Sunday was a day of rest, but not repose, because of the excitable temperament of the miners. The duties of religion were, for the most part, postponed until the return home, because in the interior there were no leaders. Would-be leaders feared ridicule; but in the cities a clergyman was present and could always count upon a number of sedate folks who found refreshment in the church services. Most of these were employers and family men. The magnetism of the women attracted many. By 1850 there were seven places of worship of importance in the state. Thus education, literature and art received a beneficent impulse.

There were very few women in California. Often times there were whole camps with not a woman in them. When one was found, she was only too often only a fallen image. For a long while the disreputable element outshone the virtuous by loudness in dress and manner, especially in public resorts. Women generally excited a chivalrous respect among the miners, but the women who sought California, as compared with its men, were inferior. In the scarcity of the women the men became heroic and the women became worshipful. In the mining regions men would travel afar for a glance at a woman or to handle a piece of female apparel. A little girl would be heralded as an angel. Many a rugged fellow hent with tears of recollection to give a small girl a kiss and press a golden ounce into her hand. The effects of these sentiments remained rooted in the hearts of Californians long after the romantic age. The only mellow trait and sacred thing with many was some base imitation of the divine image. It was for a long time difficult to find a jury which would convict a woman. Many benevolent persons wishing to relieve the surplus market at home, brought women West who were snapped up immediately. These were not generally of the best class, but as comforts increased, a better class of women came.

Because of the lack of women houseservants, some very crude as well as humorous situations often resulted. The following are given as examples: Insects and vermin abounded. Laundry expenses often exceeded the price of new underwear. Water and conveniences were lacking, and dwelling accommodations were most deficient. Flimsy cloth partitions in hotels forbade privacy. Any hovel answered the purpose for unmarried men, fitted as they were by the hardships of sea voyage or overland journey. The high prices for board and lodging, and the discomforts of housekeeping heightened the allurements of vice-breeding resorts.

When a steamer came into port, everyone rushed for mail and the month-old paper, which readily sold for a dollar. When the papers had been read, their owners rushed back to sell them over again. Men and boys would get in a line, which would extend oftentimes over a block, the evening before the mail came and wait with stools or other comforts. At the steamer's sailing, many old Californians, though only of a half-year's sojourn, turned their complacent faces eastward. Others were left stranded, with not even the means to follow them.

The saloon was the meeting place of the town. It was well furnished with sparkling chandeliers, costly mirrors, lascivious paintings, music and sirens, and luring song and dance. Until 1850, when San Francisco introduced street lamps, the saloons were the only lights the city had. Comfortable chairs and a cozy stove were conveniently placed. The proprietor was the hail fellow and confidant of everybody, who cared for the wounded and fallen after the knife or pistol skirmish. As early as 1849 temperance advocates were busy. This reckless intemperance was due to the lack of homes and higher recreation, the stimulating climate, and the strain, excitement and temperament of the people.

Gambling was legally authorized at all of the saloons. Cities established special gambling houses. Each saloon strove to outdo the other in the flashiness of mirrors and pictures. At one end of the hall was the indispensable har. At the other end was the orchestra balcony, if indeed the crude assembly of instruments could be called an orchestra. At any rate this was employed to excite and break down the barriers before the piles of money. The stakes usually ranged from fifty cents to five dollars, but rose frequently to five hundred and a thousand dollars. Sometimes as much as forty-five thousand dollars was lost on the single turn of the card. The Mexicans were very passive gamblers. They could lose a whole fortune and never change their expression. On the other hand, Americans could hardly conceal their disappointments. There were many honest gamblers in the mining camps, but there was often swindling and resort to weapons.

In the towns, licensing that which seemed to be an incurable evil tended to preserve decorum. With the growth of the home, gambling began to fall into disrepute. By September of 1850 San Francisco took the first step against it by forbidding the practice on Sundays. Lotteries flourished, especially in the holiday season. Jewelry, land, wharves and even buildings passed through the lotteries. The hullights of pre-conquest days found favor. San Francisco built more arenas, which flourished throughout the fifties. Regattas, prizefights and horse and foot races completed the list of amusements. On Sundays and holidays the resort was the mission. Many hanquets and balls were held out-of-doors on the chilly evenings.

The unwholesome food and atmosphere of the crowded ships had lent the seed of disease. The new climates and surroundings, the unusual and exhausting labor of standing in water or moist ground under a broiling sun, the insufficient shelter of tents and sheds, the poor and scanty provisions, and the excitement and dissipation all combined with these seeds of disease to make some of the camps almost unbearable. To top all this, the sufferers were isolated, remote from doctors and medicine. In 1850 cholera swept off fifteen percent of the population of Sacramento, and fifty percent westward in one year. This lowered the physical and mental tone of all of California.

There was little medical care in the mining camps; so the invalids went to the cities. Many sought escape by suicide. In the cities little ceremony attended the burials. In the mining camps, a procession of miners attended a comrade unshrouded and unconfined to a shallow grave. The high cost of treatment by the doctors and private hospitals, together with the overcrowding, kept the death-rate high during the first two years of the mining era.

In the early mining days, the people relied on the faith of their comrades. Valuable goods were left unguarded. Wages were easy, and the people were armed. Soon a change came. More of the obnoxious element than ever came in. Fugitives with wavering virtue from trouble and dishonor swarmed to California. The bolder ones banded together to raid systematically upon the convoys from the mines. There were sweeping conflagrations and assassinations. Life was cheap. There were many drunken brawls, and everyone carried weapons. With the excitable temperament of the Californians, anything was likely to happen. Theft was the biggest crime that could be committed. An armed man was supposed to take care of himself without the help of law.

In the north, sedate yet resolute Americans, with a ready recourse to lynching, inspired awe. Farther south this restraint diminished. Every camp had its hully and every town its sharper. The fluctuating current of life was a shield that fostered the roaming instinct, pernicious habits, and vagrancy and loafing. Much of the growing crime took root during the wet winter of 1849-1850, which brought starvation and sickness to the inaccessible camps.

San Francisco was the center of amusement, extravagance and frivolity in dress. It supplied the innate craving for amusement. The city was a medley of nationalities. The beer halls of the Teuton, the French cafe chantant, the Italian masquerade, the Irish Saint Patrick's day, the Genoese Columbus day, the German May day and the Latin king carnival all lent color to the city.

Before the gold days there were theatres at San Francisco, Santa Barbara and Monterey. The gold rush diverted attention from theatricals. There were many amateur performances as early as 1847 and 1848. The first professional performance was given at Sacramento, October 18, 1849. The Jenny Lind theater was opened in San Francisco in October of 1850. There were many sterling actors such as Kirby, Atwater, Stark, Bingham and Thorne Sr., but inferior talent was the most noticeable. Most of the performances were of the blood and thunder type. In the mining regions, the appearance of a woman in the early days was all that was needed to insure the success of the performance.

The general effect of the drama was good, partly from the moral lessons imparted, but mainly as a diversion from the gambling and drinking resorts. By 1851 there was hardly a town of one thousand inhabitants without its hall for entertainments. Mere instrumental proficiency was not widely appreciated, but female vocalists with sympathetic voices and stirring home melodies never failed to evoke applause,

GOVERNOR of CALIFORNIA

Governor Young has kept the faith!

There is no element of doubt in his candidacy, no question whether he can measure up to the tremendous responsibilities of the office.

Governor Young's campaign pledges of four years ago are California's outstanding governmental accomplishments of today—adequate highways, schools freed from political influence, business-like coordination of departments, sound economy and truthful budgets, a remedial prison program, conservation of natural resources, human handling of human problems, and an improved labor and industrial program.

His platform is his record!

EIGHTY YEARS OF PROGRESS— STATE FAIR THEME

Irvin Engler

CALIFORNIA'S RECORD OF PROGRESS since admission into the union eighty years ago will be strikingly illustrated at the State Fair and Western Exposition in Sacramento, August 30 to September 7, both inclusive. Greater than any of the State Fairs which have gone before will be this year's exposition celebrating California's eightieth birthday, and presenting a panoramic picture of achievement unsurpassed by any other state of the nation.

The State Fair is California's show window, and this year it will be resplendent with the finest and most remarkable display of products ever assembled at the exposition grounds. Fifty-four counties of the state will exhibit the cream of their horticultural, agricultural and mineral products in the huge pavilion which occupies the central spot of the fair grounds. The whole range of production, from the apples of Mendocino County to the pineapples of San Diego County, will be seen under one roof—the world's greatest horticultural exposition.

Livestock, too, will have a prominent place in the picture. On the opening day of the State Fair the new livestock building, one of the largest of its kind in America, will be dedicated. In this building will be shown blue-ribbon winners of national and international stock shows.

An entire building and annex on the fair grounds will be given over to the educational displays of more than 2,500 California schools, showing the progress along educational lines since that memorable day, September 9, 1850, when California was admitted to statehood. Another building will be used exclusively for machinery exhibits, particularly farm machinery, contrasting modern methods of cultivation with the primitive equipment of eighty years ago.

The art salon, commercial displays, poultry building and other departments of the great exposition all will portray the theme chosen for this year's State Fair—"Eighty Years of Progress!"

A number of other Western states, joining with California in the notable celebration, will have elaborate exhibits in the western exposition building.

While the State Fair is fundamentally an educational institution, the directors have given attention to developing a program of entertainment, providing amusement and diversity for the hundreds of thousands of persons who attend. Each afternoon of the nine days will be featured with a variety program in front of the two big grandstands—harness horse races competing for $34,000 in purses, spectacular circus acts, vaudeville specialties and music. The evening feature will be the famous State Fair horse show, bringing the best specimens of horseflesh in America into competition for $23,000 in prizes. In all, $125,000 is the amount offered for premiums, prizes and purses in all departments of the exposition.

The opening day, August 30, will be newspaper and "Pan-American" day, this designation being made as a tribute to the press, and to delegates in attendance at the Pan-American Reciprocal Trades Conference which will open in Sacramento just preceding the State Fair.

On the closing day, September 7, twenty surviving "forty-niners" will be guests of honor. They are men and women who were born in California or who came across the plains as children in the years 1849 and 1850. A special program will be arranged for the occasion by the "romantic forty-niners," a commemorative radio feature. Twenty popular radio stars will appear before the grandstand crowds August 31, when the "golden state blue monday jamboree" will be the featured number of the afternoon program.

The State Fair is an important branch of the state government, being affiliated with the Department of Finance, of which Lyman M. King is the head. R. A. Condee of Chino, San Bernardino County, is the president of the exposition; T. H. Ramsey of Red Bluff, Tehama County, vice-president; John M. Perry of Stockton, San Joaquin County, treasurer; Charles W. Paine of Sacramento, secretary-manager. Together with the following they constitute the board of directors: Sam H. Greene of Oakland, Alameda County; Edward Dinkelspiel of Suisun, Solano County; Harold J. McCurry of Sacramento; C. A. Melcher of McFarland, Kern County; D. Eymann Huff of Orange, Orange County; Ellis Franklin of Colfax, Placer County; Fred H. Birby of Long Beach, Los Angeles County; W. H. Brooks of El Centro, Imperial County; A. C. Hardison of Santa Paula, Ventura County; W. Lang of Stockton, San Joaquin County, and W. A. Kennedy of Pomona, Los Angeles County.

As expressed by President Condee, "The State Fair belongs to all the people of California. It is an annual event in which every Californian should be interested for, more than any other single medium, it spreads the name and fame of the Golden State around the world. The attendance has been growing steadily, increasing from 200,000 five years ago to more than 430,000 last year. In the words of President Herbert Hoover, 'One can learn more of California by spending two days at the State Fair than by weeks of travel through the state,' for here is spread before the public all that California has to show in the way of resources, products and educational advancement."

A compilation of figures on resources and production, made by the State Fair staff, shows that California has made remarkable strides in the past eighty years. Here are some of the things in which it now ranks first in the union: gold production, fisheries, alfalfa, peas, asparagus, tomatoes, lettuce, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, spinach, olives, almonds, walnuts, grapes, raisins, peaches, pears, apricots, plums, prunes, figs, cherries, oranges, lemons, cantaloupes, honey. California also holds first place in number of tractors, number of motor vehicles per thousand inhabitants, developed water power and number of irrigation districts.

Apple Show—Sebastopol, Sonoma County, will feature its annual Gravenstein Apple Show, August 5-10.

Spanish Fiesta—The annual Old Spanish Days Fiesta of Santa Barbara City will be held August 7, 8 and 9.

CALIFORNIA HAPPENINGS OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

AUGUST 1880 WAS A GREAT CONVENTION month in California. As county officials then served two-year terms, and as both the Republican and the Democratic parties put legislative and county candidates in the field, not a day, except Sunday, was without a few conventions somewhere. The campaign opened with stump speeches being heard from Siskiyou to San Diego.

A sensation was created at the San Francisco sandlot when Mrs. Otis Greenwood of Tuolumne County appeared there as a Democratic spell-binder. She drew a large crowd, and could out-talk Dennis Kearney, now a Greenbacker. The Republicans imported several speakers from the East.

T. DeWitt Talmage, an eminent New York City divine, came to the state to deliver lectures.

One of his topics, "Big Blunders," made no reference to his own mistake in coming to California to lecture during a hot summer month while a political campaign was in full swing.

Returns from the 1880 census began to be made public. California's population was 864,430, a ten-year gain of 304,589. The leading counties were: San Francisco 233,066, Alameda 63,392, Sacramento 36,200, Santa Clara 35,113, Los Angeles 33,392, San Diego 8,690.

Sonoma County August 1 had seven slight earthquake shocks, about twenty minutes apart.

A meteor, dropping brilliant sparks, crossed over Contra Costa County the evening of August 11. It was more than three feet in diameter when first seen and, traveling slowly, was visible for fifteen minutes.

Judge W. B. Norman died at Stockton, San Joaquin County, August 26. He came to California from Mississippi in 1849. He represented Calaveras County in the State Legislature of 1856 and afterward, for several years, was a judge of that county.

J. Reverly died in San Quentin State Prison August 17, and it now developed that he had uncomplainingly suffered conviction and imprisonment for forgery to save the reputation of a friend with a family.

Juan Marino, residing at La Brea rancho near Los Angeles City, was now 110 years old. He claimed his father was, in 1781, one of the thirteen founders of the Pueblo of Los Angeles.

ORANGES $15 PER THOUSAND.

At the Henrietta ranch on the Feather River near Oroville, Butte County, a colony of sixty beavers were industriously gnawing down trees and tugging them to the river, evidently with the intention of eventually damming the stream.

A six-foot sea serpent, or shark fighter, was caught in San Francisco Bay; it had a cat-like head and two rows of long white teeth. A thirty-one-foot shark, weighing 6,000 pounds, was caught near Aptos, Santa Cruz County.

Professor Jordan reported 260 species of fish along the Pacific Coast. Of the number, 150 were in the Monterey Bay waters and 60 in waters adjacent to San Diego.

W. W. Thompson, a Napa City angler, in two hours caught seventy-five trout in Moore's Creek, near Howell Mountain.

The Federal Government this month shipped to New Zealand trout eggs from the McCloud River hatchery in Shasta County.

Irrigation was found to be the most effective remedy for the grasshopper pest afflicting Sierra Valley. The eggs would not hatch in damp ground.

Riverside County orange growers were selling their crop at $15 per 1,000. They expected to dispose of a half-million during the season.

Lodi, San Joaquin County, became the state's watermelon center, 100,000 of them being shipped from there this month.

A Solano County peach, twelve inches in circumference and weighing exactly one pound, was grown and exhibited by H. W. McEwen.

A six-day pedestrian contest between six well-known hikers in Los Angeles City was won by a man named Edwards, who tramped 467 miles.

Two San Jose, Santa Clara County, Frenchmen were arrested for buncoing a fellow-countryman out of $3,000. When searched at the city jail $48,940 in gold and silver coins were panned out of their clothing.

At Chico, Butte County, discovery was made the morning of August 20 that thirty of the City Park's choicest trees had been ruthlessly mutilated and ruined. Three tramps who, the previous day, had been ordered to vamoose, were found to be the vandals and were sent to jail for six months.

August coinage at the United States Mint in San Francisco was reported to be 63,000 twenty-dollar gold pieces, 67,000 ten-dollar gold pieces and 1,000,000 silver dollars.

RESTRAINING DAM FAILURE.

Mexican dollars, excellent in appearance but counterfeits made of brass disks coated with silver, were in circulation. The "profession" of counterfeiting had sunk to such depths that a lead counterfeit of the lowly nickel, recently introduced into California and unfamiliar to many of its citizens, was being freely accepted as a coin of the realm.

A strong-minded Yuba City, Sutter County, woman proposed in the Marysville, Yuba County, press to organize a Woman's Protective Association, claiming that until women did organize they would continue to be "child-bearing serfs of men." They, the women, she said, should organize to "do their part for money, instead of just board and clothes;" they should be the best-paid women in the world. She proposed that a mother should be paid $100 on giving birth to a girl baby, $200 for a boy baby, $300 for twins and $1,000 for triplets; p.o.d. (payment on demand) was to be the rule.

A "volcano" in the San Jacinto Mountains began spouting mud and hot water August 10. A few days later, however, it proved to be a geyser, throwing water to a height of 100 feet.

The Board of Drainage Commissioners, created by the State Legislature to handle the hydraulic mining debris question and to build restraining dams on the Yuba and Bear Rivers, let a contract August 13 to build a dam on the Yuba nine miles above Marysville. It was to be 4,800 feet long, from 8 to 15 feet high, to be constructed of trees, brush and rock, and to have its crest eight feet above high-water mark. Subsequently a second dam, 9,600 feet long, was to be built two miles above the first one. The original dam was constructed, but did not prove to be a success.

At Cherokee, Butte County, the Spring Valley hydraulic mine cleaned up $76,000 in gold dust after a sixty-day washing. The sluices, it was estimated, contained an additional $20,000.

The Weaver hydraulic mine in Trinity County cleaned up thirty-seven pounds of gold after a month's operations.

A pocket found on Otter Creek, El Dorado County, in two days yielded ten ounces of gold worth $180.

A buried gravel channel that was yielding $108 in gold to the pan was found in Placer County.

McMurry and Hupp this month cleaned up their Butte County mine for the season and took out 1,428 ounces of gold worth $27,000.

LIVELY OLD TIMERS.

Lewis Stone, mining at Greenwood, El Dorado County, struck a seam of decomposed gold quartz that paid $50 to the pan. In two hours he got $3,000.

The Rock Bar quartz mine near Grass Valley, Nevada County, this month made one of those strikes which electrify a mining community. A candle box of ore yielded $400 in gold, and $9,756 was obtained from the crushing of 610 pounds of rock.

The agate quarry in San Luis Obispo County was being worked this month. The product was of a beautiful appearance, varying in color from white gray to pink.

John Smith, mining at Indian Flat, Nevada County, found a pocket of gold, compressed between two large stones, from which he extracted $1,300.

In the C. and Z. mine of Mono County, at a depth of 120 feet, a petrified rattlesnake was found with a petrified frog in its mouth.

A writer in a Redding, Shasta County, newspaper stated the Indian name for the Sacramento River was "Wy Min;" for the Pit River, "Pool Min," meaning "East River," and for the McCloud River, "Win Nim Min," meaning "Middle River."

Three men rented some acreage near Pasadena, Los Angeles County, for $400 a year and made $3,500 by turning it into a bee ranch.

The California Pioneer Society of Sacramento City was described as being the liveliest body of old-timers in the state. The quartet of Sacramento Parlor No. 3 N.S.G.W.—Ed. F. Cohn, George C. Kohler, Joe Maddux and Graham—sang at its many entertainments. An election of directors was held this month, and seven tickets were in the field; every member who could possibly get to the hall voted. The society appointed a committee to urge the State Legislature to build a statue in memory of General John A. Sutter.

John Ream's toll bridge across the North Fork of the Yuba River, eight miles from Camptonville, Yuba County, caught fire August 12 and was totally destroyed. Loss, $20,000.

An Oakland, Alameda County, dwelling, housing a family in needy circumstances, burned August 15. Mrs. Kalahar and her three children were cremated, and a visitor, Mrs. Fenton, was fatally burned.

A fire in Red Bluff, Tehama County, August 2 destroyed a score of business houses, causing a $100,000 loss.

HERO OF THE HOUR.

The business section of Wheatland, Yuba County, was destroyed by fire August 26, entailing a loss of $60,000.

The boiler of a Monterey County thresher exploded August 25, fatally injuring Engineer McGregor and Fireman Divine.

C. F. Reid of Bodie, Mono County, complied with the order of a holdup man to "stick 'em up!" But he had a bowie knife in one hand, and when it descended upon the highwayman's shoulder he yelped and ran.

James Kenney, 8-year-old Bay Point, Contra Costa County, lad, fell August 15 and broke an arm. Five days later he fell off a load of hay and the wagon ran over and broke both his legs. Grace Kuhn, Red Bluff, Tehama County, lass, went with a number of companions to look over the snagboat "Dover," the first steam craft that had for many years come up the Sacramento River as far as Red Bluff. Crossing a gangplank from shore to boat she became dizzy and fell into the river. A Ind named Harry Vick immediately jumped in, fully clothed, and pulled her to shore. He became the hero of the hour.

Bertlo Batchford, 8 years of age, fishing from a Benicia, Solano County, wharf, fell into the water and was drowned.

Proprietor August Felne was fatally mangled in the machinery of his Ione, Amador County, flour mill August 18.

An Oroville, Butte County, gambler, named Murray, playing faro August 6, reached over the table to "copper" a bet of five blue chips placed on the 9-spot, and fell dead from heart disease.

Six-year-old Lewis Dreyfuss of Nevada City, Nevada County, walked backward into a tub of boiling water and was fatally scalded.

C. H. Pierson, Trinity County Pioneer, crossing a flume upon a plank, was taken with an apoplectic fit, fell into the flume and was drowned.

Rev. J. W. Gulberson of Ventura County died in great agony August 15 from the effects of a rattlesnake bite.

John Maguire was hung at San Rafael, Marin County, August 6 for the murder of two men. His last request, that he be allowed to go to his death smoking a good cigar, was denied. Four hundred invited guests witnessed a "perfect necktie party."

PREPARE PLANTING HOLES.

If vines or trees are to be planted during the coming winter, preparations may be necessary

now. In the cases above mentioned, where there is a hard layer beneath the surface, it should be thoroughly broken up before planting. And, as before stated, this is the season to do it. Where there is a real hardpan, blasting for holes will be of great assistance. Roots of trees cannot penetrate the rocklike formations that result from careless tillage, or that may be natural in the soil. In some instances, trees well established may be aided by blasting, but this should be done by one with experience, or the tree may be damaged.

RE-ELECT ED. W.
HOPKINS
LOS ANGELES COUNTY ASSESSOR

Ed. W. Hopkins is a candidate for re-election to the office of Los Angeles county assessor in the August 26th primaries. He is the incumbent, having filled the same position for twenty-three years. His record speaks for itself—able, efficient, experienced and honest.

Mr. Hopkins is faced by eleven other candidates, three of whom also have the name of Hopkins. They are a truck driver, an iceman, and a salesman, respectively. There is but one Ed. W. Hopkins, our County Assessor, who is to be re-elected by the voters of Los Angeles County.

It would be highly dangerous to have in the most important office outside of the Governor of the State of California any person who is not qualified, who knows nothing about the job, who is merely a political office seeker, or nothing more or less than some person with a similar name to a candidate, whose expenses for filing have been paid by those sinister influences that wish to gain control of the assessor's office.

The issue is clear cut! American fair play demands the return of Ed. W. Hopkins to the office of County Assessor. There is no alternative when the opposition uses the unfair methods which have been exhibited so far in this campaign.

All other considerations being equal, the outstanding honesty of Ed. W. Hopkins, the efficiency of his office, the fair treatment he has accorded the public, and the absolute unimpeachable integrity of the man himself, married and the father of five children, a Shriner, a 32d degree Mason, a member of the Sons of Veterans, and Knights of Pythias, trained in law, schooled in experience, and, above all,

CALIFORNIANA PARLOR NO. 247 N.D.G.W. installed officers at a public afternoon ceremonial July 22 in the beautiful gardens of the Chester-place home of Dr. Rufus B. Vou KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California. It was an innovation in the way of installations, being held outofdoors in the presence of a large group of members, visitors from other Parlors and many distinguished friends. The scene was a veritable fairyland, with velvety green grass, white and gold flowers, and the dainty gowns and picture hats worn by the officers. Grand Trustee Florence Dodson-Schone-man, as district deputy grand president for Californiana, presided, and was assisted by Past Grand President Grace S.  "Worthy grand officers, members and guests of Californiana Parlor: I wish to express my appreciation for the honor and confidence you have bestowed upon me. Fully realizing the responsibilities attached to this office, I will endeavor to continue the activities inaugurated by my predecessors, to further the efforts and stimulate the activities of the members, and to make this a progressive and harmonious year. This can only be done by the efficient work of each and every officer, the co-operation of every member and the loyalty of our friends.

utmost to keep our part of the machinery in perfect condition. The loyalty and sincerity of our members will inspire, and be reflected in the co-operation of the Order as a whole.

"Every organization is really founded for the fulfillment of two purposes, the first and more obvious conscious purpose being the accomplishment of certain definite aims and objects. The less obvious, sub-conscious purpose is to leave impressed on the minds and hearts of its own members certain influences toward the better things and thoughts of life that are born from the spirit of fraternal comradeship, inspirational vision and mutual happiness.

"The primal principles of our Order are Love of Home, Devotion to The Flag, Veneration of the Pioneers. Our definite aims are, to cultivate state pride, to aid state development, to advance state progress; to encourage the study of California's history; to preserve California's landmarks, relics and traditions; to honor and keep in memory California's Pioneers; to stimulate and inspire patriotism; to assist in americanization; to encourage higher education for women; to promote social enjoyment, mental improvement and mutual benefit to our members; to care, co-jointly with the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, for orphaned children of California by placing them in permanent homes for adoption, thus engaging in the best possible humanitarian public welfare work—that of improving the future citizenship of our state.

"May I take you back to those days when our glorious climate was California's principal asset? Our Eastern friends tell us the state deserves no credit for that. 'Small wonder that every land under the sun sends its worshiping pilgrims here.' But we reluctantly admit that our climate was made by neither the Forty-niners nor the Native Sons. Climate is not made by men, hut states and cities are!

"California was destined to be a land wherein fact should read like romance. Its very name sprang from romantic dreams taken from an old Spanish story. It was supposed to be a mythical island on the right hand of the Indies, very near terrestrial paradise, christened at the fount of romance, and peopled by amazons and griffins. Cold fact smiled at the oppositeness of name and description, and adopted the dream-child for its own.

"God gave our state a dower of valleys in which never a flake of snow flutters down from highest clouds, and, looking down upon them, mountains that wear white crowns all the year. Deserts lower than the sea, as Death Valley, and mountains higher than the clouds, as Mount Whitney. He gave it the most hountiful fruits of all the earth and furnished it with deserts, barren and desolate, and yet said, 'Not in gold alone is your wealth.' He taught its people how to gather its rivers from their forest heds and then scatter them over the land in irrigating ditches, making an oasis of grains, blossoms, fruits, shrubs and trees.

"In 1781 our forefathers formally founded the city of the Lady of the Angels, situated on the banks of the Los Angeles River. Felipe De Neve, commissioned by Spain to found a new city near San Gabriel, was the father of our city. Through the efforts of some of the artistically- and historically-minded members of our Parlor, a movement was launched last year to arouse public interest in erecting a statue to the founder of our city—Felipe De Neve. It is our purpose to unveil this statue in 1931, at the celebration of the city's one hundred and fiftieth anniversary.

"In 1822 the flag of the empire of Mexico floated over Los Angeles, and the Spanish power in America had begun its march of destruction. The Mexican congress, in 1833, decreed the distribution of land, then largely owned by the missions under Spanish rule, and these holdings were divided into smaller portions, thus passing into the hands of actual settlers. Los Angeles remained loyal to the mother country, and in the battles which followed her heroes displayed staunch loyalty. However, manifest destiny knocked at the gates of Los Angeles when Fremont and Stockton, with 500 United States soldiers, entered the city in August 1846.

"At the time of the capture of Los Angeles, 5,000 people made up the population of California, 500 of whom were of the White race. Two years later a grain of gold was found, and that small magnet in one year drew 42,000 people from all over the world. The population increased to 100,000 in ten years. This was not wrought by climate alone, but by men, and the discovery of gold was the means to the end.

"The East sent her best to California, and California made them better. California was moulded by these immigrants of education, thrift and morality, and much do we owe to our adopted sons and daughters, as we do to our forefathers who encountered innumerable hardships and blazed the trail. Today California is one of the brightest stars in the blue heaven of our country's flag, and Los Angeles is one of the great cities of the world.

"Though young in years, Californiana Parlor, through the co-operative efforts of its members, performed its share in the accomplishment of these definite aims and objects, and can and will continue to leave a great and glorious impression in the future development of our beloved state and city. God grant that our efforts may be ever inspired by visions of high honor and marvelous beauty!

"May we always wave on high our colors of red, white and gold—red for courage, white for purity, and gold for the gold of California that is symbolic both of the wealth of our heritage and the worth of our efforts in striving toward our glorious future.

"May I hold up for your attention for just a moment the second less obvious subconscious purpose of organization? For the first purpose of organization, the accomplishment of definite aims and objects, can be more easily envisioned and then attained by the mutual co-operation of organized efforts. This mutuality of purpose, vision, effort, and then accomplishment, subtly works its own reactive effect on the individual members of the organization.

"In particular, our Order aims 'to promote social enjoyment, mental improvement and mutual benefit' of our members. Bound together by the same aims, inspired by the same visions, strengthened by the same courage, made confident by the same honor, our mutual influence one upon the other must lead to an individual and co-operative accomplishment not possible otherwise. I plead with each of you, moreover, to cultivate consciously, as well as to allow to be cultivated within you unconsciously, this spirit of fraternal comradeship, inspirational vision and mutual happiness. May this year bring forth a lesser number of the rank weeds of fault-finding, intolerance, jealousy, faithlessness and inaction, but rather cause to blossom many beautiful flowers of loyalty, sincerity, fraternity, helpfulness and accomplishment."

Past Grand President Stoermer told of the splendid work being done by the Native Sons and Native Daughters Homeless Children Committee. Mrs. William Reid, past president Ebell, brought felicitations, and said she was in sympathy with the plan of Californiana to place a memorial to Felipe de Neve, founder of Los Angeles. Brief remarks were made by Grand Trustees Schoneman and Thomas, Mms. Arthur Wright, A. O. Evans, Ysabel del Valle, W. T. Hearst and Catherine O'Brien.

Mrs. Marybelle Chapman, accompanied by Mrs. G. R. Williamson, charmingly rendered a group of songs, and Ynez del Valle Kirby, with her castanets, glided over the lawn like a nymph. Tea and dainty cakes were served by Mrs. Charles Jacobson and the hospitality committee. Californiana Parlor will hold no meeting during August.

SOCIAL LIFE OF CALIFORNIA

which not infrequently came attended by a shower of presents.

The generous and fraternal feeling so early and widely shown points in itself to the healthy tone pervading the flush times, notwithstanding the boisterous and reckless spirit therein engendered. There was comparatively little of the selfish and sordid. The vicious and criminal were confined to certain lawless elements. Their suppression by the vigilance committees in 1851 purified the country, but served to intensify the feeling of bad reputation cast on California.

Among the things that stand out in California's history from 1840-1860, probably the most lasting and most important was the elevation of labor and the equalization of ranks. Honor and physical strength were exalted. Shrewdness and energy were the tools by which a high social position was attained. Vice was more prominent than general. The period was characterized by an explosion of economic habits in general due to the abundance of means; high prices and speculative ideas; the absence of restraining family ties; and the condition in which all were unfettered by traditional and conventional forms and yet assisted each other by the training and resources of their respective cultures. Some retired contented after a short-sighted goal had been reached. Others looked forward to a great goal. A remarkable progression had been made in two years. The State rapidly became individual and outstanding. The main considerations were the suddenness, magnitude and mixed composition of the gathering. The most important to us was the fact that the marked influence of Americans predominated from the very first. The versatility of Yankee character became the framework of a great commonwealth.

"ELECTROCUTION" KILLS TREES.

Leakage of electric currents from high-power transmission lines often causes serious injury to trees, according to an announcement of the Federal Agricultural Department. Another common type of injury to trees and shrubs is scorching or burning as a result of the plants being where whitewashed or light-colored walls reflect the heat of the sun. Other types of injury to trees are caused by dense shade or to intense sunlight.

Lake Homecoming—Lakeport, Lake County, will have a homecoming celebration, August 30 to September 2.

Humboldt Rodeo—Fortuna, Humboldt County, will have its annual rodeo, August 15, 16 and 17.

H. L. CARNAHAN

Lieutenant-Governor of California

H. L. CARNAHAN'S record of public service for more than twenty years is well known to citizens of California.

He made the California corporation commissioner's office a model for the entire country.

As lieutenant-governor for the past two years he has demonstrated a rare ability for handling the difficult problems confronting the state legislative body, and brings to the office qualifications not inferior to those demanded by the governorship which office he may be called upon at any time to assume.

In public and private life alike, his conduct has proven him to be an ideal citizen.

H. L. CARNAHAN IS EFFICIENT, COURAGEOUS, AND EARNESTLY DEVOTED TO THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

Re-elect him at the Republican Primary Election Aug. 26, 1930.

(THIS AD SPONSORED BY HIS MANY FRIENDS, ANDREW M. STODEL, PAST PRESIDENT L. A. 45 N.S.G.W., F. J. BURMESTER, SEC. INTER-PARLOR COMMITTEE.)

746,956

Overwhelming evidence of the high standing of RAY L. RILEY in the eyes of the people of the State was convincingly proven by the huge total of 746,956 citizens who voted for him at the last general election. (This may be verified in the 1928 Cal. Blue Book.)

Mr. Riley's qualifications and experience include nine years as Controller for the State.

Ex-officio member of the State Board of Equalization.

At present a member of the Executive Committee of the National Tax Association and a nationally recognized authority on taxation.

Former member State Water Commission.

First Real Estate Commissioner of California.

Retiring International President of the Lions.

He is a fearless official of and for the highest interests of the people of the State.

FIESTA TIME IN SANTABARBARA

Margaret Ellison

BY GONE, HALF-FORGOTTEN DAYS alive once more! Dreams fulfilled! We forget the mad rush of modern hours. Once again the streets of smiling Santa Barbara echo to the sound of hoof-beats as the dons ride. Soft music falls on ears weary with the crashing notes of endless modern noise. We laugh, we sing, we dance—mayhap we flirt a little with that black-haired, red-lipped señorita, or sway in a graceful waltz with the handsome señor of the large and ferocious moustache.

It is Fiesta time! For a brief three days we transport ourselves to the time when life moved on less-hurried wings and man sought joy, giving little thought for tomorrow. The streets are filled with figures in brilliant array. Silk or cotton it matters not, but color, color everywhere—red, green, golden yellow vie with the softer pinks and blues—gold braid and ribbon—high combs guarding rosebuds nestling 'neath lacy mantillas—velvet trousers with tiny tinkling bells—wide sombreros, tipped rakishly over challenging eyes. For three happy days we play together, inviting all the world to join us as we step back through the years.

On Wednesday evening, August 6, the bells of Santa Barbara Mission will ring out the beginning of the seventh annual Fiesta, bringing back to those who heed their call a brief glimpse of the Old Spanish Days. Following the annual custom, a public reception will be held in the corridors of the mission, a most fitting opening for the days which are to follow, for in the old times the mission was the center of the community activity and its courtyard resounded to the merriment of dancers and singers, and the faint strumming of guitars murmured amidst the voices of the joyous young and old.

There will be entertainment for us also. The traditional dances and songs have come down to us from the early days through the descendants of the first native sons and daughters, and these will be presented by groups of dancers and strolling serenaders. In keeping with the old customs of hospitality, refreshments for all will be served from tables set in the corridors. As the gaily-clad groups wend their way homeward, they will feel that the Fiesta has now truly begun.

Beginning on Thursday, August 7, there will be a number of interesting events that will continue throughout the Fiesta period. At Recreation Center, a most complete and fascinating exhibition of popular arts and crafts of Mexico will open for all who find interest in the wonderful handcraft of the southern country. It will be reminiscent, too, of the type of work that was done many years ago in Santa Barbara. At the same place, also, for three successive days, there will be shown an exhibition of the third National House Beautiful Competition which closed recently and in which Santa Barbara once more took first place. At the Court House for the remainder of the week, a series of stereoptican slides showing historical pictures of Santa Barbara may be viewed.

Thursday afternoon at two o'clock, the first of the spectacular events of the Fiesta will take place, when the Historical Pageant Parade moves down State street. This is one of the most interesting events of the Fiesta, depicting as it does the historical background of Santa Barbara and, in a measure, of the whole state. The

HARRY C. SWEETSER,
 First Vice-president Old Spanish Days and Chairman of the Parade Committee. He is the Recording Secretary of Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116 N.S.G.W., and has been an enthusiastic Fiesta worker since the first Old Spanish Days.
 —Greene Photo, Santa Barbara.

many episodes show the development from the days of the Chumash Indians until the present day, which was ushered in by the invasion of Colonel John C. Fremont.

Floats—horse-drawn, as the machine age came long after the pleasant days of Old Spain,—are sponsored by the many organizations in the city. Old carriages, wagons and other means of conveyance, such as oxcarts and carryalls, contribute to the atmosphere of days-gone-by. Groups of dancers and singers, spanish orchestras and soloists add to the general excitement. Throughout the parade will be seen the most beautiful horses the state contains, sent here for this occasion to help in creating the feeling of the days of long ago, when the streets were trod by the finest mounts that could be obtained.

The crowds of people watching the parade are almost as interesting as the parade itself, for by that time half of the populace have donned ruffled skirts, shawls and combs, and the other half velvet trousers, gorgeous sashes and gaily decked hats. Especially do the children enjoy all of this "dressing-up," and they, too, are well worth seeing in their tiny copies of the resplendent raiment of their parents.

Following the parade, another annual custom will be observed when open-house is held at the old De la Guerra mansion on East De la Guerra street. Here, as every year, the descendants of the Pioneers of Santa Barbara will greet once more the people of the community, extending the hospitality which is a tradition.

Thursday night will witness the first performance of the Fiesta play, "Empiratriz," by Day Tuttle, written for the celebration and concerned with the life and adventures of Lola Montez, a famous actress of the early days of California. It will be given in the Lobero Theatre, on the site of the old Lobero Opera House, which housed the gala performances in the Old Spanish Days. As in previous years, the Native Daughters of the Golden West will act as hostesses on the evening of the first performance. This play will be repeated on Friday and again on Saturday evenings.

Thursday night will also see the first performance of the outdoor pageant, "Romantic California," in Peabody Stadium. Here, under the stars, will gather thousands to witness a brilliant spectacle of color and life. The pageant will be performed again on Saturday evening, so that all may have the chance to view both it and the play. Friday afternoon, between twelve and one, there will be a national broadcast of parts of the pageant over forty-eight states, thus allowing those unfortunate enough not to be in Santa Barbara, an opportunity to share a little of the Fiesta gaiety.

Friday afternoon will be filled with entertaining events. The children's chorus will sing Spanish songs in the business district and also at Recreation Center, where they will meet after their own parade for a good time. There will be a stock-horse competition, beautiful and valuable mounts vying with each other for honors. In the sunken garden of the Court House the Ruiz-Botelle pageant will be given, beginning at two o'clock and continuing throughout the afternoon. Old songs and dances are featured, accompanied by a stringed orchestra, and there is much amusement and fun to be had from the clowning of some of the members of the company. Friday afternoon, and also on Saturday afternoon, a large number of the lovely, spacious gardens of the city and in Montecito will be open to the public through the courtesy of their owners. The garden tours will start from Recreation Center and visit as many of the gardens as are possible in an afternoon trip.

Saturday will see the dedication of bronze markers on the site of the old Presidio by the Native Sons of the Golden West, assisted by the Native Daughters. This is in accordance with the policy of these groups of preserving for posterity the sites of the historic buildings in and about the city.

Between two and four on Saturday, State street will be roped off and the scenes of fifty years ago will be re-enacted by carriages filled with laughing passengers, old carts, and many riders on the beautiful horses which help to make the Fiesta so realistic. There will be exhibitions of horsemanship, and amusing incidents will be acted out for the benefit of the onlookers.

Throughout every day of the Fiesta, and also each evening, the Fiesta fruit and flower market will be open in the patio of El Paseo. Here will be sold flowers, fruits and vegetables of all kinds. Mexican wares will also be on sale, and for four hours of each day there will be a program of music and dancing. The market this year will be typically Mexican-Spanish. Colorful tents and matting will be a bright background for the display of the vegetables and fruits in flat, woven baskets.

Each evening, beginning at nine o'clock, there will be dancing in the Plaza for everyone. Other public dances will also be held, so that there will be room for all who wish to enjoy modern dances in spanish dress. Strolling musicians will serenade in different parts of the city both during the day and at night. Don't be surprised to see a smiling group beneath your window!

When the last notes of music have been played and the quiet of the early Sunday morning settles over Santa Barbara on August 10, it will find her sadly packing away the magic garments that have given her a glimpse, all too short, of the romance of another day. But she need not be mournful, for she has had enough fun to last her another long year until the next Fiesta rolls around.

NATIVE CALIFORNIAN FIRST TO MASTER AERIAL NAVIGATION.

Oakland (Alameda County)—At the recent meeting of the Pacific Coast Aeronautical Association honor was accorded the late John J. Montgomery, who held the title "Father of Flight," as he was, it is claimed, the first man in the world to master aerial navigation. He began his aviation experience in 1884, and was killed in a Santa Clara County crash in 1911.

John J. Montgomery was born at Yuba City, Sutter County, February 15, 1858, being the son of Zach Montgomery, deceased, who at one time represented Sutter in the senate of the State Legislature and also served the county as district attorney.

SAN DIEGO'S PATRON SAINT

George H. White

(SAN DIEGO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.)

IN CALIFORNIA, WHERE SO MUCH GLAMOR is attached to early Spanish history and mission days, many communities seek and find some individual event or circumstance to acclaim. San Diego, first discovered and first settled by the Spaniards in their extension of civilization to Alta California, has just been furnished another point of pride without seeking.

This is that the Saint Diego for whom the place was named was a specific person, a celebrated devout of the Franciscan order—and not Saint James, the patron saint of Spain, as has been assumed and alleged by many writers with result of general acceptance as fact for many years.

The Rev. Henry Heitz, pastor of Saint Vincent de Paul's church at Silver City, Mexico, is the student of church history to whom San Diego is indebted for establishment of its own and individual patron saint, Diego. He denies, and offers proof, that Diego means James, and as for the saints bearing those names points out that the Diego for whom the California city, San Diego, was named has in later years been elevated by papal decree to equal rank with James, the patron saint of Spain. Following is the Rev. Henry Heitz's convincing evidence in the matter:

"1.—Viscaino arrived in the bay of San Diego November 10, 1602. The feast of St. James is celebrated by the universal church July 25. We find on November 13 the feast of San Diego (Latin, Sanctus Didacus; French, Saint Didace), a Franciscan monk, born, beginning of 15th century; died, November 12, 1463.

"2.—The full name of San Diego, the city, is San Diego de Alcalá de Henares. Alcalá de Henares, in Nueva, Castilla, Spain, was the seat of an university for many centuries, and it is there that San Diego spent the last years of his life in the Franciscan monastery. No one ever heard that St. James, the patron of Spain, was called of Alcalá, but of Compostela.

"3.—When Don Galvez sent an expedition to Upper California, he gave Father Junipero Serra the following instructions: 'It is but just that each religious should invoke the protection of his own patron saints and particularly the numerous and great saints of the seraphic family of our Holy Father San Francisco. We see to this day that the ancient discoverers for that reason, as though in happy prophesy, applied the names of some of them to the principal places on the coast below and above Monterey. They called San Diego, the port where now one of the new missions is to be located; this appellation must not be changed.'

"Now from the above instruction one deduces that San Diego was a Franciscan saint. St. James, the apostle, was not a Franciscan that I know.

"4.—The Right Reverend John J. Cantwell, Bishop of Los Angeles and San Diego, has recently obtained from the Pope a decree raising the feast of San Diego, patron of San Diego, California, from the rite of 'semi-double' to the rite of 'double of the second class.' This decree certainly does not apply to St. James, the apostle, whose feast has been, from time immemorial, celebrated under the rite of 'double of the second class.'

"Several years ago, I entered, together with others, into a discussion with the 'Lexicographer' of the Literary Digest on this very same question. I asked what authority they had to claim that San Diego means St. James. The only authority they could give was, forsooth, the Standard Dictionary, published by Funk and Wagnalls, who also bring out the Digest."

000, were raised through the efforts of San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. and San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W., Deputy Grand President Albert V. Mayrhofer being the hard-working chairman of the restoration committee.

Rev. John M. Hegarty, who turned the first shovelfull of earth in the restoration project, was introduced by Councilman E. H. Dowell, who presided at the ceremonies. The men and women of all creeds who donated to the restoration fund, he said, are "standing on a bridge uniting the past with the present," and the mother of the California missions, "the cradle of christian civilization in the Golden West, again will bring peace to troubled hearts." Other speakers included:

Mayor Harry C. Clark, who said "The event is far reaching in importance, as this historic spot is as important as Plymouth of the East."

James Rolph Jr.
Candidate for
Governor of California

The growth of San Francisco in the past twenty years and the career of Mayor James Rolph Jr. in the same period of time form such close chronological paths, so intimately intertwined, that the mention of the one simultaneously recalls the other. Mayor Rolph was born in San Francisco August 23, 1869, the son of James Rolph, a pioneer resident of the city. His boyhood was spent in the Mission, where he attended the pioneer Horace Mann school at Valencia and 22nd, later attending the Agassiz and Haight primary schools and the Trinity school in Mission street.

Graduating from Trinity school May 24, 1888, he began a twelve-year career in the employ of De Witt Kittle & Co., commission merchants. Afterward he went into business with George Hind, an old schoolmate, organizing a shipping and commission firm. June 26, 1900, he married Miss Annie M. Reid, daughter of John Reid, long-established merchant of San Francisco, establishing himself at his present home at the corner of San Jose avenue and 23th street. Three children were born to the couple, James Rolph III, Mrs. Georgina Willis and Mrs. Annetto Syme.

Early in his business career his ability and enthusiasm brought him recognition as a leader in commercial and civic betterment. He was chairman of the Mission Relief Society after the fire of 1906, president of the Mission Savings Bank, vice-president of the Islais Creek Inland Harbor Association. His growing popularity in the city finally turned the eyes of the voters upon him and in 1911 he was nominated and elected Mayor of San Francisco. In each election since then that popularity has grown until it has exceeded city limits and embraces the whole State of California.

During his eighteen years' continuous mayoralty administration, he carried out vast projects, completing the Geary-street railway, extending the municipal railway system, constructing tunnels, building more schoolhouses and playgrounds, paving streets, building San Francisco's magnificent Civic Center and new City Hall, acquiring the Hetch Hetchy water supply, and became known far and wide as San Francisco's "Exposition Mayor" because of his promotion of the bond issue which made the historic Panama-Pacific Exposition, with its millions of dollars' worth of exhibits, an actual reality.

In more recent years he has acquired for the City and County of San Francisco the Spring Valley water system, and a bond election is now pending whereby the city will actually own its own electric light system and Hetch Hetchy water sufficient for a population of 10,000,000. When the Hetch Hetchy permit was revoked he headed the delegation that went to Washington, and secured from Congress a new permit more liberal in its provisions than the one originally granted. It was the sheer personality and the force of his argument that won this concession from Congress.

Intensely patriotic, Rolph invested practically his entire fortune in shipyards at Eureka, suffering the loss of more than a million dollars when the government abandoned the building of wooden ships. During the liberty bond drives he "bought till it hurt," sacrificing thousands of dollars by selling those bonds at a discount to meet financial obligations.

Always a friend of the service man, he bid farewell to San Francisco's own regiment, the 363rd, at Camp Lewis when it entrained for New York, and at the end of the war he was first at the deck to welcome all those who returned from the hell of war. He is the Honorary President of the 363rd Regiment.

In addition to his close connection with service men's organizations, among whom he has veritably thousands of personal friends, he is a member of the Olympic, Bohemian, Pacific Union, Union League and Family Clubs, Native Sons of the Golden West, Redmen, Elks, Moose, Eagles, Masons, Shriners and other fraternal organizations. He has served three terms as president of the Shipowners Association of the Pacific Coast, three terms as trustee of the Chamber of Commerce, three years as president of the Merchants Exchange, and as director of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition.

His renown has spread to the four corners of the earth and as a result he has been decorated by the governments of Japan, Serbia, Belgium, Greece, Italy, Netherlands, France, Norway and what he must value most, he has been appointed Honorary Vice-President of the 91st Division.

In his campaign speeches Mayor Rolph stresses the necessity of reducing and equitably distributing taxes, extending the highway system and beginning construction as soon as possible on the state-wide water conservation plan.

Rev. Charles Spaulding of Coronado, who discussed what the missions meant to the California Pioneers. John T. Newell of Los Angeles, Grand President N.S.G.W., who declared "Complete restoration of this mission will stand as a huge monument to the memory of the life and work of Father Junipero Serra."

In introducing Albert V. Mayrhofer, Councilman Dowell said that to him is due entirely the success of the fund-raising campaign. Others introduced were I. E. Loveless, Architect for the project; J. Marshall Miller of the University of Southern California, who prepared the mission model and will superintend construction; J. E. Lowerison and H. A. Wolstencroft, the contractors. Concluding the program, Edith C. Thurston read a poem, written by her for the occasion, entitled "The Call of the Mission."

"I feel," said Deputy Grand President Mayrhofer following the ground-breaking ceremonies, "that the restoration of Mission San Diego de Alcalá, now about to be accomplished, is an enduring monument to those people who have made that restoration a fact. I take this means of giving them again my thanks for what they have done and to assure them that the restored mission will be all that they had hoped. The mission fund will be completed before the work of restoration is over and within a few months the first of the missions will be a landmark to all the people of America."

HISTORIC SITE MARKED.

Independence Day, July 4, the Native Sons and Native Daughters of San Diego unveiled a tablet at the old Warner ranch house, three miles southeast of Warner Hot Springs. Albert V. Mayrhofer, chairman San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. history and landmarks committee, was master of ceremonies, Councilman Edward Dowell, also a member of No. 108, delivered an address, and Miss Marion Stough, chairman San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W. history and landmarks committee, unveiled the tablet. Music was furnished by the Native Sons orchestra.

Made of bronze and imbedded in one of the walls of the Warner ranch house, the tablet reads: "This Butterfield Stage Station Dedicated to the Memory of the Stage Drivers and Pioneers, July 4, 1930, by the Native Daughters of the Golden West and the Native Sons of the Golden West." President John Treanor of the company now owning the Warner ranch accepted the tablet.

The Warner ranch house, built by Warner in 1844 and occupied by him and his family until 1851, was one of the stations of the Butterfield stage line from San Francisco to Saint Louis. This stage line, said to have been the longest in the world, ran from San Francisco down the San Joaquin Valley and across the Tehachapi mountains to Los Angeles, thence to Temecula, Warner ranch, San Felipe and across Imperial Valley to Yuma, on to El Paso and Saint Louis. Warner's also was the junction point of the branch line from San Diego with the main line.

LONG BEACH: The Forward-Looking City Where Native Resources Grow With The United Enterprise Of All

LONG BEACH AVIATION AND INDUSTRIAL JUBILEE

A. A. Miller

(Assistant Manager Publicity Bureau
LONG BEACH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.)

LONG BEACH IS MAKING EXTENSIVE preparations for the start of the women's national air derby on Sunday, August 17, and the event promises to draw a record-breaking throng of air-minded enthusiasts to the beach city to see two-score or more of the nation's foremost feminine pilots on the take-off of an eight-day race across the continent, finishing at Chicago.

The start of the race is being sponsored by a group of civic leaders of the southland city headed by Charles A. Bland, Arthur E. Anakin and L. B. Salisbury, president of the Long Beach Flying Club. Of the more than $22,000 in purses posted for the winners of the derby, Long Beach has contributed $5,000.

Long Beach considers itself exceedingly fortunate in having been selected as the starting point for the derby, and in commemoration of the event a ten-day jubilee is to be staged beginning August 21 and continuing over Labor Day.

The jubilee also will take the form of general rejoicing over the remarkable population gain recorded by Long Beach during the ten-year census period ending with 1930. Long Beach was fourth among all the cities in the United States in the percentage of increase, showing a 155 percent gain. Its present population is 141,462.

The governor of California, and other state as well as county and city officials, are co-operating in the fullest measure and will attend the start of the air derby and the opening of the "Census Jubilee." Men and women of prominence in the Pacific Southwest have been invited to be present, and acceptances thus far received indicate the attendance of many well-known figures in civic, aviation and commercial life.

Strides of aviation and industry during the past five years will be portrayed at the ten-day jubilee, a ten-acre site adjoining the Long Beach Airport having been obtained for the event. In a huge exhibition palace, surrounded by smaller pavilions, the public will witness an artistic and interesting array of the southland's finest manufactured products. A great variety of exhibits, located in readily accessible booths and attractively depicted to enhance the value of their presentation, will make the jubilee a veritable kaleidoscope of trade in all its branches.

The latest inventions and improvements in aircraft and aircraft accessories will be housed in a special aviation pavilion. A miniature of the Los Angeles-Long Beach Harbor, on which the cities of Los Angeles and Long Beach and the Federal Government have expended $47,000,000, will be shown in the section devoted to trade and trade development.

The agricultural and industrial resources of Los Angeles County will be shown in the land and agricultural section, and the romantic history of oil and petroleum development will be reflected in a score of exhibits.

"Reward Meritorious Service"

Long Beach also will show a miniature of its new $4,000,000 Rainbow Pier and Civic Auditorium, now under construction, and there will be many other interesting replicas of California's achievement and progress.

Chief interest, of course, centers in the air derby. Inaugurated only two years ago, the women's cross-country race electrified the nation. Its romance found an immediate response in the hearts of the people. The glorification of the American woman reached its zenith in this gruelling test of feminine grit and self-reliance.

An evidence of the tremendous interest manifested in last year's derby, which was run from Santa Monica to Chicago, is reflected in the fact that the newspapers gave 93,000 column-inches of publicity to the race and those who participated in the preliminaries by sponsoring and supporting it.

Among the entrants for 1930 are Gladys O'Donnell, noted Long Beach pilot, whose intrepid handling of her ship won her second place in last year's derby; Amelia Earhart, heroine of a flight across the Atlantic; Elinor Smith who, breaking all records for altitude, became unconscious for lack of oxygen several thousand feet up, yet landed safely, and Florence Lowe Barnes of San Marino, who is entering a mystery ship, one of four built especially for noted fliers.

A tentative route for the derby has been mapped by C. F. Lienesch, local representative for the National Aeronautic Association committee in charge of the event. The route, which may be changed in minor respects only, will take the fliers, upon their departure from Long Beach, to Mexicali, via San Diego, on the first day of the race.

NATIONAL SAFETY CONFERENCE FAVORS STATE INSPECTION AUTOS.

Systematic state inspection of motor vehicles, and certificates of inspection as a prerequisite in the issuance of license plates, are recommended by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety. It is contended that mechanical defects in motor vehicles, due to neglect and careless use by owners, are causing 15 percent of the deaths by traffic accidents.

The conference says that in recent years there has been a notable improvement in the design and construction of motor vehicles from a safety standpoint, and the manufacturers are actively continuing this work. It is pointed out also that the owners of fleets of vehicles have progressed in a marked degree in the proper maintenance of automobiles and taxicabs, but that there has not been a corresponding improvement in maintenance on the part of individual owners of private cars.

Manufacturers are urged by the conference to promote the proper maintenance of motor vehicles by giving full and complete instructions on this point to the purchasers of new cars. The drivers of cars also should learn to detect the presence of worn parts, it is pointed out, and to either make regular inspections, or have such inspections made by competent persons.

Legislation by the various states providing for the periodic inspection of automobiles, and requiring that they be maintained in a safe mechanical condition, is also urged.

PROMOTE SAFETY BY COMPLYING WITH HIGHWAY PATROL RULES.

On account of the wonderful weather California enjoys at this season of the year, vacation travel is extremely heavy, and every driver of a motor vehicle should be extra cautious. Comply with the following safety rules, promulgated by the California Highway Patrol:

Keep your mind on your driving, and anticipate sudden emergencies.

Be sure that your brakes are in good working order and that your lights are in proper adjustment.

Keep to the right, and comply with road signs.

Signal for stops and turns. Watch the car ahead.

Do not pass cars on hills or curves. Slow down at all crossings.

It doesn't pay to take the "right of way" too seriously. Consider the rights and privileges of others.

When you drive, remember the other times when you are a pedestrian.

Comply with the law. It was passed for your protection.

COURT OKES BACK-SEAT DRIVING.

Although back-seat driving has been severely censured since the earliest days of motoring and still continues undiminished, a judicial opinion now holds that it is not only the right, but the duty, of a woman to assist her husband by back-seat driving.

In a recent damage suit where the plaintiff received injuries when an auto driven by her husband was struck by a street car, the Georgia Court of Appeals ruled against the woman because she had seen the street car approaching and did not warn her husband.

Prolong Car's Life—No matter how good the car, starting and stopping gradually will aid in prolonging its life.

Best Formula—The best formula for polishing the chrome-plated parts of a car is a clean soft rag, some water and a little elbow grease.

STATE 1930 AUTO REGISTRATIONS INCREASED SEVERAL THOUSANDS.

Mid-year registrations of motor vehicles in California were shown in a July 23 report of the State Division of Motor Vehicles to have increased approximately 6 percent, or 108,489, over the same period a year ago.

The report gave grand total fee-paid registrations for the six-months period ended June 30 as 1,968,012. This does not include vehicles owned by public service corporations and political subdivisions on which no fees are paid, and which, if counted, would bring the grand total beyond the 2,000,000 mark.

Fee-paid registrations for the six-months period included: Passenger cars, 1,830,096; solid-tired trucks, 14,539; pneumatic-tired trucks, 73,853; motorcycles, 8,182; solid-tired trailers, 8,821; pneumatic-tired trailers, 32,521. The gain in pleasure cars alone was in excess of 90,000.

Net fees will total well above $6,000,000, it was announced, after all expenses for operating the division and the California Highway Patrol have been deducted. This sum will be distributed to the several counties and the State Highway Commission for expenditure on the roads of the state, thus indirectly returning the fees paid by motorists in the form of better highways.

As in previous years, Los Angeles County was responsible for more than 40 percent of all registrations, its grand total being 803,725. Of the 1,830,096 passenger cars in the state, Los Angeles registered 758,097.

LITTLE JOY FOR PESSIMISTS IN AUTO-TOURIST ARRIVALS.

Whatever opinions may be held regarding general business conditions in California South, there is no encouragement for pessimists in the incoming motor-tourist figures for the first six months of this year. Compared with the similar period in 1929, the tourist arrivals showed a healthy increase in number, with indications that this will be maintained throughout the year.

So-called "foreign cars," or those bearing out-of-state licenses, coming into the state the first six months of this year totaled 53,719, a gain of 5,913 over the first half of last year, which is slightly more than 11 percent. An average of three passengers was carried by each car, which means that more than 160,000 visitors arrived in California South over the eastern routes during the first six months of this year.

OF FAR REACHING IMPORTANCE.

With the Western states intensively interested in highways, the Federal Congress has moved to lend federal assistance through the passage of the Colton-Oddie bill, authorizing appropriations for construction and maintenance of main roads through unappropriated or unreserved public lands and non-taxable Indian lands.

This measure, which has been consistently supported by organized motordom, is of far-reaching importance to the eleven far-Western states where the bulk of the land is non-taxable.

Advisable—When starting on an extensive tour, it is advisable to carry an extra coil and condenser for the car. In out-of-the-way places it is sometimes necessary to wait several days for these parts. If they are carried along, it is always possible to find a mechanic with sufficient skill to install them.

Bad Practices—Leaving "specs" at home or looking at a wrist watch while driving are bad practices likely to place responsibility on such a driver in case of accident. Several Eastern courts have recently given decisions along this line.

Toll Increases—The nation's record of motor-vehicle fatalities has increased from 19,400 in 1924 to 33,060 in 1929.

Avoid Expense—Expensive repairs may be avoided by applying the right kind of lubricant to the rear axles at the right time.

AUTO TAXATION FORMULA BASED ON DAMAGE TO ROADS.
 A formula for levying taxes on automobiles in such a way that each vehicle will pay a tax in proportion to the amount of wear it causes on the road has been developed by the Federal Agricultural Department's bureau of standards. Three principal factors are given consideration in the formula—the weight of the vehicle, the distance traveled during the taxable period, and the kind of tires used, solid or pneumatic. The heaviest vehicle traveling the greatest distance and using solid tires would pay the largest tax. The formula is sufficiently flexible for use in any state.
 "At present there is no generally accepted basis for determining the amounts of fees for the various classes of vehicles or for the units within a class," says the statement. "Neither is there any agreement as to how the total tax levied by a state should be apportioned between the fuel tax and registration fees. Each state has selected its own method of levying fees, with the result that at the present time vehicles are rated variously according to chassis weight, unladen weight, capacity, gross weight, horsepower, piston displacement, value, tire width, or tire type, as well as on several different combinations of two or more of these characteristics. Some states rate passenger cars and trucks on the same basis. All states impose fuel taxes of from 2 to 6 cents a gallon, but there is no consistent relation between the amounts of the fuel taxes and the amounts of registration fees."

AMERICAN CAR BUYING PLAN.
 "Part down and a little each month" appears to be the plan of the great American public in paying for cars, according to figures tabulated by the National Association of Finance Companies. Sixty-four percent of all new and used car sales are made on the installment plan, while trade-ins of old cars are made in 72.5 percent of sales of new cars.
Brake Adjustment—Before attempting to equalize a car's brakes inflate the tires to even pressure. A soft tire offers more resistance, due to greater road contact, therefore brakes cannot be equalized unless tires are equal.

Native Sons of the Golden West

GRAND MARSHAL JOSEPH CLAVO OF Vallejo, under date of July 22, sent the following letter to all Subordinate Parlors of the Orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West, inviting them to participate in the Admission Day, September 9, parade in San Francisco in recognition of California's eightieth admission-to-statehood anniversary:

"As Grand Marshal of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, I take this opportunity to invite you to participate in the celebration of the eightieth anniversary of the admission of California to statehood, to be held in the City and County of San Francisco, September 9, 1930.

"As the time is drawing near, I am requesting the co-operation of all the Parlors of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West to take part in the parade and celebration on this occasion.

"Every member of the Order should make it his or her patriotic duty to this great state of ours to lend his or her best efforts to make the 9th of September Admission Day celebration a success.

"You will find enclosed a self-addressed postcard with the questions to be answered. As time is the essence of this communication and the position of your Parlor in the formation of the parade will depend upon the accurate information received by the Grand Marshal, I would urge an early reply."

President Pleased, and Excited.

San Rafael—Officers of Mount Tamalpais No. 64 and Marinita No. 198 N.D.G.W. were jointly installed July 19, Charles Calloni and Gertrude

THINK THIS OVER!

The order of Native Sons of the Golden West is, we believe, with the exception of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West, the only organization that limits membership exclusively to NATIVE-BORN AMERICANS.

Knowing the serious conditions in this country today, this fact alone should impel every Native Son of California to immediately SEEK AFFILIATION with that American-born and American-operated institution, the man-power and wealth of which are pledged to the protection of American institutions in times of peace as well as in times of war.

Vernon becoming the respective presidents. The Native Daughter ceremonies were conducted by Past Grand President Emma Gruber-Foley, assisted by Anna G. Loser, Ethel Begley, Rose Redmond, Esther McCarthy and Anna Spinney. District Deputy Joseph S. Rosa officiated for the Native Sons, and was assisted by W. E. Soares and Monroe Label. Numerous presentations were made, among them a beautiful token to Bernice Flynn, retiring past president of No. 198, and an emblematic ring to Senior Past President B. J. Brusatori of No. 64.

Dancing was indulged in at the close of the installation ceremonies, and then followed a sumptuous repast. Talks by the various officers disclosed the fact that both Parlors are enjoying prosperity and that the memberships take a lively interest in the work of the Orders.

July 7 was the last night for Frank Kelly in the president's chair of Mount Tamalpais, and he closed his term by initiating a large class of candidates, the largest in several years. At the ceremonies' conclusion an elaborate feast was served, and Chairman Charles Soldavini Jr., on behalf of the arrangements committee, presented Kelly with a big cake, frosted in green and decorated with a bright red candle for each candidate initiated during his term. Kelly, who is of Irish extraction, was so pleased he tried to express his appreciation in Italian—or it might have been French. Harold Haley, speaking for the class of initiates, pledged whole-hearted support to the principles of the Order, and declared they would work for the success of Mount Tamalpais.

At Cheda Park, near San Rafael, August 3, No. 64 will sponsor a basket picnic for the benefit of the homeless children. Invitations have been extended all the Parlors in Sonoma, Napa and Marin Counties.

Membership Standing Largest Parlors.

San Francisco—Grand Secretary John T. Regan reports the standing of the Subordinate Parlors having a membership of over 400 January 1, 1930, as follows, together with their membership figures July 19, 1930:

Mountain Initiation.

San Bernardino—Arrowhead No. 110, rapidly climbing to the membership top of the Order, initiated a class of fourteen candidates at its Crestline clubhouse in the San Bernardino Mountains, July 12. Approximately 120 members were in attendance, and there was enthusiasm aplenty.

Among the speakers were Grand President John T. Newell and Grand Trustee Ben Harrison. The initiates were told of the Order's projects, and the coming into California of not-wanted and not-needed Mexican and Filipino laborers was discussed generally by the assemblage. Previous to the initiatory ceremonies another of Arrowhead's famous steak dinners was served, under the supervision of Supervisor John Anderson.

Officers of the Parlor were installed by District Deputy Walter E. Hiskey, July 16, George J. MacDonald being retained as president.

Past Presidents Have Outing.

Oroville—Fred H. Greely Assembly No. 6 of the Past Presidents Association had an outing in Butte County, July 19 and 20. The function opened with a dance Saturday night at Thermalito Hall, and the next morning an open-air initiation was held at Canyon Highlands.

Following the initiatory ceremonies the members of the assembly, many of whom were accompanied by their wives, visited Bidwell Bar, the "mother" orange tree and other of Butte County's numerous historic landmarks.

Initiation Closes Term.

Placerville—Officers of Placerville No. 9, with Charles L. Fossatti as president, have been installed by District Deputy Joseph Scherer. F. Norman Celio, the retiring president, closed his term with the initiation of a class of six candidates.

Neighbors Visit.

Merced—Accompanied by a delegation from Modesto No. 11, District Deputy Charles W. Gill came over from the neighboring Stanislaus County government-seat, July 14, and installed the officers of Yosemite No. 24. Thomas V. Bell succeeded D. K. Stoddard as president.

Reception for Honored Member.

Santa Rosa—Santa Rosa No. 28 had a reception late in June in honor of its charter member, Justice Emmet Seawell of the California Supreme Court, who was elected Grand Third Vice-president at the Merced Grand Parlor. Two hundred members of the Order, rep-representing the Sonoma County Parlors, were present to congratulate Justice Seawell.

In a brief address he expressed appreciation for the honor that was conferred on him, and thanked those who promoted his candidacy. Following the get-together, a banquet was served, President Arthur Janssen of No. 28 presiding as toastmaster.

"Baby" Grows.

Manteca—Maateca No. 271, the "baby" Parlor, added three new names to its membership-roll July 16, the ritual being exemplified by a team from Stockton No. 7. Refreshments were served at the ceremonies' conclusion.

Jointly with Phoebe a Hearst No. 214 N.D.G.W., the Parlor sponsored a card party July 30. Mrs. Angela Perry and J. K. Littleton were in charge of the arrangements.

Joint Installation.

Grass Valley—Officers of Quartz No. 58 and Hydraulic No. 56 (Nevada City) were jointly installed by District Deputy James Oliver, Harold Beloud and Muller Chapman becoming the respective presidents. Dr. C. W. Chapman, father of the president of Hydraulic and one of the Order's most faithful workers, was retained as recording secretary of No. 56.

MONUMENT TO PIONEER WHO HELPED HIS FELLOWMEN.

Soara (Tuolumne County)—The Tuolumne County Chamber of Commerce and contributing agencies have completed a monument marking the last resting place of Jacob Richard Stoker, Pioneer of 1849. The memorial, of quartz rock, is similar in design to other markers that have been erected along the Mark Twain-Bret Harte Trail in this county, and has a bronze plaque inscribed:

"Mark Twain-Bret Harte Trail. Jacob Richard Stoker, 1820-1898. 'His heart was finer metal than any gold his shovel ever brought to light.' Gallant Mexicaa War Veteran. Fought in principal battles. Came to California '49, Jackass Hill '50. Built famous cabin. Intimately associated there with Mark Twain and Gillis Bros. Member Tuolumne Lodge No. 8, F. & A. M. Just and Fair. Settled miners' disputes. Helped his fellowmen and community. Famed as 'Dick Baker' in Twain's 'Roughing It.' Hero in Jay-bird and the Acorn,' 'Buraing Shame,' etc."

State Fair—The annual State Fair at Sacramento City will open August 30 and continue through September 7.

"I advertised that the poor would be welcome in this church," said the minister; "and after inspecting the collection I see that they have come."—Exchange.

Native Daughters of the Golden West

ALTURAS—AS A PART OF THE Pioneer days' fete held here July 2, 3 and 4, Alturas No. 159 sponsored a pioneer golden wedding celebration to which the entire community was invited. The couple thus honored are Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGarva of Likely.

They were attended by a bridesmaid and a bestman, and the whole ceremony was beautifully carried out. The bride and groom were presented with a golden wedding gift, and beautiful bouquets were presented to other pioneer couples. Old-time vocal and instrumental selections enriched the evening's program, which was arranged by Mms. William Frailey, Irma Laird and Irene Cummings.

At a meeting of the Modoc County Development Board, Mrs. Irma Laird, representing the Parlor and the Modoc County State Fair Committee, gave a review of the achievements of the committee and presented its recommendations for this year's exhibit at Sacramento. She made a plea for co-operation, to make Modoc's exhibit at the coming State Fair a commendable one, and the development board pledged its support.

Delightful Mountain Outing.

San Bernardino—Many of the officers taking vacation trips caused a slight slack in the activities of Lugonia No. 241, but they were resumed July 23, when the new corps of officers were publicly installed.

District Deputy Bertha Hitt, the installing officer, was accompanied by a large delegation of Long Beach No. 154 members. Miss Eva Bemis became the new president. Arrangements for the occasion were made by a committee composed of Henrietta Harris, Gladys Case Baker, Thelma Nett, Lily Mae Tompkins and Nola Fogler.

A large group of the Parlor's members spent

AIMS AND OBJECTS of the
ORDER OF NATIVE DAUGHTERS OF THE GOLDEN WEST

- To cultivate state pride.
- To aid state development.
- To advance state progress.
- To promote the study of California history.
- To preserve California's landmarks, relics and traditions.
- To honor and keep in memory California's Pioneers.
- To stimulate and inspire patriotism.
- To assist in the work of americanization.
- To encourage higher education for women, as evidenced by the Order's liberal college scholarship.
- To guarantee social enjoyment, mental improvement and mutual benefit to members.
- To care, conjointly with the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, for the orphaned children of California, of whatever class, color or creed, by placing them in permanent homes through legal adoption proceedings, thus engaging in the most humanitarian of public welfare work, that of improving the future citizenship of the state.
- If YOU were born in California and believe in these principles, you should be a member of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West.

the week-end of July 20 at Crestline, in the San Bernardino Mountains, where a large cabin had been placed at their disposal. The outing was most delightful and served to draw the fraternal ties closer.

Retiring President Honor Guest.

Sacramento—Officers of Coloma No. 212 were installed July 15, Miss Nora McNeill becoming president. District Deputy Ethel Ludwig officiated, and 100 persons witnessed the ceremonies. Among the guests were Past Grand President Dr. Louise C. Hellbron, Grand Trustee Sadie Brainard, Grand Inside Sentinel Edna Briggs and District Deputy Mamie Davis. Red, yellow and white formed the color scheme, carried out in the floral decorations and the refreshments. District Deputy Ludwig was presented with a gift, and each installing officer, grand officer and officer-elect received a corsage bouquet. Mrs. Gertrude Keehner, chairman of the evening, was assisted by Mms. Mae Walker, Edna Wilson and Lillian Deise, Misses Mildred Wiseman and Elsie Vanina.

Miss Mildred Wiseman, retiring president of Coloma, was honored guest at a party following the July 1 meeting. She was the recipient of many gifts, placed before her in a fancy box at the refreshment table. Mrs. Bertha Franke, retiring past president, was presented with an emblematic pin by Junior Past President Ruth McDonald. The lodge and banquet rooms were decorated with a profusion of Shasta daisies and shrubbery. The refreshments and appointments were in pink and white and the favors were miniature fans in the two colors. The following committee arranged the party: Misses Nora McNeill, Betty Keehner, Ida Harry, Flossie and Melba Soule, Elsie Vanina, Ruth Crowell and Margaret Votaw, Mms. Betty Walker and Aileen Thompson.

Past President Hostess.

Willows—With District Deputy Ruby Humberg officiating, officers of Berryessa No. 192 were installed July 7, Adela Masterson becoming the president. The work was beautifully put on. During the pleasant meeting Delegates Adele Masterson and Mae Houston reported on the Oakland Grand Parlor.

At the meeting's close members and visitors, the latter including several from Colusa No. 194 (Colusa), were invited to the home of Past President Florence Walcott, where delicious refreshments were enjoyed. Mrs. Walcott proved a very charming hostess.

Past President Given Emblem.

Oakdale—District Deputy Ella Watson installed the officers of Oakdale No. 125 July 7, Denise Bechis becoming the president. At the close of the ceremony gifts were presented Past President Alice Dorroh and District Deputy Watson, and Junior Past President Addie Fowler was the recipient of a past president's emblematic pin. Delicious refreshments were served.

the Native Sons, the Native Daughters and their families at a delicious dinner served at tables strikingly decorated with flowers and flags. Cards followed the feast, and awards, attractively wrapped to carry out the color scheme of the occasion, were made to Mrs. Raymond Marsile, Mrs. Fred Marsile, Raymond Marsile and Walter Hiskey.

Officers of the Parlor, with Mrs. Marguerite Dickinson as president, were installed July 28 by District Deputy Lily Mae Tompkins.

President tithates Granddaughters.

San Jose—Under the supervision of Mrs. Clara Gairaud, Vendome No. 100 had a benefit for its charity fund which netted $572. A $100 trophy was awarded Vivian Krlberg of 1775 O'Farrell street, San Francisco. Recently, Mrs. Rose Baker was chairman of an afternoon card party, and the past presidents' club had an evening picnic at the home of Mrs. Emma Jennings Nelson. Officers of the Parlor were installed July 23, Alice Crabtree Roll becoming the new president.

Five candidates, among them three granddaughters of President Julia Waddington, were initiated June 25 by Vendome. Among the visitors were a large delegation from San Jose 81, Past Grand President Sue J. Irwin and District Deputy Mildred Brant. The following evening Mrs. Waddington entertained the officers at her home with a bridge dinner. The favors were dainty hand-painted bon-bon dishes. The officers presented her with a handsome crystal necklace. In appreciation of her devotion to the interests of the Order, Vendome has presented Mrs. Clara Gairaud with a fitted traveling case.

Mrs. Roherta De Zaldo has gone on a trip to Alaska; Mrs. Ella Graham and her sister, Miss Mary McDonald, are enjoying a visit in the Eastern states and Canada, and Mrs. Anne Farnsworth is visiting in Reno, Nevada State. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Withyemhe have a new home at Capitola where, with their kiddies, they enjoy the week-ends. Mr. and Mrs. John Corotto also have a lovely summer home at Capitola, where they constantly hold open house for their friends. Fred Withyemhe is a member of Observatory No. 177 N.S.G.W., and John Corotto, the Grand Treasurer N.S.G.W., is affiliated with San Jose No. 22.

Ititarity Held Sway.

Hollister—The July 10 meeting of Copa de Oro No. 105 was arranged as a costume party, the committee in charge furnishing clever surprises in the way of decorations, amusements and refreshments. All sorts and conditions of costumes were in evidence, including clowns, old-fashioned women, hitch-hikers, hula-hula (Continued on Page 35)

In Memoriam

JOHN ORTON.
 Born July 26, 1892. Died June 16, 1930.
 Member Menlo Parlor No. 185 N.S.G.W.
 Whereas, in bowing to the divine will of Providence in taking from Menlo Parlor No. 185 N.S.G.W. Brother John Orton, a loyal Native Son, we deplore the untimely death of this esteemed and beloved member. It is hard to contemplate that one who had just reached manhood's prime, while yet in love with life and raptured with the world, should pass to silent and pathetic dust.
 Resolved, That we, the members of Menlo Parlor, do hereby acknowledge the supreme sacrifice Brother Orton made in giving his young life to his country. We are not unmindful that when the "call to arms" was made by this country in the late war, he responded promptly. After a short training at Camp Lewis, he went with his regiment across the seas and participated in many a well-fought battle. He led his comrades in going "over the top," baring his breast to the enemy. In the conflict, Brother Orton was gassed, shell-shocked and suffered from untold hardships. The insidious gas undermined his stout frame. The inroads made by it finally caused his death.
 Brother Orton died upon the altar of his country, sacrificing his life to the cause of Liberty, and we regard him as a martyr to that great cause. On the scroll of honor of Menlo Parlor No. 185 N.S.G.W. there is not, and never will be, a brighter name than that of John Orton, whose memory will ever be enshrined in the hearts of the members of this Parlor.

girls, beach pajamas that beat the present eraize ten miles for colorfulness and dnrng, fruit workers, and even Charles August Lindbergh Junior himself. Costume prizes were won by Irene Williams, Charlotte Bates and Clara L. Black and amusement prizes were awarded Jo Snell and Sarah Held. Hilarity held sway until a late hour, making a fitting close to a successful term, preceeding a summer recess to last until September 11. Plans were formulated for a theater party.

A large number of the Parlor members listened June 26 to inspiring accounts of the Oakland Grand Parlor. Gladys Garner became a member, and appetizing refreshments were served at the close of the initiatory ceremonies.

Grand Marshal Visits

Woodland—Mrs. Anna M. Armstrong, elected Grand Marshal at the Oakland Grand Parlor, made her first official visit July 15 to Aloha No. 106 (Oakland), where she assisted in the installation of the officers of that Parlor by District Deputy Mildred Brant. Mrs. Armstrong was accompanied by a delegation of eight Woodland No. 90 members, including Supervising Deputy Edna Richter, Miss Kathryn Simmons, Mms. Wanda Abele, Edna Reynolds, Nellie Hebner, Mary Tillotson, Edna Bailey and Edna Woods.

Public Installation.

Madera—Officers of Madera No. 244, with Elinor Mills as president, were publicly installed July 10 by District Deputy Elvira Soares, who was accompanied by several members of Fresno No. 187. Refreshments were served.

Many Visitors.

Fairfax—Officers of Fairfax No. 225 were installed July 8 by District Deputy Esther McCarthy, assisted by Past Grand President Emma Gruber-Poley. Mrs. Margaret Valentine became the president.

Refreshments were served in the banquet hall, which was beautifully decorated. Delegations from Marinita No. 198 (San Rafael), Tamelpa No. 231 (Mill Valley) and Orinda No. 56 (San Francisco) were in attendance.

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father, in His infinite wisdom, has called from our midst our beloved sister, Ida Zoebier, who, although being with us only a few months, became very near and dear; in her passing, a place has been made vacant in our Parlor and we miss her bright and cheery presence.

Resolved, That it is a tender privilege to pay a loving tribute to the memory of our departed sister, whose passing, in her young life, we mourn with deepest regret; be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, that a copy be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

ELSIE W. NELSON, MARGARET THORNTON, HAZEL LAVERTY,

Committee.

Merced, June 23, 1930.

MARY O'BRIEN.

To the Officers and Members of Piedmont Parlor No. 87 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolution of respect to the memory of our departed sister, Mary O'Brien, who answered to the roll call of the Grand Parlor on High on June 16, 1930, while Grand Parlor was in session here on earth, submit the following:

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God, in His infinite wisdom, to call from among us our beloved sister, Mary O'Brien; and whereas, this Parlor has lost a true and loyal member, and her family a loving wife and mother; therefore, be it

Resolved, That Piedmont Parlor No. 87 N.D.G.W. feels most deeply the loss of our esteemed sister, and that we extend to the bereaved family, in this their hour of trial, our sincere and heartfelt sympathy, and commend them to our Heavenly Father for consolation; be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of our departed sister, that a copy be spread in full upon the minutes of our Parlor, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

JOSEPHINE CLARK, NELL REALY MOORE, ADDIE L. MOSHER, Condolence Committee.

Oakland, July 3, 1930.

N.D.G.W. OFFICIAL DEATH LIST.

Giving the name, the date of death, and the Subordinate Parlor affiliation of all deceased members as reported to Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler to July 15, 1930:

SAN PEDRO HARBOR of the GRE THE GREAT AT SOUTHWEST

PROSPERITY SUSTAINED

R (STANLEY A. WHEELER.)
 REVEALING AN UNMISTAKABLE STORY of sustained prosperity, the port records of San Pedro and Wilmington for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1930, showed Los Angeles Harbor had again passed the billion-dollar mark. The figures were compiled by the Marine Exchange from daily valuation and tonnage records made by the Los Angeles Harbor Department. Cargoes moving both inbound and outbound during the year were valued at $1,104,892,806 and weighed 26,480,678 tons. Both are new port records. Commercial ship arrivals totaled 8,625, with an aggregate of 23,307,622 net tons. The best previous ship record was made in the fiscal year 1928-29, when 7,888 commercial vessels made port.

Oil exports from Los Angeles Harbor for the last fiscal year totaled 126,207,432 barrels, the shipments going to a hundred domestic and foreign ports on every ocean. Lumber imports from British Columbia, Washington, Oregon and the northern part of California totaled 1,039,153,042 board-feet. Petroleum shipments this last year showed slight increase over the previous fiscal year, while lumber imports dropped off slightly.

The harbor report showed marked increases in foreign and intercoastal trade. All other classes of commerce, while not records, revealed a sustained movement of goods of all classes and values.

BENEFIT DANCE FOR NEW HOME.

Grand President John T. Newell and Past Grand President William I. Traeger were honored guests of Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W. July 11. The Grand President officiated in presenting insignia to three past presidents of the Parlor, a gold badge going to Clyde H. Foot and diamond-studded rings to Stanley A. Wheeler and Vincent E. Hopkins. The occasion marked the first visit of Grand President Newell to San Pedro since his election and installation at the Merced Grand Parlor. It was also the first visit of Sheriff Traeger since his recent illness and a trip to Hawaii.

New officers of Sepulveda were installed July 25 by District Deputy Burrel D. Neighbours, John T. Gower succeeding John P. Paraliou as president. The Royal Palms gardens on the Palos Verdes coast was the scene of a dance given the evening of June 28 by the Parlor. Funds raised will be used toward a proposed new home for No. 263, to be erected on land recently given the organization by its first senior past president, Roman D. Sepulveda.

Sepulveda personals—Past President Edward E. Baldwin and family have returned from an extended motor tour through California North, Washington and Oregon. Howard E. Wickersham became the father of a second native daughter, Janice, July 18. Walter Richards and George E. Jamar were in New York City during July to attend the Elks' national convention. Carl Johnson, first officer of the tank steamer "Algonquin," drove overland from New York City to San Pedro early in July to visit relatives. Past President Clyde H. Foot spent part of July vacationing in the mountains with his family.

WEDDING BELLS.

At Highlands, San Bernardino County, June 9, Miss Helen Genevieve Corwin became the bride of Stanley A. Wheeler, past president Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W. Following a wedding trip via motor to the northern part of the state the couple returned via steamer to San Pedro, where they will make their home.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS INSTALL.

Officers of Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W. were installed July 18 by District Deputy Eunice Fox, Miss Mary Dever being retained as president. Among the many in attendance were a large delegation from Santa Ana Parlor No. 235. A gift was presented District Deputy Fox, and

FOURTH DISTRICT

"Bob" Ramage, former Mayor of Hawthorne, is a self-made man, graduate University California. Is a Native Son of a Pioneer family. Twenty-five years resident Los Angeles County. Identified with public life for many years, and successful in business.

Florence Dodson-Schoneman, a past president of No. 230, was officially recognized as Grand Trustee. After the meeting a social hour was enjoyed, with Mms. Tennie Padilla and Carrie Kuhlman serving refreshments.

OLD TIMER PASSES.
 C. A. Smith, father of Bruce Smith, charter member Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W., was hurried July 12, at Wilmington. He was a pioneer seafaring man of Los Angeles Harbor and for years engaged in the ship supply business in Wilmington and San Pedro.

TO RESTORE LANDMARK.
 Restoration of the old Phineas Banning home in Banning Park, Wilmington, to the same condition in which it was in 1835 when the late Pioneer made it famous for its California hospitality, is engaging the attention of the Los Angeles Park Board.

The building itself is little changed from what it was almost 100 years ago, but the old California-style furniture has been removed, and the park department will attempt to replace it with replicas.

The house and property were purchased a number of years ago from the Banning estate for a nominal sum for park purposes and since then the playground department has established recreation facilities on the grounds.

AVOCADO ACREAGE INCREASING.
 The avocado acreage is increasing by leaps and bounds. Where the fruit a few years ago was almost unknown, and where more recently it has become a favorite and in heavy demand at good prices, the next few years are likely to see increasing production and probable lower prices. Competition is stiffening, too. Florida and Cuba can produce avocados at less cost; on the other hand, their varieties are larger and not as much in demand. The supply here is a year-round matter, too, and the marketing is being handled by a well-organized co-operative. The next few years are likely to determine the future of the avocado industry, which probably will settle down on a profit paying basis within a few years, though perhaps without fancy returns.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

TWEED TREATMENTS DOMINATE the fall styles of jerseys, which are trimmed in tiny stitchings of bright colors in interesting designs and new patterns. Classical checks and some stripes are shown. Tweeds have also gone into knitted fabrics this fall.

Checks are seen everywhere, from some very small and broken effects to some so large that they are nearly blocked plaids. Checks, even when keeping to their small classic form, may be varied by color effect. One must consider the predominance of brighter effects.

Knitted tweeds are primarily sports types, and as such will follow the sports coloring more closely than the woven types. These take into consideration street and semi-dressy wear.

Beige and brown continue, of course, being considered a good staple combination, but much newer is the alliance of many browns in one cloth featuring off casts. African brown, for instance, is knitted with peach beige. Cinnamon brown, light yellow brown and a medium mauve tinted brown as solid color novelties are approved.

Tweed effects in their rough textures—induced by the knitting of novelty yarn and fiber mixtures—are again given a position of great importance. Cashmere and angora are mixed with wool of various weights.

Boleros are indicated only at the back, to give added interest to the upper part of frocks, and are attached or indicated by tucks, expressed all around or at certain sections.

Flat silhouette lines and flat pleats are sometimes introduced in the lower section of the coat.

Capes appear occasionally. Sleeves are frequently widened near the elbow in leg-o'-mutton cut, or by cuffs that flare downward from the elbow.

Furs, contrasting with monotone fabrics or bringing out the brown or black in tweed mixtures, continue to create flattering face framing effects.

The one-piece sports frock maintains its position. It is belted, slender in silhouette, and inclines more to bow pleats than to flared treatments. Lingerie collar, vestee and cuff sets appear recurrently.

There are some indications that coat dress types will acquire more importance this year, and it is interesting to watch the revival of the over-blouse style.

In the most informal groups of coatings, camel's hair maintains its prestige, promoted sometimes in tiny two-tone patterns.

So far, the emphasis on sports dresses for fall points to cantons, flat crepes, light-weight woven tweeds, crepe woolens and medium-weight velveteens.

The introduction of typically summer fabrics into lingerie items is new. Chiffons are strongly featured, appearing in gowns, chemise and panties. Under-garments are styled along evening lines, with low décolletage and dainty lace trimmings.

Printed silks register well, and dainty floral patterns on light or white grounds are lovely. Glove silk and rayon undies are enjoying popularity, and are practical for hot weather and travel wear.

Novelty pajamas continue their activity in cotton, suitable for beach lounging or sleeping. Still accounting for their comfort, silk pajamas are most popular. The tuck-in style continues to lead with two-tone effects. Eggshell combined with a bright color is a favorite combination.

Transparent velvet assumes an assured position for the fall costume. The luxurious texture of the fabric lends itself to the growing formality of fall fashions, both for daytime and evening. The feminine type of suit is frequently expressed in this medium, and the afternoon dress is another type which repeatedly resorts to sheer velvet.

Black, of course, retains its position at the head of colors in this fabric, but it is believed that the dark tones of wine red, green and all browns will come in for considerable attention.

As for white, which is being stressed as an alternative to black for evening wear, broche velvets contribute variety to the day and evening range of plain colors.

Small neat motifs, closely spaced, sometimes over printed materials, are sponsored for the afternoon dress, evening wraps, jackets and negligees. More striking patterns are evolved in pastel and two-tone effects.

Gloves and costume jewelry are very important for evening wear. Short wrist-length pull-ons, of suede in white and eggshell, are to be worn with flexible bracelets of brilliants.

It is definitely settled that pastel shades are to continue in fall gloves. Long evening gloves

RETAIN AS JUDGE

Superior Court
 LOS ANGELES COUNTY

OFFICE No. 4
JUDGE HARRY R. ARCHBALD

Graduated from University Michigan 1902. Engaged in general law practice 1902-1912. Appointed Assistant U. S. Attorney 1912. Served in law department Wholesale Board Trade 1915-1923. Judge Superior Court Los Angeles County 1923 to present time.

Member Congregational Church, Sons American Revolution, Optimist Club, Masonic Bodies, Knights Pythias, Elks, etc.

"Keep an educated, capable and utterly honest Judge on the Bench. Harry R. Archbald is not only brilliant and honest, but he is unflinching when facing the gravest responsibility when sitting in judgment upon his fellowmen. His sterling worth has been tested times innumerable, and he has never been found wanting."

are of foremost importance. Added to the popular pink and blue are orchid, varied shades of light green and pastels in six and eight hutton lengths.

For afternoon, it is thought that pink is especially suited for wear with brown and black costumes.

Plain pull-ons and mousquetaires are the center of style interest, and are confined to color and length, rather than to design.

THANK GOD FOR DESERTS

(HARTLEY B. ALEXANDER.)

Thank God for deserts! and great unpeopled spaces,

And tawny hills, rock-huilt, that give no hold To any green, and for the jagged fold That binds the black abyss, and un pitying faces Of dead vast harrens, and seas that keep no traces!

Thank God for deserts! and the white sands rolled

Remorseless over bleached things, and for cold

Antarctic nights, and Time that all erases!

Golf-fields and wheat-fields, factories, markets, stalls,

And Bahel's tower and Eiffel's, smudge and scars

Of miners, smelters, wood-jacks, realtors. . .

Thank God for deserts! all the unbreached walls That Earth, insouciant, sets to her man's bars, Intent alone upon her sister stars!

—University California Chronicle.

KEEP THE WEEDS DOWN.

Along in mid-summer the weeds have a habit of just naturally outstripping all the crops and of somehow getting out of hand. It is poor practice to let a single weed go to seed. Where cultivation is possible, that is the best method, remembering always that with the weeds gone the necessity for cultivation likewise is gone. Where weeds are growing in fence corners or other places where they cannot be reached, diesel oil will get them, or sodium chlorate or calcium chlorate. Arsenical sprays also are good, but should not be used if there is any danger of animals eating the weeds after they are sprayed. Every plant that goes to seed means a hundred to a thousand next year.

A BIT O' FARMING

PREPARED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY M. H. ELLIS

THERE MAY OR MAY NOT BE A parallel in the recent price war of the gasoline producers to the situation in agriculture. Certainly there is no comparison as to the result; the oil interests stopped their competitive tactics in short order. They didn't care to take losses, so they got together and put the price back where they could make a profit.

Who started the gasoline war is beside the question. But it went the way, accelerated to many times the speed, that agriculture has followed—up to the final adjustment. There was a call to the Federal Government for investigation, an appeal to the state for price setting, men were thrown out of work, the industry was in chaos.

Agriculture has been in that situation for years—decades, rather than days. Competition and cut-throat methods have been practiced for years, yet only in a comparatively few instances have the farmers been able to get together and stop their losses. Some co-operative marketing agencies have been successful, where their members stuck to them; others have failed because their membership dwindled when more tempting prices were offered outside. The farmers have appealed to the government, and have secured at last the Federal Farm Board. But now that body tells the farmers that they must furnish their own relief.

And that is the only reasonable program. The farmers must get together and control their products. The oil interests stopped production, or at least curtailed it, when it appeared that more oil was being offered for sale than the market would take at a profit. The Farm Board tells the farmers they must do the same thing. Last year Nature took a hand in California and cut the fruit crop in two; the result was a tremendous increase in the returns, although the crop marketed was only about half that of the preceding year.

Still the farmers do not get together. And there are many reasons why they do not. In the first place, they have been exploited until they have lost faith. Then there are those who won't join in the co-operative movement because they can reap the results produced by the others, and without the expense. The grape sign-up was an example. It was planned that 85 per cent of the growers, when signed up, should pay a levy on their crops to take care of the destruction of the surplus. There were plenty of growers who were willing to make up the 15 per cent who did not sign and who would get the price created by the 85 percent that did, and who would not have to stand the expense of the caring for the surplus.

The government may enact laws, may organize a Federal Farm Board to aid agriculture; the final solution of farm relief, however, is up to the farmer himself. Together the farmers may make a stand and reap a reasonable profit; divided, they must take what is offered for their products and he picked clean themselves by those whose only interest is to make money from, not for, agriculture.

KNOW YOUR SOIL.

Unless the farmer knows his soil, and tills it in an intelligent manner to correct defects that may exist, he is not going to make the most of his opportunity. He must know what is going on down where the roots of his trees are growing. He must know conditions as regards moisture, hardpans, sand streaks, poor drainage and water table. A soil tube or a soil auger is indispensable, preferably the former. Samples of the soil may be taken down through the depths where roots penetrate, and armed with knowledge thus gained the farmer is in a position to handle the soil to secure the greatest possible returns.

TO SAVE TOMATO SEED.

Careful selection and saving of tomato seed, where but one variety is grown and there is no danger of cross pollination and hybridization, will result in better plants and fruits each year. One of the simplest and best ways of extracting and cleaning seed is to put them in a hucket or tub, after picking, until they become rotten. Then put them in plenty of water and stir once a day.

The pulp will come to the top and it and the skin can be skimmed off, leaving the seeds at the bottom. Siphon off the water, or pour it off carefully, and spread the seed on a piece of glass in a warm, dry place. When dry, rub the seeds lightly between the hands to separate them. Store in a glass jar or other container where they will be protected from insects. It is taken for granted that only the best tomatoes will be saved for seed purposes.

WALNUT IRRIGATION.

Walnut groves, particularly those on sandy soils, should have a thorough irrigation before harvest starts, to insure plenty of moisture to carry them through until the nuts are off the trees, the latter part of September or the first of October. This irrigation should be as close to harvest as possible, and still have the ground in condition when the nuts begin to fall.

Some growers have found it profitable to pick up the first nuts before this irrigation, thus delaying application of moisture until just before harvest. However, if the soil is not too light, a good irrigation should see the trees through until they can be watered again. Irrigated the second or third week in August, the trees should carry through until after harvest. Then they should be given another thorough irrigation.

EARLY GRAVENSTEINS POOR.

Gravensteins picked before they are mature are quite certain to be of inferior quality. In fact, fruit picked before the tenth of August will generally be found to have white, watery seeds; the apples will not keep as well, will be subject to bitter pit, scald and rot. The fruit harvested too early will be more acid, will lack soluble solids and will never have the crispness, aroma and flavor of well-matured fruit. Picked at the proper time, Gravensteins stored at 32 degrees will keep well until Thanksgiving. Early fruit may command a good price at the time, but it breaks down the market by its poor quality for the bulk of the crop that is to come.

INFECTIOUS BRONCHITIS OF FOWLS.

Infectious bronchitis of fowls is rapidly becoming a major problem for the poultryman in California, although it has appeared in nearly every other section of the continent where poultry is produced before it made appearance here. Little is known of the disease. Certainly there is no specific that will cure it; endeavors to combat it through vapors or disinfectants are futile. It appears suddenly and spreads rapidly.

As a rule, birds from four to eighteen months are the greatest sufferers, although fowls of any age are susceptible. Not only is the mortality heavy, but the loss in egg production is likely to be as great or even greater. Isolate all infected birds and use every precaution to keep the premises in a sanitary condition. Otherwise, until research leads the way to safe treatment, there is little to be done.

DEEP TILLAGE OPERATIONS.

At this season of the year it will be well to consider whether the fruit crop is as good as it should be. With plenty of water, top soil in good condition and a lack of quantity or quality in yield, it may be necessary to go beneath the surface to find the cause. Oftentimes, even in deep soil, an "irrigation pan" or "plow sole" will be found keeping the water out of the soil and hindering root development. The presence of real hardpan should be no surprise; the owner should know whether it is there. If subsoiling is necessary, the dry season is the proper time to do it. Run through between trees or vines to a depth that breaks up all hard surfaces underneath. Irrigation in these furrows will be found beneficial. Subsoiling at this time breaks up the hardpan or plow sole or whatever it may be; if the soil is damp it will only pack. There are few soils that have been cultivated continuously over a period of years that will not give a satisfactory response to subsoiling.

BLOOD IN THE MILK.

Cows, especially heifers, often give bloody milk. Usually this is the result of a rupture of small blood vessels, due to garget, or congestion; it may, however, be due to a growth in the teats. Milk carefully and massage the udder with camphorated oil after each milking. Bathe the udder with cold water three times a day and keep the animal in a warm place free from draughts and provided with plenty of clean, dry bedding. It is doubtful if any results can be obtained by making additions to the ration.

SUMMER CARE OF EGGS.

During hot weather, quality of eggs is apt to deteriorate rapidly unless proper care is taken. Eggs should be gathered several times a day and taken at once to a cool, humid room for storage. A cellar will answer the purpose admirably; an egg room can be fitted in the basement and the moisture aided by sprinkling the floor. Where there is good air circulation, burlap kept wet from a hose connection or a can of water will be of value. Production of quality eggs is of no avail if they are not delivered in good shape.

WEEDS IN RABBIT FEED.

It may be noted that where rabbits are fed hay with which is mixed some weed such as puncture vine, sandhur or thistle, that no bad results are apparent. And it is true that no bad results will be apparent, save that burs may get into the feet and fur. But pens fed with clean, fine hay with other conditions similar, would show a great difference in weight, probably as much as half a pound in four weeks. If no other feed is available, there need be no fear in feeding such mixtures, but it should be remembered that there will be no gain even if the feed is much cheaper.

SUMMER SORES IN HORSES.

Summer sores in horses, while they appear in hot weather, are not the result of climate, nor are they caused by an infection. Rather, they are hereditary, and the reason all the animals on a farm may be infected is that more than likely the same sire has been used or all the animals are from a strain with this hereditary taint. The only remedy, of course, is to secure mares that have not been affected, and to breed to stallions that have not had summer sores. Usually it is easy to detect the tendency to the disease; the tell-tale scars show it plainly.

HISTORIC TOWN HAS BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

WEAVERVILLE, THE BEAUTIFUL little government-seat of Trinity County, loved throughout California by all who have delighted in its charms and on various occasions accepted of the bounteous hospitality of its citizens, celebrated July 8 the eightieth anniversary of its beginning with a birthday party that attracted a large crowd, including many of those who, while seeking fame and fortune elsewhere, are loyal to their former home-place, Weaverville.

Many Pioneers were guests of honor, among them S. I. Thayer, now 95, who arrived in Trinity County in 1851. An interesting event was the contest of panning, sluicing and rocking for gold—early-day processes of mining now familiar to but a few. A concrete monument to the Pioneers was dedicated; in it is embedded a bronze plaque inscribed: "On this site was built the first cabin and Weaverville named July 8, 1850."

The feature of the birthday celebration was the extended address of James W. Bartlett, Superior Judge of Trinity County and a charter member of Mount Bally Parlor No. 87 N.S.G.W. of Weaverville. Excerpts from his address, which embodied a complete history of the Town of Weaverville, follow:

"The first historic event in the life of every town or city that has ever existed was the giving to it of its name. July 8, 1850, the name of Weaverville was given the old California town in which we are this day assembled. Four young gold seekers were engaged in building a house upon the spot where the lobby of the Union hotel now stands, when one of them jokingly said: 'What will we call our town?' One of these young men, named Weaver, had come to California from Mississippi. 'Let's call it Weaverville after Mr. Weaver,' said one of the men. 'No, don't do that,' said Weaver. 'Yes,' exclaimed the others, 'Weaverville it is,' and thus came into being, eighty years ago today, this Town of Weaverville.

"A small number of miners had arrived in this basin—in which Weaverville lies—at that time, and Weaver appears to have been somewhat of a leader among them. Another prominent young man of the four who were building the first house was James Howe, who had come from New York to California. Soon after the town was named Weaver left Weaverville and went to Big Bar on the Trinity River, where he amassed a small fortune and returned to his native state, where he became a prosperous and prominent citizen. Howe remained for many years and was one of the most prominent men in Trinity and Shasta Counties. . . .

"Weaverville Basin, which is the common designation of the section in which the town stands, as described by the first-comers was a beautiful and attractive spot. Scattered about were large yellow pine trees, oaks, digger pines, cottonwoods and occasional cedars. Through this basin flowed the waters from the surrounding hills. . . . The bars of all streams were covered with rich, fertile soil, in which grew the native grasses and wild flowers of California. From the tree tops came the sweet songs of birds; mountain trout abounded in every stream; deer and bear were plentiful on the surrounding hills; the shriek of the coyote and the hoot of the owl sounded through the nights. Except for an occasional native Indian, the land had no inhabitant save bird and animal.

"But within its soil, in bed of stream and in hillside gravel bank was concealed the metal, gold, the discovery of which at Coloma [El Dorado County] by Marshall in January 1848, had caused that world-wide migration from every land of the men we denominated the California Pioneer. Rich were the finds of gold in Weaverville Basin during 1850. . . . From that far-off day to this mining has been the main productive industry in Weaverville Basin. It is safe to estimate $20,000,000 of gold as having been taken from the soils mined and worked since July 8, 1850, within a radius of three miles from the spot upon which we stand. In other words, out of less than ten square miles of the lands of which the townsite of Weaverville is the center, has been taken one dollar out of every one thousand dollars of the entire gold product of the whole world. What further stores of gold lie within these lands remains to be ascertained. That the gold deposits in this section are exhausted, no one for a moment can believe who is familiar with the early history of the rich finds made here at so many different points in this basin and on the surrounding hills. . . .

"Work" two years from the naming of the town, its fame had spread to all parts of the world, and in the summer of 1852 Weaverville had some 3,000 men mining and prospecting in every part of the basin. . . . As in all the early mining camps of California, practically every nationality of earth was represented among the people of Weaverville within a few years from the date of its birth. . . . The town had an unfortunate series of fires in its early history. . . . The losses by these fires brought about the building during 1854 and 1855 of all the present brick buildings. . . . The bricks in these buildings are made of the clay found here, and were molded, fired and put in place by skilled brick-makers and masons who were among the pioneer residents of the town. Doors, windows, mouldings and all the woodwork were made by local carpenters out of lumber sawed in local sawmills, and an examination of their work will convince anyone that Weaverville had some skilled and competent workmen among its early inhabitants.

"The two spiral stairways leading from Main street to the Native Sons hall and the Odd Fellows hall attract the attention of every visitor to Weaverville. They were found in many of the early mining towns of California, their purpose being the saving in the lower story of a brick building of a stairway space, and also the complete separation of two stories of the building for separate business purposes. The object of the iron shutters on the doors and windows of the brick buildings is often misrepresented as being for protection from the bullets of bandits and desperadoes on the street. The sole object of these shutters was fire protection, and time and again they have proved their value for this purpose. It is hard to believe, but it is a fact, that many of these iron shutters were packed upon mules from Shasta to Weaverville.

"The three great events in its history that gave Weaverville an early permanence and stability were construction of its brick buildings and water ditches, and the system of wagon roads connecting the town with the neighboring counties of Shasta and Siskiyou. . . . The ambition, courage and confidence of the early miners was nowhere more strongly made manifest than in the construction of the first water ditches. They not only sought the waters of the nearby streams, but as early as 1852 began construction of a ditch designed to convey the waters of Stuart's Fork to Oregon Mountain, a work which was finally accomplished in 1894. . . . Some of you will perhaps doubt, when you are told that the first water pipes laid in this town were made of wooden logs, bored with augers in some instances four inches in diameter. In comparatively recent years those old wooden pipe lines were replaced by the present iron pipe lines. . . .

"April 29, 1858, was a gala day at Weaverville, for at 5 p.m. that date the first stagecoach, with William Lawrence as its driver, arrived in Weaverville from Shasta, with its load of passengers, United States mail and express. The construction of the road from the Tower House to Weaverville over which the stagecoach traveled that memorable day was a work that will excite wonder and admiration for all time. In less than a year, some twenty-four and one-half miles of road was constructed and several streams were bridged, and all accomplished at a cost of less than $30,000. How it was done, will forever be a puzzle, for the men who did this work had no steam shovels or giant powder or the thousand-and-one mechanical appliances now used in modern road building, nor did they have a gasoline tax to provide the monetary requirements. All honor to W. S. Lowden and the men who, under his direction, constructed this pioneer wagon road of California. . . .

"There is but one shadow that darkens the confidence and trust which the people of Weaverville have in its future growth and progress. As they look westward over Oregon Mountain towards Junction City, the route taken by the Pioneer gold miners from Weaverville towards Humboldt Bay, they wonder if the State of California in its splendid work of building a system of state roads will abandon this route for one that would sidetrack their town and thereby injure and perhaps eventually destroy one of the old historic places of California. They trust that the state they love will not so treat them and they hope and ask that the efforts they have made and are making to avoid this ruin and destruction will soon be answered by the state with an official declaration that its state highway commission has adopted as the route for the extension road provided for by the California State Highway Act of 1915 one that shall begin at the Town of Weaverville and proceed thence westward over Oregon Mountain to and through the Town of Junction City. This assurance the residents of Weaverville believe they are entitled to, on every ground that should be considered in determining the routing of this extension road, whether viewed from historic, scenic, engineering or legal standpoints.

"Guests, visitors and friends of this old California town, help Weaverville and its people in their efforts to secure this routing of the extension state road from Weaverville to Arcata!"

ADMISSION DAY PLANS.

Arrangements for the state-wide celebration of Admission Day, September 9, in San Francisco, are being perfected by the N.S.G.W. Extension of the Order Committee, representing all the local Parlors. Walter Bammann (Pacific Parlor No. 10) is chairman of the general committee, and George W. Schonfeld (Olympus Parlor No. 189) heads the parade committee.

The big celebration feature will be the Admission Day parade, in charge of Grand Marshal Joseph Clavo. He has chosen as his assistants Percy A. Marchant (Guadalupe Parlor No. 231), as chief of staff; James L. Foley (Twin Peaks Parlor No. 214), as chief aide, and Joseph Rose (Marshall Parlor No. 202), as director-general. Other contemplated events on the day's program include: Literary exercises in the rotunda of the City Hall, following the parade; athletic events, including boat races, in the afternoon; grand ball at Dreamland Rink, at night. The committee has other features under consideration, and assurance is given that an attractive day's program will be presented.

TEN INITIATED.

Following the initiation of ten candidates, officers of Stanford Parlor No. 76 N.S.G.W. were installed July 15 by District Deputy Walter Bammann, Ivo Monti becoming president. Following the enthusiastic meeting refreshments were served.

MONSTER BRIDGE.

Alta Parlor No. 3 N.D.G.W. is sponsoring a monster bridge and white party, to be held at Native Sons Building, August 23. Mrs. J. F. Conner is chairman of the general committee. Among the many awards will be a beautiful hope-chest.

DON'T USE NICKNAME.

"The nickname of San Francisco," says Miss Eliza D. Keith, Past Grand President N.D.G.W., "has always been repudiated and its use resented by the residents of the city whose patron saint is the beloved Saint Francis."

"But no matter how we protest, by voice or pen, the outsiders will persist in using the abomination. Railroads use it as a special designation of a route; hayseeds and would-be sports from interior towns think it something distinguished to use the slang phrase, and flatterers everywhere seem to take special delight in flaunting it in their conversation."

"The trouble is, most of us are ear-minded, and a musical-sounding or catchy phrase invades the brain by way of the auditory nerve and the name becomes a fact."

"Over twenty-five years ago the Native Daughters of the Golden West inaugurated a crusade against the custom of belittling abbreviations and issued thousands of letter-leaf circulars for use in correspondence asking people always to say San Francisco, and to spell California out in full. This effort doubtless bore fruit for a time; but the very ones, today as then, who are seeking the same object as the N.D.G.W. Order, make the fatal mistake of repeating the objectionable word. Only recently the Native Sons placarded the street cars asking people not to say '—', but to call our city San Francisco. This gave wide publicity to the objectionable nickname which, doubtless to say, stuck in the memory long after the name San Francisco was forgotten."

"There is a subtle psychology of suggestion, and every time a word is repeated a deeper brain groove is made, especially if the word gets there first ahead of the correction. Just keep that fact in mind, and never say the nickname."

YOUNG PLUM TREES.

Young trees should grow vigorously, and plums are no exception to this rule. An adequate supply of moisture should be furnished the young plum orchard and there should be no competition from weeds; cultivation should be clean. Pruning during the first two or three years is for the purpose of developing a strong, well-shaped tree, one capable of heavy production in future years. Thinning out where there is necessity is the only cutting that needs to be done, in most instances. Care should be given the young trees; they should be straightened if they lean too far with the prevailing direction of the wind, weak limbs should be braced and crotches should be watched to prevent splitting.

PLANTING LADINO CLOVER.

Ladino clover, popular for some years in the Pacific Northwest, is gaining also in popularity in California. It grows well from north to south, except under real desert conditions. Ladino should be planted in the fall, in time that the seeds may germinate and the plants get a good start before cold weather sets in, and while there is plenty of moisture available. Ladino requires irrigation in most sections of the state, not heavy, but frequent, as it does not root deeply.

In Memoriam

LILLIAN C. O'CONNOR.

To the Officers and Members of Las Lomas Parlor No. 72 Native Daughters of the Golden West—We your committee appointed to draft resolutions of condolence and respect to the memory of our departed sister, Lillian C. O'Connor, respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, Almighty God, in His infinite wisdom and love, has deemed fit to call to His Heavenly Parlor on High our beloved sister and past president, Lillian C. O'Connor; and whereas, in her demise, Las Lomas Parlor has lost a true and faithful member, and the bereaved family a loving sister; we have been impressed with the uncertainty of human life, for "In the midst of life we are in death"

No one saw the door open
So silent was the call;
Like falling leaves from roses
One by one our dear ones fall.

We will miss her cheerful smile and kindly ways; to know her was to love her. Therefore, be it Resolved, By the members of Las Lomas Parlor No. 72 Native Daughters of the Golden West, in regular meeting assembled, that we extend to the bereaved family our deepest sympathy and pray that their grief may be lessened by the memory of the devotion and courage of the departed; and be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this meeting, that a copy thereof be forwarded to the bereaved family, and another copy sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

CITY AND COUNTY

NOTED PIONEER'S DAUGHTER PASSES

MRS. MAGDALENA WOLFSKILL SABICHI, born at Los Angeles May 6, 1846, passed away in that city July 17, survived by six children, among them Dr. George C. Sabichi (Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W.) of Bakersfield. She was the widow of Frank C. Sabichi, in years gone by one of the most active members of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West and at one time a Grand Trustee.

Mrs. Sabichi was a daughter of William Wolfskill, deceased, one of California's most noted Pioneers and among the first Americans to arrive in the Golden State. Born in Kentucky in 1798, following the 1812 Indian uprisings he set out as a trapper and eventually found his way to California, arriving in Los Angeles County in February 1831.

At San Pedro, he built "El Refugio," probably the first schooner in California. With it he made one trip to the coast islands in search of otter, and then sold the vessel, which finally went to the Sandwich Islands. He next turned his attention to the cultivation of citrus fruits and grapes and to the raising of stock, in which he met with success.

In November 1838 he purchased a place in Los Angeles. In 1841 he planted the first orange grove in this section, and demonstrated the fact that California South possessed a climate that will produce the finest fruits in the world. In 1856 he planted 2,000 more trees a little southwest of what is now the site of the Southern Pacific depot. Twenty years later his son shipped direct from that orchard to Saint Louis, Missouri, the first carload of oranges ever sent out of the state; charges $500, slow freight, nearly a month reaching destination, the venture proved a financial success. As many as 25,000 boxes of oranges and lemons were shipped from this ranch in a single year.

Besides his intimate connection with the establishment of the orange industry, Wolfskill was a pioneer in other lines of activity, and did much to show Eastern people the fertility of California soil. In January 1841 he was wedded to Magdalena Lugo, daughter of Jose Ygnacio Lugo of Santa Barbara.—C.M.H.

EXQUISITE FLOWERS FEATURE NATIVE DAUGHTER INSTALLATION.

With the meeting hall converted into a veritable bower of beauty by a generous use of exquisite flowers, in baskets and bouquets, carrying out the Order's colors, the officers of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. were publicly installed July 23, Miss Ruth Ruiz being advanced to the presidency. There was a large attendance, including visiting Native Daughters and Native Sons, eligibles, and non-native friends of the Parlor and its members.

MISS RUTH M. RUIZ,
President Los Angeles Parlor N.D.G.W.

The ceremonies were conducted by District Deputy Hazel Hansen, who was assisted by Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, Grand Trustee Marvel Thomas and the officers of Verdugo Parlor No. 240 (Glendale). The opening march was a colorful picture, with the officers-elect and the officiating officials, gowned in white, carrying arm bouquets of pink and crimson roses.

Miss Ruiz, following installation, thanked the Parlor for the honor conferred on her, pledged her best efforts to promote the well-being of the Order and the Parlor, and said the occasion was also a tribute to Miss Marvel Thomas, a member of No. 124, elected Grand Trustee at the Oakland Grand Parlor. Brief remarks were made by Grand President John T. Newell and Past Grand President William I. Traeger of the Native Sons, and Past Grand President Stoermer of the Native Daughters. Letters expressing regret at their inability to be present were read from Founder Lily O. Reichling-Dyer and Grand Trustee Florence D. Schoeman, and Grand Trustee Ben Harrison of the Native Sons. Mrs. Lucia Hernandez and Edward LeVitt favored with vocal selections. The Parlor presented a token of appreciation to Miss Irene Eden, the retiring president, and floral remembrances to all the Native Sons and Daughters grand officers, as well as to those who participated in the program.

President Ruiz invited the assemblage to the banquet room, where Social Hostess Grace J. Norton and her efficient committee served refreshments. Thus was brought to a close a perfect evening, long to be remembered by both participants and guests. Los Angeles will have its regular monthly card party August 13, and a social meeting is announced for August 27.

RECEPTION FOR GRAND PRESIDENT.

The July 18 meeting of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 N.S.G.W. was in the nature of a reception for Grand President John T. Newell, long identified with the Parlor. Many of the "old boys" were out, and among the numerous visitors were large delegations from Glendale No. 264, Santa Ana No. 265 and Santa Monica Bay No. 267. The ritual was exemplified, there were a few talks, and refreshments were served.

June 30 the Parlor surprised Supervisor John R. Quinn, one of its members, by appearing unexpectedly before the Los Angeles County's governing board and presenting to him a set of silk flags—the Flag of the United States of America and the California State (Bear) Flag. Past President Andrew M. Stodel made the presentation address.

Los Angeles has selected a new meeting place, the Merchant Plumbers Hall, 1832 South Hope street, and will meet there every Thursday night commencing August 7. Every accommodation, including clubrooms, is provided in the new quarters.

FAMOUS DIVA IN GRAND OPERA.

The radiant Maria Jeritza is returning to California to sing with the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association during its October season at the Shrine Civic Auditorium. Undoubtedly the most famous diva of this generation, she is distinguished not only for her gorgeous dramatic soprano voice, but for her compelling ability as an actress.

Jeritza will be heard in "Salome," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Tannhauser" and "The Girl of the Golden West." Gaetano Merola, director, and Merle Armitage, manager, of the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association, will surround her with a brilliant cast for each of the four performances in which she is to appear. As Jeritza has definite ideas in regard to how opera should be given, she has been widely quoted all over the world because of her unusual interpretations.

TRUE TO IDEALS.

Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W., through Mrs. O. A. Evans, president, recently presented a California State (Bear) Flag to Superior Judge William Tell Aggeler (Ramona No. 109 N.S.G.W.). The presentation, made in the courtroom, was witnessed by a large crowd. In accepting the flag, Judge Aggeler said:

"California in the past contributed faithfully and with splendid patriotism to the ideals of our national life. Native Daughters and Native Sons have been no less true to these same ideals."

TO CELEBRATE ADMISSION DAY.

Local Native Sons and Native Daughters are co-operating with La Mesa Club in arranging for a celebration of Admission Day, September 9, at the site of the historic battle of La Mesa in the Union Stock Yards.

The committee in charge is officered by: Earl

ACTIVE TERM OUTLINED.

Ocean Park—In the presence of a large gathering, officers of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 N.D.G.W. and Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W. were jointly installed July 21. The hall was attractively decorated with flowers and greenery. District Deputy Reta Smith called the assemblage to order and introduced D.D.G.P. Flora Holy, who installed the officers of No. 245, Anna Pierce becoming president. District Deputy Burrel D. Neighbours officiated for No. 267, and Harry T. Honn became the president. Honored guests of the evening were John T. Newell, Grand President N.S.G.W., and Miss Marvel Thomas and Mrs. Florence D. Schone-man, Grand Trustees N.D.G.W. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the ceremonies, and then dancing was in order.

MRS. ANNA PIERCE,
President Santa Monica Bay Parlor N.D.G.W.

Mrs. Anna Pierce, the new president of No. 245, is a native of Pomona and a charter member of the Parlor. Her pleasing personality and gracious manner have made her most popular in the Santa Monica Bay district. With the assistance of a corps of competent line officers, she has outlined an active term for the Parlor. She is the chairman of the sewing auxiliary of No. 245, El Camino Club, which is sponsoring a card party, September 29, for the benefit of the homeless children.

District Deputy Reta Smith, accompanied by several members of Santa Monica Bay N.D.G.W., went to Fullerton, Orange County, July 17 and installed the officers of Grace Parlor No. 242.

PROUD RECORD OF PROGRESS.

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is urging the use on letterheads, etc., of the following statistical history of the Angel City's phenomenal population growth by ten-year periods: 1890, 50,395; 1900, 102,479; 1910, 319,198; 1920, 576,673; 1930, 1,231,730. "A Proud Record of Progress" is suggested as a caption for the statement.

BOY SCOUTS PROVIDED OUTING.

Following initiation of a class of candidates July 11, Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. officers were installed by District Deputy Al Cron, Ray Russill becoming the president. During the evening Superior Judge B. Rey Schauer, retiring president, on the Parlor's behalf presented an emblematic ring to Past President Roland Fontana. One of "Chef" Charles Gassagne's famous suppers preceded the gathering. The Parlor has provided for a personnel committee, to function initiation nights and introduce the candidates. The board of governors, in charge of No. 109's clubrooms at 1816 South Figueroa, has elected Trustee Walter Baskerville chairman, Past President B. Rey Schauer vice-chairman, and Secretary John V. Scott secretary. July 25 the Parlor provided a wienie bake at Playa Del Rey for the troop of Boy Scouts of America it is sponsoring.

Ramona's calendar for August includes: 8th, class initiation and "feed;" 15th, educational night; 22nd, good of the order program; 29th, "something unusual"—and it is promised that it will be interesting.

GAMES PROVIDE DIVERSION.

Glendale—President Beulah VanLuvén and Miss Rose Bartel entertained the members of Verdugo Parlor No. 240 N.D.G.W. July 8 at a party at which a variety of games provided diversion. Awards were made Mms. O. Zimmer and Ada Steele. Supper was served after the entertainment.

Officers of the Parlor were installed July 22 by Mrs. Arthur Wright, district deputy, Mrs. Kathryn Burke becoming the new president.

EVERYBODY INVITED.

La Mesa Club of Los Angeles, made up of adopted and native sons of California, in furtherance of a plan to furnish all the Los Angeles County courts with a California State (Bear) Flag, will, Monday, August 11 at 9:30 a. m., present the official emblem to Superior Judge J. Walter Hanhy (Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W.), in department 17, room 358 Old Court House. All Natives and the public generally are invited to witness the ceremonies.

organized a drive for eligibles, and plans to double the membership of the Parlor before the advent of 1931. August 11 has been set aside as "Lyon" night at No. 267, and State Senator Charles Lyon (Los Angeles No. 45) will be honor-guest and principal speaker. All surrounding Parlors have been invited, and a big turnout is anticipated. Dinner will be served and entertainment will be provided.

To raise funds for the observance of Admission Day, September 9, the Parlor will give two dances—August 13 and 27—at the Rendezvous ballroom, at the foot of Strand street in Santa Monica.

TO CAMPAIGN FOR MEMBERS.

Glendale—Officers of Glendale Parlor No. 264 N.S.G.W. were installed July 15 by District Deputy Burrel D. Neighbours, Gustave Joreff becoming the president. The Parlor is planning an active campaign for members.

HISTORY OF STATE JOURNALISM.

Depicting colorful events in the early newspaper life of the Golden State, Dr. Owen C. Coy, professor of history at the University of Southern California, has written a brief history of journalism in California, revealing some intriguing details in the progress of the press.

The appearance of newspapers following the first raising of the American Flag in California, at Monterey in 1846, until there were thirteen publications in the fifties; details of what he calls the greatest scoop in California journalism; and the first expose of a corrupt official through the columns of California newspapers, are some of the highlights of the history.

Dr. Coy is director of the California State

THE DEATH RECORD.

M. E. Lopez, father of Miss Juanita Lopez (Los Angeles N.D.), died June 27.

A. William McPherson, affiliated with Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W., died at Santa Monica, July 10, survived by a wife and a daughter. He was born at San Jose, Santa Clara County, October 19, 1871.

Ferdinand M. Reiche, father of Charles F. Reiche (Ramona N.S.), died July 16. He was a native of Wisconsin, aged 70.

Helm Schmidt, brother of Superior Judge Ruben S. Schmidt (Ramona N.S.), died at Saugus, July 19.

Mrs. Ella McLean-Macy, wife of Oscar Macy (Ramona N.S.), passed away July 24.

UNIQUE PIONEER MONUMENT.

President Herbert Hoover early in the year issued a proclamation asking the people of the United States to commemorate, by fitting celebrations, the one hundredth anniversary of the first caravan of covered wagons which left Saint Louis, Missouri, April 10, 1830, for the great and then-practically-unknown West.

Accordingly, Frank M. Hauser of Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. originated a pioneer day celebration which was held at Santa Monica July 23 and attracted a huge crowd. A parade, of which Hauser was the grand marshal, depicting the development of transportation from covered-wagon to airplane days, was most interesting.

PURCHASING POWER OF THE DOLLAR

SALARIES ARE AUTOMATICALLY INCREASING each month even though employers do not add one penny to the pay check, according to the findings of the California Taxpayers' Association after a thorough study of the purchasing power of the dollar. The association says: "Wages have gone up 5 to 10 percent in the last twelve months because each dollar in the pay envelope can now buy more shoes, groceries, clothes, etc. This means that the employer will not need to increase the size of pay checks this year, since he has an economic friend quietly at work automatically doing just this same thing."

"All this comes about because of the change in the purchasing power of the dollar. Commodity prices are falling, which means that the cost of living is decreasing. Stating it in another way, the purchasing power of the dollar is increasing. Persons whose income is a fixed amount are enjoying, in effect, a greater income because their dollars buy more now than any time since 1917."

"The automatic annual salary increase of employees of cities, counties and school districts is not justified this year. Under ordinary circumstances salary increases of these governmental employes might range from nothing up to 10 percent. On the other hand, a decrease of 10 percent in the cost of living is anticipated, which is equivalent to a corresponding increase in salaries. Therefore, if salaries for this coming year are budgeted by the cities, counties and districts at the same figure as last year they will be, in effect, equivalent to at least a 10 percent advance over the past business year. Governments, like employers, cannot afford to make the mistake of running contrary to the general business conditions of today. It follows then, that the budgets of cities, counties and schools should not show an increase in salary rates.

"There is very little likelihood of wage or salary earners in private business gaining, as a class, any increases this year. Some have already accepted reductions, and many are actually unemployed."

"It appears that a 10 percent change in commodity prices will cause this year's dollar to be worth 64 cents in terms of the 1913 dollar. This is the highest figure in twelve years."

"The 1913 value of the dollar was 58.3 cents on December 15, 1929, and it had not varied more than 2.1 cents from that figure since the latter part of 1921. In other words, from 1921 to 1929 there was little or no change in either the cost of living or in wholesale commodity prices, but during the past twelve months prices have dropped at a rate of about 1 percent a month. Any marked change, either upward or downward, in wholesale commodity prices is followed in a few months by a nearly equal change in retail prices and in the cost of living."

"The commodity index decreased from 160.6 in March 1929, to 145.7 in June 1930. This is a decrease of 9.3 percent. The government cost of living index for June 1929 was 170.2 and for December 1929 it was 171.4. Similarly, the National Industrial Conference Board cost of living index was higher in the second half of the year than in the first half, but it has decreased each month since October 1929, in keeping with the decline of wholesale commodity prices."

"Many other index numbers of wholesale commodity prices tell the same story. The Annalist index decreased 13.0 percent from July 1929 to June 1930. The Department of Labor's wholesale commodity index decreased 7.5 percent from July 1929 to April 1930, and will probably reflect about 10.0 percent decrease for twelve months when the June 1930 figure is known. Bradstreet's index dropped 8.2 percent between February 1929 and May 1930, while the Fisher index lost 12.3 percent between March 22, 1929 and June 21, 1930."

"Economists are practically unanimous in calling attention to the fact that these price declines are world-wide, and that in several other countries the decline has been twice as great as in the United States. For this reason an even further decline in wholesale prices in this country may be expected, together with an equivalent rise in the purchasing power of the dollar."

"The steward of the public funds, mindful of the present disturbed economic conditions, will recognize the fact that the increasing purchasing power of the dollar is equivalent to a raise in salary to the wage earner and will not permit any increases in salary schedules this year."

"The taxpayer, such as the farmer, whose income is directly influenced by a decrease in the price of the commodity he produces, is going to find his tax burden relatively heavier this year. Moreover, the manufacturer will find that his overhead in the way of taxes, will not decline correspondingly with his cost of production. The government should not make matters worse by increasing salaries."

CLEANING SPRAYED FRUIT.

To make easier the cleaning of apples and pears which have been sprayed with arsenate of lead, the addition of two pounds of hydrated lime to each hundred gallons of arsenate of lead spray is recommended. If this is done, washing in a weak solution of hydrochloric acid will remove all traces of spray residue. In fact, if the washing is properly done by hand or with a well-designed machine, the appearance of the fruit will be improved. Care must be taken not to bruse the fruit, and to see that it is well rinsed after washing.

As a colored man alighted from an airplane flight he turned to the pilot and said: "Suh, ah has to thank you fo' both them rides." "What you talking about," said the aviator, "you had but one." "No suh," replied the passenger, "ah done had two, mah fust an' mah las'."—Exchange.

CALIFORNIA'S BIRTHDAY— WHY IT SHOULD BE OBSERVED

John T. Newell

(GRAND PRESIDENT N.S.G.W.)

“SEPTEMBER 9, 1930, CALIFORNIA, the thirty-first and brightest star in the Flag of the United States of America, will pass the four-score milestone on her march of statehood. September 9 is Admission Day, an annual holiday dear to the heart of every loyal Californian. In this message are set forth some of the highlights in California history—the reasons why the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West asks all Californians, native and adopted, to set aside for a day their business cares, fling to the breeze the flags of the nation and the state, and patriotically observe the birthday anniversary of California, the state we all love, whose sunshine and soil pour forth health, wealth and happiness.

“Among the earliest explorers of the Pacific Coast were Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, 1542; Sir Francis Drake, 1579; Viscaino, discoverer of Monterey Bay in 1602; Gaspar de Portola, discoverer of San Francisco Bay in 1769. August 5, 1775, the first European vessel—the ‘San Carlos’ of Spain, commanded by Juan Bautista de Ayala,—passed through the Golden Gate. In 1775—seventy-four years before the great influx of people from all the world, following the discovery of gold at Coloma, El Dorado County, by James W. Marshall, January 24, 1848,—Juan Bautista de Anza led a colony of Spanish men, women and children across mountain, desert and plain into California, and they became the first settlers in San Francisco and San Jose.

“At San Diego, July 16, 1769, the saintly Junipero Serra, who brought Christian civilization to California, laid the foundation for the first of the state's chain of twenty-one Franciscan missions—San

“THE SONS OF FORTY-NINE”

J. Brent Bodfish

(Copyright, 1930.)

From sea to sea the magic word hath sped,
And North and South and East obey the call.
A nation's soul doth westward turn in greed
And Adas-like men cry with uttering ore;
“California! Gold! West we go!”
And thus the mighty exodus begins;
While forth ten thousand prairie-schooners plough,
And twice ten thousand carts of every kind
That man hath e'er devised, go tolling on O'er endless plains, through blistering desert-sands
And blinding snows, 'round jagged mountain crests,
Mid forest gloom where raging torrents crash,
Where wolves beset and Indians lurk unseen.
Alas! How many and how blanched the bones
That mark the mile-stones on that fatal trail!

But far o'er the mighty Rockies lies the Land
Of Promise, fair, enchanted and serene;
In summer's heat her breeze is fresh with dew,
In winter's cold her zephyrs breathe of balm,
While through the endless chain of sunlit days Bright flowers blush 'neath summits wrapped in snow.
Thither the greedy throng doth madly rush,
Hungry for gold, for dress, for glittering dust;
Armed with shovels and with pans they come
To plunder earth and spoil a promised land.
Their countless cavalades descend the steeps,
Their caravans pour in o'er dusty plains;
Half-dead for food and parched with desert thirst
Their weary beasts of burden struggle on,
On to the gold fields where the frenzied men
In flesh and bone grab for the glittering ore;
In the crystal streams, fight for a foothold here,
Slay for a trifle there; then anarchy
Prevails—and rules o'er laws of God and man.

Thus is a land from lonely country changed
O'er night to crowded camps where crime stalks free,
And each man sleeps upon his hoarded gold
And guards it as a mother does her child.
Hardships that man has seldom borne before,
Sufferings and dangers beaped a thousand fold,
Cannot deter the venturesous in their greed
From scrambling on o'er the blazoned trail of death.
To the mystic realm that skirts the Western Sea,
And ere cold winter sheds his flakes of snow
Upon the Rockies' slopes, and trims with ice
The fir-trees rising from their stony depths,
One hundred thousand weary souls have scaped
Those lofty peaks and found some path beyond
To the Golden Realm whose vision gleamed afar,
And guided them alone through countless woes,
E'en to the bosom of their god of gold.
Here, all their hollow hearts are gorged
Like treasure chests with lumps of shining ore;

One hundred thousand souls! And all do cringe
In dust of greed and bow to idols vain!

Then, like the hapless monarch of the myth,
The gluttoned horde encompassed 'round with death,
Prays for the holy benediction—Life,
Sighs for the joy of woman's beaming smile,
And weeps at the voice of swaddled infancy
That stirs within a mother's fond embrace.
Now, eager to unbind their fettered souls,
They open the coffers of their senseless greed;
And generous, heap upon each new-born babe
Such priceless treasures from their golden store
As would arouse the jealousy of kings.
Yea! Make them wish the cradles of their sons
Were decked with precious trophies of the West.
And thus the throb of loving hearts at length
Supplants the cold, dull clink of glittering gold;
And nature revelling in her bounteous wealth
Yields up her choicest fruits of honest toil;
Her magic wand enameling far and wide;
Transforming hills and dales to blushing farms
Whose soils now teem with famed fertility.

Oh ye! Whom neither prairies' vast expanse,
Nor mountain bulwarks rising high as heaven,
Nor desert sands with giant cactus bristling
Could deter—oh ye! of forty-nine—
Who sought and found the rainbow's treasured goal,
And piled your coffers high with golden spoils,
How fruitless had been all your bitter trials,
If on the Western slopes you'd loved but dross
Of senseless gold! How lost in shame would be
Your honored names to all posterity!
But ye did turn from gold to love of man;
Planting within that distant land a race
Of vallant souls that tilled the magic sod,
And founded cities proud as ancient Rome;
Yea! Built the Empire of the Golden West
With California as the brightest star
That glows upon our Union's Spangled Field.

Bright Garden of the World! Thy verdant vales
Gleam richer far than all the glittering ore
That men have gouged from out thy generous breast;
And on thine orange trees perpetual shines
The living gold that marks prosperity,
And ye! Oh dauntless Sons of Forty-nine!
Earth's mightiest nation doth your deeds acclaim had its beginning. June 14, 1846, in the town of Sonoma, a small band of American Pioneers hoisted the Flag of the California Republic, commonly known as the Bear Flag and now the official emblem of the State of California. July 7, 1846, at Monterey, Commodore John Drake Sloat raised the Stars and Stripes and took possession of California in the name of the United States of America. In 1849, people from all points on the globe swarmed here in search of gold. September 9, 1850, California passed, without territorial childhood, into the Sisterhood of States.
And heralds you with immortality.

“Throughout her four-score years of statehood, the eyes of the world have been focused on this geological wonderland of the West, rich in history and romance, rich in produce and industry, rich in minerals, and, above all, rich in climate, sunshine and health.

“Within the confines of California—from the shores of the Pacific Ocean to the high Sierra, from Mexico to Oregon,—are many handiworks of Nature: Mount Whitney, towering 14,502 feet into the blue sky; within sixty miles of its base Death Valley, so named by emigrants, California-bound from Utah, most of whom perished in that desert furnace which, in one place, is nearly 400 feet below sea level—the highest and the lowest points in the United States. Mount Lassen, a living volcano that rises 10,437 feet. Lake Tahoe, gem of the Sierra, 6,225 feet above the ocean. Salton Sea, 226 feet below sea level. Yosemite Valley, with beauty and grandeur which cannot be described; its Yosemite Falls drop over a precipice 2,425 feet into the floor of the valley, with its 5,000-year-old sequoia giganteas towering 325 feet and many over 35 feet in diameter. California, with rivers and valleys, springs and geysers, fruits and flowers, ripening grains, pine-clad mountains, golden sands and balmy skies, her myriad fountains of wealth flowing into the seas of commerce and of trade!

SAN FRANCISCO INVITES YOU

SAN FRANCISCO INVITES YOU TO come and join in the celebration that has been arranged for by the Native Sons, the Native Daughters and the citizens generally of the "Big City That Knows How," in recognition of the eightieth anniversary of California's admission to statehood — Admission Day, September 9. Incidentally, Admission Day was first celebrated in San Francisco in 1850, following receipt of word from the National Capital that the act creating the State of California had passed both houses of the Federal Congress and been signed by the President.

The Admission Day 1930 festivities will begin the evening of Monday, September 8, when a grand ball will be held at Dreamland Auditorium, Steiner and Post streets.

numerous to mention here," says Secretary Harold J. Regan of the general committee in a letter addressed to all Parlors of the Native Sons and Native Daughters. "We hope you will join us in all of these events, and thereby make Admission Day 1930 one of the outstanding celebrations in the history of both Orders."

Monday night, and the afternoon and evening of Tuesday, several of the San Francisco Parlors of Native Sons and Native Daughters will maintain "open house" for the reception and entertainment of their friends.

Arrangements for the celebration have been perfected by a general committee, composed of representatives from all of San Francisco's Parlors of Native Sons and Native Daughters, the officers of which include:

Casper P. Hare, general chairman; Mayor James Rolph Jr., Grand President John T. Newell of the Native Sons and Grand President Estelle M. Evans of the Native Daughters, honorary chairmen; Lulu Porter, Millie Rock, P. L. Schlesinger and Henry L. Van Winkle, vice-chairmen; Sylvester Andriano, Victor J. Canepa, Jesse C. Colman, Andrew J. Gallagher, Franck R. Havenner, J. Emmet Hayden, Frank J. McGovern, James B. McSheehy, Carl W.

John T. Regan, Frank M. Buckley, James L. Foley.

Parade—Judge George W. Schonfeld (chairman), James A. Wilson, Jesse H. Miller, Al Vlautin, Herbert Dela Rosa, Louis Erb, Harold J. Regan, Edward J. Wren, Bertha Edler, Evelyn Mahoney, Marie O'Donnell, May Marchant, Florence Mitchell, Elvira Desmond, May Rose Barry.

Ball—Louis F. Erb (chairman), Thomas Hamilton, Arthur Bennett, F. Greenblatt, Frank Wilhelm, Miss M. McCann, Miss Agnes McVerry, Aileen Howard, A. Anders, Frank A. Prizes—Harry Romick (chairman), S. A. Bernstein, Michael Joyce, J. H. Casenave.

Decorations—John Sweeney (chairman), J. M. Darcy, Val Clement, Steve Sullivan, Mrs. Abbie Groome, Mrs. K. Schmidt, Helen Cunningham.

Music—James L. Foley (chairman), P.

GRAND TRUSTEE CHARLES A. KOENIG, Treasurer General Committee.

All Native Sons and Daughters, as well as their friends, are cordially invited to this affair, which will be informal.

The principal feature of the festivities will, of course, be the Admission Day parade, the morning of Tuesday, September 9. Full particulars appear elsewhere in this issue of The Grizzly Bear.

JOSEPH ROSE, Chairman Printing Committee.

The afternoon of Admission Day, September 9, literary exercises will be held in the rotunda of the San Francisco City Hall, in the Civic Center. An interesting program will be presented, and everyone is invited to attend.

"There are other entertainment features connected with the celebration too

CASPER P. HARE, Chairman General Committee.

RAPHAEL WEILL & COMPANY

CALIFORNIA'S OUTSTANDING CITIZEN GOES TO HIS REWARD

CALIFORNIA'S OUTSTANDING NATIVE-born citizen is no more, Senator James Duval Phelan having passed away at his Montalvo, Santa Clara County, estate August 7. He was born at San Francisco, April 20, 1861, and was affiliated with Pacific Parlor No. 10 N.S.G.W. of that city.

Within the confines of California there never dwelt a broader minded, a bigger hearted, a more honest man than was "Jim" Phelan. A man of great wealth,—inherited, and added to through his own energy and foresightedness,—yet he had the distinction of being of the masses and for the masses. A typical Son of the Golden West, he was admired the length and breadth of the state.

Every cause that had for its object the well-being of California, had the moral and the financial support of Senator Phelan. His gifts, in life as in death, to worthy projects and to aid the unfortunate were numerous.

His career as a public servant was that of an idealist, and no hint of corruption ever marred his reputation. Many of his convictions and opinions were embodied in an address in 1896 at the Mechanics Institute Fair, San Francisco, on the subject "The New San Francisco." He Senator Phelan devoted much time to travel and study, and following a recent tour of the world published an interesting volume entitled "Travel and Comment." At Christmas time of last year, he published an attractive booklet containing the log of Sterling B. F. Clark, a forty-niner, and a brief autobiography of James Phelan, his father, who arrived in San Francisco in August of 1849.

Typifying his unbounded love for California and his interest in the history of the state, Senator Phelan created near Saratoga, Santa Clara County, a Spanish-Italian villa named "Montalvo," in honor of the Spaniard who was the first to mention California in romantic history.

For years, Senator Phelan was actively identified with the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. He aided every undertaking of merit, and his will contained the following bequests: Grand Parlor N.S.G.W., $10,000; Grand Parlor N.S.G.W., toward the proposed pioneer monument on Telegraph Hill, San Francisco, $25,000; Pacific, his home, Parlor N.S.G.W., $20,000; Native Sons Hall Association of San Francisco, of which he was the president, $10,000; N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Central Homeless Children Comostentatious charity that reached in every direction endeared him to all. We, who remain here, are the beneficiaries of his unselfishness and splendid public service. His high character won him the unbounded affection of a wide circle of friends and the unsurpassed respect from city, state and nation. As a private citizen, as civic patriot, as public official he gave of himself without stint, and his deeds are his monument rather than our words.

"I leave to others the portrayal of the many attributes that compelled the love of friends, and of public acts which won the confidence and esteem of all. I do not seek to follow his career, always bringing lasting benefits, in city, state and nation. One thing above all others in James D. Phelan so impressed some of us that his name will never be forgotten.

"He was born to great riches. No specter of poverty stalked behind him and gaunt want never touched his threshold. His path in life could have been of mere pleasure and enjoyment. But with all the material blessings that were his he never lost the common touch. He chose the difficult way and marched with ordinary humanity. The ills and the ailments, the wrongs and the injustices of the common folk he made his own. He fought the good fight of men and women less fortunate. He understood their woes and their wants. He felt their hurts, and shared their joys. Humanity's cause he made his own, and in his struggle for humanity he won his exalted place. His name is indelibly written in the hearts of just men and women of our land.

"May God give him the reward he has so richly earned."

GOOD DEEDS NUMBERLESS.

Representing the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, Lewis F. Byington, Past Grand President, spoke as follows:

"I am proud, as a son of California, to speak for Senator Phelan because, among all the men who have sprung from the soil of this state, I believe that he stands pre-eminently the typical Westerner. No man born in California had a greater love for his state than did he. No other man in the history of this state made his home, I might say, an official place whence to dispense to distinguished travelers, artists, writers, officers and men of the army and the navy, returning soldiers, schoolchildren and friends, the warm-hearted hospitality of California. And I believe that nothing touched his heart so deeply, caused it to glow so warmly as when, standing at the threshold of his home, a typical Californian, he extended a typical California welcome to all who came there.

"I sat on this board of supervisors, a member of it, more than twenty-five years ago, when Senator Phelan was the mayor. You might say that he was the first mayor of San Francisco who placed the political life of this city on a higher plane than it had ever held before. He was the first man, a son of wealthy parents, who stepped forth into the arena of politics and challenged the allied bosses of this city. And single handed, with ability and integrity his sword, he defeated the enemy and placed San Francisco on a pedestal of civic improvement and progress never held before.

"I remember him when, as a young man thirty-two years of age, he received his first commission, a commission from the governor of the State of California to represent California at the great exposition in Chicago. I know the splendid impression he created there. I know, as stated by the Rev. Father Wheelan, his love for learning and his love for literature and art. It was he who, during his administration as mayor, sent to Chicago and brought to San Francisco the foremost architect of this country, D. C. Burnham, to prepare plans for a greater and more beautiful city by the Golden Gate. And Burnham, in a bungalow erected on the slope of Twin Peaks, commanding a view of San Francisco and its bay, drew the plans of a city to be the most beautiful in all the world. And Mayor Phelan from his own pocket paid the expense of bringing Burnham here. The great fire of 1906 prevented the plans being fully carried out, but our wonderful Civic Center, although not placed where Burnham designed it to be, sprang from those plans, and the father of the idea of a Civic Center was the then Mayor Phelan.

"We also know that when it came to the purchase of the rights for a great municipal water supply from the high Sierra, our present Hetch Hetchy Valley system, and when fabulous prices were demanded by those who had pre-empted rights on the watershed, Mayor Phelan realized that there were still other water resources to be filed upon and sent his personal representa-exposed corrupt political conditions and appealed to the citizens to create a new and beautiful city. In 1897 he was elected mayor of his native city and served three successive terms. Following the 1906 disaster there, he was the first to erect a monumental office building which bears his name. He was the contributor of many monuments, among them that dedicated to California's admission into the Sisterhood of States.

In November of 1914, Senator Phelan was signally honored by the citizens of his native state, being chosen to represent them in the Senate of the United States Congress—the first man to be elected to that exalted station by direct vote of the people of California. When the covenant of the League of Nations was proposed, following the world war, he offered an amendment to protect this country against Oriental immigration, claiming that it was purely a domestic affair and therefore not properly within the jurisdiction of the League of Nations.

mittee, $10,000; Grand Parlor N.D.G.W., $10,000.—C.M.H.

NAME INDELIBLY WRITTEN IN HEARTS OF JUST MEN AND WOMEN.

San Francisco—Memorial services in honor of Senator James D. Phelan, held in the assembly room of the board of supervisors at the City Hall, August 11, were largely attended. Many speakers, prominent in the affairs of nation and state, paid tribute to his worth as a citizen.

Following is that of United State Senator Hiram W. Johnson, a member of Sunset Parlor No. 26 N.S.G.W. (Sacramento):

"In the shadow of our grief for the passing of San Francisco's favorite son, we meet to pay our humble tribute to his merit and his worth, to his services as a citizen and official, to his brilliant and high character as a man.

"The story of the life of James D. Phelan is known, not only to San Franciscans, but to Californians and far beyond our confines. His un-tives there, at his own expense, filed upon these valuable rights, and then presented them to the City of San Francisco; holdings that in another man's hands might have cost the city a million dollars. He, I believe, was the only person who presented to this city a single right connected with our future wonderful water supply.

"He deeply loved the city of his birth and his romantic state, California. I believe that if Senator Phelan had been born unblest with prospects of wealth, and had grown to manhood possessed of modest means, and you had called upon him to act as governor or as mayor, and there was to be not a cent of compensation other than his living expenses, he would gladly have taken the position, to serve the state or to serve this great municipality.

"Father Junipero Serra, the saintly missionary, was the first man to bring civilization to California. A humble monk, he started from Mexico and walked all the way to San Francisco, planting here and there a mission in the most beautiful valleys, backed by the most beautiful mountains, in all the world. Mayor Phelan, recognizing these facts, reared in Golden Gate Park the first monument to this Pioneer of Civilization, Junipero Serra.

"Down on the corner of Market and Mason streets is a monument, presented by Mayor Phelan, designed by a Native Son sculptor, Douglas Tilden, who received this commission from Mayor Phelan and who had found in him a patron from the time the artist was a boy. Above that monument is a figure of a young Californian holding aloft the American Flag in one hand, and carrying on his shoulder a pick, typical of the miner and the pioneer; and carved upon the base of that monument are the prophetic words uttered by Senator Seward on the floor of the United States Senate during the debate preceding the admission of California, in the year 1850: 'The unity of our Empire hangs on the decision of this day.' We thank Heaven that the decision of that day was that California come into the Union.

"For his charity, for his kindness, for his love of art and of literature, he stands distinguished among all the people of the nation. No one knows what Senator Phelan gave in charity. There never was a cathedral to lift its dome to heaven, there never was a public school or educational institution in need of money to broaden its sphere of usefulness, but that we turned for aid to Senator Phelan, and he always responded. And as was said by a distinguished orator of this country, 'Were everyone to whom he did some loving service to bring a blossom to his grave, he would sleep tonight beneath a wilderness of flowers.'

"Here sit hundreds of men and women, and I believe there is not one who does not say that on last Thursday he or she lost a friend, a man revered and loved by all. What a splendid tribute! When the differences resulting at times from the clash of politics have passed away, we realize that there is something dearer and better than all else, and that is the love of one man for another high-minded citizen.

"And I close with the sentiment uttered by an esteemed citizen of California, speaking in old Portsmouth Plaza, in the center of San Francisco, at the funeral of his friend, United States Senator Broderick who, in 1859, fell on the so-called 'field of honor'—'Good friend, loyal son of the state and the nation, gallant leader, hail and farewell!'"

FORGETFULNESS

(EUNICE MITCHELL LEHMER.)

I weary of remembering
 The upstart nothings of the past
 That have usurped my rightful throne,
 Set up a kingdom of their own
 And chained my eager spirit fast.

I close the door on memory
 And with my captive spirit free
 I follow strangely quiet ways
 Where mountains dream in azure haze
 Lulled by the crooning mother sea.

Unhurried thoughts go voyaging
 Where sea gulls steer their foam-white ships
 Along the ocean-fragrant air,
 By lupin-terraced crags, or where
 The cypress to the sand-dune dips.

I am content with journeying
 From mountain curves of restfulness
 At sunrise, to the poppy-red
 Of suudown, then content to spread
 My blanket of forgetfulness.

—University California Chronicle.

EVIDENCE FOUND OF PREHISTORIC RACE ON SAN NICOLAS ISLAND.

Evidence that a prehistoric race of people—who lived almost entirely on snails and had no contact with the mainland sixty miles away—once roamed San Nicolas Island, off Ventura, has been found by an expedition from the San Diego Museum, headed by Malcolm J. Rogers, archaeologist of the museum.

After a five weeks' search, the party returned to San Diego with forty-five cases filled with human bones and relics of another culture, much later than the snail-eating people.

Heaps of snail shells, regarded by the scientist as conclusive proof of human life on the island much earlier than already established, were found. Evidence of the crudest kind of hearths was unearthed. No implements of any kind were discovered in the same layer with the hearths, nor were there any tools or burial grounds near sites believed to have once been village centers.

"Once to every man and nation, comes the moment to decide, in the strife of truth with falsehood, for the good or evil side."

BIRTHPLACE WESTERN CIVIL GOVERNMENT

Emmet Seawell

(CALIFORNIA SUPREME COURT JUSTICE,
GRAND THIRD VICE-PRESIDENT N.S.G.W.)

THIS NATION HAS ALWAYS HALLOWED in memory the places and the persons whose names recall the prolonged struggles which have ever been the price of liberty. The memory of old Faneuil Hall will ever live in the hearts of Americans. Within its hallowed walls was rocked the cradle of American Liberty by John and Samuel Adams, by John Treat Paine and by Elbridge Gerry. Colton Hall, situated on the extreme westerly shores of the American Continent, separated by more than three thousand miles from old Massachusetts Bay Colony, seems to have been predestined to become the birthplace of Western civil government, appointed by divine will to bring together this broad continent, extending from ocean to ocean, into an inseparable union of states dedicated to the central purpose of securing for its citizens equal political opportunity and protection in the enjoyment of the blessings of liberty, freedom of conscience in matters of religious concern, and a just and impartial administration of the law.

Colton Hall was built and completed March 8, 1849, by Reverend Walter Colton, a native of Vermont, chaplain of the United States frigate "Congress" which watchfully lay in the harbor of Monterey Bay, prepared to protect our interests against attack from foreign warships which, prior to and during our war with Mexico, hovered along our coast line, with covetous eyes fixed upon the shores of Alta California. Walter Colton, author and instructor, was a profound thinker, endowed with the vision of a seer and the spirit and courage of a crusader. He was the first alcalde of Monterey under the defacto Selection, orchestra; invocation; opening address, J. Emmet Hayden; "America," San Francisco municipal chorus, Dr. Hans Leschke, director; welcome address, Mayor James Rolph Jr.; selection, orchestra; address, John T. Newell, Grand President N.S.G.W.; selection, orchestra; address, Mrs. Estelle M. Evans, Grand President N.D.G.W.; "I Love You, California," San Francisco municipal chorus; oration, Past Grand President Lewis F. Byington; "Star Spangled Banner," San Francisco municipal chorus; benediction; selection, orchestra.

ANTIOCH BRIDGE FEATURED IN UNIQUE TABLE DECORATIONS.

Oakland—The meeting of Piedmont Parlor No. 87 N.D.G.W. August 21 was a very happy occasion, the Parlor being officially visited by Grand President Estelle Evans. This was her first official visit in Alameda County. President Loretta Monahan presided in a gracious manner, and the ritualistic work was exemplified in a credible manner. Many grand officers were present to welcome the Grand President, including Past Grand President Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, Grand First Vice-president Evelyn I. Carlson, Grand Inside Sentinel Edna Briggs, Grand Trustees Sadie Brainerd and Gladys Noce and Super-vising Deputy Sue J. Irwin. Miss Josephine Clark was chairman of the evening, and after the meeting invited all to the banquet room, where a very tasty repast was partaken of.

The tables were beautifully decorated, there being a replica of the Antioch bridge, decorated with electric lights. On the roadway leading to the structure were miniature automobiles, and in the waters beneath little canoes and boats. At one end of the roadway was a sign reading "Antioch," and at the other end one reading "Oakland," indicating the Grand President's journey from Antioch to Oakland. William Collins of Piedmont Parlor No. 120 N.S.G.W. constructed this bridge, and Piedmont extends sincere thanks to him for his patience and efforts in contributing to the evening's success. Officers of No. 87 were jointly installed with those of Piedmont No. 120 N.S.G.W., in July, Miss Loretta Monahan becoming president. After the installation ceremonies dancing and refreshments were indulged in.

Accompanying is an address, delivered from the portico of Colton Hall, in historic Monterey, California, by Emmet Seawell (Santa Rosa Parlor No. 28 N.S.G.W.), Associate Justice of the State Supreme Court, on the occasion of a recent gathering of the California State Bar Association. It is especially appropriate for publication in this, the Admission Day, number of The Grizzly Bear, for the framing of California's First Constitution was directly responsible for California being admitted to the Sisterhood of States without being compelled to serve a probationary period as a territory.

The First Constitutional Convention assembled in Colton Hall, September 1, 1849, and on September 9 of the following year, 1850, the act passed by the Federal Congress, declaring "That the State of California shall be one, and is hereby declared to be one, of the United States of America, and admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original states in all respects whatever," was approved by President Millard Fillmore. To perpetuate the importance of this date, September 9, in California's romantic and resourceful history, the State Legislature in 1909 added Admission Day to the list of legal holidays in California.

The names who framed California's First Constitution, and the districts represented, were: Joseph Aram, San Jose; Charles T. Botts, Monterey; Elam Brown, San Jose; Jose A. Carrillo, Los Angeles; J. M. Covarrubias, San Luis Obispo; E. O. Crosby, Sacramento; P. De la Guerra, Santa Barbara; Lewis Dent, Monterey; Kimball H. Dimick, San Jose; Manuel Dominguez, Los Angeles; J. M. Ellis, San Francisco; Stephen G. Foster, Los Angeles; Edward Gilbert, San Francisco; William M. Gwin, San Francisco; H. W. Halleck, Monterey; Julian Hanks, San Jose; L. W. Hastings, Sacramento; Henry Hill, San Diego; Joseph Hobson, San Francisco; J. McH. Hillingsworth, San Joaquin; J. D. Hoppe, San Jose; J. M. Jones, San Joaquin; Thomas O. Larkin, Monterey; Benj. S. Libbycott, San Joaquin; Francis J. Lippitt, San Francisco; Benj. F. Moore, San Joaquin; M. M. McCarver, Sacramento; John McDougal, Sacramento; Myron Norton, San Francisco; Pacificus Ord, Monterey; Miguel D. Pedro Rena, San Diego; Antonio M. Pico, San Jose; Rodman M. Price, San Francisco; Hugo Reid, Los Angeles; Jacinto Rodriguez, Monterey; Pedro Sansevaïne, San Jose; Robert Semple, Sonoma; W. E. Shannon, Sacramento; Winfield S. Sherwood, Sacramento; Jacob R. Snyder, Sacramento; Abel Stearns, Los Angeles; Wm. M. Steuart, San Francisco; John A. Sutter, Sacramento; Henry A. Tefft, San Luis Obispo; M. G. Vallejo, Sonoma; Thomas L. Vermeule, San Joaquin; J. P. Walker, Sonoma; O. M. Wozencraft, San Joaquin.—Editor.

government and continued as such under regularly constituted authority.

In conjunction with Robert Semple, a member of the Bear Flag Company which, on June 14, 1846, raised the insignia of the California Republic at Sonoma, he published here in Monterey "The California," the first newspaper to appear in California, August 15, 1846. At a time when the common law right of trial by jury was challenged he, then an alcalde exercising powers greater than were ever conferred on an English or American judge, in response to the challenge is quoted as here saying: "If there is anything on earth, except the cause of religion, for which I would die, it would be in maintaining the right of trial by jury."

This temple, pretentious in its day and revered in its age, as described by Bayard Taylor, was built of stone of a fine yellow color, easily cut, and his prophecy was that in this mild climate it would endure through the centuries. Whether the builder had visions that in the political evolution of the time it might serve as a state house, we do not know, but we do know that it was designed to serve a trinity of important public uses. First, a place in which the people might meet for general discussion, and freely express their opinions on all questions of public concern; second, a place in which a school should be conducted for the cultivation, improvement and liberalization of the mind, God's supremest gift to man; and third, a place in which men and women and children might meet undisturbed in holy religious worship and communion. His perfect conception of the essentials of a republican form of government convinced him that the withdrawal of any one of those aids and privileges from the citizen would mark the beginning of the end of a republic, and that the indulgence of those natural rights would stimulate the spirit of democracy beyond the power of a monarch to suppress.

Colton was an American of the Colonial type and through his veins coursed the kind of blood which impelled Ethan Allen, commander of the Green Mountain Boys of Vermont, but few in numbers, to lead a surprise attack upon the slumbering garrison of the British army, quartered at Fort Ticonderoga, and demand in the name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress the immediate surrender of the fort. The enemy, stunned by the boldness and suddenness of the order, instantly obeyed without the semblance of resistance. Colton exemplified in a high sense the true American pluck and spirit that moved General John C. Fremont, Kit Carson and Peter Lassen, the pathfinders, and General John A. Sutter, Henry C. Larkin, General John Bidwell, Stephen Smith, Abel Stearns, Rodman M. Price, Hugo Reid, Pedro Sansevaïne, Ezekiel Merritt, William B. Ide and approximately two thousand American citizens to the occupancy of California before James Marshall discovered gold in Sutter's millrace at Coloma which set the tide of immigration running madly to this state. One year and a half before that exciting event, July 7, 1846, John D. Sloat, Commodore of the Pacific Squadron, had raised the American Flag over Monterey and taken possession of California in the name of the United States of America.

It was not the lure of gold that brought California and its sister Western states into the folds of the Union, but the urge of the spirit of democracy, moving westward with an impetus that no mortal hand could stay.

The assembling of delegates in this hall in 1849 to enter upon the task of preparing a state constitution at a time when neither statehood nor an authorized territorial form of government existed, presents one of the unique spectacles in the history of the origin and creation of civil governments. The sessions of the Federal Congress which followed the signing of the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, July 4, 1848, had been too intensely absorbed with the question of slavery, which was casting its ominous shadows deeper and deeper upon the nation, to give consideration to California's petition for admission to statehood and it was left with a defacto government only, which consisted of the forms, rules and practices of the Mexican government carried forward by common consent and with such provincial regulations as had been adopted by necessity in the larger communities, all being subject to the supervision of General Bennet

JUSTICE EMMET SEAWELL,
Grand Third Vice-president N.S.G.W.

Riley of the United States Army, whose authority, though not disputed, might well have been questioned in matters of civil jurisdiction. The state of land titles; pressing social, commercial and peace conditions, in the circumstances of a rapidly increasing population, spoke loudly for a stable, adequate government.

Congress having failed to provide a system of government, the inherent right of the American people to rule themselves in such cases asserted itself, and Governor Riley, who was in accord with that view, issued a proclamation fixing August 1, 1849, as the day for choosing by special election delegates to a general convention, the principal duty of which was to prepare for submission a constitution to govern the people of California. Forty-eight delegates, as the result of the election, presented themselves at Monterey and entered upon the performance of untried but tremendously important duties.

The personnel of the delegates is most interesting. Two of the members were but twenty-five years of age; two, twenty-six; three, twenty-seven; one, twenty-eight; one, twenty-nine; two, thirty; one, thirty-one; three, thirty-two; two, thirty-three; six, thirty-four; two, thirty-five, showing a clear majority of the delegates to have been under thirty-six years of age, and the eldest, Jose Antonio Carrillo, a native Cali-

CALIFORNIA HAPPENINGS OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

THE ATTENTION OF THE CALIFORNIA public was riveted during September, 1880, on the visit of President Rutherford B. Hayes and party to the Pacific Coast. At Blue Canyon, Placer County, the party were met by a welcome committee headed by Governor George C. Perkins. The president was greeted by crowds in every community visited, and fears that he would be given a cold reception on account of his vetoing the federal anti-Chinese legislation were dissipated.

Admission Day, September 9,—the anniversary of California's admission to statehood—was made a legal holiday by proclamation of Governor Perkins and was observed in several cities by pioneer associations with banquets and literary entertainments.

In San Francisco, after leading the presidential reception parade up Market street, members of the Society of California Pioneers marched to their hall and enjoyed "a feast of reason and a flow of soul." The "flow" was so full, however, that finally an argument started. The old-timers attempted to settle it with fists, and the police had to be called in to restore order.

San Francisco workmen had a big anti-Chinese demonstration September 19, probably for the purpose of impressing President Hayes with the sincerity of the movement to rid California of its overload of undesirable aliens.

Cole's mammoth circus came overland this month with the largest menagerie yet seen in the state. No Sunday performance was given, the ringmaster preaching a sermon in the tent that day, yet the show made money. A dynamo, mounted upon a truck and run by a steam engine, supplied the current for the newly-invented electric lamps, which lighted the huge circus tent.

George Faber, out of work, went to El Dorado County on a prospecting trip and unearthed a pocket that yielded $1,600 in gold nuggets.

The Forest Queen gold quartz mine in the Downieville, Sierra County, district, closed on account of financial difficulties for a decade, was reopened this month by new owners who struck a vein that assayed $1,000 a ton.

A hydraulic mine in Trinity County, after a run of six weeks, cleaned up $17,000 in gold.

Bodie, Mono County, now loomed up as a consistent treasure producer. The shipments of bullion from its six producing mines this month amounted to $301,058.

U. S. C. CORNERSTONE LAID.

The Rocky Bar quartz mine at Grass Valley, Nevada County, ran 750 pounds of ore through its mill and the yield was $9,650, equal to $130 a pound. The ore was more than half gold.

The United States Mint at San Francisco this month coined 77,000 twenty-dollar, 19,000 ten-dollar and 304,000 five-dollar gold pieces, and 600,000 silver dollars. This coinage, totaling $3,850,000, was the product of Pacific Coast mines.

The annual State Fair opened at Sacramento September 20. The week's receipts, $21,425, exceeded by $5,000 any previous fair, due to having a president's day the 23rd, that brought people from far and near to see and hear President Hayes.

The Golden Gate Fair opened at Oakland, Alameda County, September 15; Dr. E. H. Pardee was the factotum. The Marin and Sonoma Counties Fair was held at Petaluma September 12, the El Dorado County Fair at Placerville September 14, the San Bernardino County Fair at San Bernardino City September 17, and the San Joaquin Valley Fair at Stockton September 28.

The cornerstone of the University of Southern California was laid at Los Angeles City September 4. Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church were assisted by ex-Governor John G. Downey, who had donated a portion of the site.

A blight struck the peach orchards of Calaveras County and caused a heavy dropping of unripe fruit, to the great financial loss of the orchardists.

Glanders became epidemic among Yolo County horses and many were being killed to stamp out the disease.

Ninety-one threshers were required to harvest Colusa County's grain crop, amounting to 218,000 tons and valued at $6,104,000.

L. J. Rose of Los Angeles County made a contract to sell 100,000 gallons of brandy he contemplated making from his grape crop.

During the month 2,000 sacks of wheat from nearby grain fields were daily warehoused at Davis, Yolo County.

Captain J. C. Ham, who had extensive timber holdings in El Dorado and Amador Counties, contracted to supply 10,000,000 feet of sugar-pine lumber aboard cars at Ione City.

Twelve vessels laden with California-grown grain sailed through the Golden Gate, Europe bound, this month.

A den of thirty rattlesnakes was uncovered on Bald Mountain, Sierra County.

CHINATOWNS FIRE SUFFERERS.

A San Bernardino County Indian wounded a buck one morning and pursued it all that day without overtaking it. Camping on its trail at night, he took up the pursuit the next morning and in the afternoon captured his prize. He had trailed the buck seventy miles, and triumphantly shouldered it and carried it back to his camp.

The San Francisco "Examiner," which for some years had a precarious existence, was purchased this month by W. C. Caruthers and pivoted in its career.

The monument over the grave of Mark Hopkins, one of the builders of the Central Pacific railroad, was completed in the City Cemetery at Sacramento September 28. It was constructed of granite, some of the blocks weighing thirty-six tons, required eighteen months to build and cost over $50,000.

Three Chinese lepers were found secreted in a Tehama County cabin. They had been kept out of sight for several years by their countrymen.

A big forest fire raged for ten days in the foothills near Selby Flat, Yuba County, burning over a large area.

The mining town of Chinese Camp, Tuolumne County, was partially destroyed by fire September 4.

Chinatowns were the principal sufferers from conflagrations this month. That of Auburn, Placer County, burned the 10th, and efforts on the part of the Chinks to rebuild were three times frustrated by their buildings being dynamited. That of Oroville, Butte County, went up in flames the 23rd, when fifty frame buildings were consumed, and that of Hornitos, Mariposa County, was destroyed the 6th.

At Sacramento City September 4 fire destroyed nearly a block of wooden buildings erected in the '50s on "K" street between Seventh and Eighth.

Several buildings in Davls, Yolo County, burned September 6 with a $20,000 loss.

Healdsburg, Sonoma County, had a disastrous fire September 13, a block of business houses being burned.

Fire at North San Juan, Nevada County, September 15, destroyed seven buildings.

At Marysville, Yuba County, the dwelling of Mrs. Mary Ann Keegan was burned September 15 and her charred body was found in the ruins.

ROAD ARTISTS KEEP BUSY.

The thirty-first anniversary of the arrival in California of the ship "Churloth" from Boston was to have been celebrated September 16, but so few were the survivors the plans were abandoned. The ship left Boston March 4, 1849, and proceeding around Cape Horn arrived at San Francisco September 16 of that eventful year.

The Shasta to Weaverville stage was stopped by a lone highwayman near the Twelve Mile House, Trinity County, September 11. The mail bags and the express box were taken, but the passengers were not molested.

The stage from Bodie, Mono County, to Carson City, Nevada State, was attacked by road agents September 15. Mike Tovey, the express messenger, was shot in the arm, and in return shot and killed one of the highwaymen. Tovey was taken to a nearby ranch house for attention and while there with the stage driver and a passenger one of the robbers returned to the stage and carried off the express box, containing $2,000 in treasure.

The south-bound overland stage from Oregon State was stopped near the summit of the Siskiyou Mountains, September 17, by two men who rifled the mail bags and express box.

The stage from Forest Hill to Auburn, Placer County, was halted September 19. The express box being fastened to the bed of the stage the robber was unable to remove it, so he took the driver's boots and $20 from a Chinese passenger. Soon afterward Congressman Frank Page, on a campaign tour, came along in a huggy and the road artist relieved him of his gold watch and $300 in coin.

It being reported a few days later that the highwayman was lurking in the vicinity of the holdups, the stage driver, anticipating more trouble, arranged with J. P. Bullard, living on a nearby ranch, to patrol the road ahead of the stage and intercept the robber. The sheriff, also, had heard the rumor and not knowing of the other arrangement sent Deputy Sheriff Adams to ride in the stage and take action if necessary. Passing the locality, Adams saw Bullard and his son, both armed, standing at the side of the road. Thinking they meant mischief, he fired from within the stage and killed the elder Bullard.

The stage from Nevada City to Marysville was stopped near Smartsville, Yuba County, September 25 by a sole masked man. Much to his surprise, the stage carried no express box so he unchivalrously robbed a feminine passenger of $15.

THREE KILLINGS IN WICKED BODIE.

Theodore Glancy, editor of the Santa Barbara "Press," was shot and killed September 25 by Clarence Gray, Republican nominee for district attorney of Santa Barbara County. In his paper, Editor Glancy had charged that Gray's nomination was an unfit one as he was living under an assumed name. It was afterward ascertained that Gray was horn with the cognomen McGinty and, as business tact, changed his name to Gray when he became a lawyer.

John Owen was killed near Penryn, Placer County, while felling a hee tree.

Steve Cavanaugh, a Petaluma, Sonoma County,

"Invested Capital" Insurance is Sound Business

Successful business concerns everywhere realize the importance of Life Insurance for their executive heads. Every business institution is the lengthening shadow of one man or one set of men. Should unforeseen or untoward events remove one of these the structure is liable to be weakened to some extent, depending almost entirely upon the financial condition of the institution and the ability of its remaining members.

That is why investors of today seek out those institutions whose management has eliminated as far as possible the speculative feature.

The Pacific States Life Insurance Company issue an exceptionally attractive Business Men's policy entitled the "Economic Contract," to protect the most valuable factor in any business—human assets.

lad, fell out of a gum tree September 16, and was fatally injured.

Fred C. Chase of Marysville, Yuba County, was killed at Nicolaus, Sutter County, September 2, while attempting to stop a runaway team.

At Forest Hill, Placer County, September 22, M. W. Schwetzer was holding a giant powder cartridge in his hand, ready to fire a salute for a political meeting. It was accidentally discharged and he was instantly killed.

Due to a misplaced switch, the engine of a Southern Pacific excursion train ran off the Oakland, Alameda County, pier into the bay, and Engineer William Brown was drowned.

Bodie, Mono County, in addition to having the reputation of being the Pacific Coast's greatest wealth-producing mining town, was also recognized as the most wicked. September 2, Robert Whitaker, a saloon houncer, ejected George Watkins, who was boisterously drunk; the latter returned with a gun and shot Whitaker dead. September 5, John Hachwell, a miner, slapped the face of a senorita in a fandango house who refused to dance with him; a Mexican resented the attack and killed him. The next day, while drinking at a bar, John Rann and Joe Costello got into a heated argument concerning the Hachwell affair, and it ended by Rann shooting and killing Costello.

The engine of a thresher on the Colusa County ranch of Dr. Glenn exploded September 17, and Fireman Joseph Brady was killed.

Mrs. Eben Skaggs of Santa Paula, Ventura County, engaged in sweeping a room of her home, accidentally knocked over a loaded rifle standing in a corner. The gun was discharged and she was instantly killed.

Alexander H. Hichhorn, timber inspector at the United States Navy Yard at Vallejo, Solano County, tripped off a wharf September 11 and drowned.

Harry Ralston, aged 14, at San Jose, Santa Clara County, was censured by his mother, September 9, for disputing with a brother. He climbed to the roof of the home, and shortly afterward his lifeless body was found dangling from the end of a cord, one end of which was fastened to the chimney.

ADMISSION DAY RECOGNITION.

Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W. was hostess July 31 to Long Beach Parlor No. 239 N.S.G.W. and the families of both organizations at a dinner and entertainment. All eligible native daughters were also invited. The guests were welcomed by President Lillian Lasater, and a response was made by Francis Gentry, president-elect of the Native Sons. A delightful program, arranged by Mrs. Zelma Palstine, was followed by luncheon. The quilt made by the California Thimble Club of No. 154 was awarded Mrs. Violet J. Henshilwood.

August 7 Long Beach Native Daughters voted to co-operate in the celebration of Admission Day, September 9, with the Interparlor Committee of California South at Los Angeles. A resolution of appreciation was adopted, expressing approval of the action of the Long Beach Board of Education in closing the local public schools on Admission Day; requesting that information be given the pupils, in assemblies, as to why California celebrates Admission Day and what the "Bear Flag" means to the State of California, and to also have flags placed in schools wherever possible. The Parlor was addressed concerning Admission Day by Mrs. Marie McFadyen-Monroe of Pendleton, Oregon.

Delegations attended the meeting of Santa Ana Parlor No. 235 July 28 and Rudecinda No.

MATINS

(ELEANOR PRESTON WATKINS.)

Before the sunrise, in the cool calm gray,
When first the feet of dawn came softly creeping,

A golden bird-voice, singing to the day,
Called me away from clinging dreams and sleeping

To such an ecstasy of liquid song
My heart strained in my breast to hear and hold it.

The keen, consummate rapture to prolong,
And the far faithful echo to enfold it.

When this life's restless sleep shall end at last,
And each perplexing dream shall be withdrawn,

When darkness, night, and sleep are over-past
And light shall break in that transcendent dawn.

Then I shall need no silver joy-bells ringing
If when I wake I hear a bird-voice singing.

FOREST RANGERS WANT FEW THINGS, BUT THEY'RE SORELY NEEDED.

Rangers of the United States Forest Service want but little here below, but there are a few things, especially during the vacation season in the national forests, that they want very badly. Here are some of them:

Matches that use their heads when their own-ers don't.

Cigarettes without a forest fire in a trainload. Cigars that go out when dropped.

Empty cans that automatically roll them-selves into garbage pits.

Newspapers that decompose when left lying around.

Signs that rebound the bullets at vandal shooters.

Campers who never fail to extinguish their camp fires with water.

Motorists who carry ash receivers in their cars and use them.

Hunters who only shoot after they see horns. Fishermen who never clean their catch in a stream or lake.

Tourists without a mania for writing their names upon signboards.

Nature-lovers who do not destroy the flowers, shrubs and trees.

Good citizens who realize their responsibility to prevent forest fires.

SOME TOMATO DISEASES.

Tomatoes, like other crops, are subject to disease. In fact, the diseases that affect this crop are baffling and so far have defied a cure. Fusarium wilt, a soil borne organism, usually is found when tomatoes have been raised on the soil before. Crop rotation and the use of resistant varieties, of which the Norton is an ex-ample, are the best means of combatting it. Tomato yellows, or Western blight, is caused by an insect borne agency, similar to that which causes curly leaf of beets. Resistant varieties are the only hope of control in hot, dry years. Nematodes also are an enemy; don't plant toma-toes on soil so infested. Tipblight, especially along the coast, has caused trouble; no control is known and no resistant variety has been de-veloped. Spraying or dusting for any of these diseases is useless.

George H. White

(SAN DIEGO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.)

INCREASINGLY POPULAR AS A SUMMER vacation place, and at present harboring the largest number of visitors in its "summer season" history.

San Diego, largely through a section of the Chamber of Commerce called The San Diegans, is increasing efforts to entertain vacationists. A great deal of stress is being given historical points, with result that interest in all California is heightened and visitors are more likely to follow El Camino Real its entire length.

In furthering entertainment of visitors The San Diegans have just concluded an interesting experiment in inducing residents to know their own city, that they may be prepared to guide or direct visitors. By informative articles published through co-operation of the city press over a period of several weeks, and a concluding three days of inspections at points reservation of which the light is located, caused recommendation for repairs or else obliteration. Since it is represented that the Federal War Department has no funds for preserving the historical object, The San Diegans have assumed initiative toward such preservation. The area of the light, however, is dedicated, by order of the late President Woodrow Wilson, as national domain and site of a proposed monument to Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, discoverer of San Diego Bay, who landed from his galleon on the bay shore below the monument site. Under the circumstances, there may yet be government aid for restoration of the lighthouse.

A particular civic enterprise of the summer is the series of Midsummer Night Symphonies presented by the San Diego Civic Orchestra Tuesday nights at the organ pavilion in Balboa Park under the OLD SPANISH LIGHTHOUSE ON POINT LOMA, AT SAN DIEGO.

Military Authorities, in whose domain it is, ask civilians to rehabilitate, if they wish to save it from removal. San Diegans have started a preservation movement.

and establishments of peculiar interest, a majority of the population are now equipped to serve as tourist guides.

Plans for restoration of many historical landmarks have been related heretofore in these columns. Just now the "hot spot" is the Old Spanish Lighthouse, from which hundreds of thousands of visitors have enjoyed what the "Encyclopedia Britannica" calls one of the three grandest views in the world. Inspection by military authorities at Fort Rosecrans, in the stars. A fund of $10,000 was obtained by subscription to finance the series, which come to a close September 16. In similar vein, an outdoor play designed to become a civic institution of annual presentation was given initial production in the San Diego Stadium. This play, rather than pageant because of plot and action, depicts a fascinating chapter of early California history and is entitled "Heart's Desire."

Admission Day will also be Grape day sending his subject in an unusual and fascinating manner. Mrs. Jane A. Vick of Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126 N.D.G.W., Santa Barbara, a granddaughter of Colonel Juan Jose Warner, gave a most interesting account of her personal recollections of her noted ancestor.

"Also, there was a slight error as to the building which was marked. The Warner ranch-house, an adobe in good condition, now occupied as a bunk-house by the vaqueros of the Warner Rancho, was famed for the cordial hospitality dispensed by the family, during the forties and early fifties, to the many travelers who stopped for rest and supplies. But the building which was used as a stage station, and on which a bronze plaque was placed by the Native Daughters and Native Sons of the Golden West of San Diego, was a store located a short distance to the east of the ranch-house and on the Warner property. This building, also an adobe, is in a very fair state of preservation and is being cared for by the present owners, the San Diego County Water Company, under the direction of its president, John Treanor. On the north side a very large grapevine, known to be at least eighty years old, is growing, trailing its sturdy branches along the veranda and still bearing prolifically."

The closing event in July for San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W. was installation of officers, which was preceded by a dinner. Seasonable flowers prettily decorated K. C. Hall, where the ceremonies were conducted. District Deputy Nellie M. Cline, assisted by Gladys Edwards, Lucana McFadden, Mattie Edwards, Lena Wagner and Lulu Forbes of Grace Parlor No. 242 (Fullerton), and Supervising Deputy Rosina M. Hertzbrun of San Diego, officiated, and Mrs. Pearl Adams Simpson became the new president.

On the Parlor's behalf, Senior Past President Alice Damarus presented an emblematic ring to the retiring president, Mabel Burgert, who pleasantly responded. Other gifts, of flowers and hand-painted china, the latter the work of President-elect Simpson, were presented the grand officers on behalf of the retiring officers of No. 208. Arrangements for the occasion were made by Rosina M. Hertzbrun, Mabel Burgert, Gertrude Farwell, Mary Cooley, Marie James, Eliza Burns, Sara Miller, Virginia Burke and Emma Robinson. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

The Golden Poppy sewing club, organized following the Oakland Grand Parlor, has had meetings at the homes of Mabel Burgert, Doris Hoffman and Rosina M. Hertzbrun. Much enthusiasm has been evidenced, and there is every indication that a great deal will be accomplished before November. A beautiful hand-embroidered tablecloth is to be disposed of for the benefit of the Parlor's Loyalty Pledge fund. Mabel Burgert is in charge, and all members and friends of the Order are invited to participate. During August the Parlor sponsored a card party and a wiener roast.

DRIVE ON CARELESS MOTORISTS.

Careless motorists who throw burning cigarettes and cigars from cars while traveling along highways or in brush or forested areas in California face arrest and probable fine and imprisonment, according to an announcement of the State Division of Motor Vehicles, which has under way an intensive drive by traffic officers against such offenders.

The penalty for such carelessness is a fine of not more than $500 or a jail term of six months; possibly both.

KEEPING ALIVE PAST'S GOLDEN MEMORIES

Evelyn Joyce Eby

(CHAIRMAN PUBLICITY COMMITTEE
REINA DEL MAR PARLOR N.D.G.W.)

"Old Spanish Days Fiesta of 1930 is finished. Prepare then, in a corner of your heart, a memory of the feast."

IN NO CITY OF ALL CALIFORNIA IS IT possible to secure a better background for such an observance of Old Spanish Days than is afforded by Santa Barbara. Living in the shadow of the Old Mission, where tradition and relics keep alive the memories of the past, the people are truly in an atmosphere of an earlier regime. Different from all others is the annual revival and celebration of la fiesta. It is characteristic that once again the custom—"The house is yours"—is brought to the fore in a manner both hospitable and gracious.

At this fiesta time Santa Barbara brings back the spirit of the glorious past. So far as is possible, the people live again for this brief period in the atmosphere of yesterday. Each year the fiesta has taken on more and more the character of that which represents all that is near and dear to the heart of the true Californian. It is serving its purpose well in the keeping alive of all those golden memories that all too soon will be lost in the passage of time and remain only as somewhat legendary traditions. What a privilege it is to be a Native Daughter all through the year, and particularly during this glorious season of memories that grow dimmer and more hallowed!

Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126 Native Daughters of the Golden West plays an important part in keeping intact all that bridges today and yesterday of California's history. To the Native Daughters each year are assigned those hospitalities and features that make Santa Barbara's Old Spanish Days Fiesta so attractive.

"ROMANTIC CALIFORNIA."

Dedicated to the Native Daughters and the Native Sons of the Golden West, "Romantic California," a colorful pageant depicting the history of the state, was one of the outstanding features of the 1930 fiesta. It was the most successful pageant ever presented since the inception of Old Spanish Days, and the history of California passed in review before acclaiming thousands the evenings of August 7 and 9.

Charles E. Pressley managing director of the Old Spanish Days Fiesta, wrote and directed the pageant, which dealt with the incidents in history of early California. The presentation of the review was as nearly correct, historically, as it was possible to make it through collaboration of the author and those to whom the historical value of the pageant is most significant, particularly the Native Daughters and Native Sons.

The tale of the pageant was woven by an old Spanish Californian at the request of a group of tourists. As the pictorial incidents occurred in the old man's narrative they were presented on a large revolving stage erected in an open-air stadium. These dramatic episodes, eight in number, covered the variegated history of California, originally inhabited by Indians, from the time her coast was discovered by the daring explorers of medieval Spain, through the romantic and colorful epochs of the Spanish, Mexican and American colonists.

state chairman of the Grand Parlor History and Landmarks Committee of the Native Daughters, was in Santa Barbara during the fiesta and was the guest of Miss Anna E. McCaughey, supervising district deputy of Reina del Mar Parlor. To Mr. Pressley, in behalf of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, Miss Sullivan paid the following tribute.

"I had the pleasure of attending the delightful la Fiesta in your city. I greatly enjoyed the privilege of being present at your production 'Romantic California.' The portrayal of the historic periods of Santa Barbara's life so beautifully pictured the periods of Spanish exploration, colonization and christianization, coupled with the hospitality dispensed during the Spanish era, known as the happiest and most charming life ever lived in our state. The linking of the romantic period to the coming of Fremont brought the pageant to the American period, which blazed the trail for the glorious future of our California.

CHARLES E. PRESSLEY,
 Originator and Director "Romantic California."

"Your pageant not alone depicts the historic glory of California, but preserves the spirit of adventure and romance that marked the supremacy of three races of builders of California, who sacrificed and suffered to aid in the perfection of our California of today. In behalf of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, I wish to thank you for the honor you bestowed on our Order in dedicating 'Romantic California' to the N.D.G.W." RECEPTION TO OLD FAMILIES.

Recognized by the old families as the sponsoring group for bringing together the history makers of the past and present, Reina del Mar Parlor was again accorded the honor and privilege of arranging the reception which is a tribute to the members of early families and to the men who are leaders in the Old Spanish Days Fiesta organization. Bridge builders between the past and the present!

Casa de la Guerra, the center of social life of Santa Barbara for more than one hundred years, was the gathering place August 7 for the men and women whose forebears had shared the hospitality of the De la Guerras in the days before the American occupation. Hundreds of townfolk and visitors paid homage to the guests of honor who had assembled for this annual reception feature of the fiesta planned by the Native Daughters.

Miss Defina de la Guerra, the only surviving member of her family still residing in the old adobe which tradition says was built in one day by the Indians, with her sister, Mrs. Francesca de la Guerra-Dibhlee, graciously received the guests on the broad veranda that fronts the adobe. The honor guests were attired in old gowns and jewels, old shawls and fans that were deeply prized heirlooms. Many of the other guests wore lovely old gowns and shawls that blended in perfectly with the setting for the reception.

Friendships were renewed and the olden days recalled as a happy part of the reception, for this affair brings together old friends who seldom see each other more often than once a year. Wives of the members of the fiesta board and leaders of local organizations, honored because of their historical affiliations, presided at the punch table.

An informal program of music and dancing on the veranda added greatly to the occasion. Madame Alma Real, Mexican prima donna now residing in Los Angeles, made a special trip to Santa Barbara for the afternoon reception. She favored those present with several beautiful selections. Byron Abraham, Geraldine Valde and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ruiz gave a delightful exhibition of the Castillian dances.

PRACTICE RECIPROCITY BY ALWAYS PATRONIZING GRIZZLY BEAR ADVERTISERS

Miss Anna E. McCaughey, chairman of Reina del Mar Parlor's Old Spanish Days committee and largely responsible for the success of these annual receptions, with Mrs. William Vick, district deputy grand president, were in charge of the reception arrangements. They were assisted by the following past presidents of the Parlor: Florence Belt, Soledad Birabent, Elisa Bottiani, Lydia Brady, Margaret Callis, Emma Dale, Mary Dardi, Mamie Harrison, Katherine Leslie, Ida Carlson Lord, Anna Meyer, Amelia Myers, Vera Pacheco, Nellie Platz, Irene Quinn, Edna Sharpe, Mae Spreitz, Flora Stewart and Elizabeth Wilson.

OPENING OF FIESTA PLAY.

The opening of the fiesta play, "Emperatriz," written especially for the 1930 observance by Day Tuttle, was turned over to the Native Daughters, and Monday evening, August 4, this colorful social event attracted a large audience. The honor of sponsoring the opening of the play was given to the Native Daughters in recognition of their efforts in contributing toward the historical phases of Old Spanish Days throughout the years.

Mrs. William Vick, a descendant of one of the oldest California South families, gave an expression of appreciation in behalf of the old families to the many contributions made by adopted citizens of the state toward the perpetuation of early California customs. This expression was given before the curtain went up on the first act of "Emperatriz."

Boxes of the Lobero theatre, where the play was presented, were filled with descendants of those families who figured so prominently in the social, civic, political and religious life of early California under Spanish regime. They were costumed in the garb of the early Pioneers, and as these representatives of the early families entered the theater they were presented with bouquets made up by the Native Daughters.

The theatre decorations were carried out with historical settings as the theme. The play added further to the historical nature of fiesta time. Its setting was Marysville, and its characters portrayed scenes that dated to just prior to the American colonization era. Players of Community Arts presented the play.

Carrying out a delightful Lobero custom, coffee was served in the foyer, with members of the old families pouring from silver urns that had been in their families for unnumbered years. The old families' representatives were assisted by organizations invited by the Native Daughters. Tables had been arranged in the lobby of the theatre and were beautiful with their displays of old linen, silverware and china, which were attractively set off by floral arrangements.

Reina del Mar Parlor N.D.G.W., with the local chapters of the D.A.R. and the Daughters of American Colonists, acted as hostess groups. On invitation of Mrs. George McCrea, chairman history committee of Reina del Mar, the reception committee in charge was made up of the presiding officers of the various historical groups. The personnel follows: Mrs. George McCrea, chairman; Miss Anna E. McCaughey and Mrs. Maria de los Angeles Ruiz, Native Daughters; Mrs. C. E. Herbert, D.A.R. and member history committee Old Spanish Days; Miss Delfina de la Guerra, Mrs. Maria de la Guerra Taylor and Mrs. Wm. R. Vick, representing old Spanish families; Thomas Dinsmore, president Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116 N.S.G.W.; William McLenna, chairman history committee Old Spanish Days; Harry Sweetser, Native Sons. Miss Inez Sharpe of the Native Daughters was chairman of the ushers, and Mrs. Molly Hollow chairman of the flower committee.

SAINT BARBARA FLOAT IN PARADE.

Reina del Mar Parlor entered in the fiesta parade, as in previous parades, a float designed to represent Saint Barbara, patron saint of the city. Miss Elizabeth Hollow, a member of the Parlor, portrayed the Nicomedian maid, Barbara, and rode in the float, designed in likeness of the tower which Barbara had altered to indicate her new Christian faith. The float was drawn by four white horses and was accompanied by outriders who are descendants of the families closely associated with the work of the Old Mission in its early days.

An old painting of Santa Barbara was copied by the Native Daughters in originally designing the float. The Parlor's committee working on the float was headed by Mrs. A. C. They were assisted by Miss Marian Arrouq, Miss Inez Sharpe, Mrs. Patrick Henry, Miss Gloria Smith, Miss Emma Martin, Mrs. Paul Miller and Mrs. Ben Gutierrez.

OLD MISSION OPENS FIESTA.

Official opening of the Old Spanish Days Fiesta took place Wednesday evening, August 6, with the Native Daughters taking an active part in the reception that followed. The fiesta opening might well be described in the announcement and invitation extended by the Franciscan padres who have occupied Santa Barbara Mission since its erection:

"When the deep-throated bells of Old Mission are rung at twilight on Wednesday, August 6, Santa Barbara will know that the fiesta of the year 1930 has begun, and for three brief days will turn back the calendar and revel in the colorful regime of Padre and Spanish Don.

"A cordial invitation is extended to each citizen and guest of the city to meet the brown-robed padres in front of the ancient and faithful edifice, the Old Mission Santa Barbara, and to enjoy the colorful pageantry, to listen to the chanting of the padre choir, to break bread and partake of old-fashioned Spanish hospitality."

Reina del Mar's committee, working in conjunction with other women's organizations in the city, assisted in the informal reception following the evening program. Mrs. John Mitchell, president of the Parlor, acted as chairman, with Mrs. H. J. Sartwell, Mrs. Thomas Rovane, Mrs. Wesley McCormick and Miss Emma Martin as assistants.

HISTORIC PRESIDIO SITE MARKED

Marking the site of the old presidio, Santa Barbara's first military establishment, was carried out Saturday afternoon, August 9, under the auspices of Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116 Native Sons of the Golden West, as part of the Old Spanish Days Fiesta activities.

The bronze markers, eight by eleven inches in size, were placed in the sidewalks on Canon Perdido and Santa Barbara streets, where the presidio lines intersect, and at points nearest to the four corners of the old presidio. The survey definitely locating the boundaries of the old presidio were made by Owen H. O'Neill county surveyer and past president of Santa Barbara Parlor.

Designs for the markers were made by Miss Elizabeth Mason, Santa Barbara sculptor, from data obtained from an old map of the presidio "Plaza de Armas" made in 1853 by V. Wackerreuder. It contains the outlines of the old presidio and designates the locations of the little chapel, the commandancia's house and the soldiers' quarters.

FOUNDED APRIL 21, 1782.

The legend on the markers is: "Presidio de Santa Barbara founded April 21, 1782, dedicated August 9, 1930, Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116, Native Sons of the Golden West." The words are followed by a chart showing where the lines of the old presidio cross the lines of the present Canon Perdido and Santa Barbara streets, and the locations of some of the early buildings and the Plaza de Armas.

The ceremony of dedication was held in Santa Barbara street, between Canon Perdido and Carrillo streets and immediately in front of the property owned by the Community Arts Association. This location is near the sites of the home of the first commandante of Santa Barbara and of the first church built in Puelho de Santa Barbara.

The Grand Parlor Landmarks Committee, through its chairman, Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland, selected Past Grand President Lewis F. Byington, a former district attorney of San Francisco, to deliver the dedicatory oration. Present also at the ceremonies were Grand President John T. Newell, Grand First Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzales, Grand Trustees Joseph J. McShane and Ben Harrison, in addition to the officers and members of Santa Barbara Parlor, representatives from Reina del Mar Parlor Native Daughters and a large crowd of visitors and residents.

TRIBUTE PAID SENATOR PHELAN.

In his address, Byington paid tribute to the memory of the late Senator James D. Phelan, one of the foremost Native Sons, and referred to the presidio site as historic ground.

"Here, on the 21st day of April, 1782," he said, "was planted the first Christian settlement in what is now Santa Barbara County. Around it grew up what was at first a Spanish pueblo, and has now become a splendid city, with its marvelous scenic beauty, its inviting flower-embowered homes, its splendid public and commercial buildings, its broad well-paved streets, its churches, schools and institutions of music and art.

"The old presidio was one of the four military garrisons established in California by the Spanish government to protect the twenty-one missions, stretching from San Diego to Sonoma, against the uprisings of native tribes or attempted foreign invasions. Here, for a period of seventy years, there floated, in turn, the flags of two nations, that of Spain down to the year 1821, and that of Mexico down to the year 1846. Then followed the most glorious of flags, the Stars and Stripes, which from then on has waved in pride over this fair domain."

The speaker related incidents concerning the royal authority from the king of Spain to establish Spain's rule along the coast, and described the area encompassed within the presidio here. He told of the journey afoot of Father Junipero Serra along the coast and of his death at Carmel in August, 1784, the last cherished wish of his heart, to establish a mission at Santa Barbara, having been unfulfilled. That wish, though, was carried out by Padre Lasnen, December 4, 1786, two years after Padre Serra's death. The speaker said that at the time the Mexican government took over the missions, Santa Barbara and Monterey were the two most important communities in California. Although Monterey was the seat of government, the governor spent much of his time in Santa Barbara, where the prominent Spanish families had their homes and entertained lavishly.

MEMBERS OF LANDMARKS COMMITTEE.

The landmarks committee of Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116 N.S.G.W. is composed of John L. Stewart (chairman), George A. Black, Owen O'Neill, Dan Taylor, C. W. McCormick, Clifford Livermore and A. C. Dinsmore. The story of the old presidio has been compiled by George A. Black of this committee. According to it, the location on which Father Junipero Serra raised a cross in the center of the presidio is directly in front of 829 Santa Barbara street. This spot will be marked by the Parlor September 9, the eightieth anniversary of the admis-

Native Daughters of the Golden West

TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS of Subordinate Parlors, Native Daughters Golden West—Dear Sisters: In a few weeks California will observe the eightieth anniversary of statehood, an occasion when every native-born Californian may rightfully rejoice and take pride in the progress of the commonwealth.

In no other state are there preparatory atmosphere and historical reminders for the observance of its admission to statehood, such as we have in California. Once a year we formally take note of the passage of time, and ceremoniously look back to the days of '49, but, all through the year we are reminded by geographical names, by architecture, by surviving customs of the heritage which is ours.

"Deep and wide the wheels of progress have passed on; the silent Pioneer is gone. His ghost is moving down the trees, and now we push the memories of bluff, bold men who dared and died in foremost battle, quite aside.

"Our organization was built out of gratitude, reverence and loyalty for the early Pioneers, since without them and without the supreme sacrifice they made, we, perhaps, would not be enjoying the beauties and comforts we have today.

"Let us honor the memory of these brave men and women by celebrating Admission Day. If it is not possible for you to take part in the celebration in San Francisco, arrange some special program in your locality—so planned that citizens of today may know and appreciate California and the organization of her daughters.

"Sincerely and fraternally in P.D.F.A.,

ESTELLE M. EVANS,

"Grand President

"Native Daughters Golden West.

"Pittsburg, August 12, 1930."

Impressive Ceremonies.

San Bernardino—The midsummer months have been filled with many activities for Lugonia No. 241, the July and August programs including a number of interesting events, chief among which was the installation of officers. District Deputy Bertha Hitt, assisted by officers of Long Beach No. 154, conducted the ceremonies, and Miss Eva Bemis assumed the presidency. The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and all the officers were gowned in white and carried arm bouquets of coral gladioli.

In a brief address, President Bemis expressed appreciation for the honor conferred on her and voiced a hope for a successful term. Grand Trustee Florence Dodson Schoneman, founder and patroness of the Parlor, was among the visitors; she spoke of the aims and purposes of the Order and told of its plan to purchase a grove of redwoods in memory of the Pioneers. Vocal and instrumental selections were rendered by Helen Powers-Cervantes, Marguerite McKenzie, Lily Mae Tompkins, Evelyn Shaddox and Lois Aldridge-Johnson.

On behalf of the officers who served in her cabinet, First Vice-President Frances Wixom presented Miss Lois Poling, retiring president, with a tooled leather papeterie. Flowers and remembrances were also presented Grand Trustee Schoneman, President Bemis, Mrs. Arthur L. Anderson, District Deputy Lily Mae Tompkins, Secretary Thelma Nett, Third Vice-President Nola Fogler and District Deputy Hitt. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the impressive ceremonies.

House parties at the Crestline summer homes of Mms. Katherine McIntosh and Kate Souther in the San Bernardino Mountains added to the interest of Lugonia's summer social calendar.

Grand President Feted.

Byron—District Deputy Mary Bianchini, assisted by Mary Ross, Myra Radmacher, Loretta Kelly and Ramona Beasley, August 6 installed the officers of Donner No. 193. After the ceremonies there was a reception in honor of Grand President Estelle Evans, who was accompanied by many members of her home-Parlor, Antioch No. 233. An orchestra entertained with vocal and instrumental selections.

Dainty refreshments were served at cleverly decorated tables, arranged in "T" shape, the color scheme carrying out the Native Daughter colors, red, white and gold. The centerpiece was a golden ladder resting upon a gold-and-white base; each of the seven rungs to the ladder represented a Grand Parlor office held by Mrs. Evans, who started as Grand Organist and advanced, station by station, to the Grand Presidency; at the ladder's top was a doll, gowned to represent the honor guest of the evening. Other decorations were golden candle holders and bouquets of gold and white flowers. The favors were small gold and white parasols filled with red candy.

Addresses were delivered by Grand President Evans, District Deputy Bianchini and Donner's newly installed president, Ruth Baltzen. Elvira Holway, on the Parlor's behalf, presented gifts to the Grand President and her mother, Mrs. John Houlihan, and the district deputy. The committee in charge for the occasion consisted of Elvira Holway (chairman), Myrtle Middleton and Josephine Pimentel.

"Covered Wagon Baby" Showered.

Georgetown—Officers of El Dorado No. 186 were installed by District Deputy Bearice Luce, assisted by Hattie Presby, acting grand marshal, July 26. The new president, Elizabeth Irish, is a charter member and has previously held the office.

After the ceremonies a short program was presented in honor of Mrs. Elizabeth Farnsworth, a "covered wagon baby," the date being her birthday anniversary. She was given a shower of handkerchiefs. Refreshments were served.

Neat Sum for Drill Team.

Petaluma—With Matilda Rieter as president, officers of Petaluma No. 222 were installed August 5 by District Deputy May Rose Barry, assisted by members of Mission No. 227 (San Francisco). Other visitors were Past Grand President Emma G. Foley, Grand Trustee Ethel Begley and delegations from Marinita No. 198 (San Rafael), Orinda No. 56 (San Francisco), Santa Rosa No. 217 and other Parlors.

August 12 the Parlor's drill team sponsored a candidates' card party, and a neat sum was made to defray expenses of September 9, when the team will appear in the Admission Day parade in San Francisco.

Pet Charity.

San Jose—Santa Clara County Past Presidents Association celebrated its seventh anniversary August 12. Mrs. Mary Groth Newton was the hostess, and a large attendance attested interest in the association, which now has members from eight Subordinate Parlors. Mrs. Nettie Richmond was succeeded as president by Mrs. Ida Sweeney.

Each meeting terminates with sociability and refreshments. The association's pet charity work is dispensing cheer and gifts throughout the year to the elderly women at the county home.

Visit Neighbors.

Oakdale—District Deputy Ella Watson and a group of Oakdale No. 125 members—Kate Schmeidler, Alice Dorroh, Addie Fowler, Lou McLeod, Gene Rydberg, Mary Panetto, Theresa Panetto, Elizabeth Panero, Denise Bechis, Eva Fogarty—went over to Modesto to attend the joint installation of officers of Morada No. 199 and Modesto No. 11 N.S.G.W. Acting in her official capacity, District Deputy Watson installed No. 199's officers, and was the recipient of a lovely gift. Delicious refreshments were served.

Large Attendance at Installation.

Santa Ana—Officers of Santa Ana No. 235 were installed by D.D.G.P. Lily Mae Tompkins, assisted by officers of Lugonia No. 241 (San Bernardino), Marguerite Dickinson becoming president. Among the many in attendance were large delegations from Long Beach No. 154, Rudecinda No. 230 (San Pedro) and Santa Ana No. 256 N.S.G.W., the latter being headed by President Walter Hiskey, and District Deputies Bertha Hitt and Nellie Cline.

Grand Trustee Florence Dodson Schoneman, the honored guest of the evening, spoke of the homeless children's work. Helen Cervantes favored with a vocal selection of her own composition dedicated to the Pioneers, and Eleanor Young Elliott was heard in humorous readings.

The thimble club of the Parlor was recently entertained at the homes of Cora Ross and President Dickinson.

Reception for Grand Trustee Bride.

San Rafael—Grand Trustee Ethel Stuhr-Begley, recently returned from her honeymoon, was given a reception by her home-Parlor, Marinita No. 198, July 28. There was a large attendance of members, also visitors from Gabrielle No. 139 (San Francisco), Fairfax No. 225, Tamelpa No. 231 (Mill Valley) and Guadalupe No. 153 (San Francisco).

Mrs. Begley was escorted to the station of President Gertrude Vernon who, on the Parlor's behalf, presented her with a gift. An interesting program was presented under the direction of Irene Griffin, and Ruth Andrade supervised the serving of dainty refreshments.

Philanthropic Activities Inaugurated.

Sacramento—La Bandera No. 110 had a surprise party August 1 at which guests of honor were Junior Past President Sadie Murphy and Grand Inside Sentinel Edna B. Briggs. On the Parlor's behalf President Alvah Welty presented a gift to Mrs. Murphy who, in turn, presented a remembrance to Mrs. Briggs. Thelma Derr, retiring president, was the recipient of an emblematic jewel, and Anna Cippa contributed a song dedicated to Mrs. Murphy. The refreshment tables were decorated in bouquets of old-fashioned flowers, Lottie C. Cummings and Lucie Roberts had charge of the party.

The Loyalty Pledge committee has many plans in view to assist La Bandera in going "over the top." Composing the committee are Grand Inside Sentinel Briggs (chairman), Mmes. Lucie Roberts, Lottie Cummings, Sadie Murphy, Eva Mordecni, Flora A. Schmittgen, Alvah Welty, and Miss Adn Peterson.

A group of No. 110's members Innugrated philanthropic activities August 5, when they visited the aged women's cottage of the Sacramento Hospital and presented a program, which was followed by refreshments. The affair was arranged by Mms. Eva Mordecia, Amy Meister, Sadie Murphy and Flora Schmittgen, and entertainment numbers were presented by Mms. Fred Cippa, Edna Briggs and William Creegan. Supervising Deputy Bessie Leitch and District Deputy Mamie Davis were in attendance.

The four local Parlors—Califia No. 22, La Bandera No. 110, Sutter No. 111 and Coloma No. 212—plan to have similar gatherings at the hospital each month, commencing September 2.

Picnic Dinner.

Hollister—August 12 representatives of the six Parlors of the counties of Santa Cruz, Monterey and San Benito met here for dinner. In the evening a meeting was held at the Chamber of Commerce to discuss ritualistic matters and legislation enacted at the last Grand Parlor. Tentative plans were formulated for the annual district meeting to be held at Asilomar October 4. Those in attendance were Supervising District Deputy Bertha A. Briggs, Deputies Rose Rhyner and Elmarie Heyler, Grand Trustee Pearl Reid, President Edna Butterfield and Mayme Moran of Copa de Oro No. 105, and President Ellen Murray of San Juan Bautista No. 179.

August 14 Past President Matilda Wright, chairman Loyalty Pledge committee of Copa de Oro, and capable assistants arranged a picnic dinner on the spacious lawns of her charming orchard home. Flags and strings of colored lights added to the festivity of the scene. Delicious "eats" were served, after which games of bridge and five hundred whiled away the happy hours. Awards were made to Margaret McAuliffe, Eileen Hansen, Zoerada Jenkins, Wm. O'Hara and Itha Brown. Those assisting Mrs. Wright were Past President Josephine Snell, Clara L. Black, Joe Snell, Past Grand President Bertha A. Briggs, President Edna Butterfield, Mayme Morgan and Nora Lynn. To the Loyalty Pledge fund of the Parlor have been added prizes won by Josephine Winn and Bertha A. Briggs in the recent "famous movie stars cross word puzzle contest" conducted by a San Francisco paper.

Unique Gift for President.

Antioch—In the presence of a large gathering, officers of Antioch No. 223 and General Winn No. 32 N.S.G.W. were jointly installed July 22. District Deputy Edna Hill officiated for No. 223, Myra Rademacher becoming president, and District Deputy Clarence C. Palmer installed for No. 32, John Welsh becoming president. Grand President Estelle M. Evans honored her Parlor with her presence.

A banquet followed the ceremonies, the tables being beautifully decorated with gladioli. An inspiring talk was given by Grand President

Native Sons of the Golden West

TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS of all Subordinate Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West—Dear Sirs and Brothers: Our State is approaching another milestone as a part of our great Nation. On September ninth, nineteen hundred and thirty, four-score years will have passed since its birth into the Union, September the ninth, eighteen hundred and fifty.

“Through our Subordinate Parlor I desire to extend cordial greetings to every member of our beloved Order, and ask them, as loyal Californians, to pause in their business pursuits and give proper observance to our coming Admission Day.

“Since the institution of the Native Sons of the Golden West, July the eleventh, eighteen hundred and seventy-five, we have held joint celebrations in various cities throughout the State. This year our celebration will be held in the City of San Francisco, and the committees in charge are making great preparations for your entertainment and enjoyment, in which I hope you will be able to participate.

“It is our duty, as Native Californians, to properly celebrate the day, to ask of all business concerns to observe this State Holiday, and to invite all Californians, native or adopted, to join with us in paying homage to the State we love.

“With best wishes for the success and happiness of our membership throughout the State, I am,

“Sincerely and Fraternaly yours,
JOHN T. NEWELL,
 “Grand President, N.S.G.W.
 “Los Angeles, August 12, 1930.”

Joint Public Installation.

Bakersfield—Officers of Bakersfield No. 42 and El Tejon No. 239 N.D.G.W. were installed at joint public ceremonies. District Deputies Ben Cooper and Florence Hinderliter officiated, and Frederick E. Hoar and Mary B. Hampson became the respective presidents. A profusion of beautiful zinnias and ferns decorated the hall. After the ceremonies a musical program was presented by 4-year-old Johnnie Owen and Richard B. Skinner, the noted blind singer.

In the banquet room a color scheme of red, white and yellow was carried out in the decorations and refreshments. Each installing officer and officer-elect of the Native Daughters received a corsage of red carnations, and those of the Native Sons were given boutonnières of white carnations. Presentations on behalf of El Tejon were made to District Deputy Hinderlite, Minnie B. Heath and Ana Moffett, retiring president. Jennie Dennis, retiring past president, received an emblematic pin.

Considering Museum Establishment.

Fort Bragg—Officers of Alder Glen No. 200 were installed by District Deputy Ralph Todd, H. A. Johnson becoming president. A committee has been appointed to investigate the feasibility of establishing a museum in which to house early-day relics and history material pertaining to the Mendocino coast.

Arrangements have been perfected for the annual Admission Day ball, to be held September 13. T. J. Simpson, A. E. Duffey, B. D. Bohn, E. E. Blank and Ray Walsh comprise the committee in charge.

Spreading the Gospel.

San Bernardino—Arrowhead No. 110 celebrated its forty-third institution anniversary with a dinner and entertainment July 30. Supervisor John Andreson had charge of the program. Charter Member Emery B. Tyler delivered the birthday address, and National Forest Supervisor J. E. Elliott presented motion pictures of “wild life.”

President George J. MacDonald has appointed a committee to arrange for the dedication of the new Woodrow Wilson elementary school, probably in September. The grand officers will be invited to officiate.

Through Grand Trustee Ben Harrison and Deputy District Attorney Jerome B. Kavanaugh the gospel of Native Sonism is being spread throughout San Bernardino County, the former addressing the Rotarians of Needles August 5, and the latter addressing the Rotary Club of Colton August 8. Grand Trustee Harrison spent several days last month in the northern part of the state officially visiting some of the Subordinate Parlor in his district.

Membership Standing Largest Parlors.

San Francisco—Grand Secretary John T. Regan reports the standing of the Subordinate Parlor having a membership of over 400 January 1, 1930, as follows, together with their membership figures August 20, 1930:

Parlor	Jan. 1	Aug. 20	Gain	Loss

“Pioneers’ Night.”

Santa Rosa—Santa Rosa No. 28 and Santa Rosa No. 217 N.D.G.W. have perfected arrangements for a “Pioneers’ Night,” September 11, which will feature all the trimmings of the typical days of a forty-nine dance hall. The Sons are cultivating beards, and the women are preparing hoop skirts and pantalettes for the occasion. Dr. C. W. Shipley is general chairman of the arrangements committee.

Sub-committee chairmen and some of the characters include: Barroom, Frank Berger; games and concessions, W. G. Shackleton; lunch counter, Mrs. Ruby Berger, Hazel Brown, William Cook; dance hall, Louis Lencioni; general entertainment, W. C. Stone, Olney Pedigo, Lee Lewis, John Caniff; sheriff of Rattlesnake Gulch, E. Douglas Bills; captain of Hangtown Guards, T. Virgil Butts; Spanish dancer; “Dolores del Rio de Santa Rosa y Sonoma,” real identity a close secret.

The Sonoma County Past Presidents Associations have arranged for the participation of all the county’s Parlors in the San Francisco Admission Day, September 9, parade. A feature will be a float from which Gravenstein apples will be tossed to the onlookers; Hubert B. Scudder (Sebastopol No. 143) has this in charge.

Ritual Contests Planned.

San Rafael—Arrangements are being completed for another series of ritual contests between Sea Point No. 153 (Sausalito) and Mount Tamalpais No. 64; both are “rarin’ to go.” These contests have done much to promote closer relations between the two Parlors and to keep up the high standard of ritualistic work in both, as well as to stimulate interest in the affairs of the Order. Sea Point has several applications on file and Mount Tamalpais initiated a class July 28, at which time Grand Marshal Joseph Clavo, and District Deputy George Wienegar and other Napa Natives were present.

Charley Redding, treasurer Marin County, insisted that Wienegar was the person who holsted the Bear Flag at Sonoma eighty-two years ago. Wienegar claimed he had no recollection of the incident, but did admit he had been treasurer of Napa County for more than thirty years.

Grand Marshal Clavo spoke regarding the Admission Day, September 9, celebration in San Francisco. Mount Tamalpais plans to turn out, in uniform, in a unique formation with Sea Point and Nicasio No. 183, together with Marlita No. 198 N.D.G.W. At a picnic held at Cheda Park August 3, Mount Tamalpais netted a handsome sum for the homeless children cause. Frank Kelly was chairman of the committee in charge.

"Grand Old Man" Delights.

Santa Ana—A large crowd assembled in Hewes Park to enjoy a barbecued dinner arranged by Santa Ana No. 265 and Santa Ana No. 235 N.D.G.W. to replenish their history and landmarks funds. Grand President John T. Newell, the principal speaker, reviewed the unemployment problem, expressing the opinion that the principal cause thereof was the immigration and employment of undesirable aliens.

Most interesting and delightful was the talk of 91-year-old Judge J. E. Pleasants, the "grand old man of Santiago Canyon." He came across the plains to California in 1849 in a caravan of thirty-two covered wagons conveying 120 persons, five of them women, and remembers every incident of that eventful trip. For a time his father mined along the Feather River, and in 1856 the judge came south to Los Angeles to attend school. Since 1861 he has continuously resided in what is now Orange County. Old time selections, played by J. W. Mitchell, violin, and Louis Stevens, guitar, were greatly enjoyed.

Annual Barbeque.

San Jose—Observatory No. 177 had its thirty-ninth annual barbeque at Oak Dell August 10. The singing section of the Parlor known as the Owl Club entertained, and there was a program of sports. A baseball game was wrecked when the gang overruled the decisions of Umpire Charles A. Hunt. Grant O'Neill and Grand Secretary John T. Regan won the harnyard golf championship, and Secretary Arthur Langford and Alfred C. Hansen were victors in a whist tourney.

J. M. Waterman was toastmaster at the luncheon, at which talks were given by several of the guests of honor, who included: Grand President John T. Newell, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Trustee Ben Harrison, Grand Treasurer John A. Corotto, Past Grand Presidents Dr. Charles W. Decker and Judge Charles A. Thompson, District Deputy Robley Morgan, Charter Members Charles Richmond and David Gairaud.

Whiskerino Ball.

Arcata—Arcata No. 20 will have its fourth annual whiskerino ball September 6. Ed Byard is chairman of the committee of arrangements, which has planned for many thrilling "stunts." Among those who will be present will be "Dead Eye Dick" and his gang.

The spirit of forty-nine will prevail, and all the members of the Parlor will appear in costumes typifying the important gold discovery period in California history.

PROMINENT MARIN N. S. PASSES

San Rafael (Marin County)—Senator E. B. Martinelli, prominent attorney and civic leader, and for more than thirty years affiliated with Mount Tamalpais Parlor No. 64 N.S.G.W., died August 4. Surviving are four children, among them City Attorney Jordan L. Martinelli, also a member of Mount Tamalpais.

Senator Martinelli was born at Nicasio, Marin County, in 1868. From 1893 to 1895 he was city attorney of San Rafael, and from 1895 to 1899 district attorney of Marin County. In 1909 he was elected to the State Senate.

SAN PEDRO HARBOR of the GREAT THE GREAT AT SOUTHWEST

GREAT FISHING CENTER

(STANLEY A. WHEELER.)
CALIFORNIA'S TWO GREAT COMMERCIAL fishing centers, Los Angeles Harbor and Monterey, now lead all other American ports, according to new reports compiled by the California State Fisheries Laboratory at Terminal Island. The figures show remarkable advances for the two California ports during the last four years.

In the calendar year 1929, for which the fish-catch record has just been made available, a total of 342,340,000 pounds of seafood were delivered to San Pedro, Wilmington and Long Beach canneries and markets. Among all other fishing centers of the world, the British port of Grimsby was the only one to eclipse this mark.

Monterey captured second place among American fishing ports last year, eclipsing Boston by a wide margin; the Massachusetts seaport now ranks third in the United States and fifth among world centers. In 1926 Los Angeles harbor ranked sixth in the world; it climbed to third place in 1927, held that position in 1928, and jumped to second in 1929. Both Los Angeles and Monterey are concentration points for large numbers of canneries and fresh-fish markets.

Following is the catch report for the world's leading commercial fishing centers, where official records are available for 1929:

Grimsby, England	371,504,000 lbs.

STATE FLAG TRAVELS MANY MILES.

A California State (Bear) Flag, presented to the Panama Pacific liner "California" by Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W. February 11, 1928, has now traveled a total distance of 238,000 miles. Completion of this long trek occurred August 25, 1930, with the arrival of the ship in New York Harbor from California ports, by way of the Panama Canal.

The flag presentation was made to the big electrically driven ship upon its maiden voyage to the Pacific Coast. It was accepted by the master of the liner from Clyde H. Foot, then president of Sepulveda, at San Pedro. Since that time the "California" has made twenty-two round-trip voyages between New York and the Pacific Coast. The flag is carefully encased in a heavy frame which hangs upon the wall in one of the public corridors on "A" deck. A heavy bunting Bear Flag is carried at the foremast of the vessel whenever it enters or leaves a port.

The Parlor conducted its regular monthly initiation ceremonies August 29, with President John T. Gower presiding. A watermelon "feed" followed. Sepulveda personals: John V. Ramirez, charter member, became a benedict August 16; Fred W. Cadien spent the last two weeks of August vacationing in the high Sierra near Mount Whitney; Marshal Ernst Paulsen was a San Francisco visitor last month.

Sheriff William I. Traeger, Past Grand President, August 20 addressed the San Pedro Kiwanis Club on "The History of California." Arch L. Silman, charter member Yosemite Parlor No. 24 (Merced City) and probation officer of Merced County, was a visitor last month; he called on a one-time Mercedite now residing in Wilmington—William A. Reuter, past president and financial secretary of Sepulveda.

HONORED AT RECEPTION.

Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W. had a reception August 1 in honor of Grand Trustee Florence Dodson-Schoneman and Blanche Obarr-Walizer. Both gave interesting talks. Mrs. Schoneman outlining the objects of the Order and Mrs. Walizer telling of her recent trip to Japan. There was a very large attendance, all neighboring Parlors being well represented.

A program was presented by Mms. Regan, Pulstine and Geary, and Messrs. Johnson, Bruce, Coates and Torres, Deliculous refreshments were served by the hostess committee: Mms. Carrie Kuhlman (chairman), Catherine Rosse, Margaret Dever, Claudin Perez and Anna Spickler.

A MAN OF COURAGE OTHERS SHOULD EMULATE.

The people of America admire and respect courage. When Theodore Roosevelt faced a Colorado nudlenco at the beginning of the Bryan free-silver campaign, he confronted a people who then believed that their whole future was bound up with silver, and they believed that silver had been unjustly demonetized by a conspiracy of bankers. He began his address, in that stronghold of silver, with the words: "I stand on a gold platform." There was a gasp of surpris, and then a round of applause. The people of Colorado recognized courage.

Recently there was another example of courage, in the State of Pennsylvania, where a man of courage won out. The state contains masses of people of all kinds of racial origins. On the question of immigration, there prevailed the usual petty appeals to race prejudices and the usual silence, suppression and "pussy-footing" in fear of alien hoes on the part of political leaders where American interests were at stake.

James J. Davis, running for senatorial nomination, would have none of these things. Attacked on all sides by the self-appointed representatives of alien hoes, he appealed to the American workman to defend his job and his home. He appealed to all intelligent Americans of all origins, whether employers or employed, to defend decent standards of American living and American citizenship, to keep American jobs for Americans, by stopping immigration that we no longer need—and he led his ticket!

There are many senators and representatives whose people are suffering from the same unemployment troubles that Davis recognized. Their silence on this question is becoming audible, and their inaction and apparent indifference in Congress remain to be explained to their constituents. They will do well to profit by James J. Davis' example of straight thinking and courageous action—C.M.H.

HISTORIC PRESIDIO

sion of California as a state. The presidio was established April 21, 1782, when Captain Jose Francisco Ortega, in command of fifty men and accompanied by Governor Felipe deNeve and Father Junipero Serra, marched from the newly-founded mission of San Buenaventura and founded the presidio.

The basis of all land titles in the City of Santa Barbara is from the lue of the original presidio. A map showing the presidio as it was in 1855, with holdings of owners at that time, was presented as a souvenir to those attending the dedication ceremonies. The use of the zinc etching of the map, made by the county surveyor in the year 1830, was secured through the courtesy of the Mortgage Securities Company of Santa Barbara.

WHAT WAS HE WORTH?
 (ALICE MCGUIGAN.)

"What was he worth?" I heard them say;
 "What was he worth, when he passed away?"
 You cannot measure man's worth in gold,
 In land, or money, or wealth untold;
 But in what he did, in life's brief span;
 What help he gave to his fellow man.
 Did he take his brother's faltering hand
 And help him o'er life's shifting strand?
 Did he lighten sorrows hard to bear?
 The burdens of others did he share?
 Did he help the widow in her need
 And her little brood of children feed?
 For the world's workers, what did he do,
 And did he lighten their burdens too?
 I ask not what church he called his own;
 Nor his form of worship before the throne;
 If he helped his fellow man in need,
 What care we for church, or form or creed?
 The man was worth more than words can say;
 His worth still lives, though he's passed away.

Evans. Retiring Past President Grace Gatter was presented with an emblematic pin by Junior Past President Mary Bianchini, and gifts were also presented to Grand President Evans and District Deputy Hill. President Myra Rndemacher presented the retiring president, Mary Bianchini, with a unique gift—a scrapbook containing clippings and tokens of all affairs pertaining to the Parlor that had occurred during her term.

Beautiful Roses Presented.

Livermore—Officers of Angelita No. 32 were installed by District Deputy Ann Mello, assisted by members of Fruitvale No. 177 (Oakland). Among the visitors were Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler and her mother, and several district deputies. For the ensuing six months the Parlor will be under the very efficient guidance of Etta Lefever, installed as president.

Hazel Strominger, retiring president, was the recipient of a gift of silver, bouquets of beautiful roses were presented the visiting officers, and Myrtle I. Johnson, retiring past president, received an emblematic jewel. Delicious refreshments were served.

Past President Becomes Secretary.

Sausalito—Officers of Sea Point No. 196 were installed by Supervising Deputy Emma G. Foley, assisted by Olive Green as acting grand marshal, Hazel Thomas becoming president. One candidate was initiated. Among the guests were members of Fairfax No. 225 and Tamelpa No. 231 (Mill Valley).

Beautiful gifts were received by President Thomas, Supervising Deputy Foley and Mary B. Smith, the retiring past president, who was installed as recording secretary. Dainty corsages were presented to her assistant officers by President Thomas. A delightful supper concluded the ceremonies.

Hears of Sierra Outing.

Woodland—Officers of Woodland No. 90 were installed by Supervising Deputy Edna Richter, assisted by Grand Marshal Anna Nixon-Armstrong, July 22. Wanda Abele became the new president, and Kathryn Simmons started her twenty-sixth consecutive year as treasurer. Many presentations were made, among them a past president's pin to Irma Ulrich. A delicious supper was served in the banquet hall, tastefully decorated in green and yellow.

August 11 the Parlor was given an interesting account by Lola Ewert of the Sierra Club's outing in the high Sierra the last two weeks of July. Memorial services were also held, in memory of Elsie Woolley, recently deceased.

Complete Successes.

Bakersfield—With first Vice-president Mayme Efrid presiding, El Tejon No. 239 initiated three candidates August 1 and had a lovely party for those members whose birthday anniversaries are in July and August.

August 15 a report was made on the three candidate dances sponsored by the Parlor. All were complete financial and social successes, and at each a brief address was delivered on the "Aims and Objects of Our Order," with special reference to the homeless children and landmarks work. Two of the dances were held fifty miles from Bakersfield, at Glennville and Kernville.

Retiring President Well Remembered.

Sonoma—Officers of Sonoma No. 209 were installed August 11 by District Deputy Clytie Lewis, Catherine Bulotti becoming president. An emblematic ring was presented Gertrude Groskopf, retiring president, and presentations were made to District Deputy Lewis. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Groskopf was recently presented by her officers with a huge bouquet of gladioli, concealed in which was a white gold bracelet. Mrs. M. Mullen, years ago a belle of Woodland, Yolo County, has affiliated with the Parlor. The Sonoma County Parlors plan to be well represented in the San Francisco Admission Day parade, September 9.

Co-operate in Pageant.

Modesto—Morada No. 199 had as visitors August 13 a delegation from Eldora No. 248 (Turlock). Ann Oleson, retiring past president, was the recipient of an emblematic pin, the presentation address being made by Junior Past President Effie Prothero.

Representing characters of the days of '49, members of Morada, Eldora and Modesto No. 11 N.S.G.W. participated in the pageant, "Romance of the Water Jubilee," depicting the development of irrigation in California and Stanislaus County, featured in Modesto August 29 and 30.

Grand President to Visit.

San Jose—Officers of San Jose No. 81 were installed by District Deputy Beldon Gallagher, July 31, Mrs. Claire Borchers becoming president. An elaborate social function followed the ceremonies, Mrs. Georgia Shannon and Amelia Hartman being in charge of arrangements. The semi-monthly afternoon whist parties are very popular, and net a substantial sum for the treasury.

Grand President Estelle Evans will visit the Parlor August 28, and elaborate plans are being made for her reception. Mrs. Dora Dunn has the arrangements in charge. No. 81 plans to participate in the Admission Day, September 9, celebration at San Francisco. Mrs. Dorothy Fine heads the arrangements committee.

In Memoriam

MOLLIE LEFORT PHILLIPS.

To the Officers and Members of Piedmont Parlor No. 87 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our departed sister, Mollie LeFort Phillips, who passed away July 28, 1930, submit the following:
 Whereas, The Angel of Death having again visited among us and another of our beloved members, Mollie LeFort Phillips, having answered to Roll Call, has joined the Grand Parlor on High; and whereas, our late sister was a true and loyal Native Daughter, and was loved by all who knew her for her happy disposition and her willingness at all times to lend a helping hand; therefore, be it Resolved, That Piedmont Parlor No. 87 N.D.G.W. feels most deeply the loss of our esteemed sister, and that while bowing our heads in humble submission to the will of our Heavenly Father, we commend her spirit into His care, and that we extend to the bereaved family our sincere and heartfelt sympathy; be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread in full upon the minutes of this Parlor, that a copy be sent to the family of our departed sister and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication.
 JOSEPHINE CLARK,
 NELL REALY MOORE,
 GRETTA MURDEN,

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

WHETHER IT IS THE EFFECT OF prohibition or modern art, or the reaction of the advanced pace at which lives are being led, by way of compliment fashion has recognized the importance of personal settings, and devotes greater attention to costumes for the woman at home. Equally alluring are the picturesque hostess gowns and the new pajama types.

Fabrics which are most highly favored this season also have important bearing on fall negligee types. They are luxurious, and lend themselves readily to soft drapings. Chiffons, metal-lics, transparent velvets, laces and feather-weight matelasses are used, as is usually the case in the fall robes which are fashioned with warmth as the prime consideration.

Quilted crepe or satin robes, as well as more elaborate velvet types, endorse slightly fitted lines, so that a slim silhouette is achieved. Novel twisted belts fastened by buckles have been substituted for the proverbial tied silk cord, which was formerly considered an essential to heavy robes.

Negligees in dark colored crepe or satin are trimmed with a touch of contrasting self material at the neckline or on the sleeves, and are particularly suited to traveling. While the wrapped type of robe, in pastel crepe trimmed with alencon or bretonne lace, is adapted to the intimacy of the boudoir.

The style gossipers have determined to keep the problem of doubtful skirt lengths alive as long as possible, and have seized on the first mention of long skirts for evening. Twelve or fourteen inches from the floor is a fair average for the town costume. The same may be seen in sports skirts, but the afternoon frock must be longer than the street dress and shorter than the evening gown. Whether it is eight inches from the floor, or falls lower to reach the ankles, or has an uneven hemline may be determined to suit your own whim.

The variety of silks which are drawn into the fall style schedule with velvets and lames are accented for formal wear, and satins and heavier crepes for daytime. The luxurious broadcloths and velvety woollens as well as the rich mixtures are suitable backgrounds for the lavish appliques of trimmings.

Flat furs are suitable to the revival of the russian theme in costumes, where the peplum, fur-bordered velvets and soft lames supply the quality in the formal effect demanded by the late afternoon frock.

More assertive metal or faconne silks qualify for the tunic blouse, which is also related to the russian inspiration. Chiffons, nets and laces are supplied to the ruffled and flounced modes. Luxurious brocades, velvets, quilted taffetas and velveteens are the fabrics which claim special adaptability to evening wraps.

The wardrobe of the Russian peasant provides interesting ideas in fall coat developments. The lines of the coat provide inspiration for fitted, flaring, fur bordered models. Tunic coats meet requirements for winter models that generously employ fur, maintaining slender lines at waist and hips.

It seems early to be suggesting fur trimmed garments, as we are aware that summer clothes are to be worn here far into the autumn. As a matter of fact, we may as well realize that September and even October often are our warmest months, so do not discard your summer clothing too soon.

Velvets, both in black and white, are prime materials for the new contour hats, and it is predicted that later in the season touches of other color may be added by those who are not fond of the neutral in garments or hats.

Women are prone to demand the most flattering features possible to place near their own features, and nearly everyone has a favorite color, in this color age.

Vying with hats of up- or down-turned brims, are those contour hats shaped to exactly outline the cranium, and fashioned from velvet, ribbon or other pliant material. These hats are moulded upon the head, and thus attain individuality supreme. They are likely to prove favorites with those who enjoy expression of personality through headwear.

For the young girl going to school, the utility coat of camel's hair is comfy for the football season, in the accepted nutria and brown shades.

Say Smart Shoes to Smart Bags—
"Let's Be Similar!"

And Dame Fashion, overhearing, immediately decrees snake bags with reptile shoes—and how women love the combination! Snake is durable, aside from its popularity, and these bags are surprisingly inexpensive—factors which account for the number Coulter's is selling for Fall.

Berets repeat the fabric of sports or utility dresses, or coat. One must be had for every costume. The long coat has a matching skirt, a wool lace blouse and sports dresses.
 Velvet and velveteen are introduced on the woolen daytime dress as buttons, collar, cuffs or belt.
 Jumper frocks of wool have silk or light-weight jersey blouses, and shorter sweaters with wide ribbed hem and stripes near the hemline.

HOME BEAUTIFUL
 CHAIRMAN GRAND PARLOR HOME COM.)
 The rooms of the Native Daughter Home, 555 Baker street, San Francisco, still remain occupied, and the waiting list is increasing. Many visitors from all parts of the state have enrolled. All express their pleasure at the pleasing ensemble that meets the eye—the lovely stenciled walls, the beautiful lounge with its court garden, the engaging older women there, the efficient director, and the charming young girls who make their home there. Everyone is determined to give to the Home that beautiful spirit WITHIN the Home which makes a home different from any other place on earth. All are equal, there are no slaves, nor esnes, nor lords!

We must express here our great regret at the demise of one of the greatest Californians. It is not an exaggeration to say that James Duval Phelan, loved Californian, was one of the most cultured men we have ever had. His language was always expressive, beautiful in its symmetry and grammatical construction. His assistance to art and music made California more lovely and alluring. He promised to visit our Home, but illness interfered. An outstanding figure always, he will be missed in the nation. For the sake of civilization, God grant we may have many more men like him!

Donations to the Home to August 1, 1930, and not previously mentioned in The Grizzly Bear, are as follows:

DIPPING PRUNES FOR DRYING.
 Prunes as they come from the dipping vat should be well checked, but not ragged. Usually, about two pounds of lye or caustic soda in 100 gallons of boiling water will give the desired result, provided the water is kept boiling during the dipping. If the water is cooler, more lye may be needed, perhaps four or five times as much. Observe the prunes as they come from the vat. If they are not well checked, see that the water is boiling. If they then are not satisfactory, add more lye.

APPLY SPRAYS PROPERLY.

One of the greatest economic losses in agriculture is that from insects and plant diseases. It is estimated that the annual bill for insecticides and fungicides is $10,000,000, and that insects alone cause damage amounting to $2,000,000,000 annually, destroying from one-tenth to one-fifth of all crops. The loss from pests can be reduced by proper control measures; the cost of control can be reduced by proper application. Proper application of arsenate of lead for codling moth, for instance, would give a 90 percent control and make but one more application necessary. Some growers use five sprays for this pest. Proper application is more than two-thirds of the problem of control. This tremendous economic loss can be vastly reduced by proper methods.

In Memoriam

ENNIO B. MARTINELLI.
Whereas, Divine Providence has seen fit, in its wisdom, to call from our midst our late brother and past president, Ennio B. Martinelli; and whereas, since departing from our midst, his family has lost a devoted, kind and loving father, the community one of its most upright, honorable and unflinching civic workers, and the legal profession one of its leaders; and
Whereas, He was a true and loyal Native Son of the State of California and rendered invaluable service to this Parlor; while one of the officers of this Parlor he performed his official duties in a manner which reflected credit not only upon the Parlor but upon himself; always during his membership he exemplified in the highest degree loyalty in his citizenship and in his obligations to this Parlor; at all times he rendered sympathy, aid and comfort to the members thereof who were in need of the same, sharing their sorrows and rejoicing with them in their joys; now, therefore, be it Resolved, by Mount Tamalpais Parlor No. 64 of the Native Sons of the Golden West, that it sincerely extends to the family of our late brother its sincerest sympathy in their loss, and expresses to them by this resolution its regard and its esteem for our brother member; that the charter of this Parlor be draped for a period of thirty days in respect to his memory, that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of this Parlor and also be published in our official magazine, and that a copy also be sent to the family of our departed member.

A BIT O' FARMING

PREPARED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY M. H. ELLIS

THE CRUCIAL POINT IN CO-OPERATIVE marketing in California has been reached; the acid test of the movement is to be made. With more than the required 85 percent of the grape crop in California signed for marketing under the Federal Farm Board plan, friends, enemies and neutrals will watch with interest the outcome of one of the most ambitious and carefully considered and designed plans that ever has been tried in the agricultural history of the country.

C. C. Teague, member of the farm board and head of two of California's successful co-operatives—the Fruit Growers Exchange and the Walnut Growers Association—is responsible for the plan. The Federal Farm Board is backing it, with money. All kinds of grapes are to be delivered—juice, table and raisin. Interdependent as they are, any one of the three could easily break the market for the others. And now it appears that the surplus, estimated at 300,000 tons, will exceed that figure. This means that an additional amount must be diverted to by-products and to feed channels.

It was no easy matter to sign grape growers for the experiment; similar experiments had been tried before. But the realization that with a huge surplus sure to come this year, something must be done, they finally were convinced that the plan was worth a trial. So it will be tried. Success means the progress of co-operative marketing of farm products in the state; failure means a blow that will be near the death. While the Federal Farm Board is aiding other California co-operatives, interest centers in the grape situation, and the co-operative movement is to be fought out this year in the vineyards of the state.

PLANTING ARTICHOQUES.

There are several vegetables that can be planted or set out in the vegetable garden this month; important among these is the artichoke. Artichoke suckers may be planted in the north coast district now, but in the south coast it will be better to wait another month; in the interior valleys January and February are the best months to plant. Green Globe is the best variety, planted five feet apart in the rows; rows should be six feet apart. The artichoke is one of the easiest vegetables to raise, and in recent years the buds have become very popular as their merits have become known. There is but one pest affecting the plant that causes considerable damage—the plume moth. The larvae of this moth may eat holes in the buds. Control is rather easy through dusting plants with a mixture of five parts air-slaked lime and one part arsenate of lead. The stalks should be cut close to the crown in winter, but care must be taken not to damage the roots or embryo stalks. Burn all refuse from the artichokes so that any larvae may be destroyed.

SAVE BLACK WALNUTS.

With the development of a cracking and extracting machine that will handle black walnuts, these nuts have assumed a value that bids fair to make them profitable. Graded and packed, the meats of black walnuts command good prices; the confectionery and baking trade are unable to secure enough to meet demands. Always one of the most delicious of nuts, the black walnut has been almost impossible to handle because of its hard, thick shell. With that difficulty overcome, the owners of thousands of these beautiful trees may reap a profit from them in addition to the shade they always have furnished.

FEEDING PIGS.

There is in California an increasing number of pigs that get off feed, grow thin and weak, and then die. This condition often is mistaken for necrotic enteritis, the symptoms being much the same. Whatever the ailment, proper diet, if given in time, will usually restore the pigs to health within three or four weeks. The following ration is recommended: barley, 86 pounds; alfalfa hay, 5 pounds; linseed oil meal or cottonseed meal, 2 pounds; tankage or fishmeal, 5 pounds; air-slaked lime or ground oyster shell flour, 1 pound; salt, 1 pound.

VACCINATION FOR TUBERCULOSIS.

Vaccination of calves with BCG tends to check tuberculosis, but does not prevent it, according to tests that have been made by the veterinary science division of the University of California. If there is an effort being made to clean up the herd and to eradicate tuberculosis, BCG will not be effective. Where eradication seems a long way off and control measures in use are not satisfactory, such vaccination may be of benefit. It usually prevents fatalities, even though cattle may be affected with tuberculosis.

YELLOW S OF KALE.

Yellows of kale, a plant used extensively for greens in the poultry ration, cannot be controlled by spraying, dusting or other treatment. The disease is similar to cabbage yellows in other states and here, as there, the only means of control seems to be through the breeding of resistant strains. Several resistant strains are being developed in the Petaluma, Sonoma County, district, by selection of seed from plants least affected. The disease is caused by a parasitic fungus, soil borne; it is carried to new localities by transplants.

KEEP TURKEYS GROWING.

Most, probably all, turkey raisers feed their birds enough to keep them alive. But the profit is not there, it is in the feed the birds consume above what they need for maintenance. Time is an important element in the production of turkeys; every day until the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays must be utilized in bringing the fowls along as rapidly as possible. Every day the flock is fed without making a maximum gain is mighty poor economy in feed. Only prime turkeys will make the best returns, and there is little enough profit even then. Poor turkeys bring poor prices and little profit. There is little enough time to develop first-class turkeys by market season; delaying development by insufficient feed merely shortens the time. Moreover, well-fed turkeys will be found to have a better resistance to disease. Feeding pays.

LIGHTS FOR POULTRY.

The controversy on electric lights as an aid for egg production still goes on. There are those who say that actual observations made in California prove that lights not only do not add eggs to the basket, but that they bring eggs along when prices are not at the peak. They claim that careful comparisons of lighted and unlighted laying houses show those hens not forced with lights to be making the greatest profit. On the other hand, champions of lights assert that under proper conditions and with the proper lighting setup, lights never have failed to give good returns on the investment. Until the experts can agree definitely, it will be well for the poultryman to go slow in making expensive additions to his equipment. He might well do a little experimenting of his own to find what results he can obtain, before lighting his entire house.

CONTROL OF BLACK SCALE.

Black scale is a citrus pest of no mean proportions, particularly in the southern part of the state. In the central and northern sections, the pest has not established itself in such dangerous proportions. In the south, early fumigation is to be recommended, unless this has proved unsatisfactory. In that event, oil sprays should be used. Fumigation now, and an oil spray in the late fall, is a good program in heavily infested districts. Where there is less difficulty, oil sprays used within two weeks should be satisfactory.

In the northern and central districts, an oil spray should work out well; in fact, whale oil soap probably will be sufficient if the infestation is as light as it is to be expected in those districts. The scale are hatched in summer and are easier to destroy now than later. Of course, certain districts have their own problems with black scale, and in those places it is usually safe to follow the prevailing practice, which probably will be a slight variation of the program outlined.

GET PEACH BORERS NOW.

This is the time to get peach borers, if the soil is dry. If it has been irrigated, wait until two weeks have elapsed from the time of water application. For best results, the soil must be warm and dry. Level the ground about the tree, but do not dig away any soil from the crown. Spread a ring of paradichlorobenzene, or P.D.B. as it is more generally known, around the trunk, two or three inches from the bark. Don't let the crystals touch the tree. Then pile up a mound of dirt, six to ten inches about the tree, firming it with the back of the shovel. Use about an ounce of P. D. B. to the ordinary tree. The chemical gives off heavy fumes which penetrate the soil and kill the embryo borers. It costs but a few cents per tree for the treatment, material and labor considered.

STORAGE OF APPLES.

Before apples are stored in bins, or before they are packed in boxes, all containers should be carefully and thoroughly sterilized to destroy germs, mold and rot spores. Sodium hypochlorite will be found just about as good as anything for this purpose, if the directions of the manufacturer are followed in diluting the substance for use. Bins, trays, boxes and processing machinery that may have carried over infection from last year should be given vigorous treatment.

FALL IRRIGATION.

The fruit tree does not drop off into immediate dormancy when its crop is picked; it goes ahead living, storing up food and preparing buds for the next year's crop. To do this it must eat and drink, just as it does during the spring and summer. Food it can find for itself, but water is a more difficult matter in most parts of the state where irrigation brings the only moisture to the soil at this season of the year. If the trees begin dropping their leaves and looking dormant at this season, it is more than likely they are merely drying up. Get a soil auger and find out what the moisture conditions of the orchard are. The trees are going to need water during the winter, even if they are not suffering now, and a thorough irrigation will be of benefit unless for some reason the soil is already wet.

BLOSSOM-END ROT OF TOMATOES.

Blossom-end rot of tomatoes is quite likely to appear at this season of the year, if already it has not done so during or following a spell of unusually hot weather. It is caused by the heat, and is most frequent where the vines are the most luxuriant in their growth. The trouble is that a sudden hot spell causes excessive transpiration through the leaves, and the roots cannot draw moisture from the soil fast enough to replace the moisture in the plants. Consequently the foliage draws upon the fruit for moisture, and end rot is the result—a brownish-gray spot on the blossom end, flat or sunken. It is not the result of disease, fungus or pest; the remedy is the restoring of the balance of water movement within the plant by return of normal weather. If vines are not forced for growth in the early season, or are kept pinched back to prevent excessive growth and leaf development, the trouble may be avoided to some extent.

DUST SEED GRAIN NOW.

Seed grain that is to be treated with copper carbonate dust as a protection against smut, may well be given its treatment right now. The dusting does not hurt the viability of the seed; it does protect it against insects such as the grain weevil, the flour beetle and the grain moth. In any event, the seed must be treated; by treating it now not only is bunt or stinking smut prevented, but it is safeguarded from insect attack until planting time.

U. S. C. TO OPEN NEW EDUCATIONAL PLANT EMBODYING Many New Features

COVERING HALF A BLOCK, AND HOUSing many unique features, the new physical education building at the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, will open for the fall semester, according to Professor William Ralph LaPorte, chairman of the physical education department. The semester opens September 15.

"An educational plant capable of taking care of the newer type of physical education must be more comprehensively equipped than in former days. It can no longer be considered merely a place in which to exercise, but must be capable of satisfying the composite physical, mental and social needs of students. It must also appeal to their artistic and aesthetic sense, and at the same time be strongly utilitarian," states Professor LaPorte.

"Physical education in its modern conception is more or less a newcomer in the educational curriculum. True, it has been present in most school programs in some form and under some name for generations, either as an exercise or 'energy release' medium. As an integral part of a sound educative procedure, however, it is hardly out of swaddling clothes.

"Perhaps the most typical early conception of physical education credited exercise as a panacea for all ills. Medical men recognized that exercise was not a panacea and they felt that those who claimed to be physical educators were stepping out of the educator's field and into the realm of the therapist. In more recent years, however, progressive educators have confined their efforts to the educational field and are leaving all problems of health control, disease prevention and health advice to medical specialists, where it naturally belongs.

"Among early developments in physical education came the play movement in which emphasis was placed on the values of play as an educative medium and the significance of play for leisure time and recreational purposes. Along with this grew the athletic movement which started spontaneously among student groups in colleges and secondary schools and later developed to such proportions that institutional administrators were forced, in self defense, to assume responsibility, so that today athletics of the interschool type and of the intramural type constitute important divisions of physical education in most institutions.

"Later came the war with its demoralizing and devastating influences. Out of the turmoil, however, came the startling statistical record that an unbelievably large percentage of men were unfit to serve adequately in times of peace.
The blame for this unfitness was laid to inadequate training and education in skilled physical activities with the attendant inadequate development of organic capacities as these influenced health, together with definite structural and organic defects as these influenced healthful living or efficient expression.

"Realization of these inadequacies aroused educators throughout the country to a sense of the need for a more comprehensive program of corrective and developmental physical activities as well as closer supervision of health conditions.

"A factor probably more significant than all others in determining the trend in modern physical education was the development of newer educational psychology as represented in the theories of Dewey, Kilpatrick and others—namely, the conception that the child is the product of activity, and his educational development is modified by every influence and every activity in which he participates. This conception places a tremendous responsibility on the individual responsible for the physical activities which involve intensive social contact under strong emotional tension, and involving fundamentally instinctive reactions. It suggests that if properly organized a physical education program under the right kind of leadership can mould and influence very profoundly the young citizen of tomorrow. The objective of such a program is to provide social-physical activity situations in which the student will have opportunity to set naturally and spontaneously in activities under conditions which are physically, morally and socially sound, safe and stimulating.

"The newer conception of physical education considers it not a subject, but a field of education, a division of a larger field which includes all education. It is our hope that the new physical education building at the University of Southern California will make it possible for this institution to realize such a conception of physical education. In order to achieve this end, it has been planned that the building will provide attractive and adequate facilities to serve specific functions.

"We feel that with the well-appointed building at the corner of Thirty-sixth and Hoover streets, Los Angeles, the University of Southern California will be in a position to occupy an outstanding place in the promotion of a newer program of physical education in line with the finest modern conception of education through the medium of physical activities." Professor LaPorte is vice-president of the National Society of Directors of Physical Education in Colleges.

"PONY" GOLF GROWS IN TWO YEARS TO IMPORTANT INDUSTRY.

All-year outdoor use of miniature golf courses may be made practicable through the use of cotton duck or canvas enclosures, according to a suggestion made in connection with the studies of new uses for cotton by the Federal Commerce Department's textile division. A statement of August 9 regarding these enterprises says:

Enthusiasm for the novel sport of "wee links" has grown by leaps and bounds within the short period of two years. Starting with one or two courses in 1928, the number of these "pony" golf courses has shown a phenomenal rise to over 25,000 courses throughout the country with a value of over $125,000,000. The growth has been particularly rapid this year.

The development of this new sport—and the reception it has been accorded by the American public—has given employment to thousands in upward of a dozen trades. With its expansion the new industry is focusing attention upon the problems raised by varying conditions. The majority of the courses now operating have yet to span the inclement seasons of late fall, winter and early spring, and the difficulties created by wet, cold and snow.

Superintendents' Meet—City, county and district school superintendents of the state will have their annual meeting at Lake Tahoe, September 29 to October 3.

ECHOES FROM THE LONG AGO

Marguerite Bovee

IT WAS NIGH UNTO FIFTY YEARS AGO since the once-notorious Nigger Tent flourished in the timbered hills of Sierra County around and near the old Florida House. There are few living who could give details regarding this historic place. John Yore, who lately met his demise in an automobile accident, was one of the most likely to remember the old hostelry. He spent the greater part of his life at the Sleighville House, recently passed into other hands, but it is not known if any records were left.

The Nigger Tent came into the limelight in the late '70s and early '80s, when a series of express robberies occurred in that vicinity. The Romargi family lived there, and suspicion was directed toward the young grandson of the house, Algie Romargi. He was arrested and brought to trial in Downieville, a then lively town flush with the returns from the many rich gravel and hydraulic mines of the district. This happens to have been the first contact the writer had with these people, and only then indirectly, having attended the trial of young Romargi at intervals.

Old Mother Romargi fought with desperation, as did Jennie, the fourteen-year-old sister of Algie Romargi, but a swift verdict sent him to San Quentin, where he died a few years later. Jennie was a vivid element in the tense spirit of tragedy that attended the trial; black-eyed and with curly ebon hair, her garb a dark suit of boy's clothing, she moved about the dramatic setting with lightning diversity. But the trial ended, and the actors departed on their way. That there was some cessation of tragic events in the neighborhood goes without saying, although one or two unsolved murders and robberies were staged in that vicinity during later years.

The writer of this narrative pens only her own experiences with these people—experiences which began a few years later when she linked her future with a cattleman engaged in the stock business. It was necessary to move stock from the mountains to the foothills, and vice versa, at each season, a practice still in use, but vastly devoid of the rigors and the trials of that period. The Nigger Tent was provided with strong corrals to hold large bands of cattle and horses, and also had fine water and plenty of it, a necessity on the long, dusty drives. Stockmen made every effort to reach this excellent stopping place, notwithstanding the shady character of the roadhouse. Old Mother Romargi always had a good meal for the men and decent sleeping quarters, and only on one occasion did they experience any uncanny happening.

This occurred one night about midnight, when my husband, his uncle and the drivers were aroused by the furious barking of the dogs and the bellowing of the disturbed cattle. Hastily they flung on their clothes and rushed out, only to be met in the outer room by Mother Romargi, who stayed them with uplifted hand and said warningly, "Boys, if you value your lives don't go out!" The men remonstrated, fearing the loss of horses and saddles, but she stood her ground firmly and promised, "Boys, for my sake, stay in and go back to bed. I give you my word that nothing of yours will be touched, but don't go out there!" They finally obeyed, and in the morning everything was found as they had left it, and there was no trace of anything unusual around the place. What transpired that night was never known, but every man there corroborated the story.

Jennie was married and away before this time, so no suspicion was directed toward her. In fact, despite a hectic career there was no particular crime attached to her, and of her kindness of heart more may be written later. I write only of my own experience with these outlaw people, and write in the first person, as it makes my story clearer.

BAYARD WOOTEN, Manager

For thirteen years I rode the highways, both by stage and by horseback, and my first night spent at the Nigger Tent was a nightmare, despite my husband's soothing, for I feared we would be murdered. However, Old Mother Romargi took very kindly to me, and a queer friendship ripened with the years. I grew to believe her more sinned against than sinning, and found a kind heart under the rugged exterior.

One day we arrived there at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, a cold, snowy, freezing day, and I was lifted from the saddle half frozen. She came running out, took me into the house, removed my shoes, and set before me a plate of the hottest soup I ever ate, fiery with red peppers and just off the stove. When we resumed our journey an hour later I was warm and the sun was out. I never forgot the comfort of that short visit, and she told me then she always had a kettle of soup for the stage drivers who made her kitchen their station. As she grew poorer, they each day brought her the meat and the vegetables to furnish them soup and also to feed her, for they, like myself, owed her more than one debt of gratitude.

Old Dave Quadlan, Gaffney, Harry Wyrick and a host of others I knew, and rode with them all. One cold morning I boarded the stage at Downieville with a downy bundle, my baby girl, in my arms. Old Dave looked pretty grumpy, and not once did he cast a glance toward my sleeping bundle. Next morning, when we again boarded the stage for Marysville, old Dave said to the stage agent, "That's the best damn kid I ever saw. No matter how old she gets she can always ride with me and never cost her a cent." This was a relief to me, for I thought I was in disgrace with Dave, but he kept his word, and for over ten years she rode the stage line and never paid a fare.

So it was with Jennie and Old Mother Romargi. Whenever we stopped at Nigger Tent they both rushed out to get the baby, who was carefully handed down from the high old coach to Dave, who gingerly handed her to the two women, who kissed and petted and brought her milk and cookies enough for four children. It was a bright hour in their poor lives when the little one was aboard the stage, and they watched each day when they knew the time for her reappearance had come.

One day Mother Romargi told me of her early life. She said she was born of good parents in the South. "Sunny South Carolina, dearie," she said. "My mother would turn in her grave if she knew what a life I was brought into. I was a seamstress in a nice family in South Carolina, and that old devil came back there. He told me of his fine home here and wrote me such promising letters that I believed him and came here. And look what I found!" and she cursed old man Romargi, then about eighty, most roundly.

That she grieved bitterly for her grandson and his wrecked life there is no doubt, and the dark days came along with age. To Harry Wyrick and several of the stage drivers and teamsters she owed much, but at last her health failed, and she was taken to the county hospital in Downieville.

I had not seen her for a long time, but one day as I went by the Forest stage to the Mountain House on my way to Downieville, to my surprise she was on the Camptonville stage enroute to the hospital. She hated to go there, but told me of her failing health and showed me her feet swollen and encased in men's gum boots cut off half-way to the knee, and without stockings. I asked her if she had no stockings, and she replied, "Oh, yes, dearie, in my trunk," but I knew her pride and kept silent.

She worried over having to occupy quarters at the hospital with the men patients, and kept asking me if they would give her a room to herself. I comforted her as best I could in my ignorance, and as we neared Downieville, about sundown, she leaned over and whispered, "Dearie, I am going to ask you to go with me to the hospital. I'm a woman, after all, and I dread to face all those men." For a wee moment I hesitated, then I said, "Yes, Mrs. Romargi, I will go with you." I felt that I owed her more than I owed society, who might jeer, and I was glad afterward that I went.

When we got to Downieville the stage pulled up at the hotel and as they brought the step-ladder for us to dismount, old Uncle Jack Wolf, now close to ninety, came running out. He was my mother's uncle by marriage, and like a grandfather to me. He essayed to help me out, but I told him my errand to the hospital and he laughed delightedly and climbed into the stage with, "By golly, I'm going too."

Before we reached our journey's end I asked Mother Romargi if she had need of anything. She whispered very low, "Dearie, if you could get me a little tobacco. Maybe they won't give a woman chewing tobacco in the place where I am going." She had contracted the tobacco habit from dipping snuff. I reassured her, and we found a tiny cabin prepared for her with a little stove, a big rocker and a clean bed; her meals were to be served there also. She was happy and delighted, and I left her there. Next day I bought her two pairs of large cotton hose and three plugs of chewing tobacco and entrusted them to Uncle Jack to deliver to her, which he did.

Old Mother Romargi "went West" soon after, and I often wonder if she chewed all the tobacco before she passed on. She sleeps near the banks of the mystic and beautiful Yuba, whose softly flowing waters seem to sing a requiem of the past to those who lived, and loved, and sinned, and died beside its waters.

INTERNATIONAL ROAD CONGRESS.

Motorists the world over have a direct interest in the deliberations of the sixth annual session of the International Association of Road Congresses, to be held at Washington, D. C., in October. Leading highway engineers of the world will assemble for an interchange of ideas bearing on various phases of modern highway development.

At least sixty nations are expected to take part in the event. As a result of the sessions, it is anticipated new stimulus will be given to highway betterments all over the world.

AMERICAN MANUFACTURE AUTOS IS A LONG ARCH OF PROGRESS.

"In the thirty-five years of its history, the American automobile industry has presented to the public 640 different makes of passenger cars, most of which have contributed valuable technical experience to make possible the high degree of mechanical perfection of the forty-five standard makes which are being manufactured in this country today," according to an announcement of the Federal Commerce Department's automotive division.

Thus by trial and error, elimination of cars for which the popular demand has waned, and persistent introduction of model after model, the industry has sounded the depths of market demand. Hundreds of models and makes have come and gone to give the present-day automobile driver a finished automotive unit. Each attempt, fruitless or successful, of the hundreds of American companies which manufactured a motor car since 1895 represented a step forward in the search for efficient transportation.

From one to fifty-one new cars have been introduced in the United States every year, except one, since the "Haynes-Apperson" and the "Pope-Hartford" first made their appearance in 1895. Of 186 makes introduced before 1905, 11 are in existence today. Between that year and 1910, inclusive, 129 more makes were introduced, of which 5 remain today. From the end of 1910 to the end of 1920 another 167 makes were manufactured and of those, 11 are still on the market. During the next 10 years only 77 cars appeared, but 13 of those are still in public demand.

It is a long arch of progress from the chain-drive, low-powered, slow motor cars with rear tonneau entrance which plied the streets of America in the late nineties to the silent, swift, graceful and highly efficient passenger car of 1930, but each laborer and technician who helped to manufacture the 640 different makes of automobiles which appeared in the intervening years contributed to that development. Without the experience gained by those repeated attempts to capture the public automotive demand there could not have been the vast total of more than 29,000,000 passenger cars which are registered today throughout the world. Nor could Americans alone be operating today more than 23,000,000 passenger cars instead of the relatively few thousands which were on the streets at the beginning of the century.

Today throughout the world nearly 35,000,000 motor vehicles of all kinds, passenger cars, trucks and buses, are moving human beings and commodities at a rate of speed many times as rapidly as the slow-moving equipage traveled in the motorless era. The economic value of that expedition of transport in an age when speed is an essential part of industrial and commercial life is obvious. It can be said without doubt that the early automobile and the vision and determination of the early pioneers in the American automobile industry are very largely responsible for one of the most essential elements in our modern economic life.

Universal interest is being shown in that great movement for more and better highways, which means that motor transport will continue to grow in every land, and that the highly efficient American product, already well and favorably known throughout the world, will play a most important part in that development.

Many Kept Employed—The Automobile Club of Southern California estimates that 358,103 workers in California derive employment, directly or indirectly, from motor vehicles.

WORLD'S FIRST AUTO BUILT IN FRANCE, MANY, MANY YEARS AGO.

Who had the first automobile in the world, is a question frequently incorrectly answered, according to authoritative records recently unearthed.

The first auto which actually ran was built in France between 1760 and 1770 by Captain Nicholas Joseph Cugnot. It was propelled by steam.

The first gasoline operated auto in America was Charles Duryea's "Buggyaut," which came out in 1892. Henry Ford's first car followed in 1893, and in 1894 came Elwood Haynes' machine. In 1892 an electric auto, built by William Morris of Des Moines, Iowa, was sold to a Chicagoan.

GOOD AND BAD DRIVING.

What is courteous driving? It is the kind that gives way to the car climbing a steep hill or to the less-experienced driver, or the kind that stops to let a bewildered pedestrian reach the other side. Such courteous driving is good driving.

Anyone may learn the actual handling of an auto, but the good driver has something more than just sureness of foot and hand. At a boulevard stop a motorist may come to a standstill, as required by law, and then instantly force his way so aggressively that drivers of dozens of vehicles are compelled to slam on their brakes to avoid an accident. That is not good driving.

NO PAY—NO LICENSE.

As a result of California's "motorists' responsibility" law, passed by the last Legislature, 208 auto drivers had their licenses revoked during the first six months of 1930 by the State Division of Motor Vehicles. They were unable to pay damages arising from accidents for which they were responsible.

The law, which became effective August 14, 1929, provides that when an auto operator fails to pay a property-damage or a personal-injury judgment exceeding $100 his license and auto registration may be revoked.

1931 LICENSE PLATES.

The 1931 colors for auto license plates will be exactly the same as this year, except that they will be reversed—orange letters upon a black background.

The only change in the general appearance of next year's plates will be the elimination of the dashes between numerals and letters. This will not decrease visibility, and will improve the plates' appearance.

STATE DIVIDES WITH COUNTIES.

The State Division of Motor Vehicles has apportioned to the fifty-eight counties of the state, for repair and maintenance of roads, $3,083,577.26 of the $8,810,220.74 motor-vehicle registration fees collected during the first six months of 1930.

Los Angeles County, with 40 percent of the fee-paying vehicles, received by far the largest sum, $1,259,315.56. The smallest amount, $142.58, went to Alpine County, with 91 registrations.

Look Both Ways—It always is a wise idea to slow down and look both ways before crossing a railroad track. Wigwags and automatic signals have been placed at practically all hazardous crossings in California so that motorists who drive with care need not run afoul of railroad trains.

Speed Makes Mourners—"Speed at blind corners makes many mourners," was the August slogan of the California Public Safety Committee's campaign to reduce the number of motor-vehicle casualties.

Fatalities Increase—Deaths from motor-vehicle accidents in California increased 5.5 percent during the first six months of 1930. In the same period motor-vehicle registrations increased 6 percent.

Desirable Effect—Many motor troubles may be traced to cylinder wear. Regrinding of cylinders has a desirable effect on a car's power, in that it restores the engine to normal condition.

Proper Signal—Give the left turn signal, if about to pass another car, is the advice of the California Highway Patrol to motorists.

Mileage Increases—Motor tourists of today are averaging 300 miles per day, whereas those of three years ago made 200 miles.

Check Plugs—Check the spark plugs in the last 5,000 miles or so and notice the difference in starting and pickup.

SONORA'S FIRST HANGING

THE "UNION-DEMOCRAT" OF Sonora, Tuolumne County, with the issue of July 5 began its seventy-seventh year of continuous publication. It was founded July 1, 1854, and has always been issued from its present location. Its files contain a wealth of Tuolumne County history that could not possibly be obtained from any other reliable source.

The following, relating to Sonora's first hanging, was taken from the old files of the "Union-Democrat" and appeared in the July 5 issue with this introduction:

"Tuolumne County was, during its early history, as prolific of wild and terrible episodes as any in the state, not excepting San Francisco when the bloody veil was drawn so close about her face in the dark days of the Vigilance Committee. Scenes were enacted here that, we hope, will never occur again, scenes that bear with them the deepest disgrace to civilization and even to a community in which there were no regularly organized courts of law."

The state of society in this county previous to June 1851 was of such character that life and property were hardly worth a pinch of gold dust, and men thought no more of a cold-blooded murder or a wholesale robbery than they do now of the ordinary incidents of life. This was especially the case in the more thickly settled portions of the county, in the vicinity of Sonora, Columbia, Chinese Camp and what was known as Campo Seco. In fact, crime became so rampant that the citizens of the county began to form vigilance committees, hoping to suppress the lawlessness by swift and summary measures.

Thursday, June 26, 1851, James Hill, a desperate fellow altogether too lazy to aspire to the dishonors of a full-fledged desperado, entered the store of B. A. Mardis in Campo Seco armed with a revolver and a bowie-knife. Mardis was in his bunk at the time and Hill told him as he came in that if he opened his eyes he would blow his brains out, and Mardis could do no better than obey under the circumstances. Hill robbed the safe and decamped. The people had come to the conclusion that patience had ceased to be a virtue, and they gathered in force for the purpose of making an example of this thief.

Accordingly, Friday, June 27, they surrounded his cabin, arrested him and brought him before acting Judge John Ward at Campo Seco. The crowd present acted as a jury, and after hearing the testimony bearing directly on the theft and which conclusively determined the guilt of Hill, the question was put to a vote and a verdict of guilty rendered against him, the judgment of the court being that he be hung by the neck until he was dead, sentence to be executed forthwith. At this stage of the proceedings Sheriff George Work appeared upon the scene with a large posse. The sheriff had the tact and energy to obtain a re-vote on the question of Hill's fate, and as his posse voted against hanging immediately, the vigilantes were decidedly in the minority. They did not, however, intend to allow their victim to escape so easily, and had it not been for Work's promptness would undoubtedly have carried out their purpose as they intended.

Watching his opportunity, Work suddenly caught Hill around the waist and, being a very powerful man, threw him upon a horse, mounting upon the same animal himself. Drawing a revolver, which he cocked, the resolute sheriff put spurs to his horse and dashed through the crowd. Deputy Sheriff William Ford and a noted character called "Stud Horse Boh" covered his retreat with drawn revolvers. The excitement was intense, and the shots flew thick and fast. One of the parties, who was to act as executioner, was thrown into the grave which had been excavated under the tree from which the fatal noose was hanging, and a notorious female rolled down the hill and lustily shouted for some one to save her from the fusillade of bullets whizzing around.

As soon as the would-be lynchers discovered their prey had fairly escaped them, for the time at least, they regretted they had allowed it with a howl that showed the intensity of their desire for vengeance on the wretch. A man named Cheatham, afterwards a general in the Confederate service, leaped upon his horse and dashed over the hills in the direction of Sonora, his intention being to carry the news of the affair to that place and arouse the people to a point of excitement equal to that of the Campo Seco court. And he succeeded in his efforts, for it so happened that the night before an attempt had been made to fire the town and, as a consequence, the large congregation of people who always assembled in Sonora on Sunday were ripe for a tragic scene.

Immediately on arrival of Cheatham with the highly colored account of the excitement in Campo Seco, the people organized and resolved to detail armed parties of men to watch the various approaches to the town and intercept the sheriff and his posse. Work had, in the meantime, approached very near town and hoped to gain the jail unmolested. The party sent to guard the forks of the road near the jail was headed by Cheatham and a Scotch Highlander named McDonald, the latter a tall, powerful, resolute man who, when Work and his posse approached, demanded the prisoner, Hill. Work refused to surrender him, and for a time it appeared as if hot work was about to commence between the two bodies of men. McDonald and Cheatham gave the word to charge and capture Hill by force. Work drew his revolver and prepared to defend his prisoner, but the leaders of the mob shouted to him not to act the fool, and seeing that further resistance would be attended with heavy loss of life on both sides, besides the fact that the people were thoroughly exasperated and excited, made no further resistance to their demands.

Hill was then carried into town, a rope procured and an attempt made to hang him to the limb of a white-oak tree, but it was discovered, after experimenting with the writhing wretch, that it could not be accomplished with facility. The doomed man was then dragged, with the rope around his neck, to a black-oak. Here the rope was again thrown over a limb and a long line of men drew the body up, limp and lifeless, for in their first attempt to hang him, and their subsequent efforts to drag him to the black-oak, they had choked him to death. The crowd, glutted with their terrible work, left the body swinging from the limb and early the next morning a French baker, while delivering his bread, passed under the corpse, striking his basket against its feet. The astonished Frenchman turned suddenly and, with widely distended eyeballs, gazed an instant at the horrible object swinging to and fro in the gray of early dawn. Before he could scarcely comprehend even the horror which was being excited in his own breast, he had dropped his basket of bread and was fleeing on the wings of the wind, whithersoever chances might direct his footsteps.

And so died James Hill, the first man hung within the limits of Sonora. It is said that before his death he confessed to belonging to an organized gang of robbers and horse-thieves. Hill was not, however, the first man hung in the county, as many suppose. Two weeks previously, two Chilenos, the murderers of Captain Snow, were hung on Dragon Gulch, and three days before the hanging of Hill, William Bowen was hung on Curtis Creek for the shooting of his partner, A. Boggs, his executioners being the remainder of his partners. It may be as well to state that in the latter case Bowen was hung while Boggs was still alive, and we believe the latter ultimately recovered. These are the first instances of hangings, either by law or mob, in or near Sonora.

ENTHUSIASTIC.

Officers of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158 N.D.G.W. were installed by District Deputy Lindsay of Minerva Parlor No. 2, after which the social committee served a repast of homemade raviolas, which were enjoyed by all.

August 11 the Parlor initiated two candidates, daughters of members of the Parlor. Golden Gate's members are enthusiastic over the Admission Day, September 9, celebration and are busy getting ready for the parade.

EVENING OF MERRYMAKING.

Las Estrella Parlor No. 89 N.D.G.W. entertained for Grand Organist Lola Horgan with an evening of merrymaking. Many fascinating games were enjoyed. A tempting supper was served at tables beautifully decorated in pastel shades of orchid, pink and yellow, and pretty favors blended with the color scheme.

An interesting program was presented during the supper. The addresses were interspersed with several selections charmingly sung by Mrs. Eva Jones, and Mrs. Mary Crowney gave pleasing readings.

Mrs. Horgan, with her husband and youngest daughter, departed August 23 for an extended trip through the Panama Canal to Havana, and thence to New York. They will return through the states.

SEWING CLUB ENTERTAINED.

Officers of Dolores Parlor No. 169 N.D.G.W. were installed by Agnes McVerry, who has served the Parlor for the past fourteen years in the capacity of district deputy. Grand Vice-president Evelyn I. Carlson assisted at the ceremonies, and members of Dolores Parlor No. 208 N.S.G.W. were invited guests. Francis Duffy assumed the office of president, and briefly outlined her plans for the year. Refreshments served at prettily decorated tables concluded a very pleasant evening.

Members of the sewing club of Dolores, which meets twice a month, were guests of Amelia Silva at her beautiful country home at Atherton, San Mateo County, August 5. Luncheon was served at small tables set outdoors under large oaks, and the afternoon was spent sewing garments for the homeless children. Plans have been completed by No. 169 for participation in the Admission Day, September 9, parade along with Dolores Native Sons. Both Parlors will be well represented, and the costumes to be worn by the members of each will be most attractive.

VISITS ENJOYED.

Officers of Castro Parlor No. 178 N.D.G.W. were publicly installed by District Deputy Myrtle Ross, assisted by an efficient corps of officers, Elizabeth Wilson becoming president. Refreshments were served. Evidencing their activity, members of the Parlor recently made 136 garments for the homeless children. These, in a large hope chest, were presented at the Oakland Grand Parlor to Secretary Mary E. Bruise of the Central Committee.

July 29, the veteran welfare committee of the Parlor visited ward nineteen of Letterman Hospital with cigarettes, punch and cakes. A program of piano numbers, tap dancing and singing was presented. The patients look forward to and greatly enjoy these monthly visits. August 20, Castro initiated a large class of candidates. The drill team and members are very busy preparing to participate in the Admission Day, September 9, celebration.

CHARTER MEMBERS HONORED.

Sequoia Parlor No. 160 N.S.G.W. held its fortieth institution anniversary banquet in honor of the surviving charter members, July 21. As a special feature invitations were issued to, and accepted by, Past Grand President William H. Miller who, as Grand President, instituted the Parlor in 1890; William J. Wynn, the first district deputy; Walter T. Podd, the present district deputy; Junior Past Grand President Charles L. Dodge and Grand First Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez.

After a sumptuous repast, under the guidance of A. Gudehus as toastmaster, many memories were revived and new thoughts brought out. The addresses were interspersed with selections by a quartet of radio stars and, incidentally, they called themselves "The Sequoians." Like the Parlor, their performance was excellent.

As a surprise, a gold-plated enamel pin, suitably inscribed, was given to the following surviving charter members: Henry Louis Bacigalupi, Edward Samuel Batten, Richard William Collins, Daniel Samuel Curran, James Hugh Donohoe, John Morris Ferris, Joseph Augustine Fealy, William Edward Haley, William Edward Linsley, Nathaniel Stanwood Lock, David C. Broderick Murphy, William Henry Nussa, Edward Rondell, Diederich John Seegelken, William Washington Waters, Samuel Allen White and George William Yost.

NOT BAD FOR YOUNGSTER.

The afternoon and evening of Admission Day, September 9, Utopia Parlor No. 270 N.S.G.W. will maintain open house at its regular meeting place, Sunnyside Community Hall, 640 Monterey boulevard. Every one is invited. In the parade, the Parlor will be represented by its fifty-piece drum corps and seventy-five marchers. "Not bad for a 2 1/2-year-old baby!" says Secretary H. H. Schneider.

Utopia has an athletic committee, of which Timothy J. O'Leary is chairman, and it promotes boxing, baseball, football, basketball, swimming, etc. The Parlor's football team challenges that of any other Parlor, providing the revenue will be used for the benefit of the homeless children or some other worthy cause. Just communicate with Chairman O'Leary.

ARMY WORM INFESTATIONS.

While the memory of the army worm invasions is fresh in some parts of the state, it may be well to remember that the only means of control is in the winter. A clean-up of infested fields will kill the pupae hibernating there and reduce the next year's brood. Once the larvae, or worms, start out, there is little that can be done. Arsenical sprays and poison baits help some; trenches serve as barriers, particularly when filled with water; or the worms may be sprayed in them with oil or crushed with a roller. Don't leave refuse around in fields that were invaded this year; the clean-up habit is one of the best the farmer can acquire.

International Gathering—The International City Managers Association will have its annual convention at San Francisco, September 24-27.

CALIFORNIA'S WONDERLAND

CITY AND COUNTY

AN INSPIRATION FOR JUSTICE

AUGUST 11, LA MESA CLUB OF LOS ANGELES presented to department 17 of the Los Angeles County Superior Court, presided over by Judge J. Walter Hanby of Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W., a California State (Bear) Flag. The ceremonies were largely attended by Native Sons and Native Daughters. J. A. McNaughton, president La Mesa Club, made the presentation address, saying:

"If the court please, a delegation of La Mesa Club of Los Angeles, whose membership consists of native and adopted sons of California, have come here this morning to present to this department of the Superior Court the official state flag of California, the Bear Flag.

"The original of this flag was designed and made by Pioneers. Captain Ford suggested that a grizzly bear adorn the flag, as the majority of the revolutionists were bear hunters. It was made from a white petticoat, purchased from Miss Anna Frisbie, then a visitor in Sonoma. The artist was one William L. Todd, a kinsman of Abraham Lincoln. Facing the bear, a single star was placed, and under the bear was written 'Republic of California'; daubed across the entire length was a broad red stripe, which terminated the efforts of this modern Giotto.

"The effort was spontaneous—one to meet the supposedly urgent requirements of the moment. The 'Republic of California' must fling her motto to wave alike with the banners of the world in proclaiming liberty. Manifestly it was unlike the artistic touch of our great masters. Many expressed the opinion that the bear was a wild boar. The Spaniards called it 'la bandera cochi' (the pig flag), but whatever its resemblance or just criticisms, Todd wreathed his own fame with undying laurels, for this flag will live for all time, cherished in the bosom of all true Californians. The original was safeguarded in Sonoma for many seasons, until the Pioneer Society of California and the Native Sons and Native Daughters removed it to San Francisco, where it was destroyed in the disastrous fire of April 1906.

"This flag was unfurled to the breeze in Sonoma's quaint Plaza, June 14, 1846, in front of the last Franciscan mission, founded in 1823. A band of patriotic Americans, I may say unwittingly, forged a golden link connecting two memorable events in our state's history. July 9, 1846, Lieutenant Joseph Warren Revere lowered the Bear Flag and raised the Stars and Stripes at Sonoma, acting under orders of Commodore Sloat of the United States Navy.

"Our 'California Republic' lasted twenty-two days, for July 7, 1846, Commodore Sloat unfurled on California's soil, at Monterey, the American Flag, and laid claim to California as a United States possession. February 3, 1911, the Bear Flag was, by legislative enactment, adopted as the official state flag of California.

"In placing our state's official flag within this temple, we express the hope that its presence may be an inspiration for justice, tempered with mercy. It should recall the early, romantic history of our state; the sufferings and privations, the fortitude and bravery of the Pioneer Men and Women who laid the foundations of this Empire of the West and made this paradise possible for us of today.

"It should remind those who come here, seeking protection of our laws, that it is a real privilege to live within the confines of this mighty commonwealth, with its fertile valleys, gigantic forests and inexhaustible fountains of 'liquid gold;' to enjoy the beauties and resources with which a bounteous nature has endowed it. I now have the honor, in behalf of La Mesa Club, to present to you this Bear Flag, the official state flag of California."

NEW HOME A "DANDY."

Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 N.S.G.W. is now meeting in its new home—Merchants Plumbers Hall, 1832 South Hope street,—which is a "dandy," having all modern conveniences, a large auditorium, clubroom, etc. The first meeting there, August 7, was largely attended, Ramona Parlor No. 109 sending a big delegation and all the neighboring Parlors being well represented. The ritual was exemplified, following which District Deputy Al Cron installed the officers, Elmer Engelbracht becoming president. On behalf of the Parlor, Grand President John T. Newell presented a past president's emblem to Walter Fisher.

Refreshments followed, and gathered about the festive board, with Grand President Newell as toastmaster, addresses were made by Carl B. Wirsching of No. 45, vice-president Board Pub-

He Works; First Vice-president Paul Lombardi and Past President Walter Slosson of Ramona No. 109; President William Hortenstine of Hollywood No. 196, and Past President Leslie Scheibach of Glendale No. 264.

Los Angeles has an attractive calendar for September: 18th, initiation of a class of candidates will be followed by refreshments. 25th, caravan to Long Beach; after dinner there at 6:30, the officers of No. 45 will initiate a class of candidates for Long Beach No. 239. 27th, stag outing at the ranch of "Billy" Newell in the Santa Monica Mountains.

COMING, UNIQUE AFFAIR.

Miss Ruth Ruiz, president Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W., entertained her corps of officers at a banquet at the Womens Athletic Club, August 3, when plans for the Parlor were discussed. Other guests were Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, Grand Trustee Marvel Thomas, Mrs. Calista Soto-Stefan and Miss Kathryn Roman. The drill team had a delightful time at a wiener bake at Castle Rock, August 12. Misses Patricia Eaton and Roberta Kessner were in charge.

Grand Trustee Marvel Thomas and Third Vice-president Dolores Malin are to give instructions in Spanish to those members of the Parlor desiring to avail themselves of the opportunity. The lessons will commence the evening of September 10, and will be followed by sociables.

September 3, Los Angeles will initiate a class of candidates. September 24, Mrs. Edith Douglas will have charge of a "dutch luncheon," to be followed by cards. It will be a very unique affair, and all are cordially invited—50c. Mrs. Douglas will be assisted by a committee of the younger members of the Parlor.

BIG SHOW TO CONTINUE.

Rumors that "Hell's Angels" would be presented at Grauman's Chinese Theatre without a prologue following Sid Grauman's departure for New York to stage the Manhattan premieres are vigorously denied by sponsors of the record-breaking Hollywood engagement of the Howard Hughes' air epic.

"Hell's Angels" is to be preceded by a stage show of colossal proportions until the end of the run, H. B. Wright, managing director of the Chinese, states. While no definite date has been set for the final performances, it is understood the Fox Studios are anxious to have the world premiere of "The Big Trail" at the earliest possible date. For this reason, the Chinese has issued a bulletin advising those desirous of seeing "Hell's Angels" to arrange their theatre parties at the nearest available moment.

SAN FRANCISCO MAYOR ATTRACTS.

Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. had an exceptionally well attended meeting August 8, the attraction being the appearance of Mayor James Rolph Jr. (Hesperian Parlor No. 137) of San Francisco, who told of his visit to fifty-two of the state's fifty-eight counties. Dinner preceded the meeting, and several candidates were initiated.

Several of the Parlor's war-horses who have been incapacitated are doing nicely: Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenberger, Joseph A. Adair Sr., Inside Sentinel Frank Adams, J. Harvey McCarthy, Jacob Viall, Hal Kruckeberg, Andy Vaughn and Philip McNaney. The latter, following his recovery from a serious operation, entertained at his ranch fifteen of the members of Ramona's troop of Boy Scouts of America, in which he is much interested.

Ramona's program for September includes: 12th, class initiation; dinner will be served at 6:30. 19th, educational night, when a well-known speaker will discourse on a popular subject. 26th, the good of the order committee, First Vice-president Paul Lombardi, chairman, will present a program. President Ray Russell has outlined a membership campaign which will be put into operation the first of October, after vacations are over.

"ALL NATIVE DAUGHTERS HERE."

Having enjoyed a vacation during August, members of Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. are looking forward with pleasure to a special meeting at noon of September 10, when the new officers, headed by Mrs. Clarence E. Noerenberg, will be in charge for the first time. At the luncheon, Mrs. Maryhelle Chapman will present a recent initiate, Miss Marion Parks, who will give her charmingly interesting lecture, "Adobe Days in California." Mrs. Betty Chapman will render a group of vocal numbers, accompanied at the piano by her mother, Mrs. Luisa Wickersham.

The members of the Parlor all come from Pioneers with colorful histories, none more so than President Mary Noerenberg. She is a daughter of Dr. Henry William and Alnette Cheek-Brodbeck, and was born in a little house on Loomis street. December 10, 1917, she became the wife of Clarence Eugene Noerenberg. They have two children—John William, horn Admission Day, September 9, 1924, and Mary Joan, horn April 9, 1927. Asked by a neighbor if he was an American, young John replied: "No, I'm a Californian; we're all 'ative 'aughters here." Mrs. Noerenberg is a graduate of the preparatory school of the University of Southern California, and has always been active in the affairs of that institution. During the university's recent semi-centennial celebration she was associate chairwoman of the women alumnae.

GRAND PRESIDENT N.S. GUEST.

Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W. entertained in honor of Grand President John T. Newell, August 18. President William Hortenstine extended greetings on behalf of the Parlor, and in the course of his response the Grand President laid stress on the necessity for building up the membership of the Order.

Leo I. Aggeler was introduced as chairman of the evening, and at his solicitation the following addressed the gathering: Historiographer W. Joseph Ford, Superior Judge William T. Aggeler, Municipal Judge Louis P. Russill, District Deputy Al. Cron and President Ray Russill of Ramona Parlor No. 109. Leslie Schellhach, accompanied by Roger Johnson, sang a new California song, his own composition. Refreshments terminated a pleasant occasion.

OPERAS TO HAVE RICH SETTINGS.

More than $150,000 worth of scenery will be used during the presentation of ten operas at the Shrine Auditorium September 29 to October 13, according to Merle Armitage, manager of the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association. The scenery was designed by Armando Agnini, stage manager of the Metropolitan Opera, who will act in that capacity here. It was built by Harry Gregg, and was painted by Fritz Kraencke, formerly of the Berlin Opera, who was brought to this country by Ernst Lubitsch, the director.

Entirely new sets for "Mignon," "Lucia" and "Tannhauser" have been provided, the latter being done in the impressionistic manner of German mythology. "The Girl of the Golden West," which is being presented here for the first time in many years, will be done with the authentic western log ranch-house, the forest of redwoods and the true western atmosphere and settings in every particular, even to Jeritza, as "The Girl," riding her horse upon the stage.

Particular attention has been paid to the settings for "Salome," and it will be done in an impressive, modern setting. The stage arrangements for the five other operas on the program are expected to be equally effective. In the past the association has created a reputation for having designed, built and painted the largest scenery used in opera in America.

ADMISSION DAY PROGRAM.

Admission Day, September 9, will be celebrated in Los Angeles at the site of the battle of La Mesa, in the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards, Downey road and Vernon avenue. Arrangements have been made by a joint com-

Pioneers westward in the days of forty-nine. Facing an unknown future, enduring hardships and dangers, they shared the last drop of water on the desert and the last crust of bread in the snow-bound canyon, thus exemplifying loyalty and hospitality. Such were the men and the women — empire builders of the West — who paved the way for us to enjoy this heritage, California.

"September 1, 1849, there met at Monterey, in Colton Hall, a convention which framed for California a state constitution. It was adopted October 10, 1849, and ratified November 13, 1849. The people elected a Governor, a Lieutenant-Governor, two Representatives to Congress, sixteen State Senators and thirty-six members of the Assembly, who, in turn, December 20, 1849, elected two United States Senators. December 22, 1849, there were elected a Treasurer, a Comptroller, an Attorney-General, a Surveyor-General and three Justices of the Supreme Court. Peter H. Burnett was elected as the first American Governor of California, and John C. Fremont and William M. Gwin the first United States Senators.

"The organization of the state government and the election of state officials took place nearly nine months before California became a state. Representatives were sent to Washington, and they knocked at the door of Congress, seeking admission for California as a state, without territorial childhood. September 9, 1850, California was admitted as a state, following great debate, as the slavery question was then before Congress. California became the balance of power on the side of freedom from slavery, and her gold financed the Civil War. Finally came the pioneer railroad builders of the West, who constructed a road, not from the Missouri River westward, but from Sacramento eastward, to Promontory, Utah, where a golden spike was driven.

"Prominent in the affairs of California — the playground and beauty spot of all the world — since the days of forty-nine were Sloat, Sutter, Fremont, Riley, Bret Harte, Mark Twain, Stanford, Hopkins, Crocker, Starr King and hundreds of others."

mittee of Native Sons and Native Daughters, co-operating with La Mesa Club, the officers of which committee are: Earl H. LeMoine, chairman; Lucy Dudley, secretary; Ruth M. Ruiz, treasurer.

The ceremonies, which will be in charge of Adolfo G. Rivera, will begin at 11 a.m., with Roy McGrath singing "I Love You, California." Sheriff William I. Traeger, the orator of the day, will speak on "Admission Day and What It Means to Californians." Lucia Hernandez will be heard in vocal selections, and Earl LeMoine will speak on "The Founding of the Pueblo de Los Angeles, 1781." T. Dwight Crittenden will give a recitation, and Andy Vaughn will be heard in a reading, "The Flag."

At noon, an old-time California barbecue will be served, and at 1:30 the exercises will continue, with dances, selections by a typical Mexican orchestra, vocal selections, etc. From 3 to 5 a California rodeo will be the attraction. The Orange County Riding Club will display bits of horsemanship, and as a token of appreciation will receive from the arrangements committee a silver cup.

HISTORY CONTEST.

Ocean Park—Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 N.D.G.W. sponsored August 25 a spaghetti supper in charge of President Anna Pierce and Mary Meyer. A special meeting to be held the afternoon of September 8 will be devoted to sociability.

September 15, the Parlor will have a California history contest, and the one most familiar with the subject will receive a prize. A card party, to which everybody is invited, will be featured September 29. A filled hamper is to be awarded at that time.

TO DEDICATE PIPE ORGAN.

Formal dedication of the new $50,000 pipe organ of the University of California at Los Angeles will take place the afternoon of Sunday, September 7, according to Director Ernest Carroll Moore. The dedication will center around an organ recital by Professor Harold L. Gleason, and the general public will be welcomed.

The pipe organ has been installed in the auditorium of Joseph Royce Hall, it being the result of a gift of $52,500 to the university by an anonymous donor. It is believed the organ will prove to be one of the finest in tone to be found in California.

TO ROUND UP ELIGIBLES.

Reseda—Officers of Cahuenga Parlor No. 268 N.S.G.W. were installed by District Deputy Al. Cron, H. Phelps Gates, becoming president. August 22 the Parlor had a rally, which was attended by many of its old members as well as visitors from all nearby Parlors. Refreshments were served.

In the San Fernando Valley are approximately 900 native-born sons of California, and Cahuenga proposes to bring a goodly number of them into the fold. Accordingly, two teams have been organized, headed by President Gates and First Vice-president H. C. Trexler. The losing team will have to provide an elaborate banquet for the winning team, according to the agreement.

LOUD IN PRAISES.

Ocean Park—Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W. entertained August 11 in honor of State Senator Charles W. Lyon, Sheriff William I. Traeger and Superior Judge Walter Hanby, who delivered addresses. Other speakers were Police Chief Clarence Webb, District Deputy Eldred Meyer, Municipal Judge Louis Russill, District Deputy Al. Cron and Robert C. Ramage, the latter a recent addition to the Parlor's growing ranks. There were many visitors, Cahuenga Parlor No. 268 having a large delegation present. Refreshments were served.

Past President Harold Barden invited the officers and past presidents of Santa Monica Bay

TO HANDLE BEES.

The best time to handle bees is in the middle of a hot day, preferably during the honey flow. It is best not to attempt to handle them during the night or on wet or chilly days. Beware the color of black, it excites the bees. Be deliberate in motion, for quick, superfluous action excites the insects to action. Once one stings, the rest of the flock apparently scent the poison and go on a rampage. The man who knows how to handle them, has little to fear; the person who gets excited when a bee approaches and attempts to bat it down, gets into immediate trouble.

"Virtue is like the precious odours, most fragrant when they are incensed or crushed; for prosperity doth best discover vice; but adversity doth best discover virtue."—Bacon.

BIRTHPLACE

fornian, being fifty-three years of age. Fourteen were lawyers; twelve, farmers; five, merchants; two, printers; two, traders; one, hanker; one, physician; one, surveyor; and two or three were connected with the army and navy service. Delegate Abel Sterns had resided in California twenty years; Larkin and Reid sixteen years each; Sutter and Hanks, ten years each; while four had resided in California a period of but four months prior to their election as members of the convention.

We now come to the strangest feature of all. Seven of the delegates were native Californians, former citizens of the Mexican government, one of this number being General Mariano G. Vallejo, who had been an officer in the Mexican army from early manhood. Captor and captive, men of alien blood, sat side by side at the conference table, engaged in preparing an organic law that would forever place California without the limits of the dismembered Mexican Republic. These native Californians had experienced the utter inability of Mexico to govern California or herself, and being in possession of indubitable proofs of attempted intrigues to place California under the rule of other alien powers, believed themselves justified in transferring their allegiance to the country which, by every token, California should form a part.

Practically every state from Maine to Florida, and from Florida to Kentucky, to Tennessee, Ohio, Illinois and Missouri had contributed one or more of its sons to the great work of winning the West for democracy. France, the land of Lafayette; Ireland, a dependency which had been struggling through the centuries for home rule; Switzerland, the only republic in all Europe; Scotland, the land of Wallace and Knox and Robert Burns, and Spain, whose hold upon its American colonies had been loosened by the iron hand of Napoleon the First, who had builded better than he knew for the democracy of the American Continent, each furnished a delegate to this, the most remarkable assemblage that ever engaged in the business of statecraft.

All sectional questions which were tending to a division of the Union and which might imperil the chances of California's admission into the Union were set aside, and Section 18 of Article I, providing that neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, unless for the punishment of crime, should ever be tolerated in this state, was adopted without acrimony of debate. The Legislature was commanded to encourage by all suitable means the promotion of intellectual, scientific and agricultural improvement, and to provide for a system of common schools and for the maintenance of a state university. So patriotic and fundamentally sound was their work that it received the endorsement of the people at the polls, and won from the Congress and the President of the United States the favor of California's admission into the Union, September 9, 1850.

The gravity of the undertaking and the humbleness of spirit with which the delegates entered upon their duties is best told in a few words in the opening address of President Robert Semple, who said: "We are now, fellow citizens, occupying a position to which all eyes are turned. It is to be hoped that every feeling of harmony will be cherished to the utmost in this convention. By this course I am satisfied that we can prove to the world that California has not been settled entirely by unintelligent and unlettered men. Let us, then, go forward and upward, and let our motto be, 'Justice, Industry, and Economy.'" The wisdom of their deliberations resulted in the framing of a constitution which for a period of thirty years carried us over the exciting periods of the ruthless rush for gold and the dynamic events which attended fabulous growth and the swiftly changing conditions of civic and social life, and it was sufficient to weather the storms and stress of the Civil War.

Within the membership of the convention were men who afterwards achieved state and national fame. Henry W. Halleck became Commander-in-Chief of the American Army during the Civil War; John McDougal, Governor of the state; Rodman M. Price, his work done here, returned to New Jersey and became Governor of that state and was afterwards appointed a delegate to the Peace Convention of 1861; William M. Gwin, with General John C. Fremont, constituted California's first representatives in the United States Senate; John M. Jones was made a United States District Court Judge; Pacificus Ord was appointed United States Dis-

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

REPORTS APPEARING REGULARLY IN certain daily papers to the contrary notwithstanding, the unemployment situation in the United States, not excepting California, is serious, and it will become more serious as the winter season approaches. In this state, the presence of almost numberless ineligible-to-citizenship aliens—Japs, Mexis and Filipinos—is largely responsible for so many White citizens finding it impossible to make a living. Then, too, there are far too many women employed in positions which, justly, should be given to men, and particularly men with families to support.

The employment by city and county governments, in direct violation of the statutes of this state, of aliens in public offices and on public works, and the common practice of both an able-bodied husband and his wife being placed on the taxpayers' payroll, are other contributing causes. The taxpayers should force, now, correction of these evils, for unemployment adds to their tax-burdens.

Anent the employment of married women, the "Sacramento Bee" the other day published this, signed by "A Modern He-Husband": "For years it was a disgrace for a married man who was employed to allow his wife to be employed, as he supplied the wherewithal to support his family. . . . Let all employers discharge all married women. That will immediately create openings for the unemployed. Then the husband will have a housekeeper instead of a can opener, a wife to raise a family instead of a chauffeur. Several large organizations have recently adopted this plan." That's sound advice.

In a letter addressed recently to the Immigration Committee of the Federal House of Representatives, the California Immigration Committee, representing the American Legion, the American Federation of Labor and the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, queried: "Can the mass of unemployed in the United States be cared for either by speeding up production, or by the inauguration of the dole system, or of the six-hour day and the five-day week in industry, while 450,000 or more aliens are permitted to enter for permanent residence every year, most of them compelled to accept employment on any terms? What will be the result to living standards and to the well-paid American workman who has made national prosperity? . . . When the great body of taxpayers realize what it is costing them for the upkeep of courts, jails, asylums and other state institutions to care for alien criminals, defectives and diseased persons, such a clamor will be raised that Congress will be forced to appropriate adequate sums for the deportation of the alien classes which constitute this heavy burden. Possibly our situation will become worse before it gets better, but once conditions are clearly understood, it will be taken in hand with characteristic vigor."

When the Federal Congress a few years ago, strict Attorney for the Southern District of California; and a number of others rose to high and responsible places in the official and social life of the state.

We come here today, as to a shrine, to do homage to the memory of the builders of California's first constitution, men whose mortal bodies have long since been dust, but whose handprints are still visible upon the proudest and most sacred institutions of our commonwealth. If it is given unto the living present to speak to the distant past our message to their shades is, though you did your mission here in the stress and trials of mortals of the flesh, your purposes were but a little less than divine. From this place, looking upon valley and mountain and upon the expansive waters of the Pacific, you launched the ship of state—California! From the same place, many years since, we echo back the refrain that stirred your imaginations to the prophecies of the present and the future greatness of this Western commonwealth:

"Sail on, O ship of State;

• • •
We know what Master laid thy keel,
What Workmen wrought thy ribs of steel,
Who made each mast, and sail, and rope,
What anvils rang, what hammers beat,
In what a forge and what a heat
Were shaped the anchors of thy hope!"
Sail on and on—and on!

at the earnest solicitation of the Pacific Coast states, passed the law excluding aliens ineligible to citizenship, it was believed by some that the danger threatening California by the "peaceful invasion" of Japs had been eliminated. But, as The Grizzly Bear has always contended, the "cute little yellow hoys" have no regard for laws made in the United States. They are determined to get here, in the hope of eventually winning California for their worshiped mikado. The exclusion law has a loophole which the Japs have taken full advantage of; it permits "visitors"—so-called students, businessmen, etc.—to come in for temporary residence, but in numerous cases they become permanent residents.

The Federal Immigration Commissioner at San Francisco has revealed that more than $49,500 in bonds posted by the "visitor" Japs, at $500 per Jap, during the past fiscal year, remains unclaimed. Last month, at Angel Island, a party of fifteen Japs, supposedly engaged in a business tour of this country, were detained because they had no money and no travel reservations.

And so, the "peaceful invasion" goes on, aided by the Japanese government, and encouraged by hackboneless public officials and yellow-Whites of this country. It may take time, but eventually the Japs will gain possession of coveted California! "What is 100 years in the life of a nation," is a familiar saying of the Japs, and they are operating accordingly.

When the bill to apply the quota to Mexico was being discussed during the recent session of the Federal Congress, the threadbare bunk about "offending a friendly nation" was paraded overtime. All countries of the world, including Japan and Mexico, have restrictive immigration laws, as it is a well-recognized principle of international law that every country has a perfect right to control the flow of immigration into its territory.

This country should emulate Mexico, which looks out for the interests of its citizens at home. It does not worry about offending a friendly nation. Note this statement, issued by the Federal State Department August 7: "The Department is in receipt of a telegram . . . from the American Consul at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, stating that a new Mexican immigration regulation requires Americans and other aliens coming for employment or on business to procure prior permission from Secretario de Gobernacion, Mexico City." The ruling does not apply to legitimate tourists, but does apply to commercial travelers.

As to the Filipinos, they are causing, and will continue to cause, no end of trouble. Of all the undesirable hibernating in this state, they are unquestionably the most offensive. The Federal Government should round up every one of those "babies" and return them whence they came.

The Attorney-General of California has requested publication of the following statement: "It has been brought to my attention that an opinion recently rendered by this office, relative to the leasing of land by Japanese, has been given publicity throughout the state in such a manner as to give rise to the belief that Japanese and other Asiatics ineligible for citizenship can lease lands in California for any purpose. This was not the effect of the opinion in question. . . ."

"The opinion was rendered to the Commissioner of Corporations of the State of California, pursuant to a request for a construction of the Alien Land Law and treaties with Japan as bearing upon the right of alien Japanese to lease property for the purpose of conducting a hotel. The Commissioner of Corporations was advised by this office that alien Japanese can, under the provisions of the Alien Land Law and the treaty of the United States with Japan, lease land only for residential and commercial purposes. This, however, is not to be construed as meaning that alien Japanese may lease or own land for agricultural purposes, such acts being prohibited by law."

It should be noted that, under the California Alien Land Law, Japs may lease only, not purchase, land for residential and commercial purposes, and that they may not lease or own land for agricultural purposes. This law, like many others designed for the well-being of the state, is being flagrantly violated. Japs and other ineligible-to-citizenship aliens are continually purchasing and leasing property for agricultural purposes, and purchasing outright property for residential and commercial purposes. And yet, the authorities, sworn to enforce the law, consistently continue to do nothing.

CALIFORNIA HAPPENINGS OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

RUTHERFORD B. HAYES, PRESIDENT of the United States, returned from Oregon to California by steamer October 18, 1880, and two days later left San Francisco for a visit to Nature's wonderland, Yosemite Valley. Then continuing his trip through the state, he arrived October 23 at Los Angeles, where four days were devoted to viewing the orange groves, the beaches and other attractions. He received ovations at all stations enroute. The presidential campaign progressed energetically in California this month. The Republicans had a score of speakers traversing the state, and all the Democratic warhorses were in harness. James A. Garfield, the Republican standard bearer, being considered pro-Chinese by the workmen, they were believed to be flocking to Winfield S. Hancock, the Democratic candidate. Dennis Kearney, having become a Greenbacker, was losing prestige, and his meetings were poorly attended. Both the major parties were claiming the state and, for once, both were right, as at the November 2 election

Garfield received 80,348 votes and Hancock 80,442.

October 21, at Sacramento, the Republicans had the largest political gathering yet held in the state. Over 20,000 partisans in California North assembled to listen to the orators, to join in the day and evening processions, and to be feasted at a barbecue in Agricultural Park. Although two oxen, eleven sheep and a hundred hams were provided for the feast, there was not enough to feed the multitude.

A convention of Negro citizens met at San Francisco October 6, over fifty delegates being in attendance. The object was stated to be to get more political recognition from the Republican party. The Negroes claimed that, because of their voting strength, they should have a larger share in office holdings.

A sprinkle of rain October 4 was followed by a succession of cloudless days. During the month there was no measurable rainfall.

ATTORNEYS HAVE BATTLE ROYAL.

The Santa Clara County Fair opened at San Jose, October 4; that of Butte County at Chico, October 5; that of Siskiyou County at Yreka, October 13; that of Monterey County at Salinas, October 14. The California South Horticultural Fair opened at Los Angeles City October 20, and was attended by President Hayes.

The Central Pacific railroad reported it had brought 2,663 passengers into the state during the month and had taken out 3,091. Federal Government records showed 965 arrivals and 1,338 departures by sea during the same period. These reports showed a loss of $01, and there was much concern because the state was losing population.

The San Jacinto tin mine in San Bernardino County was reported sold for $1,250,000 to a company of New York City investors who made a first payment of $75,000.

J. H. Loring, mining near Elizabeth Town, Plumas County, unearthed a pocket that yielded twenty-five ounces of chispas valued at over $400.

A ton of quartz rock taken out of the Ford-McDonald mine near Grass Valley, Nevada County, yielded over $30,000 in gold.

Coinage at the United States Mint in San Francisco for the month was 73,000 twenty-dollar, 54,000 ten-dollar and 216,000 five-dollar gold pieces, and 600,000 silver dollars. Where the money went, was a question puzzling to many.

During the trial of a case at Merced City October 20 the defendant's attorney took offense at an assertion of the district attorney and hurled a glass inkstand at him, hitting him in the eye and lancing his cheek. The district attorney responded with a statute book, which landed upon the side of the lawyer's head, nearly knocking him out. Then followed a battle royal, chairs, cuspidors, books, etc., being exchanged by the belligerents, until bystanders stopped the fight. The judge refused to accept an apology and both went to jail for contempt.

Gathering of wild plums for canning purposes was a new industry engaging the attention of fifty people in Sierra County.

Twenty-six ships loaded with California grain went out through the Golden Gate, Europe bound, during the month.

The stage from La Porte, Plumas County, to Marysville, Yuba County, was stopped near Brownsville October 7 by two highwaymen. The express box, containing several hundred dollars, was taken.

Near Nevada City, Nevada County, the Moore's Flat stage was held up October 16 by two highwaymen. Finding no treasure in the express box, they robbed the passengers of $40.

MARK TWAIN'S GOLD OOOZING UNCLE.

A pair of road agents stopped the stage from Nevada City to North San Juan, October 13. While endeavoring to break open the express box, Robert Huckins, a passenger, by an unexpected maneuver overpowered and captured one of the robbers; the other made his escape.

October 31 the stage from Georgetown, El Dorado County, to Auburn, Placer County, was held up by a small masked man who got away with $2,400 in coin and gold dust, taken from the express box.

Great excitement, lasting over a week, broke loose in San Francisco over the announcement of A. L. Tichenor, owner of the property, that the famed "Chicken Soup" spring at Calistoga, Napa County, carried gold in solution in its soup. He claimed to have invented a secret process by which the gold was extracted and the yield, in value, was near $100 a day. As

CALIFORNIA DURING THE CIVIL WAR

A. A. Gray

AFTER THE PROLONGED STRUGGLE in the Federal Congress over the Compromise of 1850, which admitted California as a free state, all hope that a civil war might be avoided was gone. As the war approached, much speculation arose as to whether the people of California would sympathize with the North or with the South. The fear that the state might support the Southern cause was well founded. Conscious of this fear, early efforts were made by the Federal Government and by leading citizens of the state to insure California's loyalty in case of war.

Several conditions tended to make the position of California one of great importance. The eight hundred miles of coast line were completely lacking in adequate fortifications. It was easy for an enemy to land a force of men and readily penetrate the country. Congress was three thousand miles distant by land and very much farther by water. The state was separated from the East by heavy mountain ranges and by extensive desert lands that could be crossed only with the greatest difficulty and danger. The people had long been disappointed with Congress because little effort had been made to build a railroad to California. The population was cosmopolitan, being composed of every nationality and known creed. The Conquest and the conditions which followed, especially those resulting from the settlement of land claims, caused the native-born to retain their hostility toward the Federal Government. The state contained a large percentage of Southern-born people.

The color of political affairs also brought doubt concerning the state's loyalty. They had never been peaceful. Annually the Legislature faced the question of state division. The people

To A. A. Gray, head of the Department of History of the Berkeley, Alameda County, High School. The Grizzly Bear is indebted for the accompanying dealing with a trying period in the history of California—the Civil War. In a letter accompanying the contribution, Gray says:

"I have been interested in preparing this material for classroom use, since it is rather difficult for students to find, in a condensed form, much concerning the affairs in California during the Civil War.

"I have attempted to present some facts which are not the most accessible to the student and the general reader, and which might stimulate some one to a further study of this interesting period in our state history.

"You might be interested to know that for our course in California history, given only to seniors, I have a complete file of The Grizzly Bear, substantially bound. I was more than two years getting these from various persons throughout the state. These volumes constitute the most valuable source that we have in our library for a great many topics."—Editor.

of the southern counties, in 1859, approved at the polls a proposition to divide the state. This wish was expressed in Congress. Political factions were so bitterly arrayed against each other throughout the whole state that dueling became the accepted means of settling deep personal differences. The spirit of independence brought to the new land, the strong racial antagonism developed in the early mining days, and the lack of law enforcement created a social situation which at times strained the authority of the state. No one was able to conjecture what course California would pursue in the event of a break between the North and the South. The state was a prize worth winning. Its resources were abundant; its geographical position was most strategic; the wealth of the country had not been calculated, and the man power was not measured by numbers, but by the virility and indomitable courage necessary to cope with the unusual frontier conditions found there. The state's strategic position and extensive resources were such that its influence would be a decisive factor in the war.

A PACIFIC REPUBLIC.

For several years after the stirring days of the Bear Flag revolt, many people looked forward to the time when California would become an independent republic. The alcalde of Monterey, Walter Colton, predicted in 1850 that an independent nation would spring up on the Pacific, if Congress failed to build a railroad to the coast.

When the dark shadow of a civil war hung heavily over the state, this idea became more significant. If the North and the South were to wage war upon each other, why should California become a part of the struggle? It had little in common with the rest of the country. Its resources and trade were such that it could easily become a self-sufficient nation. There was imminent danger that an uprising might take place within its borders, if the North and the South split, because the population of the state was sharply divided over the issue of slavery.

The talk of a California republic became more pronounced when it was apparent that a civil war could not be prevented. Congress had never taken much interest in California. There was little to indicate that it ever would. When Congress convened in December 1860, and the war clouds were rapidly gathering, the two congressmen from California declared, in public communications which appeared in the newspapers of the state, that if a national crisis came, they would work to establish an independent republic upon the Pacific.

Congressman John C. Burch believed that a republic should be made large enough to include more than just California. He wished to add the Territories of Washington, Oregon, Utah and New Mexico. He urged the people to be calm and steadfast in the face of the impending crisis. If war should come, he advised the people to "raise aloft the flag of the 'bear,' surrounded by the hydra-pointed cactus of the western wilds, and call upon the enlightened nations of the south to acknowledge our independence, and to protect us, the only 'wolf' from the wreck of our noble nation, the youthful but vigorous Caesarian republic of the Pacific." Congressman Charles L. Scott was no less emphatic on this question. He said that if the Union were to be divided, he stood for a separate republic on the Pacific slope. He prophesied that if the North undertook to tax California for the conduct of a war, the "hills, and gulches of California" would flow with blood in resentment of any effort to collect war taxes.

Such sentiments were also expressed by other leaders. In his annual message to the Legislature, January 1860, Governor John B. Weller said that California had never had a disposition to interfere with the domestic institutions

NOTABLE GATHERING PIONEERS

(NEVA CARMICHAEL.)

THE DAYS OF OLD, THE DAYS OF gold, the days of '49' were well celebrated at the California State Fair in Sacramento on Sunday, September 7, when thirty-five living Pioneers of those days were guests of honor at a luncheon and an old-time program.

Pioneer Day was the concluding feature of the 1930 State Fair, which celebrated the admission of California into the Union and had as its theme "Eighty Years of Progress." And while the ceremonies were in honor of all California Pioneers, the invitations to participate were issued to those who were living in California in 1850, the eventful year of admission, or earlier. Therefore the group which met on Pioneer Day was one of the most unusual in the state's history. Each one was eighty years old or over, and each could give, first-hand, amazing and interesting stories of California's romantic period.

of other states, and that if war came, the state would go neither with the North nor the South, but "here upon the shores of the Pacific found a mighty republic which may in the end prove the greatest of all." Governor John G. Downey was hesitant. He was a staunch Democrat and expressed no opposition to such plans. In April 1860 Senator Milton S. Latham spoke in the Senate on the approaching war, and said that if it came California would set up a Pacific republic. Later, he retracted his position, saying that the country could depend upon the loyalty of his state, and that the only thing that might induce his people to secede was the lack of a Pacific railroad.

The state superintendent of public instruction, Andrew J. Moulder, recommended to the Legislature, in his annual report for January 1860, the establishment of a great Pacific university which was to become chiefly a military institution. "It is possible," he said, "there may one day be a separation between the Atlantic and the Pacific States, and the establishment of an independent republic upon the Coast." He urged that the university to be started become "a West Point in full organization in the young Republic." The Bay of Monterey was proposed as the site for this military school, because that location would have certain military advantages.

Such strong sentiments for an independent republic appearing in the newspapers, in various public speeches and in the reports of state officials, gave great concern to those who wished to keep California in the Union. We know that there were many social, political and economic factors tending to set off California by itself. If the verdict of the Civil War had been different, we might be today citizens in a Pacific republic.

POLITICS BEFORE THE WAR.

The political situation became very acute just before the opening of the war. Since 1850 the state had been dominantly Democratic. The attitude of California toward a civil war would depend considerably upon those in office when the break came. Though the Democratic party was much divided, it had carried every state elec-

NEW TRAIL TO COUNTRY'S HIGHEST POINT NOW IN USE.

The new $25,000 foot and horseback trail to the summit of Mount Whitney, elevation 14,496 feet, the highest point in continental United States, was officially dedicated to public use September 5 by officers of the United States Forest Service and National Park Service. Mount Whitney is located on the boundary between the Inyo National Forest and the Sequoia National Park.

The Mount Whitney trail starts at the mouth of Lone Pine Canyon, near Lone Pine in the Owens Valley, and runs for some twelve miles through the Inyo National Forest to the summit of the Sierra Nevada, where it crosses into the Sequoia National Park and continues for several miles to the top of Mount Whitney. Easy grades and a wide tread make it possible to travel the new trail in comfort and safety. The trip from Lone Pine to Mount Whitney and back can now be easily made on horseback in one and a half days.

MAMMOTH RAILROAD BRIDGE SOON READY FOR SERVICE.

Martinez (Contra Costa County)—Arrangements are under way for the dedication of the Southern Pacific's two-track bridge across Suisun Bay, November 1, when the structure will be ready for service.

The bridge, 5,603 feet long and costing $12,000,000, has been under construction since April 1929. It will replace the ferries which, since 1879, have hauled trains across Carquinez Straits, between Port Costa, Contra Costa County, and Benicia, Solano County. All trains operated over the new bridge will pass through Martinez.

Community Fair—Clovis, Fresno County, will have its annual community fair October 24 and 25.

tion since 1850. The campaign of 1859 was a very exciting and bitter one. The chief issues were the extension of slavery and the preservation of the Union. The Lecompton Democrats, or pro-slavery element, nominated Milton S. Latham for governor and John G. Downey for lieutenant-governor. The Anti-Lecomptons put up John Curry, and the Republicans selected Leland Stanford. The pro-slavery ticket swept the state by 60,000 votes. Curry got about one-half as many votes as Latham, and Stanford only 10,000. The slavery element won every office in the state; it was triumphant. Latham was a strong and well-trained man. Born in Ohio, he came to California in 1850. He had practiced law in San Francisco, and in Sacramento and El Dorado Counties. He had served one term in Congress, and was the collector of the Port of San Francisco when elected governor.

The climax in the bitterness of this campaign was the duel between Senator David C. Broderick and Judge David S. Terry. In the heat of the campaign Broderick used language about Terry which called for him a challenge. The day after the election, Terry left Sacramento and went to Oakland, where he sent a message through his good friend, Calhoun Benham, a rank secessionist, to Broderick. Terry's challenge was accepted. The duel took place in San Mateo County early on the morning of September 12. Broderick was killed. Both were ardent Democrats. Terry was tried and quickly acquitted. Judge James Hardy, who tried the case, was afterwards impeached by the Senate and removed from office for his disloyal utterances during the war.

When the Legislature met in 1860, the most absorbing question was the election of a United States senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Broderick. There was no chance to elect a Republican, because the Legislature was overwhelmingly Democratic. Three candidates aspired to the office. On the first ballot, Shafter got three votes, Randolph fourteen, and Latham ninety-seven. January 14, Latham resigned the governorship, and the lieutenant-governor, Downey, was inducted into office. In a short address before the joint session of the Legislature he pledged himself to administer the affairs of his office "with due regard to the varied interests of the state." He was a native of Ireland, being the only foreign-born governor the state has ever had. When the war came, he was thoroughly loyal. In response to a letter from Secretary of State William H. Seward, inviting his attention and consideration to the proper defense California should make in opposing the Confederacy, Downey replied that the defense of the coast country was wholly inadequate and that the magnitude of the protection needed would be considered by the next Legislature. He emphasized the value of the Pacific interests to the Union cause.

THE ELECTION OF 1860.

In the campaign of 1860, four political parties entered the field. The Democrats were again hopelessly divided, following the two national conventions, one of which nominated Stephen A. Douglas, representing the Northern Democrats, and the other nominated John C. Breckinridge of Kentucky, the idol of the South. The split in the Democratic party occurred at the state meeting in San Francisco, July 30, 1860. The 359 delegates favoring Douglas met in Sacramento September 5, and put into the campaign a full ticket. In their platform they criticized the extravagances of the past Legislatures, denounced the Northern states in trying to defeat the fugitive slave law, and opposed slavery as expressed in the great Compromise of 1850. Six days later the Breckinridge wing of the party met in Sacramento and went on record as opposing most of the principles set forth by the Douglas people. June 20 the Republicans also met in Sacramento, but no dissent was apparent. They ardently supported Abraham Lincoln. The center of their platform was the preservation of the Union and the non-extension of slavery. The Union party, led by John Bell of Tennessee, had little influence in the state.

This campaign was one of the most exciting and bitter in the state's history. Every town had its Lincoln, Douglas or Breckinridge club. Hundreds of speakers covered the state; towns were colorfully decorated, and lighted at night by huge bonfires; torchlight processions, led by brass bands, and historical pageants preceded the large and important meetings. The sectional strife which had been created in the last Legislature, the efforts to divide the state, and the sudden removal of the peerless Democratic leader, Senator Broderick, gave hope of a Republican victory.

The Democratic leaders tried to influence the people by predicting the immediate secession of the whole South in the event of Lincoln's election. They believed that the only way to save the country from a civil war was to defeat Lincoln. On the other hand, the Republicans said the only security of the country lay in the election of those pledged to prevent the expansion of slavery and the secession of any state. Governor Weller said, in a campaign speech made in San Jose, that "the South will surely withdraw from the Union," if Lincoln is elected, and that he would consider the people "less than men" if they did not withdraw. Two weeks before the state election news was brought from the East by pony express that the Republican party was sweeping the Atlantic seaboard, and that Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania had gone for Lincoln. This news probably influenced many men in California. Many doubtful voters must have swung to the Republican column when they heard these reports. The Eastern election news was rapidly carried to Port Churchill, Nevada, by pony express riders, and then telegraphed to Sacramento.

The state election took place November 6. The only hope of the Republicans was in having a divided Democratic party. Lincoln received 38,734 votes, Douglas 38,023, Breckinridge 33,975 and Bell only 9,131. Lincoln won the state by less than one thousand votes. San Francisco, considered the strongest Republican center in the state, gave Lincoln less than 3,000 plurality. The hold of the Democratic party on the state was broken for the first time in the history of the state. Downey was elected governor, but the magic of his party had disappeared. The people had rallied to the cause of freedom, and had registered themselves in favor of preserving the Union.

FIRST WAR LEGISLATURE.

January 7, 1861, the Legislature convened in Sacramento. The Assembly was composed of 38 Douglas Democrats, 22 Breckinridge followers, 19 Republicans and one Union party member. The Republicans had only 5 members in the Senate; the Democrats had 40, of whom 19 were Douglas men and the remainder Breckinridge adherents. This Legislature would be in session at the time of Lincoln's inauguration, and the question in the minds and hearts of the people of the state was, what action would the Legislature take in case war was declared? No party could claim a majority in the Legislature. Grave doubt arose as to what action the members would take on the question of secession when put to the test.

The membership of the Legislature showed no consistency. All types and many nationalities were represented. In the Senate, eighteen members came from the North and fifteen from the South; only two were native Californians. In the Assembly, the Northern influence was strongly felt. Forty of the members in this body were Northern born and twenty-nine were of Southern birth. Several were foreign born. As might be expected, Ireland led the list with five members. Two came from Germany, one from France and one from Scotland. One was born in Nova Scotia and one in the distant West Indies.

The two questions to absorb the time of the Legislature were: first, the selection of a United States senator, and second, placing the state on record for or against secession. The term of Senator William M. Gwin, who had served California in the National Capital since 1850, would expire in March. Since he was known to sympathize strongly with the South, his re-election was doubtful. Having so few votes, the Republicans could do nothing. They planned to support some loyal Democrat who would give undivided allegiance to Lincoln. Five candidates were before the Legislature: John McDougal, John B. Weller, J. W. Denver, John Nugent and T. S. Phillips. March 12 the Legislature took its first ballot. McDougal and Weller each received 27 votes, Phillips 23, Denver 16 and Nugent 9. March 20 McDougal was declared elected, but a mistake in the ballot was discovered. The question was before the two houses until April 2, when McDougal received 57 out of 105 votes cast, and was declared elected. He had made a strong speech against secession in February, and this did more than anything else to elect him.

The senatorship being settled, the Legislature continued to struggle with the question of what to do in case the South started to secede. Could California remain neutral? What good would it do to make any decision? The state was far removed from Congress; little attention would be paid to it. Then, any action of the Legislature might seriously divide the people and bring on a civil war within the state. Early in the session, resolutions were offered for and against the Southern cause. The Legislature had to face the question.

WAR RESOLUTIONS.

From the very first week to the last days of the Legislature of 1861, resolutions for and against the Southern cause were hotly debated. The nature of some of these resolutions and the support given them show clearly the deep sectional differences that existed among the people. In the Assembly, January 19, Patrick of Tuolumne County offered a resolution supporting the North. Montgomery of Sutter County immediately offered a substitute, favorable to the proposed Confederacy. This set the ball rolling. During January several resolutions for and against the preservation of the Union were debated. The first report to the Assembly on what attitude the state should assume came from the committee on federal relations, February 2. It recommended that the Assembly adopt a resolution saying "the heart of California beats true to the Union." This resolution was urged by four members of the committee—Conness of El Dorado, Wright of Sierra, Campbell of San Francisco and Ford of Santa Cruz. Three members, Sorrell of Siskiyou, White of Shasta and Magruder of Yuba, submitted a minority report. A dozen or more attempts were made to get some action during February, but no headway was made.

March 9 two resolutions came before the Assembly. Showalter of Mariposa County proposed that California would never "consent to become the ally of one section in waging a fratricide war against another section of our common country." This brought forth a resolution supporting the Federal Government. It was passed by a vote of 40 to 22, and was sent immediately to the Senate. One house had spoken. It remained now to be seen what the other would do.

During the early weeks of the session, the Senate had under consideration various resolutions referring to the approaching war. There was a greater percent of men in the Senate than in the Assembly who frowned upon secession. After debating the question in January, little was done until May. On the 17th of that month, three days before adjournment, the Senate passed a Union resolution by a vote of 24 to 5. Five members were absent and one declined to vote. The resolution stated that California was willing and ready to uphold the rights of the Federal Government at home and abroad, and also that it stood ready to respond to any requisition which might be made upon it for the defense of the country. The resolution was sent to the Assembly and passed. California had been saved for the Union, as far as the Legislature could decide the issue.

NOBLE CHARACTER PASSES ON

M(STANLEY A. WHEELER.)
RS. RUDECINDA FLORENCIA Sepulveda-Dodson, benefactress and "fairy godmother" of San Pedro, passed away at her home there September 11. She was born at Rancho Los Palos Verdes, October 27, 1858. Her mother was Maria Elisalde of San Diego, whose father, the first overseer of the missions of California, was sent by Carlos IV of Spain to be the first civil head. Her father was Diego Sepulveda, son of Dolores Sepulveda, to whom the vast Palos Verdes grant was given by the king of Spain for service to that country; the Sepulvedas came to the west coast of America from Castile, Spain.

Mrs. Dodson was a living embodiment of California history during her long and useful life. Together with her brother, Roman, she carried on the traditions and the romantic glory of the old Spanish colonial empire. She was a leader in charitable and philanthropic work, and contributed much to the development of San Pedro. To countless individuals and to numerous organizations, without regard to race or creed, she contributed most liberally. She gave many parcels of land to San Pedro, among them the Plaza parksite, a portion of which is now occupied by the City Hall.

Mrs. Dodson was a charter member of Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W., which was named for her. The Parlor held memorial figure in the harbor social constellation that held dominant sway for more than half a century has faded into eternity. There will never be such another.

"Mrs. Dodson was a representative of that fine Spanish influence that sent the flower of its manhood to the new world in conquest and in peace. Her lineage, too well known and appreciated to need amplification, traces its way to Castile, Spain, and the highest form of Latin culture. These finest attributes of civilization Mrs. Dodson spent here in San Pedro. A more beneficent personage would be difficult, if possible, to name.

"A founder of the San Pedro Womans Club, a charter member of the Native Daughters Parlor here, Mrs. Dodson was highly admired and loved by the women of San Pedro. The Native Daughters named their circle in her honor and the Womans Club blessed her with constant homage. Mrs. Dodson was always the inspiration for these and many another social circle.

"With a heart of gold, this kindly spirit had fostered hundreds of worth-while movements in San Pedro and the harbor district. Her role of 'fair godmother,' played often and over-generously, was a great earthly joy. To this thousands can testify. The passing of Rudecinda Florencia Sepulveda-Dodson robs San Pedro of a noble character never to be forgotten."

NATIVE SONS' DOINGS.

With President John T. Gower officiating, Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W. conducted initiatory ceremonies September 12, two candidates being welcomed. Members of the Parlor journeyed to Hollywood No. 196 September 15, and the 25th were visitors at Long Beach No. 239, when Los Angeles No. 45 exemplified the ritual. October 31 the Parlor will join with Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W. in a dance.

Sepulveda personals: Dr. C. W. Kocher is convalescing from a serious auto accident suffered while vacationing in the northern part of the state. Emmet Kaveney spent his vacation during September touring mountain points in the southern part of the state. William J. Maggio was a recent San Francisco visitor. Arthur W. L. Hansen enjoyed the Admission Day celebration at San Francisco. H. D. Nidever has moved to Monterey, where he is in charge of the commercial fisheries patrol service of the California Fish and Game Commission. John C. Baly, assistant fire chief of Los Angeles City in charge of the San Pedro, Wilmington and Terminal Island divisions, attended the annual convention of Pacific Coast fire chiefs at Oakland. Edward E. Baldwin is recovering from a minor operation.

TO A BEAR
 (N. H. DUNNING.)

On Summer mornings, forth you fare
 Through woods; by streams you hie;
 And if we meet upon the trail,
 You smugly pass me by Without so much as "By your leave,"—

 With neither yea nor nay;
 With sidelong glance most nonchalant
 You amble on your way.

Intriguing are your habits, Bear,—
 Your tricks from best to least;
 In friendliness you far excel
 All of the other beasts.

Though of your raids on honey, stored,
 I am, of course, aware,
 I'd still forgive you every fault,
 I love you, jolly Bear!

"UNKNOWN PIONEER" MONUMENT.

San Andreas (Calaveras County)—The Calaveras County Chamber of Commerce plans to erect in one of the state's oldest cemeteries, established in 1851 near this place, a monument to the memory of the "Unknown Pioneer."

Miracle Days Not Over—"Are you hurt?" the driver asked a young woman who had been knocked down by his automobile. "Oh, no, but I am awfully sorry I was in your way," she replied, and walked away without telling her name.

ADMISSION DAY IN SAN FRANCISCO

THOUSANDS OF NATIVE SONS AND Native Daughters from all sections of the state gathered in San Francisco, September 8 and 9, to join with those of the "City That Knows How" in celebrating Admission Day, the eightieth anniversary of California's admittance to statehood. And none were disappointed, for it was a praiseworthy celebration of the anniversary of the most important event in the history of this land of sunshine, fruits and flowers.

The committee of Native Sons, headed by Casper P. Hare, which had charge of the celebration is deserving of unstinted praise. Each event on the two-day program started exactly at the hour specified, and nothing whatever happened, accidentally or premeditatedly, to mar the pleasure of anyone or to detract from the glory of the occasion. The arrangements were perfect, and they were executed to perfection.

The Grizzly Bear for September presented a complete list of the various sub-committees which arranged the celebration details, and also the complete program. The grand ball and the literary exercises were largely attended; and the "open houses" maintained by the Native Son and Native Daughter Parlors were visited by throngs who heartily joined in the gaiety.

The Admission Day, September 9, parade was splendid. Approximately 10,000 Native Sons and Native Daughters, with their bands, drum corps and drill teams, participated, and, in their costumes of varied styles and colors, created a most colorful spectacle, pleasing to the eye and stimulating to the Californian, native or adopted.

As has been frequently stated in these columns, it is impossible to adequately and accurately describe an Admission Day parade. It must be seen to be appreciated, for it is unlike any other parade, in that there is no sameness of costumes. And it has never been the policy of The Grizzly Bear to single out any one unit of an Admission Day parade for special mention. Each participating Parlor of Native Sons and Native Daughters does its best, in keeping with what it has to do with, and collectively they create the impression that is lasting.

Parade prizes were awarded by the San Francisco Admission Day general committee as follows: Best decorated float, Mission Parlor No. 38 N.S.G.W. (San Francisco); best decorated float of Native Son or Native Daughter Parlor, Alameda County N.S.G.W. and N.G.D.W.; best Native Son playing and marching drum corps with field music, Napa Parlor No. 62, first, Castro Parlor No. 232 (San Francisco), second; best playing Native Son band, Piedmont Parlor No. 120 (Oakland); best Native Daughter drill team, Presidio Parlor No. 148 (San Francisco), first, El Vespero Parlor No. 118 (San Francisco), second; best appearing Native Daughter Parlor marching unit, Portola No. 172 (San Francisco); best appearing Native Son Parlor marching unit, Guadalupe No. 231 (San Francisco); largest marching Parlor of Native Daughters, Mission No. 227 (San Francisco); largest marching Parlor of Native Sons, South San Francisco No. 157; best Native Daughter drum corps, Genevieve Parlor No. 132 (San Francisco); best Native Son drum corps, Piedmont Parlor No. 120 (Oakland), first, Utopia Parlor No. 270 (San Francisco), second; best decorated auto, Fruitvale Parlor No. 252 N.S.G.W. (Oakland); best Native Son drill team, South San Francisco Parlor No. 157—C.M.H.

Californians honored San Francisco with a rare civic treat in the countless beautiful American and Bear Flags that waved in their triumphal procession.

"It was a lamentable reminder, however, that our beloved Old Glory seems out of fashion, no longer a familiar sight. The few flags flying from public buildings and oil stations prevent it from slipping altogether into a misty memory. A few years ago the flagpole was an essential part of the architectural beauty of the home, and red, white and blue hunting was in demand by the many Betsy Rosses who patched their faded and worn flags.

"If the ideals of democracy, symbolized in the Flag of Liberty, were known and treasured by adult Americans, the ranks of anarchy and mohocracy would be decimated. To awaken a sincere consciousness of American heritage and traditions would forever silence him who would unfurl the red flag of servitude in our midst."

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED.
Presidio Parlor No. 194 N.S.G.W. celebrated its thirty-sixth institution anniversary with a largely attended dinner dance. Notable features were the attractive entertainment program and the elaborate table decorations. During the evening Harold J. Degán, outgoing president, was presented with a beautiful emblem.

Guests of the Parlor were District Deputy Thomas Dillon, State Senators Tallant Tuhhs, Roy Fellom and J. J. Crowley. Arrangements for the anniversary party were made by a committee composed of Thomas F. Comber (chairman), Louis Pastorino, Henry Storti, Charles Kleupfer, L. Paganetto and D. Briglia.

JUDGE RECEIVES FLAGS.
The Flag of the United States of America and the California State (Bear) Flag now adorn the desk of Municipal Judge George W. Schonfeld, a member of Olympus Parlor No. 189 N.S.G.W. They were presented September 5 by the Native Daughters Grove of Memory Association. President Edna A. Army, who was accompanied by a delegation of fifty members, made the presentation address, saying the flags were an expression of esteem.

BRIDE SHOWERED.
Golden Gate Parlor No. 158 N.D.G.W. had a very interesting meeting, attended by over fifty members, August 25, when a shower was given Marshal Eleanor Nelson, in honor of her approaching marriage. She received many beautiful and useful gifts. Refreshments were served. August 30 she became the bride of Sam Peter Robbins.

September 9 found the members of the Parlor ready for the parade in honor of the eightieth anniversary of California's admission to statehood. The costumes worn were turquoise blue ensembles, with black felt vagahond hats and black shoes. The marchers made a wonderful appearance and received much applause.

WHIST HELPS LOYALTY PLEDGE.
The sewing club of Dolores Parlor No. 169 N.D.G.W. met September 16 at the Fleischhacker Playground at the beach and continued the good work of making garments for the homeless children. The club was organized several years ago by Grand Vice-president Evelyn I. Carlson.

a member of Dolores, who acted as chairman until her Grand Parlor official duties made it impossible for her to attend regularly. She has been succeeded by Irene Kaupert.

Grand Trustee Florence Dodson-Schoneman visited the Parlor September 10, and her pleasing remarks were enjoyed to the utmost. The monthly after-meeting whist party of August 27 was under the capable chairmanship of Irene Stelling. The revenue derived from these social affairs is added to the Parlor's Loyalty Pledge fund. October 8 Dolores will increase its membership by the initiation of a class of candidates. Members of No. 169 appeared in the Admission Day parade along with those of Dolores No. 208 N.S.G.W., and their costumes of blue and white were very colorful. Grand Vice-president Carlson was in line with her home-Parlor.

CLASS INITIATION.

Castro Parlor No. 178 N.D.G.W. initiated a class of ten charming young girls August 20. The meeting was the motif for a social event planned on the order of an official visit, all the officers being in evening dress. The hall was prettily decorated with cut flowers, their beauty enhanced by beautiful silver cups, trophies of the Parlor's drill team, which held them. The work, gone through with from the opening march of the officers to the close, all letter perfect, made the occasion an evening long to be remembered. The initiates, bubbling over with enthusiasm, give promise of becoming active and enthusiastic members and are a welcome acquisition. The social hour in the banquet hall, getting acquainted with the new members and enjoying the dainty refreshments prepared by the committee, brought a very happy evening to a close.

The Loyalty Pledge committee of Castro is planning a monster whist party, the first of a series of events to be given in the near future to take No. 178 "over the top" before the next session of the Grand Parlor. The Parlor was represented in the Admission Day parade by about fifty members in costume, beaded by the drill team in very attractive uniforms.

KEENLY ANTICIPATED.

Twin Peaks Parlor No. 185 N.D.G.W. is enjoying a most successful term, with all activities in full swing. The social club, formed for the purpose of doing homeless children work, has held meetings at the homes of Merle Sandell and Marian Sullivan. The veteran welfare committee, under the direction of Kay Jensen, has been making monthly visits to Letterman Hospital, providing entertainment and refreshments for the boys.

Hannah Sandell and her committee paid an Admission Day visit to the children of the tubercular ward of San Francisco Hospital. These visits are keenly anticipated by the children, and the favors, candy, magazines and scrapbooks are greatly appreciated. The Parlor had a splendid turnout in the Ninth of September parade and many of the members enjoyed a luncheon after the march.

SURPRISE FOR BRIDE.

Ann Saxon-Dippel, recent bride of Mission Parlor No. 227 N.D.G.W., was given a real surprise in her beautiful new Forrest Hill home when she returned in August from her honeymoon. She was the recipient of many wonderful gifts from the Parlor members, who love her dearly for her cheery words and bappy smiles. Henry Dippel Jr., past president Mission Parlor No. 38 N.S.G.W., is the happy husband.

NEEDED LEGISLATION.
 Municipal Judge Theresa Merkle was the principal speaker at the Sunday morning breakfast at the Native Daughter Home, September 7. Paying the Orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West high tribute for the wonderful work being done in the interest of the homeless children, she implored her auditors to take action calling for needed legislation in regard to two situations:
 One, as to what a father should pay for the support of his children in cases of divorce or separation. This amount should not be arbitrarily set, but determined after official investigation into the man's capacity to pay. The amount should be determined with justice to both the man who must pay, and to the children and wife who are to receive the allowance.
 The other situation to be remedied, said the speaker, is establishment of a desertion bureau to seek and find men who have deserted their families and neglected to pay stated sums. Compel them to support those families, instead of, as now, throwing the care and the cost of the care upon the community.
 In the interest of humanity, of morals, and of the taxpayer, concluded Judge Meikle, these two projects should be carried to a successful establishment in law, with enforcement power.

GOOD SUGGESTION TO INCREASE
NEXT YEAR'S AUTO VISITORS.
 Although Californians are touring more than ever before, the influx of out-of-state cars has decreased, according to a check for July made by the California State Department of Agriculture at twenty-five checking stations along the border. A total of 109,073 cars entered the state carrying 313,795 persons, of which 41,302 cars bore out-of-state licenses.
 Comparison with the check for July of 1929 shows an increase of 18,628 cars and 47,050 passengers entering the state, but also a decrease of 4,060 in the number of cars bearing outside-state licenses, or a reduction of approximately 10 percent in the number of motor visitors.
 The suggestion, therefore, of the California Newspaper Publishers Association of a great fiesta year throughout All California in 1931, is a timely effort in the development of tourist travel. The idea of arranging entertainments throughout the state, to supplement the 180 established annual celebrations, is being hailed as a highly constructive movement, well designed to increase the normal influx of Eastern tourists during next year.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

SO NEW AND SO INTRIGUING ARE THE coat styles that we cannot put our finger on a single familiar detail, and this means that it is going to be a real joy to shop for a winter coat, because of the versatility of this season's offerings. Elegance is the keynote.

There is hardly a coat but boasts of elaborate fur embellishment. Short boleros and capelets contribute a youthful feeling to many of the coats. Redingote types are coming rapidly to the fore, and the Russian influence is strong. The double sleeve appears in many attractive versions, not to mention bell, gauntlets, puffs, flares and the various leg-o-mutton styles.

Fitted models of all kinds are to be found, either self trimmed or finished with elaborate fox collars. Solid colors with pipings are generally accepted for linings, and unusual combinations may be used, such as a deep brown lining in a gray coat.

Black is favored when the coat is worn as a part of an ensemble with light-weight wool dresses, and is usually lined with a fine wool crepe to match the dress.

Fur coats will follow the same fitted lines as the cloth coats, and will be much more pleasing to the figure. This year they are made without all the interlining and stiffening that made them cumbersome in other seasons. They are soft, extremely pliable, drape well, and almost cling to the figure. In general, coats will be dress length, with even hemlines.

An interesting use of fur will probably ride into popularity this fall. Among the smartest costumes will be the fur scarf. For formal street wear, an interesting ensemble will be composed of a plain, collarless coat and a tailored dress with a fur scarf collar, which will be knotted or carried through openings and will serve as a collar for both dress and coat.

An interesting street costume peculiar to this fall is the new coat dress, made of light-weight woolen. It is skillfully tailored and eliminates the necessity of a coat on mild afternoons, and yet gives the impression of being completely and smartly finished. The neckline is plain, and often has a narrow scarf collar of soft, supple fur, which can be either knotted at the throat or carried to one side with uneven lengths, through openings in the lapel.

This is the season of formal parties, and some are certain to call for fancy dress. The smart woman puts much thought into her wardrobe, knowing that here is an opportunity to make the most of her own individuality, choosing from the costumes of all time the one that will best set off her good points.

The woman who would like to wear black, yet feels that it does not become her, is granted favor now by the relief offered in touches of white or flesh near the face. Flattering collars and cuffs enliven the daytime dress, while scintillating hits of strass or delicate yokes of flesh chiffon distinguish black evening gowns.

The new mode stresses more than ever, if that be possible, the importance of matching up all the component parts of the costume. If you have only one complete outfit, and that is correct down to the tiniest detail, you will "make the grade" a lot better than if you had a dozen costumes selected haphazardly, with nothing in harmony.

Your frock may be nothing to cable home about, but if you complement it with a dashing little hat, and keep to a rigid harmony in gloves and hose and shoes and handkerchief and even costume jewelry, you can achieve unquestioned smartness and also the distinction that comes to the well-dressed few.

Shoes and hosiery will also follow the trend of the new fashions. While the popular two-toned tan or black-and-white styles will be worn for sports, street shoes will be more formal, and tailored. Black will be the dominating color with kid or calf pumps and plain tailored oxfords.

Brown suede matches the new ensemble and coats of brown for more formal wear. Patent leather is expected to become very popular. Suede and kid are used for the dressy pumps, and with them will appear the steel and rhinestone buckles.

The predictions concerning increasing length in gloves for fall have been fulfilled. There is a general feeling that long dress and coat sleeves will be no hindrance to this fashion.

Tweed frocks have been shown with three-quarter sleeves which call for long gloves. The long glove should have a wider fall scope than it has had in many years.

Black suedes are a "rich" note in fall gloves, especially when they are in lengths over eight buttons. Brown suede is expected to be in unusual demand for fall, but it is thought that black will come first in six- and eight-button lengths. The position gloves have achieved this season is, whether their shades are to match hosiery, frock, shoes or bag.

The idea of using different colored gloves for evening is new. They come in all the pastel shades and wine shades, and are recommended for gowns in pink shades. White and green are recommended for eggshell gowns.

Beading and embroidery are new fall neck-wear trims. Most of the solid beading is done with the bugle bead or tiny opaque heads. Large pearls are used on lace.

FEDERAL POPULATION FIGURES CALIFORNIA'S LARGEST CITIES.

The 1930 census added twenty-six cities of the United States to the group having a population of more than 100,000, bringing the total up to ninety-four, according to a September 3 statement of the Federal Census Bureau. Five of those cities are in California:

City	1930	1920	Gain
Los Angeles	1,233,561	576,673	656,888
San Francisco	637,212	506,676	130,636
Oakland	284,212	216,261	67,952
San Diego	147,897	74,683	73,214
Long Beach	141,528	55,593	85,935

September 17 the Census Bureau announced the group of cities with a population of from 25,000 to 100,000. The list totals 270 cities, fifteen of them being in California:

City	1920	Gain
Sacramento	93,685	65,908
Berkeley	81,543	66,036
Pasadena	75,875	45,354
Glendale	62,607	13,536
San Jose	57,547	39,642
Fresno	52,558	45,086
Stockton	47,951	40,286
San Bernardino	37,453	18,721
Santa Monica	36,993	16,262
Alameda	34,392	28,806
Santa Barbara	33,544	19,441
Riverside	30,654	19,341
Santa Ana	30,166	15,485
Alhambra	29,551	9,096
Eureka	28,179	18,638

Three of the cities in this group show an increase of more than 100 percent in population: Glendale 362.5, Alhambra 224.9 and Santa Monica 142.5.

Realtors To Gather—The twenty-sixth annual convention of the California Real Estate Association will be held at Santa Cruz City, October 21-24.

A BIT O' FARMING

PREPARED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY M. H. ELLIS

THE AIRPLANE APPEARS TO BE making a place for itself in agriculture as well as in transportation. Dusting and seeding are two farm operations that have been done quickly and well, under certain conditions, by airplane.

The latest use of the airplane in farm practice that has come to light, is that of seeding rice. To control watergrass, it has been found necessary to sow rice seed in the flooded field. The grass will not come up through the water, though the rice will. The airplane is ideal for such seeding, as it does not tear down levees or become mired in the mud. It covers ground at an almost unbelievable rate. Seeding of wheat fields, notable in the Tulare Lake bed, has been done successfully with airplanes.

In dusting fields and trees to control pests, the airplane is particularly effective. The dust forms a rolling cloud, which follows along the rows, rolling up under the leaves and covering all the foliage thoroughly. Where the dusting operation is imperative immediately, the airplane is at its best, for it can cover a thousand acres easily during the normally quiet portion of the day.

No doubt there will be other tasks assigned to the airplane in the course of its development. But with dusting against red spider, mildew and other insect pests and fungous diseases, it already has made an economic place for itself in California agriculture, where the farming operations are on a scale large enough to justify its use.

FERTILIZERS FOR VEGETABLES.

Most vegetables will profit by the use of fertilizers; where they are grown commercially the use of fertilizers is an economic necessity. What fertilizers to use depends, of course, upon the soil and its needs, but it is safe to say that almost any truck crop will make returns on the use of nitrogenous fertilizers. Not only is quantity increased, which is of course important, but quality also is improved, which is even more important.

In these days of keen competition in production, quality in produce means sales. Turning under a good cover crop every year will add to the fertility of the soil and will improve its tilth. Too, it is profitable to fertilize the cover crops to secure better yield. Thousands of acres of wornout soil in the older parts of the United States, and even in California, testify to the fallacy of the old method of taking continually from the soil without returning anything to it.

WINTER COVER CROPS.

Cover crops are valuable, whether sowed in spring or fall, but moisture limitations in this state are such that the winter cover crop is much the more important of the two. If water is available for irrigation, the winter cover crop will already have been planted. If in a district where rainfall must be depended upon, not a day should be lost after the moisture is sufficient to start germination of the seeds. Crops grow more slowly as the days shorten and the temperatures become lower; to get the most tonnage, early seeding is important.

Cover crops add humus to the soil, and are invaluable in providing nitrogen. The tilth of the soil is much improved. Cover crops are just about the cheapest means of keeping up the productivity of the soil, and since the cover cropping practice has come into vogue in this state profits have been added to agricultural returns that would be difficult indeed to estimate.

USUALLY HEREDITARY.

Split wings of chickens, where the feathers refuse to lie smoothly together but stand out separately, usually is a hereditary defect that can be corrected only by culling such hens from the flock from which eggs are to be taken for incubation and watching that the sires have no such tendencies. In some cases, it is true, the trouble may result from a diet deficiency, and in this case greens and milk will be of help in correcting the difficulty. Sunshine and exercise should not be neglected in the treatment. There is no treatment by application that will be of much avail in alleviating the difficulty.

CLEAN UP ARTICHOKE.

The artichoke plume moth, whose larvae cause the worm holes that make the buds unsalable, are more than apt to find splendid hibernating quarters in buds left about the field, or in other refuse. Wormy artichokes should be destroyed, either by burning or real deep burying. When the old tops are cut back, they should be plowed under or burned. Clean up the field and leave no haven for the moth or its larvae to spend the winter. Unless care is taken, there will be more worms next season, and while control with arsenate of lead and nicotine dust is possible, it is much easier and cheaper to clean up this fall.

FEDERAL TURKEY GRADES.

Turkeys will be graded again this year, where the producer cares to make use of the service furnished by the United States Department of Agriculture, which is co-operating with the University of California in the holding of a turkey grading school again this year. Last year, the first in which the service was tried, more than a million pounds of turkeys were graded and stamped. Thus marked, the housewife knows just what kind of a turkey she is buying. Knowing this, there is bound to be more and more demand for graded turkeys. The grower with quality birds can lose nothing through grading; the producer of poor birds will, under this plan, as always is the case in every line of produce, suffer the losses. Indications point to a somewhat smaller yield of turkeys in the state this year, with prices approximating those of last year, slightly below normal.

FALL PLOWING PROFITABLE.

It costs no more to plow in the fall than in the spring, and the crops from fall plowed land are usually much more profitable. Plowed in the fall, the soil has an opportunity to soak in all the rainfall. The ground should be left rough, so that the water will not run off. Ground plowed in the fall is ready when spring comes for harrowing and seeding, consequently can be planted earlier and the crop will mature with better chance of rainfall. Plowed in the spring, the seed bed gets little chance to get firmed down, and as a result the plants do not do as well and yields are smaller.

WATCH SELF-SUCKERS.

Heifers that form the habit of sucking themselves become almost useless. Their production is cut down, the tissue in the mammary glands is affected, and a pernicious habit formed that is difficult to break. The udder is likely to become hard as a result, and the milk thin and off color. At the first evidence of the habit, rig a pole so that the cow cannot turn to reach her teats. If the udder has already become affected and is hard, try hot applications twice a day of a quarter of an hour each time, after which knead and massage the udder with olive oil. Keep the animal well milked out. The habit is a hard one to break after the cow forms it firmly; it is far better to head it off when the first tendencies appear.

AFTER THE PEAR BLIGHT.

Pear blight hit heavily in many parts of the state this year, and in some localities fairly took the trees. In extreme cases practically the whole top has been cut away. The question, in such instances, is what to do to restore the orchard. Ordinarily, the best plan is to plant anew, unless the rootstock, trunk and variety combination is just what is wanted. Japanese root is now very unpopular in the state, owing to its susceptibility to hard end and black end.

So a French root is now the vogue, with an Old Home, another French variety but resistant to blight, used for the trunk and scaffolds. On this the desired variety may be budded or grafted. A few years ago the Japanese root was very popular, due to its resistance to blight, but that was before black end appeared. Obviously, in planting a new orchard this winter, this plan of stocks should be followed. It may prove wrong in the light of development in the next few years, but it is the best practice known now.

MAKING CIDER VINEGAR.

Before cider can be made into vinegar it must ferment, or become "hard." If old vinegar or "mother" then is added, vinegar will result. However, if sweet cider is mixed with vinegar, fermentation may be prevented and vinegar will not result. The sugar in the cider must first be changed to alcohol by fermentation, then the bacteria change the alcohol into acetic acid. Use a clean barrel in which to put the sweet cider, let it ferment and then sour. Ordinarily "mother" is not required, but it will hasten the souring of the fermented apple juice.

STOMACH WORMS OF SHEEP.

Before the rainy season sets in, treatment for stomach worms in sheep should be given if the flock was infected last winter or if there is any evidence of a present infection. Sheep weighing forty pounds or more should have a five cubic centimeter capsule of tetrachlorethylene; less than forty pounds, half the dose is sufficient. Repeat in two weeks. This treatment has many advantages over copper sulphate, previously recommended for control, and is more effective. This treatment is not expensive, and is an excellent precaution. Where symptoms develop, it should be used without delay.

SEED ALFALFA NOW.

October is the time to plant alfalfa, so that it may get established before the frosts come. Prepare a good firm and smooth seedbed, leveled and checked of course if it is to be irrigated. If the soil is too dry to work, give it a rough wetting and then get at it as soon as possible. When the leveling and checking are done, irrigate to settle the soil and to detect low and high spots that may need another leveling. Then disc and harrow, and broadcast about twenty or twenty-five pounds of seed per acre. Sow half lengthwise of the check and the other half crosswise to secure good distribution. Harrow lightly and then drag or roll. See that the soil is moist enough to foster germination and growth after the plants come through the ground.

MILK FOR FATTENING POULTRY.

The use of milk in fattening poultry is not to be overlooked. With a good fattening ration of grain, milk will do wonders in putting on pounds and making for quality in fowls. Keep the hens up in pens, give them all the grain and milk they will clean up, and in ten days or two weeks they will have about 50 percent more market value than if sold in poor condition direct from the range. The feed will ordinarily return about 100 percent profit. If quality is considered in the market on which they are sold, the chickens will return even larger profits. In any event, the added pounds will be paid for.

FREE MARTINS.

In about ninety-four cases out of a hundred, the heifers born twins to bulls will be barren, or free martins. There is no appearance of masculinity; in fact, there is no way the farmer can detect whether she has one of the six chances out of a hundred to become a breeder. A veterinarian can determine this fairly early in the life of the animal, however. There are long odds, though, that the heifer so born will be valueless as a breeder, and in the absence of any known test, the farmer will be taking little risk in fattening the animal if keeping and feeding out for beef is not profitable.

DORMANT SPRAY.

For pears and apples, the effectiveness of lime-sulphur as a dormant spray can be greatly increased through the addition of oil emulsion. Seven gallons of lime-sulphur, three of the paste-type oil and ninety of water will be far more effective against all pests, such as scales, for which a dormant spray is used on pears and apples, than the lime-sulphur alone. The oil acts as a spreader and retention agent, and where the combination has been tried, excellent results have been reported.

WATER AND WALNUTS.

With the walnuts off the trees, care should be taken at once to see that there is plenty of moisture in the soil. Leaves should stay on the trees until they fall in the natural way; they manufacture food for the tree. If from lack of moisture the leaves fall before their time, the tree may be short of stored food and a resultant poor crop will follow next year. One result that has been almost invariably traced to lack of moisture in the soil in the fall, is winter die-back.

There are many groves that have not had an irrigation for from four to six weeks. Probably they are badly in need of water, and the soil auger or soil tube should be called into use to determine if this is the case. Other deciduous trees have similar needs. With the ripening of the crop the tree is not ready to quit work for the season, and it must have water to complete its preparation for dormancy.

FALL BUDDING BEST.

Budding may be accomplished in the fall or in the early summer; fall budding is preferable. Moreover, in case the buds fail to stick, grafts can be used to replace them later in the winter, and little or no time will be lost. Fall buds will make a good growth next season, and there is no reason to delay the top working operation unless the grower prefers to graft. Budding generally is easier and cheaper, and the resultant growth will be as strong and as healthy.

PLAN TO LANDSCAPE.

Plan to do a bit of landscaping this winter, unless the farm home already has been cared for in this regard. "Tie the house to the ground" with shrubs, tall ones near the house, smaller growing ones in front. A bit of beautification makes for satisfaction, and actually adds many dollars to the place in case it is desired to sell it. Study houses that have been landscaped and make your plans to fit your needs and desires. The result will be worth while, if well done.

GRASS VALLEY—GRAND PRESIDENT Estelle M. Evans paid her official visit to Manzanita No. 29 September 2, fifty members welcoming her and all enjoying a sumptuous dinner. The tables were decorated in red, yellow and white flowers, bearing out in the decorative scheme the colors of the Order. After dinner all went to the lodge room, where three candidates were initiated into the Order. The officers put on the initiatory work in a splendid manner, and were highly complimented by the Grand President.

In her talk to the Parlor, Mrs. Evans spoke of the work being carried on by the different departments of the Order, and concluded her remarks with a pleasing address on the first principle of the Order, "Love of Home." Cards were played and refreshments served after the meeting, and all enjoyed a very happy evening. Among those in attendance were Past Grand President Alison F. Watt, two district deputies and representatives of six Parlors.

August 19 the Parlor entertained in honor of Past President Bertha Fuller, who is to become a bride in October. After a very amusing program, in which the Manzanita girls were assisted by Lottie Eden of Laurel No. 6, the members repaired to the banquet hall, where delicious refreshments were served. While at the table, a large clothes basket, prettily decorated, was brought in and presented to Miss Fuller. This contained many beautiful gifts of china, glassware and linen for the bride-to-be. Miss Fuller was president of Manzanita eighteen months ago, and was very active for the good of the Order. It was largely due to her untiring efforts that the beautiful Memory Garden at Memorial Park was planted and dedicated to the Pioneer Mothers.

August 14 the Parlor entertained the children of the members with a picnic at Memorial Park, some ninety guests and members being present. Much time was spent in swimming and making use of the playground apparatus, and at 5:30 all sat down at long tables and enjoyed a wonderful picnic supper. This is an annual custom of Manzanita.

Happy Occasion.

Susanville—Nataqua No. 152 and Honey Lake No. 198 N.S.G.W. jointly entertained at dinner September 7 in honor of the Pioneers and old residents of Lassen County, about 250 being in attendance. The tables were beautifully decorated and the food was excellently prepared and served. An interesting program of musical numbers and addresses was presented by guests and members of the Parlor. An extremely happy afternoon concluded with the presentation of bouquets to the Pioneers and old-timers.

Inspiring Talk.

Bieber—Grand President Estelle M. Evans, accompanied by Mms. Mary Ross and Myra Rademacker of Antioch, officially visited Mount Lassen No. 215 September 18. She gave an inspiring talk on the Order's work and praised the Parlor's officers for their ritual work. On behalf of No. 215, Marie Walsh presented a gift to Mrs. Evans. The losing team in the membership drive served refreshments.

Officers of Mount Lassen were installed by Past President Lettie Holl, assisted by Angie Kenyon and Dollie Washburn, Grace Bunselmier becoming president and Stella Tyler secretary. Dainty refreshments were served. Members of the Parlor and those of Big Valley No. 211 N.S.G.W. August 24 spent a pleasant day picnicking at the home of Frances Summers. A bounteous lunch was served.

Mount Lassen personals: Mrs. Vera and Charles Johnson are the proud parents of a son, born August 23. Gladys Chace recently became the bride of Melville Steiger, and was tendered a kitchen shower by the Parlor. Viranette Albaugh and little daughter, Barbara Jane, of Salinas visited her parents, A. W. and Nettie McKenzie, during September. Wanda Philliber and Muriel McKenzie have entered the Chico State College. Margaret Hall is enrolled at the junior college at Susanville, and Doratha Gerig is attending school in Sacramento.

Successful Year Anticipated.

Fullerton—Officers of Grace No. 242 were installed by District Deputy Rita Smith, assisted by the officers of Santa Monica Bay No. 245. Among the many visitors were Past Grand President Grace A. Stoermer, Grand Trustees Marvel Thomas and Florence Dodson-Schoneman, and Mrs. Bertha Hitt of Long Beach, who organized the Parlor.

Lucana McFadden, retiring president, was presented with a past president's emblem, and flowers were given the visiting grand officers. Mrs. Carrie Ford, the new president of the Parlor, is the daughter of a pioneer school teacher and typifies in every way the spirit and the aims of the Order. Under her leadership, the Parlor anticipates a successful year.

Ritual Satisfactory.

Halfmoon Bay—Grand President Estelle M. Evans, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. J. Houlhan, and District Deputy Anna Fraim of Pittsburg, officially visited Vista del Mar No. 155 September 11. The officers of the Parlor exemplified the ritual in a manner satisfactory to the Grand President, whose brief explanation of the Order's projects was instructive. Following the presentation of gifts to Mrs. Evans and Super-vising Deputy Ida M. Mesquite, delicious refreshments were served in the beautifully decorated banquet hall.

Newlywed Complimented.

Hollister—Anne Smith-Gould, recent newlywed, was the complimented guest at a kitchen shower arranged by Copa de Oro No. 105 following the regular meeting of September 11, the first session to be held since the usual summer recess commencing in July. Mrs. Gould was the recipient of many useful kitchen gifts, all in green, to match her kitchen color scheme. The attractively wrapped packages were heaped in a gayly decorated perambulator, which was wheeled into the lodgeroom by the bride, accompanied by two members attired as "infants."

Ruth Chambers was rewarded for furnishing the largest number of correct answers to a guessing contest. From the bride's cake Mollie Daveggio secured the thimble, Loretta McAleer the ring and Eleanor Nolan the dime. Nellie McCullough captured the bride's bouquet. Dainty refreshments were served at pretty tables, where the members were coupled as well-known lovers of the newspaper comic pages.

Exchange of Culture.

Nevada City—The official visit of Grand President Estelle M. Evans September 4 to Laurel No. 6 was fraught with pleasure, and an exchange of culture, with features of reciprocity, that will have an influence on the hearts and minds of those privileged to attend. Other visitors were Past Grand Presidents Alison F. Watt, Dr. Louise C. Heilbron and Esther Sullivan, Grand Trustee Sadie Brainard, District Deputies Estelle Beaseley, Mary Meade, Ruth Galligan, Beulah Coombs and Ovaline Penrose. The official visit included Columbia No. 70 (French Corral), whose members find it impossible to entertain at their own home but whose loyalty to and love for California bind them to the Order sacredly.

Prior to the meeting an excellent dinner was served and a program of appropriate community singing and believe-it-or-not witticisms, touching lightly the follies and fads of members present, kept a rush of fun moving on to the end of the meeting. The exemplification of the initiatory work was second in beauty only to the charm of the youthful candidate, Eugenia Wright, whose entrance sent a thrill of delight around the room and whose dignified modesty inspired the officers to a perfect performance of their duties.

Heartily Cheered.

Sonoma—September 8, Sonoma No. 209 celebrated its fifteenth institution anniversary and initiated three candidates. President Reena Bullock presided in a very gracious and splendid manner. At the banquet which followed the business meeting a large cake, with fifteen gleaming candles, was served with other good "eats."

The next morning, the 9th, a delegation of the Parlor's members left this historic town of the Bear Flag and marched in the Admission Day parade in San Francisco, representing a garden of California roses, in their costumes of rose and green crepe paper. They were cheered most heartily along the line of march and made a wonderful picture.

Outstanding Projects.

Downieville—Naomi No. 36 enjoyed an official visit from Grand President Estelle M. Evans September 4. A very pleasant session was held, and in the course of her address the Grand President fully explained the Order's three outstanding projects—the Native Daughter Home, the homeless children work, and the scholarships at the University of California at Berkeley, the University of California at Los Angeles, and Mills College. These and numerous other activities have brought the Order national recognition and commendation. A delicious lunch was served at the meeting's close.

Highly Successful.

Chico—The second annual Pioneer Day of Annie K. Bidwell No. 168, September 9, was largely attended and highly successful. Bouquets were presented Mrs. Katherin Murray and Joseph B. Garner, respectively the oldest native daughter and native son present. Mrs. Ruie Lyle, president of the Parlor, welcomed the guests and Rev. Rollo C. LaPorte delivered an invocation. Then followed a program, numbers being contributed by Mrs. Anna Westfall, Miss Lillian Laughlin, Mrs. Francis Snider, Mrs. Francis Perkins, Will McIntyre, Mrs. Charles Hintz, Mrs. Mattie Kesselring and Mrs. Gray. Refreshments were served at tables bedecked with flowers and flags. Here Mms. Bass, Heberle and Snider entertained with old-fashioned songs.

The Parlor is now prepared to supply a nurse in case of need; Mrs. Cora Hiltz is chairman of the nurse fund committee. Mrs. Nora Arnold heads a committee which will attempt to start a new relief collection, most of the Parlor's original collection being destroyed by fire. Plans for the initiation of a class of candidates identified with Butte County's early history are under way.

Hospital Patients Remembered.

Vallejo—Grand President Estelle M. Evans, accompanied by members of her home-Parlor, Antioch No. 223, officially visited Vallejo No. 195, which made elaborate plans to honor her. Among the many visitors were Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Past Grand President Mary E. Bell, District Deputies Ella Ingram, Elvena Woodard and Augusta Haxsol. Previous to the meeting dinner was served, and Grand Marshal Joseph Clavo, on behalf of Vallejo No. 77 N.S.G.W., presented Grand President Evans with a token of esteem.

During the meeting, presided over by President Anita McKenzie, two candidates were initiated, and Mrs. Evans told of the projects of the Order. She was presented with a gift by the Parlor, and District Deputy Ingram was the recipient of a bouquet of choice flowers. Refreshments followed the Parlor session. Committees in charge of the evening's arrangements were: Reception—Elvena Woodard, Irene Clark, Mae Prenton, Anita McKenzie, Edith Gutfeld. Decorating and Social—Julia Hill, Eugenia Wachlin, Helen Carr, Juliette Bliss. At the conclusion of the festivities the many beautiful flowers used in the decorations were taken by Edith Gutfeld to the Mare Island Naval Hospital and presented to the patients there.

Bride Showered.

Oroville—A bridal shower, complimentary to Mrs. Harold Cundy, was given by Gold of Ophir No. 190 September 15 at the home of Mrs. Alta Baldwin, who was assisted by Mms. Elice LaVoy and Belle Bills. Daisies, marigolds and jasmine adorned the home and the refreshment tables. Bridge was played.

The guest of honor was given the task of unwinding a string attached to various objects throughout the house. At the end of the "rainbow" she found the pot of gold, a large box, decorated in yellow and orchid, overflowing with gifts of linen, silver, bricabrac and crystal.

Grand Officer Injured.

Woodland—Grand Marshal Anna Mixon-Armstrong had the misfortune September 10 to fall and fracture her left leg in two places. Mrs. Armstrong is Woodland's postmistress.

To Initiate Large Class.

Petaluma—Petaluma No. 222 had visitors from Sonoma and Santa Rosa September 2. Following the meeting, at which much business was transacted, a social time was enjoyed. The drill team appeared in the San Francisco Admission Day, September 9, parade and, as usual, made a big hit. September 16 the drill team sponsored a public card party and made a neat sum. Prizes were awarded, and an electric iron was disposed of for a goodly amount. The affair proved most enjoyable.

At the first meeting in October the Parlor will initiate a large class of candidates. All of President M. Rieter's officers and committees are working hard to make her term a great success.

Graciously Welcomed.

Georgetown—Grand President Estelle M. Evans paid El Dorado No. 186 an official visit August 23, being accompanied by Ramona Beasley of Antioch, Ida Green of Hollister and a large delegation from Marguerite No. 12 (Placerville) were also visitors. The guests were graciously welcomed by District Deputy Beatrice Luce.

Grand President Evans was enthusiastic in her praise of the manner in which the officers discharged their duties, and spoke inspiringly of the aims of the Order. Margaret Kelley, chairman of history and landmarks, talked of early-day songs and noted Pioneers of Georgetown, and Jane McCusker recited a poem dedicated to James W. Marshall. Ida Bailey of Marguerite, who helped to institute El Dorado, and Irene M. Irish, the charter president, recalled pleasant memories of the Parlor's first meeting. The hall was beautifully decorated with woodwardia ferns and golden glow. The serving of dainty refreshments at prettily appointed tables concluded a very delightful afternoon.

song while the guests were seated at the festive board.

September 14 the association presented a piano to the Butte County Infirmary. President Mattie Lund made the presentation address, which was responded to by Superintendent J. F. McDonald. An extensive program was presented.

September 5 the association was entertained at the Ukiah home of Mrs. Irene Henry. Arrangements for the third annual banquet, early in November, were discussed.

Three Counties Get-Together.

San Juan Bautista—At the call of Supervising Deputy Bertha A. Briggs, representatives of the six Parlor of Santa Cruz, Monterey and San Benito Counties met here September 17 at the second get-together session of district deputies, grand officers and Subordinate Parlor officers. The evening was spent in the discussion of questions relating to ritualistic matters, district conference and official visits.

At this time plans were formulated for the annual district get-together session and overnight party at Asilomar, Saturday, October 4. This year the session will be open, thus permitting the attendance of non-members of the fraternity who may be interested in the work of the Order.

Games and a social hour will be followed by a bonfire on the beach. The festivities will commence with dinner at 6 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended all members of the Order. Reservations should be made direct with the Asilomar management at least three days preceding the meeting. Grand President Estelle M. Evans will visit officially San Juan Bautista and Copa de Oro No. 195 in joint meeting at Hollister October 23.

Grand President's October Itinerary.

Pittsburg—During the month of October, Grand President Estelle M. Evans will officially visit the following Subordinate Parlors on the dates noted:

In Memoriam

ELSIE WOOLLEY.

To the Officers and Members of Woodland Parlor No. 90 Native Daughters of the Golden West—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our departed sister, Elsie Woolley, submit the following:

Our Heavenly Father, in His infinite wisdom, has called from our midst our beloved sister, Elsie Woolley; in her passing a place has been made vacant, and we miss her bright and cheery presence.

Resolved, That it is a tender privilege to pay a loving tribute to the memory of her whose passing we mourn with deepest regret; be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, that a copy be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

MAUDE HEATON, NELLE HEBNER,
MARY TILLOTSON,
Committee.

CHANGES IN VEHICLE ACT TO BE REVIEWED BY CONFERENCE.

Proposed changes in the California Vehicle Act will be reviewed preparatory to the coming session of the State Legislature by an executive committee of the California Motor Vehicle Conference, which originally drafted and sponsored the act in 1923. Percy E. Towne, a director of the California State Automobile Association, has been re-elected chairman of the conference and Allen Davis, associate counsel of the Automobile Club of Southern California, was elected secretary.

The groups represented at the preliminary meeting of the conference, held at Los Angeles August 22, included the following: State Division of Motor Vehicles, State Railroad Commission, State Highway Commission, Automobile Club of Southern California, California State Automobile Association, California State Chamber of Commerce, California Farm Bureau Federation, San Francisco Motor Car Dealers' Association, Los Angeles Motor Car Dealers' Association, Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, Motor Carriers' Association, Truck Owners' Association of Southern California and the Los Angeles County motorcycle patrol.

CALIFORNIA SAFEST STATE IN WHICH TO OPERATE AUTO.

California has fewer motor vehicle deaths than the nation at large, in comparison to the number of miles traveled by California vehicles, according to the State Division of Motor Vehicles.

The death rate in California, based on consumption of gasoline, is 1.8 for every 1,000,000 gallons of gasoline consumed. The rate for the entire nation was found to be 2.8. One death occurs in California for every 6,631,000 miles traveled. This is based on an average consumption of 12 miles to a gallon for all vehicles.

"The California motorist's chance of being involved in a fatal accident is extremely low when the number of miles he travels is taken into consideration," says Frank G. Snook, chief of the division. "The Californian travels nearly twice as many miles annually as the Eastern motorist, because the latter puts his car in the garage several months each year.

"Actually, California is the safest state in the Union in which to drive a car, because our roads and weather conditions are better. This is borne out by the death rate, when computed in terms of gasoline consumption.

THE DESPAIR OF THIEVES.

Although the way of the automobile thief is becoming harder and harder, there is still danger to careless owners who do not lock their cars. Figured out in cold mathematics, every car owner has one chance in eighty-three of having his car stolen. After this happens his chances are eighty-nine to a hundred that it will be recovered. The owner who keeps his car locked is the despair of thieves, according to the authorities.

Becoming Educated—Motorists are becoming educated to the dangers of grade crossings and are negotiating them more cautiously than in other years. There were fewer accidents at grade crossings in the first four months of 1930 than in any corresponding period since 1925, and fewer persons were killed.

Look to Brakes—In 288 auto accidents during the first half of 1930, defective brakes were a contributing cause.

ADJUSTMENTS AND REPAIRS TO AUTO SHOULD BE MADE NOW.

Now is the time to give your car a thorough "once-over," it is suggested by the emergency road service department of the Automobile Club of Southern California. Summer vacation trips and general driving give an automobile hard usage, it is pointed out, so that the end of the vacation season is a good time to check up, tighten and make general adjustments and repairs to the machine.

Among the parts of the car that should be checked are: The lighting system, including re-focusing and brightening of globes and reflectors; adjusting, cleaning and tightening of brake bands; checking of the cooling system; adjustment of windshield wipers, and tightening bumpers and other protective equipment; patching of tire cuts, etc. Going over the car for minor troubles benefits the motorist, especially during an approaching rainy season.

"DANGEROUS AGE" FOR MOTORISTS, 20 TO 29 YEARS.

Drivers with two or more years of experience at the wheel figured in the greatest number of motor vehicle accidents in California during the first half of 1930, in statistics issued by the State Division of Motor Vehicles.

The total number of accidents during the period was 14,213, resulting in the deaths of 1,066 persons and the injury of 18,696. The experience of the drivers involved in the mishaps was listed as follows: Two years or more, 12,673; one to two years, 333; six to twelve months, 108; three to six months, 49; less than three months, 69.

The "dangerous age" for motorists, according to the figures, is from 20 to 29 years, with 5,296 drivers in that range topping the list. From 30 to 39 years came next with 3,998 accidents, followed by 40 to 49 years in 2,657 accidents, 50 years and over in 1,908 cases, and the youngest class, 10 to 19 years, in 1,631 instances.

DECISION ON LIABILITY LAW TO GO TO SUPREME COURT.

To secure final adjudication of the constitutionality of the section of the California Vehicle Act involving suspension of operators' licenses for failure to pay damage judgments, attorneys for the California State Automobile Association and the Automobile Club of Southern California are planning action that will permit carrying the question to the State Supreme Court.

The District Court of Appeal at Los Angeles recently handed down a decision holding unconstitutional the section of the amended motor vehicle act of 1929 requiring suspension of an operator's license for failure to pay a judgment based upon the negligent driving of an automobile. The court held the section unconstitutional on the ground that, in operation, it amounts to the taking of property without due process of law.

Use Extreme Care—Good sense, as well as the law, dictates that a motorist should use extreme care in backing from a driveway into the street. A Supreme Court ruling holds that a person backing a car out of a driveway is required by law to exercise greater care than when driving along a highway, because it is an operation calling for a high degree of skill and caution.

After Vandals—Vandals preying upon desert life have gone too far in their useless destruction, and now a reward of $100 is offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone unlawfully destroying desert flora in Western beauty spots. This standing reward is announced by the International Desert Conservation League.

"Left Turn" Signal—Extending the arm straight out in a "left turn" signal is now advised when attempting to pass another car. As a result of numerous accidents in crowded traffic when two or more cars attempt to pass another at the same time, the policy of giving the "left turn" signal before passing is urged.

Keep Schools in Mind—"Slow Passing School—Safe Driving Rule," was the September slogan of the California Committee on Public Safety in its campaign to lessen auto accidents. The autoist should have the slogan in mind always.

Good Drivers—Results of a recent nationwide survey show that while one out of every four auto drivers is a woman, women are involved in but one of every seventeen accidents.

WITH GRAND PRESIDENT JOHN T. Newell presiding, the Board of Grand Officers met September 8. Other members of the Board in attendance were Junior Past Grand President Charles L. Dodge, Grand First Vice-President Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Second Vice-president Seth Millington, Grand Third Vice-president Justice Emmet Seawell, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Trustees Irving D. Gibson, Ben Harrison, Charles A. Koenig, Samuel M. Shortridge Jr., Joseph McShane, A. W. Garcelon and George F. McNoble. Visitors at the meeting were Past Grand Presidents John H. Grady and Fred H. Greely, and Grand Marshal Joseph Clavo.

Because of illness, Grand Organist Henry G. W. Dinkelspiel advised that he would be unable to appear in the Admission Day, September 9, parade.

A letter from the relatives of the late Senator James Duval Phelan (Pacific No. 10), expressing appreciation for floral offerings and expressions of goodwill, was received.

In reply to a communication from the United States commission arranging for the celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington, the first President, the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That the Grand Parlor N.S.G.W. does hereby endorse the program of observance of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington, to take place in 1932; accept with appreciation the invitation of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, and pledge this organization to extend earnest co-operation to the United States Commission in all possible ways, so that future generations of American citizens may be inspired to live according to the example and precepts of Washington's exalted life and character, and thus perpetuate the American Republic; and be it further resolved, that this resolution be incorporated in the official proceedings of this meeting and that a copy thereof be transmitted to the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, Washington, D. C."

Announcement was made that Miss E. E. Digges, for more than twenty years associated with the office of the Grand Secretary, had resigned to devote her time to her private interests.

In response to a letter from Miss Grace A. Stoermer, Past Grand President N.D.G.W., Grand Secretary Regan was directed to advise her that the Order has no available funds for entering a float in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses, January 1, 1931.

It being called to the attention of the Board that merchants in San Francisco, Napa City, Sonoma County and Mountain View had agreed to close their places of business September 9 in recognition of Admission Day, Grand Secretary Regan was directed to send letters of thanks to the chambers of commerce in those places.

Announcement was made that the grand officers will dedicate two San Bernardino County public schools, October 8 and 9.

Grand President Newell announced his intention of inviting all the Past Grand Presidents to attend the next meeting of the Board.

Past Grand Host.

Napa—As has been his annual custom for many years, Past Grand President Frank L. Coombs recently entertained his associates in the Past Grands Association at dinner at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harry C. Dunlap, near Yountville. During the day the guests were escorted through the California Home for Veterans by Colonel Holderman. The following Past Grands enjoyed Coombs' hospitality:

John H. Grady, Fred H. Greely, Dr. Charles W. Decker, Robert M. Fitzgerald, William H. Miller, Lewis F. Byington, Joseph R. Knowland, Thomas Monahan, Daniel A. Ryan, William P. Caub, William J. Hayes, James F. Hoey, Judge Fletcher A. Cutler and Charles L. Dodge.

Neighbors Assist.

Santa Ana—Santa Ana No. 265 initiated two candidates September 15, the ritual being exemplified by President Walter E. Hiskey, assisted by the officers of Arrowhead No. 110 (San Bernardino), who were accompanied by a large delegation of that Parlor's members.

Refreshments were served, and addresses were made by Grand President John T. Newell and Grand Trustee Ben Harrison; Judge Jerome B. Kavanaugh, Treasurer John Andreson, Recording Secretary "Bob" Brazelton and "Bill" Jasper of Arrowhead; Willard Smith and Russell Adkinson, the initiates.

Fine Showing By Marin.

San Rafael—The initiatory officers of Sea Point No. 158 (Sausalito) and Mount Tamalpais No. 64 are making active preparations for a new series of ritual contests for a trophy to be selected in the near future. Much interest is manifest. The last series was won by Mount Tamalpais, the trophy being a silver plaque, which remains the property of that Parlor. These contests are having a most stimulating effect in both Parlors and doing much to promote a spirit of friendly rivalry. The officers keep well up in their work, and other members co-operate in making the meetings of both Parlors successful.

The drum and bugle corps of Mount Tamalpais plans giving a dance at Masonic hall Saturday evening, October 11, and the drill team of Marinita N.D.G.W. will sponsor a dance Saturday evening, October 25, at the same place.

All the Marin County Parlors co-operated in the Admission Day, September 9, celebration in San Francisco. Sea Point No. 158 and Sea Point No. 196 N.D.G.W. (Sausalito) joined with Mount Tamalpais No. 64 and Marinita No. 198 N.D.G.W. (San Rafael) in one of the most unique and attractive marching presentations ever seen in an Admission Day parade. The girls, in blue, with white stars upon their hats, and the boys, in red, formed a human American Flag. The drum corps of Mount Tamalpais preceded the marchers. Tamalpa No. 231 N.D.G.W. (Mill Valley) was represented with a strikingly beautiful float, in varying shades of yellow. The Marin County showing was heartily applauded along the line of march.

To Dedicate Public Schools.

San Bernardino—Arrowhead No. 110 is making great preparations for October 8 and 9, when it will entertain several of the grand officers. Invitations have been sent to all near-by Parlors, and a big gathering is anticipated. Under the auspices of the Parlor, two public schools are to be dedicated—the Woodrow Wilson elementary the 8th, and the Rialto junior high the 9th. Grand President John T. Newell will preside at these ceremonies and attractive programs will be presented.

The night of the 8th, Arrowhead will be officially visited by Grand First Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez and a large class of candidates will be initiated. Entertainment features will be provided, and No. 110 will serve one of its noted feasts for the inner man. All Native Sons will be welcomed.

Host to Past Presidents.

Roseville—Rocklin No. 233 entertained Fred H. Greely Assembly of Past Presidents August 28, when visitors were present from Butte, Yuba, Nevada and Sutter Counties. Sheriff Elmer H. Gum and Wendel Robie of Auburn No. 59 told interestingly of the landmarks work of that Parlor.

Ralph Sanstad and Barney Barry (Silver Star No. 63) of Lincoln, Dr. C. W. Chapman (Hydraulic No. 56) of Nevada City and Wendel Roble (Auburn No. 59) of Auburn were selected as delegates to the General Assembly. A banquet was served at the close of the meeting.

Decided Success.
 Arcata—The annual whiskerino ball of Arcata No. 20, September 6, was a decided success, more than 800 being in attendance. Edward Byard, the general chairman, was assisted by an efficient committee. Many interesting costumes, as well as whiskers of all lengths and colors, were in evidence. For the best costume, first prize went to J. Sands and second to John Griffiths. Splendid music was supplied, and everybody had an enjoyable time.

Some time in October, probably the 11th, the marker provided by the Parlor to indicate the site of historic Camp Curtis, will be dedicated. The Society of Humboldt County Pioneers is co-operating in the arrangements. At this historic spot, on the Redwood highway north of Arcata, soldiers were stationed during the Indian wars.

Membership Standing Largest Parlors.
 San Francisco—Grand Secretary John T. Regan reports the standing of the Subordinate Parlors having a membership of over 400 January 1, 1930, as follows, together with their membership figures September 20, 1930:

State Meet of Past Presidents.
 Tracy—The General Assembly of the Past Presidents Association will meet here Saturday, October 13, at 2:30 p. m. Following transaction of business and election of a new corps of state officers a banquet will be served. Present officers include: C. J. Frerichs, governor general; L. T. Sinnott, junior past governor general; Arthur J. Cleu, lieutenant-governor general; James F. Stanley, director general; John T. Regan, secretary-treasurer general; John P. Colford, marshal general; Wesley Colgan, guard general; J. J. Longshore, sentinel general; L. J. Sterling, L. F. Erb, H. Herrmann, trustees general.

Butano Forest Must Be Saved!
 Santa Cruz—Butano forest, thirty miles from San Jose and forty miles from San Francisco, lies in the southern end of San Mateo County and is one of the most magnificent stands of timber remaining in the state. Escaping destruction by fire or lumbering operations only by the intervention of Providence during these years, a movement to save these trees and make them a part of the state park system has been launched by Santa Cruz No. 90, with Santa Clara and San Mateo Counties Parlors throwing the entire weight of their organizations into the campaign.

With "Butano forest must be saved!" as their objective, Native Sons and Native Daughters of those counties opened an intensive campaign September 9 in San Francisco, where they presented a series of five typical floats in the Admission Day parade. Close co-operation of Parlors throughout the state is expected, because the Native Sons and Daughters have as one of their main objects the preservation of the landmarks and the scenic spots of California.

District Deputy Lettie Lewis. Visiting members included President Myra Rademaker and Financial Secretary Mary Ross of Astoria, who accompanied Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Olga Deter of San Jose and Miss Anna Smith of Alameda. A profusion of gorgeous summer blossoms were effectively used in the decoration of the lodge room.

Two candidates, Misses Cella Smith and Margaret Pitman, were initiated, and the Grand President complimented the officers highly on the efficiency of their work. Later all repaired to the banquet hall, where a tempting collation was served. The tables were attractive with baskets of flowers in the Parlor's colors, red, yellow and white, with lighted tapers to match. A short program followed: Readings, Mrs. Lettie Lewis; piano selections, Miss Margaret Pitman; reading, Mrs. Evelyn Timmons; vocal solos, Grand President Evans; piano solo, Mrs. Minna K. Horn.

Winter Whist Series.

Modesto—Morada No. 199 perfected plans September 10 for the entertainment of Grand President Estelle M. Evans, who will pay her official visit October 22. Miss Eleanor Lewis heads the arrangements committee.

Plans are also being made for a series of whist parties to be given during the winter months by Modesto No. 11 N.S.G.W. and Morada, the first to be held October 15. Mms. Leila Benson and Violet Vierra, Misses Eleanor Lewis, Effie Prothero and Ann Oleson of Morada, and B. E. Munson, Roy Alberts, M. V. Wilson, Lynn Bither and Wilbur Mahoney of Modesto will have charge of the October party. Dancing and refreshments will follow the card game.

GRUBS IN THE GRASS.

There have been more complaints than usual this year over the appearance of grubs in lawns. They destroy the roots of the grass, making the lawn unsightly. Complete control is possible, and with no great difficulty or expense. Four parts of hydrated lime to one of arsenate of lead sprinkled over the lawn will eradicate the insects. They are of the cutworm family, and resemble that pest greatly. They are voracious eaters, and unless checked will ruin a lawn in no great length of time.

MILLIONS BEING EXPENDED

George H. White

(SAN DIEGO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.)

TRANSPORTATION, NOW MORE than ever a commanding factor in human affairs and in civic destinies, is claiming new millions of dollars expenditure of public money at San Diego, and this is not for means of transportation, but only for terminal facilities.

Most of the expenditure is going for harbor improvements necessitated by developments in water transportation and a large part for accommodations of aerial travel as exemplified in the extension of Lindbergh Field. Highway paving continues, however, as wanted by the motoring public, and the rails are represented by a $100,000 purchase of lands by the Santa Fe, which has not yet announced intentions of usage.

Early establishment of a transcontinental southern airway from Birmingham, Alabama, to San Diego, to connect here with Pacific Coast lines, is announced by Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, in Washington. The survey for emergency landing fields and beacon lights enroute to Lindaircraft carriers "Lexington" and "Saratoga" and the largest ocean liners when laden to capacity with freight.

Lengthening of the naval air station pier and deepening of the nearby channel, thus providing adequate facilities for berthing of the "Lexington" or "Saratoga."

Work on reconstructing the Broadway pier is well under way. The dock will be completed about August 1, 1931, according to Port Director Joe Brennan. The dock is being extended 200 feet; it will be 130 feet wide.

The upper part of the terminal will be glass enclosed and will be attractively decorated with potted flowers and plants. Special facilities will be provided for the comfort of friends and relatives of incoming or departing sea travelers and for the inspection of baggage.

"Our plans call for making the Broadway pier one of the finest passenger terminals to be found at any port in the world," says Brennan. "We realize the importance of making a good impression on travelers arriving here by steamer and all these factors are being taken into consideration in the planning and decorating of the dock."

In an effort to expedite the dredging of the bar plans are being formulated to have the city advance $80,000 to the harbor department for payment of three months' dredging activities. This action will permit work to be started not later than January 1, instead of waiting until the federal appropriation becomes available next spring. Such a procedure has been approved by the district army engineers.

Steps also are being taken to provide an adequate and commodious anchorage basin for pleasure yachts. Two round-the-world cruisers will make San Diego a port of call this year—the "Samaria," due December 16, and the "Belgenland," due December 31.

Brennan is co-operating with the publicity department of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce in endeavoring to induce various transatlantic steamship lines to call at San Diego in 1932, when they bring athletes and world tourists to California South for the Olympic games. It is reported that seven large transatlantic liners already have been chartered for this purpose. They will come to the coast via the Panama Canal.

A new steamship line of which Jack Dempsey is a director has applied to the U. S. S. "LEXINGTON,"

Naval aircraft carrier which, with sister ship "Saratoga," will be provided turning basin and berthing in San Diego Harbor.

bergh Field is now in progress, and San Diego will have this municipal airport in readiness for the increased traffic.

Of the harbor improvements, three major projects call for expenditure of upwards of $1,200,000 in municipal and federal funds. These three include:

Reconstruction of the Broadway pier at a cost of $300,000, doubling the present capacity of the sea terminal and making it probably the finest structure of its kind in the United States.

Expenditure of $756,000 in harbor dredging, including the deepening, realigning and widening of the bar, permitting at any stage of the tide passage of the giant harbor commission for berthage at the Broadway pier. This company plans to operate a daily steamship service to Ensenada, transporting passengers to the new pleasure resort at the Lower California seaport. A fleet of three steamers will operate in this new service.

San Diego's mounting passenger and freight trade is illustrated by report of harbor activities for the last fiscal year. The total maritime commerce, domestic, interoceanic and foreign, amounted to more than $40,000,000. The number of vessels arriving and departing during the last twelve months was 2,376. These steamers brought or transported to various world ports 73,720 passengers.

MISSION RESTORATION PROCEEDING.

Work on the restoration of Mission San Diego de Alcalá—the first and one of the most famous of all the California missions—is proceeding satisfactorily, and in all probability will be completed in every detail before the end of the year. The crumbling old walls are down, and the adobe bricks therefrom will be used in the reconstruction. The entire foundation is in, and in another month the walls will be up and ready for the roof.

It is unfortunate that about $11,000 of the restoration fund is tied up in the recently defunct California Bank, but the restoration work is being continued and the mission will be completely restored. This is assured by Albert V. Mayrhofer, deputy grand president N.S.G.W. and chairman of the restoration committee, who has labored long and earnestly for the consummation of this commendable project.

He has issued a request that subscribers to the restoration fund mail their subscriptions to him at the Bank of America, Fifth and "E" streets. Checks should be made out to the "Old Mission Restoration Fund." The fund is in good shape, according to Chairman Mayrhofer, and with the co-operation of subscribers, now that the work is actually under way, the first of the year will see Mission San Diego de Alcalá again the commanding feature of Mission Valley and the shrine of pilgrims from all parts of the United States.—C. M. H.

ACTIVITIES RESUMED.

Members of San Diego Parlor No. 208 N. D. G. W. and their families recently enjoyed a beach supper. During the evening games were played by some, while others sported in the waves by the light of a crescent moon. With President Pearl Adams Simpson presiding, two candidates were initiated September 23, and at the close of the meeting the September social committee provided entertainment and refreshments. A dance for October 28 is being arranged for by the October social committee.

The Golden Poppy sewing club of the Parlor was entertained during September by Mrs. C. C. Cummings and P. A. Simpson. Clothing is being made for the annual gift to the Homeless Children Central Committee, and other articles are being made for a bazar. The Past Presidents Association, which adjourned for the summer after the June meeting at the home of Miss Adele Koop, met in September with Mrs. Rosina Hertzbrun. President Irma A. Heilbrun is back from a trip through the middle west, Miss Ann Wood is home from a visit to Alaska, and other members have returned from various vacation jaunts and summer schools.

HISTORY BROADCAST.

In recognition of Admission Day, September 9, San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. sponsored a program over radio station KGB, the feature of which was an address by Deputy Grand President Albert V. Mayrhofer, in which he related the story of California's admission to statehood and of the developments within the state preceding that action.

September 17 the Parlor initiated two candidates. Following the ceremonies entertainment was provided and refreshments were served.

NINTH ANNUAL NAVY DAY.

Naval establishments ashore and afloat will hold "open house" on the occasion of the ninth annual observance of Navy Day, October 27, according to an announcement of the Federal Navy Department.

So far as possible, naval vessels will be distributed among ports throughout the country, and the public will be invited aboard for inspection "to acquaint our citizens with their sea service."

BIG TREES GROVE SAVED.

Santa Cruz City—The famous near-by Felton grove of big trees, embracing 355 acres, is to become a public park and saved for posterity. Santa Cruz County appropriated $75,000 of the $150,000 purchase price, and the Santa Cruz County Big Trees Company raised the remainder through popular subscription.

Planning Meet—The planning section of the League of California Municipalities will have its annual convention at Long Beach, Los Angeles County, October 6-9.

HAIL TO THEE, PIONEER!

Evelyn Joyce Eby

(CHAIRMAN PUBLICITY COMMITTEE
REINA DEL MAR PARLOR N.D.G.W.)

"THE AMERICAN PIONEERS! TO them go the honors of the state for, in their period, California reached her destiny as part of the United States."

Honoring the sturdy Pioneers of the American period—that period which lay between the Civil War and today—who made the California of today possible, Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116 N.S.G.W. and Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126 N.D.G.W. together fittingly observed in Santa Barbara the eightieth anniversary of California's admission to the Union.

Out amid the sturdy oaks which surround in picturesque fashion the Santa Barbara Womans Club building in Mission Canyon, were these Santa Barbara old-timers of that sturdy American type who turned their backs on Eastern civilization and trekked to the land of the setting sun—the California Pioneers. They come each year—to meet together, to renew friendships that never need renewing, so enduring are they, and to reminisce.

That is the word—reminisce. The Native Sons, their wives and the Native Daughters, hosts and hostesses to the American Pioneers, merely were stage managers for this delightful occasion.

And this was as it should be, for the annual reception tendered the Pioneers on Admission Day by the Native Sons and Native Daughters is designed to bring back the past, to give pleasure to the hardy first settlers, and to create in the hearts of the later generation a spirit of gratitude for their forebears' fruitful efforts.

Many of the Pioneers who attended the reception that afternoon were among the first to sign the official roster on the first Pioneer Day held by the Native Daughters, four years ago. Each year the ranks are lessened by the death of many who mingled in the groups, reminiscing and living again for an afternoon the spirit of the olden days. These are missed, but the spirit of their achievements lives on.

The Pioneers started to arrive at 1:30 o'clock, an hour before the formal program, and spent the time visiting one another. At 2:30 o'clock they assembled in the auditorium for a short formal program before the reception. The program was opened by Mrs. John Mitchell, president of Reina del Mar Parlor, who welcomed the guests in behalf of the Native Sons and Daughters. She then introduced Mrs. Daisy L. Prideaux, a member of Ursula Parlor No. 1 (Jackson), the first Parlor of the Native Daughters. Mrs. Prideaux, prominent in musical circles in Santa Barbara, is herself the daughter of Pioneers, her father coming around the Horn to California and her mother crossing the plains in a covered wagon.

PROGRAM OF SONGS.

The program of old-time songs and music popular with the older generation, arranged by Mrs. Prideaux, was received with great enthusiasm by the guests, as memories of their childhood and youth were recalled. Those participating in the program were: Vocal trio, Mrs. O. L. Russum, Miss Zillah Barnett and Mrs. Prideaux; instrumental trio, Miss Inez Cash, violin, Miss Mildred O'Neill, cello, and Miss An-

TRIBUTE BY SWEETSER.

Paul Sweetser, a Native Son, paid eloquent tribute to the assemblage before him, speaking briefly on the debt California owes to its Pioneers. He said "that even ns Cleero felt that anything in him worth while he owed to the poet, Archeus, so anything in us worth while, or any shadow worth while, we owe to the Pio-

REMINISCENCES LED BY SLOAN.

James E. Sloan, a native of California who came to Santa Barbara County thirty-three years ago, gave the main address of the afternoon. He has lived in Santa Barbara more than eighteen years, and served it as mayor at one time. Sloan, who was introduced by Mrs. Mitchell as having "come with the railroads," proved himself an able chronicler of earlier days in a review of the early history of the state and pioneer times.

Active workers in successful Admission Day reception to Pioneers, and participants in the discussions. Seated, left to right—WINFIELD METCALF, county treasurer; I. M. CLARK, came to California in 1858 by way of Isthmus; JAMES E. SLOAN, who "came with the railroads," made the main address. Standing, left to right—JUDGE DELHY of Inyo County; PAUL SWEETSER, Native Son, who spoke on "The Debt We Owe the Pioneers;" DAN TAYLOR of Santa Barbara Parlor N.S.G.W.

neers. We owe a debt to them for giving us the key to the western gate; we owe them a debt for the natural beauty which surrounds us; and we owe them a debt for the spirit which they have breathed into the people of California. Friendliness, loyalty and sincerity come to us from the Pioneers, and those are the coins in which we must repay them for what they have given to us in braving the dangers of the unknown."

The most interesting part of the program each year is the hour set aside for personal experiences and reminiscences. Several old-timers of the city responded to Sloan's invitation to speak. First to respond was Judge Delhy of Inyo County, who is at present presiding in the superior court in Santa Barbara. He was followed by C. M. Gidney, who came to Santa Barbara in 1886; E. D. Bates, who arrived on the first train in the little city in 1887, F. E. Kellogg, 1873, and I. M. Clark, who came to California in 1856.

Some of the tales were extremely humorous, and others were tinged with touches of pathos and accounts of heroism, courage and sturdy endurance.

PIONEER WOMEN REMINISCE.

Among Santa Barbara's most interesting Pioneers is Mrs. Jane Kimherly, who has attended the receptions yearly. She came to Santa Barbara in 1866 as the bride of Captain Martin Kimherly. There were about ten American families living here then, according to her. There was not even a lighter to carry passengers ashore from the boats. They were landed into small boats and rowed in as far as the breakers, where busky sailors picked them up in their arms and carried them ashore. The bailes or dances were the only entertainment in the sixties. There were no shows or circuses until some years later. Captain Kimberly and his bride were first entertained by Don Louis Burton in his rambling old home on what is now known as Burton Mound.

The credit of being Santa Barbara's oldest pioneer woman to register in the official roster book goes to Mrs. Bridget McCaffrey, who came to California in 1865. Among the others taking part in the interesting discussions were Mrs. E. S. Sawyer, 1878; Mrs. Juliette Fish, 1879; Mrs. Louisa Reed, 1884, and Mrs. Margaret Dorsey, who came to Santa Barbara in 1875.

DAYS OF OLD DISCUSSED.

One could hear interesting snatches from these old-timers as out on the broad plaza in the shimmering twilight of the late afternoon tea was served from three attractively decorated tables and passed by members to the little groups. At the same time, the guests of honor Interesting tales of early days are being told in this picture. Evelyn Eby, chairman Reina del Mar N.D.G.W., publicity committee, chronicles stories being told by some of the Pioneers. Front, left to right—MRS. FREDERICKA NEBEL, who came from Germany in 1876; MRS. LOUISA REED, 1884; MRS. MARGARET DORSEY, 1875; EVELYN EBY. Standing, left to right—HARRY C. were given charming old-fashioned bouquets to take away with them. What were these old-timers talking about? Listen to these:

"I arrived in San Francisco in 1868. Yes, I am getting on. This wasn't so long after the first gun had been fired at Fort Sumter."

"In the olden days it took so little to amuse us. I am afraid we have lost our capacity to create pure, wholesome fun."

And from a gentle, gray-haired man, "I remember distinctly coming here by boat. The town did show some evidence of American occupation. There had been a land boom in 1872, and some who came then stayed and some could not get out if they had desired to."

"I recall that the court house was in an old adobe situated in the same block in which the present court house is built."

"In the East we had heard of San Francisco and Northern California, but what is now Southern California was indeterminate cattle country, and no civilized people were expected to go there."

"When we arrived in San Francisco we had to wait four days for the steamer 'Pacific,' as It only made the trip south once a week, and perhaps not then."

"I've never been homesick since I've been in Santa Barbara."

And so and thus they talked. There was 1 M. Clark, who came to Santa Barbara in 1865 by steamer, crossing the Panama canal. And—

But it would take too long to tell of them all—those wonderful builders; courteous, genteel, courageous men and women of yesterday.

Three rosters were provided for registration of those attending. Pioneers wrote their names in one, native Californians in the second, and guests in the third. Mrs. M. C. Harrison, past president of Reina del Mar Parlor, has charge of the rosters.

MEMBERS TAKE ACTIVE PART.

Those in charge of the affair were the history and landmarks committee of Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126 N.D.G.W., with Mrs. George McCrea as chairman, assisted by Miss Anna E. McCaughey, supervising district deputy, Mrs. Jane Vick, district deputy, Mrs. John Mitchell, president of the Parlor, and the Admission Day committee of Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116 N.S.G.W., with Harry C. Sweetser at the head.

The members of Reina del Mar's history committee are Miss McCaughey, Mrs. Flora Stewart, Miss Edna Sharpe, Mrs. Soledad Birabent, Mrs. Amelia Acres, Mrs. Molly Hollow, Mrs. Anna Myers, Mrs. Ora Coffey, Mrs. Manie C. Harrison, Miss Gloria Smith and Miss Hortense Maguire. The committee from the Native Sons included, in addition to Chairman Sweetser, Weston E. Learned, James A. Sloan, Darrell T. Stuart, Harry Barrach and A. C. Dinsmore.

Taking an active part in preparations for the occasion were Mrs. Irene Quinn, past president, who had charge of the decorations; Mrs. Molly Hollow, who had charge of the procuring of flowers and the making of the old-fashioned bouquets which have been a feature of the reception each year. Assisting were Mrs. Edna McCormick, Mrs. Ruth Henry, Mrs. Delia Longmire and Miss Marjorie Stone.

Mrs. Lydia Brady, Mrs. Margaret Callis, Mrs. Mae Spreitz, all past presidents of the Native Daughter Parlor, were in charge of the tea tables. Of the three tables, the first was presided over by pioneer women, including Mrs. Charles Sherman, Miss Isabelle V. McFarlane and Miss Anna M. Knight. At the second were representatives of the Daughters of the American Revolution, including Miss Elizabeth Mason, Miss Kathleen McCargar and Mrs. Mark Bradley; and wives of the officers of the Native Son Parlor were invited to preside at the third, including Mrs. A. C. Dinsmore, Mrs. John Stewart and Mrs. Harry Sweetser.

As a conclusion to the day's festivities, members of the two Parlors and their friends enjoyed a dance in the evening in the auditorium of the Womans Clubhouse, beautifully decorated for the occasion. Miss Edna Sharpe, in charge, worked in conjunction with the Native Son committee.

"Hail to thee, Pioneer! We have done this so that we may show to them our appreciation of the sacrifices they made and the things that they accomplished. And it is with a feeling of humility and deference that we pay honor to the Pioneer."

BUSY YEAR'S WORK PLANNED FOR NATIVE DAUGHTERS.

A busy year was outlined for Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126 N.D.G.W. at the regular meeting in Pythian Castle the evening of September 16. Miss Anna E. McCaughey, finance chairman, discussed the unfinished program on California landmarks and history, aid for homeless children, welfare work for veterans, the Native Daughter Home, and the social progress of the Order, in which she will receive the co-operation of the chairmen of standing committees. Mrs. John Mitchell, president, presided.

Mrs. Irene Quinn, past president, was appointed to co-operate with district deputies and past presidents from Santa Barbara to San Diego, in the proposed change of ritual for the Order. Miss Marjorie Stone was appointed chairman of the committee on veteran welfare work, and Mrs. Fred Acres heads a committee to arrange a card party for October 7.

Reports were heard from those who attended the special meeting called by Miss Grace Stoerner, Past Grand President, in Los Angeles September 14. Those who attended from Reina del Mar were Mrs. William Vick, district deputy, Mrs. John Mitchell, president, Mrs. H. A. Spreitz of the homeless children committee, and Mrs. Donald Eby, chairman of publicity for the local Parlor and a member of the Grand Parlor Publicity Committee.

Passing of the California Pioneer

(Confined to Brief Notices of the Demise of Those Men and Women Who Came to California Prior to 1860.)

MRS. JULIA RICHARDSON, NATIVE of Missouri, 89; came across the plains to California with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dale, in 1849 and resided in Santa Clara and San Mateo Counties; died at Mountain View, survived by a son. She was of a most hospitable nature, and the doors of her home were always open to the rich and the poor alike.

Charles Burroughs, native of New York, 94; came across the plains in 1852 and in early days carried mail and express to Butte County mining towns; died at Santa Rosa, Sonoma County, survived by a wife and six children.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

the spring and adjacent lands were owned by citizens of Calistoga, the outside public could only look on and talk. Tichenor claimed to be negotiating the sale of the gold-producing spring and his secret process of gold extraction to Eastern capitalists for a million dollars. State Mineralogist Hanks finally exploded the boom by officially announcing that an assay of the "soup" showed it did not contain a "color." A few weeks later the nation had a paroxysm of laughter when Mark Twain sent a communication to a New York City journal claiming he was the original owner of the "Chicken Soup" spring at Calistoga. What pained him most, was to learn that the "soup" had deteriorated in gold value. When he was the proprietor it was carrying $1 a dipperful in value, but he was not an inventor such as Tichenor had proved to be, therefore he was unable to save the wealth oozing to waste until he happened to get hold of a decrepit uncle who was unfitted to hard labor but had an enviable capacity for "soup." He filled this uncle full of all he could drink every morning, then, ensconced in a horse blanket, he had him trot a few miles to get into a perspiration. He was then taken into a cooling room, his garments removed, and the gold from the "soup," oozing from his uncle's pores, was peeled off his body like gold leaf. The life he had to lead, however, was too strenuous for the uncle, and when he passed away Mark, unable to find another porous gold-leaf oozer, had to sell out.

FIRES CAUSE MANY DEATHS.

A big forest fire broke out near San Gabriel, Los Angeles County, October 16. To protect his domain, "Lucky" Baldwin had 200 men fighting it.

J. W. Farmer, living near Vallejo, Solano County, lost $17,000 October 17, when three barns, fourteen head of horses and farming machinery were burned.

A Stewart-street fire in San Francisco October 17 destroyed the Henry Dutton warehouse and a dozen other buildings, causing a $200,000 loss. The flames set fire to a Folsom-street wharf and burned a schooner, causing an additional $20,000 loss.

Daniel Nolan's home in San Jose, Santa Clara County, caught fire October 26, and in endeavoring to save her four children Mrs. Nolan was fatally burned.

William H. O'Brien, a pioneer resident of Grass Valley, Nevada County, was fatally burned in a fire which destroyed his cabin October 5.

The two children of Benjamin Dermatten were burned to death in a fire which October 6 destroyed his Bodie, Mono County, home.

William Barrington invited Mike McDonald to have a drink in a San Francisco saloon October 6, and while being served Barrington drew a revolver and killed McDonald. The latter had jilted Barrington's daughter.

John H. Richards, hunting October 18 near Dutch Flat, Placer County, was accidentally killed.

Father Trainor, a New York City priest touring California, was killed near Modesto, Stanislaus County, October 4, when the stage in which he was returning from Yosemite Valley upset.

James T. McClure, superintendent of the Rock Creek mine in Nevada County, was instantly killed while assisting in the unloading of a three-ton mortar.

Isaac Parker, leading a calf along a San Jose, Santa Clara County, street October 20, accidentally fell. His head struck the edge of the sidewalk and his neck was broken.

William McKinley went to the San Francisco home of William Cooper October 10 and demanded the latter's money. Being refused, he drew a pistol and, despite the pleadings of Cooper and his wife not to fire, deliberately shot and killed Cooper.

LONG BEACH NATIVE DAUGHTERS

HAVE ADMISSION DAY PICNIC.

Admission Day in Long Beach was observed as a legal holiday by schools, banks and public officials. The streets were decorated with flags, many of which were also displayed at homes.

A picnic supper, served cafeteria style, was enjoyed by members and friends of Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W. in the garden at the home of Mrs. Bessie Brady. Led by Mrs. Zelma Palstine, the assemblage sang "I Love You, California." Following the supper cards were played, Miss Edith Reardon and J. E. Vatcher having the high bridge scores, and Mrs. Violet T. Henshilwood and L. W. Frazier the high five-hundred scores. Mrs. Zelma Palstine was chairman and Mrs. Lucretia Coates assistant chairman of the arrangements committee.

The California thimble club, an auxiliary of the Parlor with Mrs. Julia E. Arborn as chairman, enjoyed an all-day picnic at Bixby Park, August 28. The evening of September 11 members of the club and their families participated in a steak roast at Recreation Park. The Parlor plans a bazar, to be held early in November.

Long Beach personals: President Lillian Lasater spent a week in San Jose visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Mullin. Mrs. Marie Monroe and children returned September 6 to Pendleton, Oregon, stopping enroute at San Francisco to visit relatives; Mrs. Monroe spent the summer months here with her mother, Mrs. Kate McFadyen. Mrs. O. P. Palestine spent a week in San Francisco the latter part of September. Mrs. Esther Holloway, a Pioneer of 1854 who has been ill, is slowly recovering at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Georgia Peirson; Mrs. Holloway has spent seventy-six Admission Days in California.

NOTABLE GATHERING

Over eighty living Pioneers of 1850 or earlier have been located by the State Fair officials. Among these were found two survivors of the famous Donner Party, Mrs. Naomi L. Pike-Schenk of The Dalles, Oregon, and Mrs. Isabelle Breen-McMahon of San Francisco. Samuel Brannan Jr., 93 years old, of San Diego was unable to attend because of ill health; he is the son of Samuel Brannan, famous Mormon leader and prominent early Californian.

Governor C. C. Young addressed the Pioneers at the luncheon and suggested that the event be made an annual affair. R. A. Condee, president of the State Fair, presided and paid tribute to those whose excellent work during the early days of the state laid the foundation for its present prosperity, and Hilliard Welch, Past Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West, also addressed the guests. He said his organization was founded to keep alive the spirit of the settlers of '49.

Two of the Pioneers, George Van Gorden of Danville, Contra Costa County, and Charles D. Robinson of San Rafael, Marin County, attended the first State Fair, held in San Francisco in 1854. Van Gorden, although 85 years old, is an active racehorse owner and had racers entered in this year's fair. Robinson is the son of "Doc" Robinson, famous theatrical producer and actor in San Francisco in 1849.

Robinson, who is now one of California's prominent artists, related an early stage experience. It was in the spring of 1851, and he was just four years old. Mrs. James Starke was playing the leading role in "The Stranger" at "Doc" Robinson's American Theatre. The play was a melodrama and little Charles was cast as Mrs. Starke's baby. At the proper moment the young actor was pushed onto the stage. There he stood, cross and irritated at having his night's slumber disturbed, just as Mrs. Starke, dramatically advancing with outstretched arms, cried: "My child! Give me my baby! Give me back my chee-ild!" With angry tears the child replied: "Get away from me, damn you! You ain't my mother! Get away, I say!" And the packed house roared, cheers filled the air and a shower of nuggets fell upon the stage for the "chee-ild." Many other interesting reminiscences were heard as the Pioneers visited each other before the luncheon.

John D. Guerraz, 85, of Santa Cruz City, who came to California in 1848, and Asa W. Finley, 86, of Stevinson, Merced County, who arrived in 1846, attended school together in San Jose seventy years ago and met at the State Fair for the first time since school days.

Mrs. Naomi McDonald of Berkeley, arrived in Sacramento in 1850 in a covered wagon and on Pioneer Day, eighty years later, arrived in an airplane. Another guest was Mrs. Maria Dolores Vaca Pena Lyon, of Vacaville, Solano County, "a daughter of the dons," born there in 1849 and a direct descendant of the Vaca family after which the town was named.

The other members of this notable group of Pioneers, their addresses and dates of arrival in California, are: Colonel John L. G. Armstrong, San Francisco, 1849; Mrs. Mary Phelps, San Jose, 1849; Mrs. Rachel Dooley, Ducor, 1849; Stephen Fine, Visalia, 1849; Mrs. Mary Rea Pyle, Tehachapi, 1850; E. A. Speegle, Los Angeles, 1849; Mrs. Martha P. Allen, Kingsburg, 1850; Charles Henry Hawn, Fresno, 1850; P. J. Ferguson and Mrs. Martha Watson, brother and sister, Healdsburg, 1849; J. L. Johnson, Orosl, 1849; Mrs. Anna Cromwell Reed, Placerville, 1849; Mrs. C. Twitchell, Oakland, 1850; John W. Burner, Auburn, 1847; James Ewing Brown, Sacramento, 1849; Mrs. Helen Pumphrey, Sacramento, 1850; Mrs. E. B. House, Agua Caliente, 1849; E. S. Petois, Jackson, 1850; Alfonso Burnham, Oakland, 1849; Dr. T. F. Hudson, Fresno, 1848; M. L. Durbln, Walnut Grove, 1848; Mrs. L. M. Rich, Pacific Grove, 1849; Mrs. M. A. Landsburg, Sacramento, 1849; P. S. Cooper, Sonoma, 1848; John J. Roadhouse, Berkeley, 1849; Jonathan Watson, Olive, 1849; Mrs. Elizabeth Hinsdale, 1850; Emanuel Snow, San Francisco, 1850; and C. D. Howard, Sacramento, 1850.

The special '49er program on Pioneer Day in front of the crowded grandstand at the State Fair grounds was participated in by some of the distinguished guests themselves. E. S. Petois, 88 years old, called the dance for the Jackson, Amador County, team during the quadrille contest, and P. J. Ferguson, 86 years, sang a solo, "Nellie Was a Lady." Mrs. H. Foreman-Emrick of Mill Valley, Marin County, 80-year-old dancer who arrived in California in 1852, danced two numbers, one a solo and the other with an eight-year-old great-granddaughter.

CHRISTMAS LIVESTOCK SHOW

LOS ANGELES WILL BE THE MECCA FOR thousands of stockmen and representatives of the finest flocks and herds in America on the occasion of the fifth annual Christmas livestock show and rodeo to be held November 29 to December 6 at the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards. This year's exposition will, in reality, be an affair of national importance, according to J. A. McNaughton, executive director, who reports that entries of blue-blooded cattle are already promised from eighteen states, including sections as far east as Delaware and Florida and as far north as Oregon and Washington. Among the other states which will be represented by prize-winning livestock will be Utah, Idaho, Nevada, Arizona, Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Nebraska, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois and Wyoming. California will, of course, have a big representation.

The outstanding feature of this year's show will be the Hereford division, as it is expected that twenty of the most famous Hereford cattle herds in the Middle West will compete for more than $8,000 in prize money with six of California's greatest breed representatives. A special train will leave Kansas City immediately following the American Royal livestock show there, carrying the prize-winning herds and caretakers to Los Angeles on express schedule. In view of the fact that nearly every famous herd is cared for and groomed by Scotch herds-men, it is likely there will be quite a homecoming, because Chairman McNaughton is of Scotch descent.

In addition to the great exhibit of Hereford cattle, there will be a big showing of Short-horns, Aberdeen-Angus and Devon cattle, as well as a complete exposition of swine and sheep from many states.

As usual, one of the outstanding features will be the display of fat cattle, hogs and sheep, which will be auctioned off to the highest bidders for the select Christmas holiday trade. The fundamental idea of the show is to encourage production of more choice meats for California South.

Thrilling entertainment each afternoon is planned, in which the most famous cowboy and cowgirl athletes of the world will take part in the rodeo arena. Railroads have authorized special reduced rates to Los Angeles during the show. An idea of the attendance may be had when it is made known that more than 100,000 visitors passed through the stock show turnstiles last year—and a greater crowd is expected this year.

The stock show is sponsored by leading business, industrial and civic bodies of California South. The affair is non-profit, although a part of the $50,000 expenditure is made up by paid admissions.

N.D.G.W. DISTRICT MEET.

The consensus of opinion of a representative group of southland district officers and committee members of the Grand Parlor N.D.G.W. who gathered at the Womens Athletic Club September 14 was, that the district meeting, first held in November of last year in Los Angeles, should be made an annual affair, and the date for this year was set for Saturday, December 6, the place to be announced later.

The meeting was called by Miss Grace S. Stoermer, Past Grand President, and was attended by forty-five, including grand officers, district deputies, Parlor presidents and Grand Parlor committeewomen. Miss Florence Steinicke acted as secretary. The district deputies of the Parlors from Santa Barbara to San Diego will have charge of the district meeting, with Mrs. Hazel Hansen the executive chairman.

It was decided that the group would meet four times a year to discuss matters of district significance. When Grand President Estelle Evans comes to the southland in March, she will be greeted by the Parlors either singly or in groups. It was also decided that the southern district Parlors will make an effort to pay their Loyalty Pledges and also to double their membership. The representatives brought word from their various Parlors that they had gone on record as desiring that the ritualistic charges be shortened and the secret work be eliminated.

Several members remained for a delightful dinner presided over by Miss Stoermer, who briefly expressed gratification for the generous appreciation shown by this group. Those in Hansen, Gladys Edwards, Mrs. Spreitz, Grace Norton, Irene Eden, Jennie Raymond, Florence Steinike, Annie Adair, Ellen F. Rickerhanser and Marion Crum.

GRAND OPERA ATTRACTS.

With the greatest advance seat sale in the history of opera on the Pacific Coast, the Los Angeles Grand Opera season opened at the Shrine Civic Auditorium September 29 and will continue through October 13. Twenty of the world's most famous operatic stars appear in the most colorful repertoire in the history of the association. New scenery has been built this season, the chorus has reached new heights of excellence, and everything is in perfect order for a record-breaking season.

From Italy, South America, Berlin, Paris and Vienna, as well as from the Metropolitan in New York City, have come the great company of singers who are taking the leading roles. Forming an unrivaled orchestral background, is the full philharmonic orchestra of Los Angeles.

ASSISTING NEIGHBORS.

A delegation of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 N.S.G.W. members went to Long Beach September 25, and the officers initiated a class of candidates for Long Beach No. 239. October 7 Glendale will be visited, and the officers will initiate a class for Glendale No. 264. October 23 Grand First Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez will pay an official visit to the Parlor. The ritual will be exemplified and refreshments will be served.

The Parlor has a committee, composed of Earl H. LeMoine, Roland Nichols, Frank Frank, William Newell, Ray LeMoine, Walter Fisher and Richard Fryer, at work on plans for observance of its forty-sixth institution anniversary in November. The celebration, probably a dinner dance, will also be in honor of Grand President John T. Newell, a member of No. 45.

DRILL TEAM BENEFIT DANCE.

Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. initiated four candidates September 3, among them "City Mother" Elizabeth Fiske. As this was the first time the new officers, headed by President Ruth Ruiz, exemplified the ritual, there was a large attendance of visitors, including District Deputy Hazel Hansen. "Mystery boxes" went to Mrs. Mary Kimple (Yosemite No. 83) and Miss Esther Rinne. More than thirty have registered in the Spanish class being conducted by Grand Trustee Marvel Thomas, Miss Dolores Malin and Miss Leonie Clos. The gym class, supervised by Miss Kathryn Ronan, is very popular.

The card party and dutch lunch of September 24 proved most successful and very enjoyable. Mrs. Edith Douglas, who was in charge, was assisted by Carrie Kessner, Inez O'Sbea, Rose Saulque, Lucille Sessler and Lucy Dudley. The Misses Warner (El Tejon No. 239) of Bakersfield were visitors at the September 17 meeting; they are attending the University of California at Los Angeles.

The October calendar for Los Angeles includes: Business meetings, 1st and 15th; Spanish class and gym, 8th and 29th; dance, for the benefit of the drill team, the 22nd. Roberta

OCTOBER BUSY MONTH

Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. has its monthly dinner at 6 p.m. of October 10. Those wishing to partake must have their invitation cards in advance. The dinner is followed by initiation, officers' reports, and a 196 exemplifying the ritual. It will be an old-timers night, and all members and long-time members are invited. The past presidents will fill the program.

October 24 a special dinner will be put on for Grand First Vice-president P. Frank I. Gonzalez, who will pay an official visit. Refreshments will be served at the meeting. First Vice-president Paul Lombardi is working out a plan of out-ment.

The ramona dinner and district rally of the Boy Scouts of America will be held in Pasadena at 8 p.m. October 10. A number of troops sponsored by Ramona will be present. A wonderful program will be given by the "Bobbie" Dunn wants to see all papers and magazines, as Ramona Troop No. 109 is now collecting them.

During the meeting the Parlor added seven names to its membership roll, President Ray Ross and his class of officers exemplifying the ritual. A committee has been formed to further the work of Past Grand President William L. ... a member of Ramona, for re-election to Parlor of Los Angeles County.

HISTORY CONTEST

Ocean Park—Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 N.D.G.W. had initiation September 28 and conducted a history contest under the direction of Marie Barnes. District Secretary Rita Smith and Secretary Rosalie Hyde ... led twenty-two credits, and on a draw for a lovely prize the latter was victorious. A reception was given Helen Williams Burke, in honor of her recent marriage, and she was presented with a beautiful gift. Ice cream and cake were served.

District Deputy Smith and Secretary Hyde represented the Parlor at the September 14 district meeting in Los Angeles. September 29 a card party was sponsored, and the grand prize was a hamper filled with lovely and useful articles.

"DON'T MISS THIS EVENT."

Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W. will be officially visited October 27 by Grand First Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez. Initiation of a class of candidates will be preceded by a 6:30 supper. "Don't miss this event," urges Secretary E. J. Reilly.

HISTORY TALKS.

Two outstanding lectures marked the September meetings of Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W., which began its new term under the leadership of Mrs. Mary Noerenberg September 10, after the August vacation.

The first was by Miss Marion Parks, a member of the Parlor, who delighted her hearers with descriptions of old adobes of Los Angeles and the Pioneer Californians who built them. She has just completed another booklet, titled "Santa Barbara, la Tierra Adorada." At this program delightfully rendered Mexican folk songs were given by Mrs. Betty Chapman, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Luisa Wickersham. Mrs. Marybelle Chapman was in charge of the program.

At the meeting September 24 Mrs. Eleanor Oliver, chairman, presented another talented member, Mrs. Byron Thorpe Carr, who read from her latest publication, "Early California Letters." This was a real treat, the missives having been written by Mrs. Carr's father, who was a '49er. N. M. Saunders and W. C. Hagadorn of the junior chamber of commerce explained plans for a memorial to be placed in the Plaza, and invited Californiana to co-operate in carrying out the project.

CHARTER NIGHT DRAWS CROWD.

Ocean Park—Standing room was at a premium at the September 22 meeting of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W., the occasion being charter members night. The stations were filled by the original chair officers: Eugene W. Biscailuz, president; Dike Freeman, junior past; J. Howard Blanchard, first vice;

LOS ANGELES, California

Police Chief Clarence E. Wehh, second vice; Joe Stamp, third vice; "Doc" Burnett, marshal; District Deputy Eldred L. Meyer and Phil Romer, sentinels. There was a long list of speakers, and while the crowd were disposing of an Italian "feast" an orchestra entertained. The Parlor will celebrate its fourth institution anniversary with a dinner dance.

No. 267 is making great plans for October 13, when Grand First Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez will officially visit. Grand President John T. Newell and other grand officers are expected to be present, also. This occasion is to be known as movie stars night, as several natives prominent in the film-world will be among the large class of candidates to be initiated. There will be lots of entertainment and plenty to eat.

HOUSE-WARMING IN GLENDALE.

Glendale—Glendale No. 264 N.S.G.W. is now housed in the Masonic Temple, 234 South Brand Boulevard, where it meets the first and third Tuesday evenings. October 7 it will have a house-warming party, to which all Native Sons are invited.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Frank D. Crowley (Ramona N.S.) was a visitor last month to San Francisco.

Mrs. Olinda Kerby (Los Angeles N.D.) paid a visit last month to Sacramento.

Jacob Good (Ramona N.S.) has returned from a deer hunt in Trinity County.

Miss Esther Rinne (Los Angeles N.D.) will spend the winter in the Middle West.

Miss Sylvia Henderson (Los Angeles N.D.) was wedded to Edward Reddie August 30.

Miss Wilma Holmes (Los Angeles N.D.) is motoring through the East with her parents.

Perry R. Borden (Ramona N.S.) spent his vacation at Vancouver and Rainier National Park.

Glen J. Packer (Ramona N.S.) attended the Northwestern peace officers convention at Vancouver.

Miss Olga Beatrice Horner became the bride of Julius O. Leuschner (Los Angeles N.S.) September 6.

Charles G. Young (Ramona N.S.) has been appointed chief deputy prosecutor of Los Angeles City.

Mrs. Florestina Gilbert and daughter, Mrs. Inez O'Shea (both Los Angeles N.D.), motored to San Francisco to visit relatives.

Supervisor John R. Quinn (Los Angeles N.S.) will attend the American Legion national convention at Boston, Massachusetts, this month.

John A. Bartley (Ramona N.S.) was one of the Los Angeles police department team which won the international pistol shoot at Perry, Ohio.

Isiah S. Betz (Ramona N.S.) and family last month enjoyed an auto trip into the wilds of California North, stopping enroute at Sacramento and Fresno.

James N. Hatch (Ramona N.S.) recently had an interesting trip from Saint Joe, Missouri, to Sacramento, following the course of his grandfather and mother in early days.

Mrs. Annie L. Adair (Los Angeles N.D.) was in San Diego in the interest of the homeless children, and was accompanied by her sisters, Mrs. Mary K. Corcoran (Los Angeles N.D.) and Mrs. J. M. Smith of San Francisco.

Miss Grace S. Stoermer (Past Grand President N.D.) departed last month for Cleveland, Ohio, to attend the annual convention of the National Association of Bank Women. In all probability she will be signally honored by being chosen president of the organization.

THE DEATH RECORD.

Henry L. Fisher, father of Ella Mae Madden (Verdugo N.D.) died August 20 at Woodland, Yolo County. He was a native of Pennsylvania, aged 76, and for many years farmed in Humoldt, Sutter and Yolo Counties.

Mrs. Kate E. Wallace Tipton, mother of Nina Wallace Hart and sister of Lenore Carr (both Los Angeles N.D.), passed away August 24.

Miss Florence M. Variel, sister of William J. Variel (Ramona N.S.), passed away September 6.

Mrs. Martha M. Huntington, mother of Henry C. Huntington (Ramona N.S.), passed away September 13.

RICHFIELD
The GASOLINE OF POWER

— another Native Son! —

Every Westerner has a right to be proud of this California gasoline—its wonderful records! Made by special process by a California company from California crudes—owned and directed by California men—it is proving its wonderful mileage and power superiority by an unbroken string of speedway victories and by its steadily increasing sales of thousands of gallons every month! Try Richfield in your own car today—note the difference!

20. He was born at Downieville, Sierra County, October 6, 1866.
John N. Mersch, father of John J. Mersch (Ramona N.S.), died September 23.

BEAR FLAG PRESENTED.
A large crowd attended the Admission Day, September 9, festivities on the lawn in front of the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards administration building—the site of the battle of La Mesa, January 9, 1847.
The program as published in The Grizzly Bear for September was carried out, and in addition Adolfo G. Rivera of the Native Sons presented a California State (Bear) Flag to President J. A. McNaughton of the stockyards, who has always displayed great interest in the history of his adopted state, California.

SPIKE DRIVING INAUGURATES WORK ON MAMMOTH DAM.
At Bracken, Nevada State, September 17, preliminary work on the greatest dam of all time—originally referred to as Boulder Dam, but now forth, it is said, to be known as Hoover Dam—was inaugurated by the driving of a silver spike by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the Federal Interior Department.
The colossal project will cost $165,000,000 and will require about years to construct. It will be built under the supervision of the National Government's reclamation service, and will, when completed, add to the resources of the country.

STATUES NOTABLE CALIFORNIANS TO BE UNVEILED IN DECEMBER.
California's contribution of two statues to the National Statuary Hall at Washington, D.C., will be unveiled shortly after the reassembling of the Federal Congress in December. The State Legislature selected as the subjects Father Junipero Serra and Rev. Thomas Starr King, outstanding characters in the history of California, and made financial provision for the statues.
Father Serra was the founder of the chain of Franciscan missions extending from San Diego to Sonoma. Rev. King was a Unitarian minister who labored for the adherence of the Golden State to the Union during the Civil War.
